Russell Square attack: one dead, five injured

■ 'Mental health issues' blamed for assault which left one American woman dead ■ 19-year-old Norwegian man arrested, but cops find 'no evidence' of radicalization

A man has been arrested on suspicion of murder after a US citizen was killed and five other people were injured in a knife attack in central London.

Police believe the attack in Russell Square on Wednesday was "spontaneous", with victims "selected at random".

The woman who died was thought to be in her 60s. The injured people were from Britain, America, Israel and Australia.

Police arrested a 19-year-old Norwegian national of Somali origin. They say there no evidence of radicalization.

The Met Police's assistant commissioner for specialist operations, Mark Rowley, said the investigation was increasingly pointing to the attack being "triggered by mental health issues".

He had earlier said the force was considering terrorism as a line of inquiry. Mr Rowley, Britain's most senior counter-terrorism officer, told a press conference it had been necessary to consider possibilities" following recent terror attacks across Europe.

Armed police were called to the square shortly after 22:30 BST on Wednesday after receiving reports of a man attacking people with a knife.

They arrived within six minutes and chased suspect, who evewitnesses said had blood on his hands. They said police ordered him to stand still but he kept running.

He was then Tasered by officers.

'Heartbreaking news'

Two other women and three men received various injuries in the attack, which happened near the Imperial Hotel.

One person from the group remains in hospital while the others have since been discharged. None of the injuries were lifethreatening.

The US ambassador to the UK, Matthew said Barzun, of who the woman died:"Heartbreaking news that citizen was killed in #RussellSquare attack. My prayers are with all the victims and their loved ones."

After receiving treatment in hospital, arrested who was detained in Bedford Place, is now in police custody in south London.

Norwegian said in a statement the man had emigrated from Norway in 2002 and they were assisting London police.

The Met said they had searched an address in north London on Thursday morning and another will be searched in south London. Jodie Parry, who witnessed the events unfold from her hotel window, said she saw a man running down the street.

"I could hear the policeman screaming 'stop, don't move, don't go any further, just stay where you are', and he turned round and continued running," she said.

She added that the man was carrying a knife and had blood on his hands.

Paul Geibheannaigh, who lives near to the square, said he had seen the body of the woman "on the pavement" and the area was surrounded by a "heavy armed police presence".

Mr Rowley said there would be an increased police presence on the streets in the wake of the attack - including armed officers - to "provide reassurance and safety".

Met commissioner Sir Bernard Hogan-Howe said the force's "swift response undoubtedly helped to prevent more people from getting injured."

Shyam Sanghani, who runs Imperial News and Gifts opposite the scene of the attack, said: "It's scary.

"We had the Russell Square bombing just close by and now this. We've been here a long time and to have two incidents is awful. This is our home."

Emma and Pigdon, from County Durham, who were staying in the President hotel, had been to the theatre when they came back and saw a woman lying in the street.

Mrs Pigdon said: "She was a small lady, really slight, which made me think she was a teenager. We were shocked when we later heard she was in her 60s.

"She had what looked like a pattern on her clothes but I think it was blood."

UK terror attack question of 'when, not if says Met chief

■ But top cop encouraged that "UK's acceptance of differences" and "shared values", plus tough guns laws, result in a "hostile environment" for terrorists

A terror attack on the UK is highly likely and a case of "when, not if", the head of the Met Police has said.

Writing in the Mail on Sunday, Sir Bernard Hogan-Howe cited recent atrocities in Europe and a number of foiled plots in the UK.

But he said the UK's acceptance of difference and "shared values" provided hostile environment for terrorists

The UK's terror threat has been ranked as attack is highly likely since 2014.

It is the second highest of five possible UK threat levels.

Sir Bernard said recent attacks around the world had created a "sense of fear" in Britain.

Attacks in Paris killed 130 in November, 32 people died in bombings in Belgium in March, and 84 people were killed when a lorry ploughed into crowds in the French city of Nice earlier this month.

Sir Bernard said: "I "severe" - meaning an know that with each new outrage, and especially those on our doorstep in Europe, there is a greater sense of fear that Britain will be the next victim in this wave of cruel and mindless mass murder.

"I feel and understand that fear, and as the police officer in charge of preventing such an attack know that you want me to reassure you.

"I am afraid I cannot do that entirely."

He also made reference to plots that had been foiled in the UK since the murder of Lee Rigby in May 2013, including HOGAN-HOWE: described the relationship between the police and the UK's intelligence agencies as a "world-beater".

one to target officers at Shepherd's Bush police station in west London, and another to carry out a Lee Rigby-style attack on US soldiers in East

But he also pointed out that the relationship between the police and the UK's intelligence agencies was a "worldbeater".

The UK's gun control laws and the fact that it was an island meant "terrorists would struggle to get the firearms required to repeat attacks similar to those we have seen on the Continent," he said.

'Litany of hate'

"Second, it is our tolerance and acceptance.

"Our approach to Muslims is no different because these attacks purport to be committed in the name of Islam.

"We don't stigmatise the millions of British Muslims whose values and faith completely reject the terrorists' litany of hate."

He said the number of firearms officers in the Met Police had risen by 600 to 2,800.

But he also said the vast majority of police officers were unarmed, and "I believe this gives us a far healthier relationship with the people we police".

Isis fanatic jailed for life after Leytonstone tube station knife attack

■ Somali-born man attempted to behead musician, declaring he was going to 'spill blood' for his 'Syrian brothers ■ Attack spawned famous riposte: 'you ain't no Muslim, bruv'

An Isis fanatic who attempted to behead a musician at an east London tube station has been jailed for life.

Muhiddin Mire, 30, attacked Lyle Zimmerman with a knife at Leytonstone Underground station and threatened other members of the public in December last year.

Video footage captured while Mire was restrained by police at the scene showed a witness shouting 'you ain't no Muslim, bruv' at the attacker.

Somali-born Mire, Samson Road, London, grabbed Mr Zimmerman, 56, after declaring he was going to 'spill blood' for his 'Syrian brothers'.

He had images of Fusilier Lee Rigby and Jihadi John on his mobile with phone, along material linked to Isis.

Sentencing Mire at the Old Bailey, Judge Nicholas Hilliard QC, Recorder of London, said that while he accepted Mire was suffering from paranoid schizophrenia at the time of the offence, he was also of the opinion he had been motivated by events in Syria.

He continued: 'In other words, because Muslims were being bombed in Syria, he was going to attack civilians here.

That was designed to intimidate a section of the public, and it was to advance an extreme cause.

'This was an attempt to to kill an innocent member of the public for ideological reasons

Nobby Stiles is 'very poorly', says son

■ World Cup hero suffering from cancer and Alzheimers

Manchester United and England legend Nobby Stiles' son has spoken out over prostate cancer and revealed his father is now 'very poorly'.

Collyhurst-born diagnosed in 2012 and also has advanced dementia.

Stiles, who Iohn was just four when grandfather-of-six Nobby was famously pictured dancing a jig with the Jules Rimet trophy at Wembley after England beat West Germany in the 1966 World Cup final, urged men with concerns to get urgent health checks.

And he said a charity's campaigning is saving lives as he also discussed his memories of the famous match 50 years

Nobby, who made 311 appearances for the Reds and in May celebrated a street in Collyhurst being named after him, is a great supporter of Prostate Cancer UK.

Speaking to promote the charity's work, John

"Like most of us, up to a couple of years ago I wasn't really aware how serious it was and how common it was. My grandfather had prostate problems, my dad, and I've now been checked because of the publicity from his campaign. So its very important to me and my family.

'advanced dementia'

"Like anybody when you hear that someone in your family has got cancer its just like a knife going into your guts really, and coming to terms with it really. Lucky my father's been treated relatively successfully for it but when you hear the news it just knocks you sideways.

"He's very poorly. He has prostate cancer but he also has advanced dementia, early onset, like lots of footballers of his era

John revealed Sir Geoff Hurst and Sir Bobby Charlton, Nobby's England teammates of the era, are 'constantly in touch' with the family to see how he's doing.

But he said the weekend's'66WorldCup anniversary celebrations were a mixture of both 'unbelievable and sadness due to his father's condition.

"I look back and see my dad dancing about with the World Cup with sheer joy and it reminds you of a bygone era when players would actually play for nothing for their country. We are all very proud of my dad and all his friends, all his teammates.'

I feel lucky: cancer survivor scoops £61m lottery win

■ After life-saving surgery in Florida, Welsh mum 'bullies' daughter into buying winning ticket at local garage

A mother whose family won a whopping £61m jackpot in the EuroMillions lottery rang her daughter from the US and asked her to buy a ticket as she felt lucky after having lifesaving cancer surgery, it emerged this week.

The group, from Monmouth, matched all seven numbers to scoop £61,102,443 in Friday's draw.

Sonia Davies, 53, her partner Keith Reynolds, 55, daughters Courtney, 19, and Stephanie, 23, are celebrating with Stephanie's partner Steve Powell, 30.

She said it was a "rollercoaster week".

The family was unveiled at Newport's Celtic Manor Resort on Wednesday and said they were "living the dream".

The winning numbers were 01, 21, 26, 40 and 50 and Lucky Star numbers were 02 and 04.

Ms Davies and her partner already had a holiday to Florida booked when felt a lump in her neck. Shortly afterwards she visited a leading treatment centre in the US state.

Doctors told Ms Davies the tumour on her parathyroid gland in her neck could have killed her within three years.

After getting the allclear after the surgery, Ms Davies phoned her daughter Stephanie and had to "bully" her into buying a ticket.

What a rollercoaster of a week we've had," Ms Davies said.

"They managed to give me the all-clear straight after the operation, so as you would imagine we were on cloud nine.

'sobbing down the phone'

"[Keith] was convinced that we were the luckiest people on the planet and definitely on a winning streak after the success of my op.

"Something told us we needed to get a ticket and the rest is history."

She said daughter Stephanie phoned her "sobbing down the phone" with the "odd muffled word".

"I thought she'd told me she'd lost her dog. Then I heard Steve shouting 'we've won £61m'."

After checking the numbers in the early hours of Sunday morning, Stephanie Davies said she could not sleep so she and Mr Powell took selfies with the winning ticket in case anything happened to it.

"We checked the ticket 10 times and ran around the house and locked all the doors and windows," she said.

"In a crazy moment we took a few selfies with the ticket."

The group have agreed they will share their newfound wealth with family and friends.

Ms Davies, an admin assistant, and Mr Reynolds, a regional director, said they would buy a new car port.

Courtney Davies, who is studying for a psychology degree at the University of Southampton, said she would replace her VW Fox with a car which has automatic windows.

Stephanie Davies, a sales executive, and Mr Powell plan to replace their bathroom en-suite in the home they recently bought together.

The winning ticket was one of six lucky dips bought at Overmonnow Garage in Monmouth - 30 minutes before last Friday's cut off time.

It is the fourth EuroMillions jackpot won in the UK this year but falls about £100m short of the largest win by Colin and Chris Weir from North Ayrshire.

Bottoms up: Keith, Sonia, Stephanie, Courtney and Steve celebrate their win at Celtic Manor, capping a 'rollercoaster week' for the family

Outrage as Olympic swimming pool bans women from 'men only' Friday night sessions

A swimming pool has come under fire for introducing gender segregated sessions with bathers required to cover up from "navel to knee" for "cultural reasons".

The Inspire Sports Village in Stopsley, Luton, Beds., built using taxpayer-funded Olympic money, will give men exclusive access to the larger 50 metre competitive pool on Friday evenings, while women will be able to use the smaller 20 metre community pool.

On Facebook, the gender-segregated sessions were advertised saying "Alhamdulliah swimming is back" - a phrase which thanks God for his blessings.

Posters promoting the event, which were implemented last Friday, say that "navel to knee must be covered".

According to the 2011 census, a quarter of the population in Luton are Muslim, making Islam the second most common religion in the town after Christianity.

One female swimmer, who asked not to be named, said she was frustrated by the decision. "The Friday night session for everyone is now closed because of the listed men-only sessions.

"I have asked a team leader about it - as there are no managers at the weekend - and he said it was a 'cultural thing'.

"Why has one section of the community in Luton been allowed to dominate and take over the best pool in the borough?

"I like swimming in the competition pool after a hard week at work on Fridays and now I can't without any discussion and very little advanced notice."

An Active Luton spokesman defended the move and explained that on Friday evenings, Inspire offered genderspecific swimming sessions, although men had access to the larger competitive pool.

He went on: "We regularly provide opportunities for different groups in our programme, including many different activities and swimming sessions.

"Active Luton aims to provide everyone in our community, regardless of age, ability or ethnicity, with affordable and accessible opportunities to get active in ways which suit their wide-ranging needs and lifestyles."

that failure to prevent so many awards going to his 'cronies' would undermine her pledge to end government 'for the privileged few'.

Tory MP Tania Mathias said the remarkable number of honours handed to Mr Cameron's aides and allies 'makes me sad for politics'.

And Labour leader Jeremy Corbyn lashed out at Mr Cameron for rewarding his 'mates,' calling for an honours system "that's fair, that's more democratic." He has suggested that members of the public be able to nominate people for honours.

But despite growing calls for her to act, Downing Street this week said she would not block any of the honours as it would set a bad precedent for a new Prime Minister to interfere in official processes.

Only serving prime ministers can officially make recommendations for honours to the Queen but it is convention they do not intervene to block nominations from their predecessors.

Working out and eating: it's all a matter of timing

Health & Fitness with Ricky Parcell

The timing of your food before a workout can make a big difference to how you feel and also to your performance.

Here www. at thebodycamp.com we understand that timing the consumption and choosing the type of foods before a fat burning session is critical to the success of the workouts!

There are no hard and fast rules but, for most, workouts, you should leave 1 – 4 hours after eating before exercising, depending on the size of your meal and what foods you're eating. In a study at the University of North Carolina, athletes who ate 3 hours before a run were able to exercise longer than those who ate 6 hours beforehand.

Essentially need to leave enough time to digest the food but not too long a gap otherwise this energy will be used up by the time you begin exercising. Eating a meal too training close to could make you feel uncomfortable, 'heavy' and nauseous as the blood supply diverts from the stomach and digestive organs to the muscles to provide the necessary energy for muscular work. That's why stomach cramps and stomach aches are the most common complaints trying to run on a full stomach. The body is big meal AND exercise at the same time!

On the other hand, leaving too long a gap means you may feel hungry and light headed during exercise and lacking energy. The closer your preworkout meal is to your workout, the smaller it must be. If you have only a couple of hours before your workout, then eat a small meal of 300 – 400 calories. No time for a meal? Then have a small snack (e.g. bananas, yogurt or porridge) or a smoothie 30 – 60 minutes beforehand. It's a myth that eating during the hour before exercise results in hypoglycaemia (low not designed to digest a blood sugar). If you are able to eat 4 hours before your workout then you can probably eat a larger meal of 600 - 800 calories, or approximately 10 calories/ kg body weight. You should feel comfortable at the start of your workout, neither hungry nor full.

In practice, the exact timing of your preexercise meal probably depend on constraints such as work hours, travel and session times. Plan meals as best you can around these commitments. example, if you work out at 7 o'clock, plan to eat a substantial lunch followed by a small (300- 400 calorie) pre-exercise meal at 5 before your workout if before working out o'clock. If you prefer training at 5 o'clock, then eat your preexercise meal (lunch) at 1 o'clock followed by a snack of 100 – 300 calories 30 – 60 minutes you're feeling hungry.

For best results, listen to your body. You may need to experiment with timing - if you feel like the meal hasn't settled, wait longer and eat earlier before your next session.

Brits in LA

Meet a Member: Sarah Danays

Meet Sarah Danays from Whitstable, Kent who moved to LA eight years ago to pursue her fine art practice. She's a sculptor and photographer.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

I fell madly in love with a Frenchman, Marc, who only wanted to live in LA. So I followed. He runs Zinque, Venice, just around the corner from my studio. www. lezinque.com.

What do you miss most from home?

My friends, old buildings and a good curry.

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since? If so why?

That it would be a lonely city for me. Moving to LA was actually one of the hardest things I've ever done. It took me a number of years make to real, strong friendships. Something that had always come so easily to me back in the UK. It was making friends here that changed my view of the city - particularly Alison Rowe of Merrily & Keane Communications (Specialists in Arts Support, whose services I cannot praise highly enough). Also, as I began to understand the city better, I noticed that unlike back home where (some) people seemed to be waiting for you to fail, in LA they were waiting for you to shine.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus Whitstable?

Proximity. Everything's so close and easy to get to simply by walking. Here everything's so very far apart. I consider myself deeply lucky to be based in Venice where you can, pretty much, walk everywhere.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us? Dhaba on Main Street, Santa Monica.

Street, Santa Monica. Probably the best lamb saag I've had. And such charming, intelligent service and a beautiful outdoor area to eat. Oh, and Hama Sushi happy hour at the Venice circle every evening 4 - 7pm. This place is always such a joy.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

One of my favorite quotes is by the French writer Anais Nin, who lived for much of her life in LA, dying here in 1977. Anais said "life shrinks or expands in proportion to one's courage."

Lastly, how can we find out more about you? Are you working

Stars/Books

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: In any relationship situation please keep a handle on that famous temper as it will cause more problems especially since your cousin sign of Leo is raring to join in. Think about how it can rebound on you if you don't.

TAURUS: Your priority should be taking care of YOU in any area that requires attention. And start with what you know is well overdue. On the upside you can expect a call from an unexpected source, so be ready to play at a moment's notice.

GEMINI: The sun in Leo can bring out a very creative side of you and it also favors getting a handle on any unresolved parts of life. This is the month for you to get a sense of where you want to be heading for the rest of the year.

CANCER: You will have to be aware this next week not to speak out of turn or harshly to anyone. Because the damage done would take a long time to repair. The sun in your money house is going to give you a boost in this area.

LEO: The stars are aligned in a very positive way which can assist you making decisions you have likely put off for some time. With this in mind take a leap of faith as you are not participating in life as you know you can.

VIRGO: It's time for a trip and short or long, near or far matters not as you benefit from the change of scenery. Just make sure you have caught up with whatever is unfinished and and then go out and relax.

LIBRA: The planet of Karma Saturn has been disrupting your life for a few weeks now. He can stir things up in this area for you more than ever by the end of this month so if you have stuff you need to be working on, now is the time.

SCORPIO: This will be one those weeks when life is not so easy but things should improve by midweek. With this in mind tackle any area of life you know is overdue and it will flow easily.

SAGITTARIUS: If you want to change anything waiting around for others to make the first move is not a good idea. Take the bull by the horns and start out the way you mean to be all month. The sun in your cousin sign of Leo will assist you all month.

CAPRICORN: You may be feeling tired or worn down in some area or other, so it is likely (as usual) you are doing too much work. Be kind to yourself and take time out for you. The sun in the fire sign of Leo in your money house will help you with finances.

AQUARIUS: You are probably feeling a bit frustrated this week as life has not been the way you wish it to be. Well, we all have these time in life and you have to be able to know your limits. Take a break and do not take out your frustrations on anyone else.

PISCES: It's all work and no play for you this week so do what has to be done and do not allow others to tell you how or what to do. It's time to collect an outstanding debt with interest. This can be any kind of debt you feel you are owed, even a favor to be returned.

The Red Queen: a darker tale of Alice

Exclusive interview with author Christina Henry and a review of her new Alice in Wonderland novel

Rating: ★★★

"I finished up writing my Black Wings series with the final book, Black Spring, about two years ago," says Red Queen the Chronicles of Alice author Christina

"I wanted to write something completely new and outside of my comfort zone. I thought doing about an Alice's Adventures In Wonderland adaptation. I originally conceived of the story as a kind of steampunk adventure. It was going to be much closer to Carroll's original story, just set in a different kind of world. As I was writing it the story took a darker turn."

Red Queen the Chronicles of Alice is the second book in the series. Alice is on another adventure. This time Alice and Hatcher, a fellow inmate from the loony bin, are trying to find his daughter Jenny. She severed her connection to the Cheshire cat. He would invade her mind, by wishing it away she managed to stop his mental invasion. Along the way Alice needs to learn how to control her magic. Alice and Hatcher I wanted it to be an encounter the cruel Black King and search for the mad White Queen. Dark, twisted and loosely based on Lewis Carroll's novel. Alice learns magic and who she can trust. A dark and broody novel. Definitely not for kids.

"I tried to maintain the linear, quest structure of the original story," says Henry. "Alice travels for a while, meets somebody, something happens with that person and then she moves on. In the original she's trying to find the rabbit that she followed down the hole because she's curious. In my version of the story, she's still trying to find the rabbit, but so that she can fill in the holes in her memory and put her life together again."

Henry says she doesn't generally research. "I'd read Alice's Adventures In Wonderland many times before, but I didn't reread before writing my own version.

Henry has written two Chronicles of Alice books and the seven-book Black Wings urban fantasy series for Ace books. That series is about an agent of Death named Madeline Black and her popcorn-loving gargoyle Beezle. Alice was an Amazon's Best Science Fiction and Fantasy Book of 2015. It came in second in the Goodreads Choice Awards in Horror for 2015. Red Queen has yet to be optioned for film or Rebecca Brewer Berkeley/Ace Henry's editor. "Rebecca inherited me when my previous editor left publishing," says Henry. "She had worked closely with my previous editor and already liked my work." Henry sends her finished manuscript to Rebecca, who reads it and sends a letter detailing the bigger changes she those changes are made it goes to line edits, with comments on specific details in the manuscript.

Lucienne Diver of the Knight Agency is Henry's agent. "I sold my first few books without an agent," says Henry. "At the time Ace was accepting direct submissions. I met the lovely and amazing Chloe Neill, author of the Chicagoland Vampires and Devil's Isle during an author event in Chicago. She recommended me to her agent, Lucienne Lucienne said my first book, Black Wings, was already in her to-beread pile so she moved it up in the queue. She's a fantastic agent, really detail-driven, and such an incredible cheerleader for all her authors."

Henry is currently working on Lostboy, an origin story of Captain Hook from Peter Pan. To be released by Ace Books would like to see. Once in July of 2017.

Brits in LA

This election season: keep calm and have a Sunday roast!

It is so exciting to see how passionate people are about politics right now. But I do think many of us have lost the capability to edit ourselves - certainly on social media.

The amount effing and blinding, exchanges abusive and prejudice that fills my various newsfeeds is astounding. What find particularly disconcerting is that I even when I completely agree with the gist of a post, the intolerant tone is so uncomfortable that there is no way I can approve it without questioning my morals. I think if you really want to get your point across and hit home (which I know so many of you do) then you need to find another way to deliver your message - rather than falling out with people 'misguided' the point?

All the animosity in the air has made me reach for home comfort foods - I was delighted to spot Lays limited edition Passport to Flavor crisps at my local supermarket last week. I've since tried them all, from Indian Tikka Masala to Brazilian Picanha and everything in between - all pretty tasty but they don't have the same impact who have opposing views, why not keep your cool and take the time to educate and set an example to your friends and acquaintances? Or is that too much effort? Surely the angry way defeats the purpose; if you are only preaching to the converted what is Crisp therapy nominated been for Olivier an Award and scooped a BAFTA and OBE in his long and varied career.

COMFORT FOOD: scoff if you must...

But James Corden feel he finds it easier to work in America, as he claims they are less obsessed with class than Britain.

Oo-er!

Speaking to GQ magazine, the 37-year-old London born actor explained acting was becoming an 'elitist sport', as he claimed he had to work harder to overcome negative stereotypes that are not afforded to the upper classes.

'I fear acting is becoming an elitist sport and I worry about where that lands us culturally. I really do,' he explained.

'I've come to the conclusion that it is about class. Look at my career... I mean, that's quite a lot of good stuff!

'Douglas Booth has got a great career, he's a brilliant actor, but he's never going to encounter the sort of shit like I've had,' he surmised, adding: 'Nor will Tom Hiddleston. Nor Eddie Redmayne. Nor Benedict Cumberbatch.'

James was raised in Buckinghamshire by his musician father and social worker mother, and attended state school with his elder and younger

James Corden: 'Elitist' Britain doesn't value my achievements!

WHO LOVES YA BABY? we do!

He starred in several theatre productions, including the 2004 production of The History Boys, but reached dizzying new heights of fame with his starring turn in Gavin & Stacey.

Last year, Iames stunned fans when it was announced he would be moving to America to host The Late Late Show on CBS

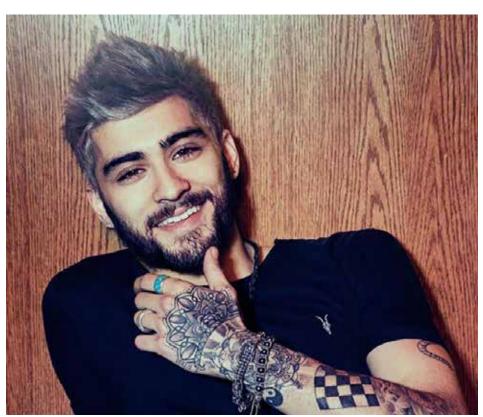

Ahead of his US debut, the star revealed he was shocked to have been approached The Late Late Show and didn't expect his presenting turn to be

'What are the chances of a chubby boy, and I'm being generous, going to America to do a top job like this every night and being anything other than a complete disaster?

'I'm scared I'll be the boy from High Wycombe who just couldn't hack it and had to go back home with his tail between his legs,' he told The Sun.

Well, we at the the British Weekly, and Brits in LA folk who have had the pleasure of meeting James, LOVE him!

Wrong direction? Zayn to spill band secrets in new TV drama

More in-fighting?!

I hear that former 1D member Zayn Malik (above) is set to reveal his One Direction secrets in a new TV drama.

Oo-er!

The singer is going to be an executive producer on the new show that will follow the life of world-dominating boyband. (Sound familiar?)

Zayn will be working with the team behind Emmy-winning HBO series Entourage.

Big-time!

According to The Sun, producers lined up for the show even want to cast real musicians and release the music featured in the show as actual pop records.

It is claimed that Zayn is keen to find other outlets rather than music, such as acting.

This comes after the 23-year-old cancelled his appearance at Capital's Summertime Ball earlier in June after suffering "the worst from anxiety" of his life.

On acting, Zayn recently told ELLE UK: "I started acting when I was in school with theatre studies and then music came after.

"It completely stopped when I joined the band but I'd definitely be interested if I was given the right role."

He will need to catch up with former bandmate Harry Styles, who has already landed a plum role in acclaimed director Christopher Nolan's upcoming war epic Dunkirk.

Hollywood rectified that with their Sunday marvelous Roast - Nottingham born chef Brendan Collins even serves the meat thinly sliced 'just like mum did' - golden roast potatoes and ample veg accompanied by billowing Yorkshire Puddings, all served family style which was exactly what the doctor ordered - he may not have approved of the shandy I washed it down with, but I certainly did! Lunch hours are 12-4 so make sure to book in advance as they do get busy. I am not a dessert person but I hear the Sticky Toffee Pudding is a winner too! Birch have just launched their picnic boxes which are available for pick-up or through ChowNow - perfect for that night at the Hollywood Bowl or one of the numerous outdoor screenings that LA has on offer. And finally....

Our Pub Quiz at the Pikey is taking a Summer Holiday and will be back after Labour Day - but don't despair as our weekly Breakfast Club Cecconi's will business as usual every Tuesday rain or shine.

If you have any questions or comments drop us a line at BritsinLA@gmail.com

Hope to see some of you soon

Cheers! Eileen

PS: don't tell my mum but I think Brendan's Sunday roast might be slightly better....shhh!

Dembele late strike moves Hoops closer to promised land

Moussa Dembele scored a dramatic stoppagetime penalty as Celtic moved one round away from the Champions League group stage Wednesday night.

A first-half Leigh Griffiths penalty had put Celtic 1-0 ahead on the night, and 2-1 on aggregate, against Astana.

But their evening was thrown into chaos when Agim Ibraimi scored from 40 yards.

Extra time - and possibly penalties - seemed to beckon until Dembele won the penalty that he then converted for his first goal for the club.

That sent a raucous stadium into absolute raptures, while Astana of Kazakhstan were left stunned.

They finished with just nine men on the pitch, Igor Shitov sentoff for his costly foul on Dembele and Dmitri Shomko also walking for a crazed protest at the awarding of the penalty.

Celtic now go into Friday's draw for the final play-off round - leaving them just two games away from the Champions League group stage. Even if they lose that tie, they are guaranteed a place in the group stage of the Europa League.

More Wilshere injury woe

Jack Wilshere's rotten luck with injuries continued as the Arsenal midfielder was rule out of the club's pre-season friendly against Viking FK this week.

The England international missed most of last season, and around half of the previous campaign as well as he fails to get his promising career going.

Wilshere's latest problem is with his kneecap, and Arsene Wenger is unsure about using him in his side's next game ahead of the start of the Premier League season, according to the Daily Telegraph.

The 24-year-old sat out Arsenal's win over Chivas as well, and his poor fitness record means Wenger is clearly eager not to take any chances with him in noncompetitive games.

After playing Norwegian side Viking, Arsenal's final preseason match is against Manchester City, and it remains to be seen if Wilshere can make it back for then.

23-year-old is the last of what the Portuguese coach described as "a nucleus of four priorities, four positions to give a certain balance to the squad" following the signings of Eric Bailly, Zlatan Ibrahimovic and Henrikh Mkhitaryan.

United's financial commitment to Pogba's appears still more expensive given that he is a graduate of the club's own academy. Poached from Le Havre as a teenager in 2009, the midfielder was allowed to run a threeseason contract down to its final year before Raiola took over as his principal representative and advised him to exit. United received just €270,000 in FIFAmandated 'training compensation' for the teenager 0.2 per cent of the fee Juve demanded for Pogba.

Summer signing N'Golo Kante made his first appearance for Chelsea as two goals from Oscar saw the Premier League side beat AC Milan 3-1 in Minneapolis this week.

The International Champions Cup friendly was the first sporting event to be held at the new $1.1bn home of NFL side Minnesota Vikings.

Bertrand Traore headed the opener for Chelsea before a Giacomo Bonaventura free-kick drew the Italian club level.

Brazil midfielder Oscar's brace sealed it for Antonio Conte's side.

Kante, who left Premier League champions Leicester for a fee in the region of £30m, came on as a second-half substitute.

Aston Villa have signed Fulham striker Ross McCormack for £12m.

The 29-year-old Scotland international spent two years with the Cottagers, scoring 38 Championship goals in 89 appearances.

The Cottagers are thought to have paid £11m for him two years ago.

Pienaar hope for Moyes reunion

Former Everton midfielder Steven Pienaar is training with Sunderland in the hope of securing a contract under newly-appointed boss David Moyes.

Press Association Sport understands that the 34-year-old, who was released by the Toffees this summer, is keen to prove his fitness and a permanent deal could see him reunite with his former manager at Goodison Park.

Moyes signed Pienaar from Borussia Dortmund in 2008 and the South African would go on to score 25 goals in 230 appearances during two spells on Merseyside.

However, injuries severely disrupted the final 18 months of his time at Everton and the South African is now looking to rebuild his career.

The former Ajax and Tottenham midfielder could become the Black Cats first summer signing with former Aston Villa midfielder Charles N'Zogbia also on trial with the club.

STAYING PUT: Jesus will finish the Brazilian season with Palmeiras and move to City in 2017

Guardiola puts his faith in Jesus

Manchester City have completed the signing of Palmeiras forward Gabriel Jesus for a reported £27 million.

Jesus, 19, has signed a five-year deal but will remain on loan at the Brazilian club until the conclusion of the national championship in December.

He is regarded as one of the most exciting talents to emerge from Brazil in recent years.

City fought off competition from clubs including Manchester United, Real Madrid, Barcelona and Paris Saint-Germain, to sign Jesus.

The deal was completed ahead of the Rio Olympics, in which Jesus is part of the Brazil squad.

He told City's official website: "Manchester City is one of the best clubs in the world, so I'm really pleased to sign.

"We have many great talents in the team and a fantastic manager in Pep Guardiola, who I can learn so much from.

"I'm looking forward to showing the City fans what I can do."

City Director of Football Txiki Begiristain said: "We are delighted that Gabriel has chosen to join us.

"He is one of the most exciting young prospects in world football and plays the game in a spectacular way. We look forward to him making a big impact at Manchester City."

Iesus was named

Best Newcomer in the Brazilian championship this year and has scored 26 goals in 67 games for Palmeiras.

He becomes City's sixth signing of the summer, joining Leroy Sane, Ilkay Gundogan, Nolito, Oleksandr Zinchenko, and Aaron Mooy at the Etihad Stadium.

Pogba on brink of United move

■ Juventus superstar to rejoin Old Trafford giants after transfer fee is smashed

M A N C H E S T E R UNITED have finalized a global-record transfer deal to bring Paul Pogba back to Old Trafford, according to reports from Turin.

Sources at both United and Juventus claim the terms of the transfer were agreed on Wednesday. Juve have been asking £108.9 million for the France midfielder, comprising a £83.8 m payment to the Serie A club and a further £25.1 m to cover a 30 per cent sell-on clause owed to Pogba's agent, Mino Raiola

Pogba, who has been pursued by every one of European football's leading clubs over the past two seasons, wanted an annual after-tax salary worth over £10m to leave Juventus, where he won four Scudetti in four seasons and helped take the club to the 2015 Champions League Final.

It is understood that the drawn-out nature of

The sportswear company benefits twice from the Frenchman's transfer, which places one of their most prominent football assets in the Manchester United kit they are paying up to £750m to produce over a 10-year term. Pogba himself signed a lucrative long-term sponsorship contract with Adidas earlier this year.

Jose Mourinho has prioritized the recruitment of Pogba as a means of adding muchneeded dynamism to his new club's midfield. The
