New Year, New Britain?

Country stands at 'amazing moment', PM claims as withdrawal from EU is finalized

Britain is at an "amazing moment" in its history, Boris Johnson claimed on Friday as he pledged to realise the promises of Brexit and rebuild prosperity after Covid.

The prime minister marked the end of formal ties with the European Union at 11pm thursday night with an upbeat new year message saying the country could now do things differently and better.

He promised to "turbocharge" his aim of making Britain a science superpower, leading the world in tackling climate change, and to create millions of high-skilled jobs.

"This is an amazing moment for this country," he said. "We have our freedom in our hands and it is up to us to make the most of it."

"rosy glow"

He praised Oxford scientists for delivering "a beacon of hope" in a vaccine that is cheap and quick to produce. The country would return to normality, he promised, "bathed in a rosy glow of nostalgia, going to the pub, concerts, theatres, restaurants, or simply holding hands with our loved ones".

Claims that the trading relationship with the EU could lead to the UK's break-up were dismissed.

"It will be the overwhelming instinct of the people of this country to come together as one - England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland working together to express our values around the world." He added: "As the sun rises on 2021 we have the certainty that [the UK] is free to do things differently, and if necessary better, than our friends in the EU."

Mr Johnson declared that being unshackled from Brussels will make Britain "free to do trade deals around the world, and free to turbocharge our ambition to be a science superpower".

He added: "From biosciences to artificial intelligence, and with our world-leading battery and wind technology, we will work with partners around the world not just to tackle climate change but to create the millions of high-skilled jobs this country will need, not just this year - 2021 - as we bounce back from Covid, but in the years to come."

Looking forward to the UK hosting the G7 and COP 26 international summits of world leaders in 2021, Mr Johnson promised "an open, generous, outward-looking, internationalist and free-trading global Britain, that campaigns for 12 years of quality education for every girl in the world".

"happy and glad"

Meanwhile Eurosceptic Tory MPs hailed the end of the Brexit transition period as a "victory for democracy and sovereignty".

Veteran anti-Brussels Tory Sir Bill Cash said it was a "victory for democracy and sovereignty" that can only be compared in peacetime with the evolution of modern democracy after the end of the Stuart dynasty.

He was "extremely happy and glad" that the UK was leaving the single market and customs union, and praised the PM, negotiators and voters for making it happen.

Mark Francois, chairman of the European Research Group of Tory Brexiteers, said: "Tonight we get a chance to wave both 2020 and the EU goodbye, within an hour of each other. After a truly terrible year and a great struggle for our liberty, it's a marvellous example of a buy one, get one free."

Tory Eurosceptic Peter Bone said he would

"Having taken back control of our money, our borders, our laws and our waters by leaving the European Union on January 31, we now seize the moment to forge a fantastic new relationship with our European neighbours, based on free trade and friendly cooperation" be celebrating with French champagne to "show that we are pro-Europe but anti-EU".

He added: "It has been a very long campaign and we've gone from being looked on as being strange people that wanted to leave this wonderful European Union by the establishment who have always held that view, to being able to campaign and get the support of people to defeat the establishment."

Sir John Redwood, who has been a Tory MP for more than 30 years, said he felt "much relief" that the UK has stated its wish to be "self-governing".

He said: "I never doubted we would win the referendum. I argued that we were being good Europeans by stepping aside from their mighty task to create a United States of Europe.

"We should wish them well and be friends with them. But the fact that the UK had refused to join the euro showed where our hearts resided - with the wider world and with national democracy.

"Today I feel much relief that our country has been open with our friends in Europe and stated clearly we wish to be self-governing, whilst good friends and allies of theirs.

"I look forward to 2021 as a year of strong economic recovery, where we can start to use the new freedoms and opportunities now open to global Britain."

Britain 'ready to soar' in 2021

■ Liz Truss promises lift-off after signing 63 global deals

GLOBAL Britain is ready to take flight, with more than 60 trade deals coming into force this week, the International Trade Secretary claimed this week.

Elizabeth Truss said British businesses could take advantage of a "world of opportunity" now the country is fully free from EU rules and regulations.

She also promised that the Government was working towards "gold-standard" deals with the US and Australia in the coming year.

Trade deals with 63 countries came into effect on Friday, along with the free trade agreement with the EU struck by Boris Johnson on Christmas Eve.

The deals cover trading relationships that were worth £885billion in 2019.

Ms Truss said: "After taking back control of our trade policy last year, we have worked flat out to strike agreements with likeminded allies to support the best of British business and cement our status as a global services and technology hub.

"While we were not able to unleash the full potential of our innovators in the past, we are now championing the industries of the future with innovation-loving

'ECONOMIC DYNAMISM': a trade deal with Vietnam was just one of the agreements unveiled by Liz Truss this week nations like Japan and Singapore.

"And we are working towards gold-standard deals with allies such as the US and Australia.

"Meanwhile, we have made big strides towards joining perhaps the most vibrant trading area on Earth – the Comprehensive and Progressive Trans-Pacific Partnership.

"Together, we would stand for rules-based free trade and real economic dynamism."

She also said that "2021 will see Global Britain take flight, free as a fully independent trading nation to support jobs and opportunity across every corner of the UK through Britishshaped deals.

"We have now secured trade deals with 63 countries plus the EU, accounting for £885billion worth of trade annually.

"There is a world of opportunity out there and I am looking forward to going further and faster to seize it."

Earlier in the week Ms Truss concluded negotiations for an economic partnership agreement with Cameroon, ensuring the UK will trade as freely with the West African nation as it did under EU membership.

Total UK trade with Cameroon amounted to £200million in 2019, with nuts, bananas, timber and wood products being the main imports to Britain.

The Government also agreed a tariff-free deal with Turkey, covering the £18billion-a-year relationship between the two nations.

Other key deals coming into force are with Switzerland and Canada, covering commerce worth £36billion and £22billion in 2019 respectively.

Ms Truss has also secured deals with a series of trade blocs, including the South Africa Customs Union and Cariforum, which covers Caribbean countries including Jamaica, Trinidad and Tobago, Belize, Guyana and the Bahamas.

Free by February?

2m jabs of the new Oxford-Astra Zeneca jab are ready for the most vulnerable and elderly within a fortnight in the UK

BRITAIN could be free from severe Covid restrictions by February thanks to a new "winning formula" vaccine.

The "game-changing" Oxford- AstraZeneca jab was approved this week in the UK, paving the way for a mass vaccination blitz.

Insiders say the perfected vaccine works better than hoped and will match the best on offer.

The jab rollout could begin next Monday with plans to have two million given within a fortnight. Once the bulk of the most vulnerable people are vaccinated it is hoped the Government could begin to relax controls before Easter.

Trials of the jab, developed by Oxford University along with drugs firm AstraZeneca, showed an efficacy rate of 90 per cent when people were given half a dose followed by a whole dose at least a month later.

When two whole doses were given at least a month apart, the vaccine had an efficacy of 62 per cent.

Full results meant the overall efficacy was 70 per cent.

Pascal Soriot, chief executive of AstraZeneca, said: "We think we have figured out the winning formula and how to get efficacy that, after two doses, is up there with everybody else."

Optimism Mr Soriot said the earlier results had been seen by the company as "positive". He added: "They meet the criteria established by regulators around the world."

Dr Peter Openshaw, professor of experimental medicine at Imperial College London, said: "It looks really promising and it also looks very deliverable. We have huge optimism that this is a major part of how we can control the current surge."

Chancellor Rishi Sunak was impressed by the news.

He said: "There is light at the end of the tunnel with the vaccine. I'm confident that if we all pitch in together we will get through this as we have done through this year, and we can look forward to a brighter future."

But the easing of national restrictions would depend on several key factors, such as the infection rate and pressures on the NHS.

Despite the hope of controls being lifted, there is speculation that millions more face being plunged into Tier 4 this week as the variant continues to spread.

The next tier review is on Wednesday amid climbing numbers of infections and hospital admissions.

F1 champ Hamilton knighted in New Year's Honours List

■ Sheila Hancock and Jimmy Greaves also recognized - although focus remains on Covid epidemic heroes

Formula 1 champion Lewis Hamilton has been knighted in a New Year Honours list which salutes hundreds of people for their work in the Covid pandemic.

Hamilton, who took his seventh title in November, is on the list with actress Sheila Hancock, who is made a dame.

Ex-footballer Jimmy Greaves and musician Craig David become MBEs.

But it is the response to coronavirus which dominates, and an MBE for charity volunteer Anne Baker, 106, makes her the oldest ever recipient of an honour.

Mrs Baker, from Salisbury, who has been involved with fundraising for the NSPCC since the 1950s, said it was a "great surprise and great honour" to be recognised.

Ruth Saunders, aged 104, becomes an MBE for services to charity during Covid after walking a marathon to raise money for Thames Valley Air Ambulance this year.

The same honour goes to airline pilot Emma Henderson, from Moray, who set up a first class lounge experience in more than 80 hospitals across the UK for NHS staff.

There is an MBE for Mark Owen, from Clwyd, after he re-joined North Wales Police to support volunteer officers with tasks including delivering prescriptions and food parcels, and a British Empire Medal (BEM) for Catherine Fitzsimmons from Greater Manchester, a former palliative care nurse who came out of retirement.

There is a BEM too for Carl Konadu, 28, who helped young people in London prepare for job applications during the pandemic through 2-3 Degrees, a not-for-profit group he co-founded.

The recognition for hundreds of people involved in the Covid response continues the trend set in the delayed Birthday Honours in October.

Prime Minister Boris Johnson said in a year when so many have made sacrifice, the list was a "welcome reminder of the strength of human spirit, and of what can be achieved through courage and compassion".

Stage and screen star Sheila Hancock, 87, said she was "very flattered" by her damehood, adding: "I've never felt myself this sort of person... I feel I've got to prove something and work even harder, particularly in my charity area."

Among the other new dames are Jane Glover, conductor and musicologist, and Pat McGrath, described by Vogue magazine as the most influential makeup artist in the world.

BEST OF BRITISH: Lewis Hamilton recently overtook Michael Schumacher as the most successful Formula One driver of all time

HEROES: Emma Henderson, Mark Owen and Catherine Fitzsimmons were all recognized for their work during the pandemic

Camilla to launch book club

The Duchess of Cornwall made headlines this week with the announcement she is to launch her own book club to try to encourage readers of all ages to discover new authors.

The duchess, an avid reader, hopes to create a hub where literary communities across the globe can connect. Her Duchess of Cornwall's Reading Room will be launched on January 15 on Instagram, with Camilla recommending four books for the inaugural winter season.

The duchess decided to go online after a positive response to her lockdown reading lists published at Easter and during the summer.

Books chosen by

Camilla ranged from the modern fantasy The Secret Commonwealth by Philip Pullman, which she called "storytelling at its best", to Charles Dickens's A Tale Of Two Cities.

A royal source said: "The duchess is hoping her Reading Room will encourage all ages and all levels of reader to pick up a book, and that it will spread awareness of the emotional, social and educational benefits of reading."

36 Years On: Wham!'s "Last Christmas" tops singles charts

■ Festive classic was written by George Michael in his childhood bedroom

Wham!'s Last Christmas topped the UK singles chart for the first time last week, 36 years after it was first released.

The festive classic was streamed 9.2 million times over the last week, knocking LadBaby's Don't Stop Me Eating off the top spot.

First released in December 1984, George Michael and Andrew Ridgeley's song was famously held off the top spot by Band Aid's Do They Know It's Christmas?

Ridgeley said he was "somewhat amazed" the record had now reached number one.

He said he was "delighted" and "profoundly pleased" at the news, "albeit 36 years after its first release which is, perhaps more than anything, a testament to its timeless appeal and charm".

"It is a fitting tribute to George's song-writing genius and one of which he would have been immensely proud and utterly thrilled," Ridgeley added.

Since the song was released in 1984, it has returned to the top 10 a further six times.

Fans had previously launched a campaign to get it to number one in 2017, to mark the first anniversary of George Michael's untimely death on Christmas Day 2016.

But it only reached number two - and was thwarted by Ed Sheeran's Perfect.

Its lyrics also inspired Dame Emma Thompson to write the movie Last Christmas, which was released in cinemas last Christmas.

Last Christmas was written by George Michael in his childhood bedroom in February 1984, "and as far as I was concerned it was a number one", he told Smash Hits in 1986.

Inspiration struck out of the blue, while the singer was watching a football match at his parents' house in Hertfordshire.

"We'd had a bite to eat and were sitting together relaxing with the television on in the background when, almost unnoticed, George disappeared upstairs for an hour or so," recalled Ridgeley in his 2017 memoir.

"When he came back down, such was his excitement, it was as if he had discovered gold which, in a sense, he had.

"We went to his old room, the room in which we had spent hours as kids recording pastiches of radio shows and jingles... and he played me the introduction and the beguiling, wistful chorus melody to Last Christmas. It was a moment of wonder."

The song was

THE WAY THEY WERE: George Michael and Andrew Ridgeley in 1984

subsequently recorded in the middle of August at London's Advision Studios, which Michael plastered in Christmas decorations to set the mood.

The cheesy-but-cheerful video was shot later that year in Switzerland, featuring Wham's backing singers Pepsi and Shirlie, model Kathy Hill, and Spandau Ballet's Martin Kemp - who was then dating his future wife Shirlie, so came along for the trip.

Alongside its famous chunky knitwear, and central role for a silver brooch, the video also marked the final time

Michael would be seen without his trademark designer stubble.

The singer jettied back from the film shoot to record his vocals for Do They Know It's Christmas - which would eventually hold Wham!'s song off the top spot.

In a gesture of solidarity with Band Aid, however, the duo donated all the royalties from Last Christmas to Ethiopian famine relief.

At the time of its initial release, Last Christmas was part of a Wham! double A-side single, along with Everything She Wants.

Although immediately after Christmas, radio stations started playing Everything She Wants and the band did a Top of the Pops appearance to promote it, the colossal sales of Do They Know It's Christmas meant it was never to top the chart at the time.

But Last Christmas does now hold a new chart record - for the longest time taken for a single to reach number one.

The previous record-holder was Tony Christie's (Is This The Way To Amarillo?) which had a 34-year gap between its original release and topping the chart for Comic Relief in 2005.

Former Scotland and United manager Tommy Docherty passes away at 92

■ "The Doc" was best known for his five year tenure at Old Trafford

Former Manchester United and Scotland manager Tommy Docherty has died at the age of 92 following a long illness.

As a player, Glasgow-born Docherty made more than 300 appearances for Preston and won 25 caps for Scotland.

He went on to manage 12 clubs, leading Chelsea to League Cup success in 1965 and United to a 2-1 win over Liverpool in the 1977 FA Cup final.

"Tommy passed away peacefully surrounded by his family at home," his family said in a statement.

"He was a much-loved husband, father and papa and will be terribly missed.

"We ask that our privacy be respected at this time."

Docherty - affectionately known by his nickname 'The Doc' - died at home in the north west of England on 31 December.

After spells managing Chelsea, Rotherham, QPR, Aston Villa and Porto, he took over as Scotland boss in September 1971 on a temporary basis before getting the job full-time two months later.

But he was best known for his five-year spell at Manchester United, who approached him to succeed Frank O'Farrell in December 1972 while Scotland were on course to qualify for the 1974 World Cup finals.

United were relegated in 1974 under Docherty but they kept the Scot and returned to the top flight at the first time of asking. Two years later, they won the FA Cup with victory over Bob Paisley's Liverpool, who had won the league and would go on to also win the European Cup that year.

Docherty's time at Old Trafford also saw George Best fail to revive his United career, the retirement of Bobby Charlton, and the departure of Denis Law.

In 2014, he told the BBC he still regretted his decision to leave the Scotland job for United.

"I was stupid," he said. "I should have stayed with Scotland. [It was] partly the money, I have to be honest about that."

Docherty was sacked shortly after the Wembley triumph for having an affair with Mary Brown, the wife of United physiotherapist Laurie Brown.

The pair later married and they remained together until his death.

2020 Hindsight: The Year In Pictures

2020 for a lot of us was a write-off year but for others it was a chance to regroup, reflect, reevaluate and recharge.

For a world that was shut down it was actually a very active year with major shifts and changes happening and I for one am hoping that 2021 will be less a space odyssey but more of a chance for people to enjoy a rebirth. Let's celebrate the wins this year, be grateful for all the good things - no matter how small - and cherish those we love, near and far.

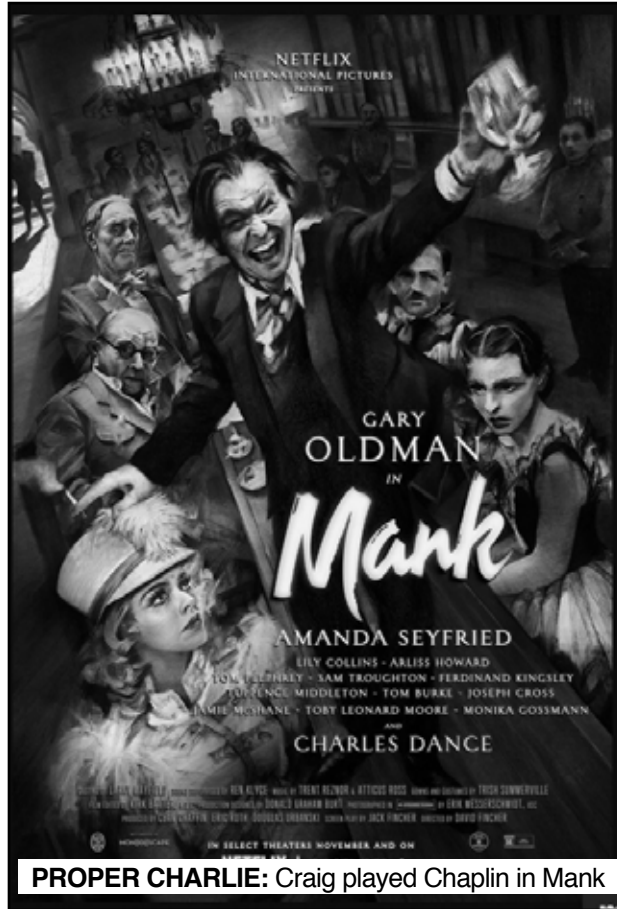

In January, I got to visit the Grand Canyon and the following month I partied with friends at the Elton John Oscar Party.

March saw my last birthday party celebration and in June our Pub quiz became popular (virtually with your host Sandro Monetti) - Tuesday nights were no longer boring!

In August Black lives finally mattered and we took to the streets to protest the injustice in this country towards our black brothers and sisters.

October finally saw the release of Mank, with yours truly playing

PROPER CHARLIE: Craig played Chaplin in Mank

Charlie Chaplin (now on Netflix).

In November Biden won the tumultuous election.

Recently I watched the classic movie White Christmas for the first time ever. I especially enjoyed the Bing Crosby and Rosemary Clooney duet called "Count Your Blessings" and this year... it's all I could do. Happy New Year

BLACK LIVES MATTER: marching in August everyone and continue With gratitude, to practice being safe! Craig Robert Young

OUT AND ABOUT: in February, before social distancing was a thing...

ELECTION FEVER: no question where Craig's sympathies lie...

Santa Monica-based Briton Roger Deakins knighted in New Year's Honours List

British cinematographer and Santa Monica resident Roger Deakins has been knighted for services to film in the New Year Honours.

The 71-year-old, originally from Devon who now lives in the Ocean Park neighborhood, counts A Beautiful Mind, Fargo, The Shawshank Redemption, Skyfall, Blade Runner 2049 and 1917 among his best-known features, the last two winning him Oscars.

He modestly said, after his first Oscar win in 2018, the secret of his success was "I really love my job".

He was previously appointed CBE in 2013.

Sir Roger, from Torquay, found notoriety for his lack of success at the Oscars after receiving 13 nominations - the first in 1994 for The Shawshank Redemption - but no wins.

He finally won the coveted statuette in 2018 for Blade Runner 2049, returning to the ceremony's stage in 2020 to collect a gong for 1917.

This was many years after he was turned down by the National Film School.

A keen photographer, he applied to the school but failed to secure a place at first as his photography was reportedly considered not "filmic" enough.

After later being admitted, he worked as a cameraman on documentaries, moving on to music projects in the 1970s and 1980s.

In 1991, he began a long-term collaboration with the Coen brothers, including working on 11 movies, including O Brother, Where Art Thou? and True Grit.

Another long-term

SERIAL NOMINEE: Deakins has been nominated for an Academy Award fifteen times, dating back to The Shawshank Redemption in 1995 relationship was with Sir Sam Mendes and included working on the James Bond film Skyfall.

Their complex World War One film 1917 saw their partnership most challenged as it was shot as if in a few long continuous takes.

Sir Roger said of this: "With those long takes, when you get towards the end you think 'it's really fast and am I going to get that right?' and the pressure was pretty extreme really."

world."

Fulham are adamant they followed protocol and contacted the Premier League first, ahead of consulting with Public Health England, about their positive tests. Several players and staff had tested positive.

It is the second fixture cancelled this week after Manchester City were forced to abandon their trip to Everton on Monday.

And five City players are unavailable for their Premier League match at Chelsea on Sunday following positive coronavirus tests.

Kyle Walker, Gabriel Jesus and three unnamed players are in isolation.

"I don't think the Premier League allow us to name the players but you will know [on Sunday]," City manager Pep Guardiola told reporters.

Overall, three games now have to be rescheduled in a tight calendar with the added complication of the delayed Euro 2020

Mourinho: furious after the Spurs derby with Fulham was postponed starting on June 11.

However, the Premier League have dismissed calls to pause the season and claim still to have "full confidence in their Covid-19 protocols".

But they also admit there is nothing in place should the season have to be curtailed.

Discussions after last season went into lockdown failed to achieve a resolution, despite several attempts to discuss the issue over the summer.

The only thing that appears to be resolved is that at least two thirds of fixtures (26 matches) will have to be played for this season to count at all – although some clubs want that limit to be as high as three-quarters.

For now all games will be without spectators after the last two clubs able to admit fans, Liverpool and Everton, were moved from Tier 2 to Tier 3.

The clubs had been allowed crowds of 2,000 this month but Everton's home game with West Ham was held behind closed doors.

Bruno on the spot again as United move level on points with Liverpool

Manchester United moved level on points with Premier League leaders Liverpool on Friday as a Bruno Fernandes penalty saw off stubborn Aston Villa.

Fernandes drilled his 11th league goal this season - and his fifth from the spot - into the bottom corner to punish Douglas Luiz's clip on Paul Pogba and hand United an eighth win in 10 games.

Bertrand Traore's calm finish underneath David de Gea had deservedly drawn Villa level, cancelling out Anthony Martial's stooping first-half header for the hosts.

But Fernandes' penalty extended United's hold over Villa - they have now won 32 and lost just one of the past 44 league meetings between the sides - and leaves Liverpool top only by virtue of goal difference.

The spot-kick award angered Aston Villa boss Dean Smith who claimed Pogba "tripped himself" and that the video assistant referee should have asked on-pitch official Michael Oliver to review his decision.

"I don't see why Michael couldn't have looked at it. That's what VAR is for isn't it?" Smith

"I thought it was a penalty at the time, but I looked at it after the game and saw he tripped himself. I don't think it's a penalty.

"I think there's enough doubt there to send the referee over to the screen."

Smith's side were perhaps unfortunate not to have left Old Trafford with at least a point from a thoroughly entertaining game but they also needed several fine saves from Emiliano Martinez to keep them in it.

After Fernandes' spot-kick put United back in front, Martinez superbly tipped a stinging 25-yarder from the Portuguese on to the crossbar as well as denying Martial a second.

And while their rotten record at Old Trafford continues - just one win in 34 visits since 1983, which came courtesy of a Gabriel Agbonlahor header in 2009 - they have still only conceded five times in eight away games this campaign.
