COMING SOON: JABS AROUND THE CLOCK!

24/7 immunization labs on the way as second wave starts to slow

COVID vaccinations will soon be offered 24/7, Boris Johnson declared this week.

The Prime Minister said round-the-clock jabs will be introduced by the Government "as soon as we can".

He is understood to have given the go ahead to a pilot study that will test the potential for 24/7 immunisation facilities. It will result in healthcare workers being vaccinated at the end of their shifts at all hours of the day and night.

Mr Johnson delivered his latest pledge to step up the rollout of the life-saving vaccines as official figures confirmed the highest daily death toll in the pandemic so far.

The statistics showed a further 1,564 people had died within 28 days of testing positive for Covid on Tuesday. The grim update took the UK total to 84,767.

But, in a more positive sign, figures also showed the spread of the second wave appeared to be slowing.

Another 47,525 positive tests were confirmed on Wednesday, down 23 per cent compared to the previous Wednesday's total of 62,322.

It was the fourth day in a row that infections have dropped compared with the previous week.

More than 2.8 million vaccines had been delivered by the middle of this week, according to the latest official Government figures.

Dr Yvonne Doyle, medical director at Public Health England, said: "With each passing day, more and more people are tragically losing their lives to this terrible virus, and today we have reported the highest number of deaths on a single day since the pandemic began.

"There have now been more deaths in the second wave than the first.

"About one in three people with Covid don't show symptoms, but can still pass it on to others. So it is essential that we stay at home, minimize contact with other people and act as if you have the virus."

Sir Patrick Vallance, the Government's chief scientific adviser, warned that the daily death toll was likely to remain high for several more days.

He said: "I don't think they're going to drop very quickly. I'm afraid we're in a period of high death numbers that's going to carry on for some weeks.

"It's not going to come down quickly even if the measures that are in place now start to reduce the infection numbers. So we're in for a pretty grim period, I'm afraid."

Mr Johnson announced the move towards round-the-clock vaccinations at Prime Minister's Questions in the Commons on Wednesday.

He told MPs: "We will be going to 24/7 as soon as we can." Health Secretary Matt Hancock will set out details of the move "in due course", the PM said.

He added: "At the moment the limit is on supply. We have a huge network: 233 hospitals, 1,000 GP surgeries, 200 pharmacies and 50 mass vaccination centres, and they are going exceptionally fast."

Ministers and senior officials are currently discussing how widely round-the-clock tests should be rolled out.

Some concerns have been raised in Whitehall that 24-hour vaccine centres could potentially lead to many more missed appointments.

A snap YouGov poll on Wednesday showed 43 per cent of Britons would be willing to have their vaccine appointment between midnight and 6am. But 32 per cent would turn down an appointment during those times.

The PM also refused to rule out toughening the current lockdown restrictions across England.

In Scotland, First Minister Nicola Sturgeon tightened restrictions further by banning people from drinking outside, forbidding customers to enter takeaway outlets and banning non-essential "click-and-collect" services.

The PM added: "We

'Superhub' vaccine sites open across the UK

SUPERHUB vaccine injection sites opened across the UK this week today as the war on Covid-19 ramped up.

At the rate of four jabs a minute, thousands of people are being inoculated at each centre every day.

As the first seven mass vaccination hubs swung into action, Health Secretary Matt Hancock vowed that every adult in the country would be offered a jab by the autumn.

Two million people have had their shots already and the Government is on course to meet its target of giving more than 13 million injections by the middle of next month.

Mr Hancock said: "Since the historic day the first vaccine was approved, the NHS has made fantastic strides in offering the vaccine to as many at risk people as possible and at record pace.

"We have worked closely with experts across the NHS, local governments and the armed forces to put in place full and thorough preparations for this rollout – this is the biggest vaccination programme in British history.

"From today, the full scale of our plans will be published, so the public can be assured of the time, effort and resources that have gone, and will go, into ensuring we protect the British people from the scourge of this virus.

"The UK vaccine delivery plan will be the keystone of our exit out of the pandemic, but we all must continue to play our part by staying at home, following the rules and keeping Hands, Face, Space at the forefront of our minds when out and about."

Letters were sent to the homes of 630,000 over-80s who live within 45 minutes of one of the centres. They are: the Excel Centre, London; Ashton Gate, Bristol; Epsom racecourse in Surrey; Millennium Point, Birmingham; Robertson House in Stevenage; Etihad Tennis Club in Manchester and the Centre for Life in Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

'pressure'

Mr Hancock said 200,000 people are being inoculated in England daily: "We've now vaccinated around one third of the over-80s in this country so we're making significant progress. This week we're opening mass vaccination centres...with more to come next week where we will get through very large numbers of people."

Mr Hancock said "the pressure on the NHS is very, very bad. The single biggest thing that anybody can do is to follow the stay at home guidance.

"There are limited exemptions. Only if you can't work from home and if you need to go out and get shopping or take some exercise. But these are highly limited for a good reason. We need to bring the case rate right down. So it's on all of us really, it always has been a big team effort," he added.

The new vaccination centres will be the first to use trained volunteers from St John Ambulance and the NHS Volunteer Responder scheme alongside NHS staff, Hundreds more GP-led and hospital services are due to open this week along with the first pharmacy-led pilots, taking total sites to around 1,200.

Prof Stephen Powis, NHS national medical director, said: "The NHS can open even more vaccination services and protect even more people this week.

"Please don't contact the NHS to seek a vaccine, we will contact you. When we do contact you, please attend your booked appointments."

Leading high street chemist Boots opened its first vaccination site this week, offering the Oxford-AstraZeneca jab to the most vulnerable people.

Seb James, managing director of Boots, said: "Our vaccination sites are clean, clinical environments in accessible, convenient locations.

"We have extensive experience in vaccination services, having carried out over a million flu vaccinations in this winter flu season alone. We hope to help the NHS and enable more people to get the vaccination quickly."

Prof Devi Sridhar, chairman of public health at Edinburgh University, said: "We have to continue [the vaccine] roll-out, keep saving lives.

"But it's not a strategy in and of itself and relying on it alone is highly, highly risky." The delivery plan is the keystone of our exit from the pandemic."

Swindon to Musk: come open a factory here

GETTY IMAGES

ELON MUSK: the Tesla founder plans to make broadband available worldwide

The world's richest person has been invited to consider setting up a new manufacturing site in Swindon.

Leader of the town's borough council David Renard has written to Elon Musk, owner of the Tesla car company, asking him to consider opening a factory there.

Mr Renard suggested the Honda factory site, set to close in July 2021.

Mr Musk also owns Space X which aims to deliver broadband internet around the world, using 42,000 satellites.

In the letter to Mr Musk, Mr Renard said he would like to "draw your attention" to the Honda site.

He called it a "prime site" with good transport links and said the "biggest selling point" might be Honda's 5,000-strong workforce which would need to find new employment when the plant closes.

Dale Heenan, Swindon Borough Council's cabinet member for the town centre, said writing to Mr Musk was in his list of new year resolutions, according to the Local Democracy Reporting Service (LDRS).

Honda said it was closing its site due to global changes in the car industry and the need to launch electric vehicles.

Jim Grant, the borough council's Labour group leader, said he applauded the approach to Mr Musk and said "every opportunity" should be taken to bring jobs to the town.

But he added: "I am concerned, however, that this has more to do with publicising the Tory council itself than a serious approach to Tesla.

"Honda itself is keen on privacy, and I suspect Elon Musk and Tesla probably prefer to do such negotiations out of the public eye."

keep things under constant review and we will continue to do so. If there is any need to toughen up restrictions, which I do not rule out, we will of course come to this House."

Striking an optimistic tone, the PM pointed to the data suggesting the lockdown measures were bringing down the infection rate.

He said: "The lockdown measures that we have in place are starting to show signs of having some effect.

"We must take account of that too, because nobody can doubt the serious damage that is done by lockdowns to people's mental health, jobs and livelihoods."

CONVICTED: Simon Bowes Lyon

Royal shame as Queen's cousin convicted of sex attack

THE Queen's cousin is facing up to five years in jail after carrying out a violent sex attack inside his ancestral home.

Simon Bowes-Lyon forced his way into the sleeping woman's room and assaulted her.

It happened during a travel PR weekend in February last year which he was hosting at the 16,500-acre Glamis Castle estate, in Angus.

A court was told that the attack lasted more than 20 minutes.

On Tuesday, the wealthy aristocrat, who is Earl of Strathmore, was granted bail and placed on the sex offenders register as sentence was deferred for reports. Bowes-Lyon, who is known as "Sam", is the Queen's cousin twice removed. Outside court, the 34-year-old said: "I am greatly ashamed of my actions which have caused such distress to a guest in my home.

"Clearly, I had drunk to excess on the night of the incident.

"As someone who is only too well aware of the damage that alcohol can cause, I should have known better. I recognise, in any event, that alcohol is no excuse for my behaviour."

The landowner, who walked behind Prince William in the funeral cortege of his great-great aunt, The Queen Mother, stood with his head bowed as the charge was read to him.

Bowes-Lyon admitted sexually assaulting the 26-year-old woman.

Fiscal depute Lynne Mannion told Perth Sheriff Court: "He told her he wanted to have an affair. He tried to pull her nightdress up.

"She went into the ensuite to get away but the accused followed her, stopped her closing the door and lit a cigarette. She squeezed past and went back to the bedroom.

"She raised her voice in the hope that another guest would hear her. She panicked because she did not know the layout of the castle. He refused to leave."

She added: "He got into bed and began pulling at her. She had to keep pushing him off."

Bowes-Lyon called her "a rude, mean, bad and horrible person" and told her she could not tell him what to do in his own home. After more than 20 minutes she managed to get him out of her room.

The woman fled the castle the next morning and flew home where she immediately reported the matter to police.

Bowes-Lyon later emailed an apology to the woman. He offered another apology for his behaviour this week in court.

Danny Boyle set to helm Sex Pistols biopic miniseries

Danny Boyle is set to direct a six-part television drama about the Sex Pistols – to be titled Pistol – based on guitarist Steve Jones's 2016 memoir, Lonely Boy.

In a statement this week, Boyle described the Sex Pistols' emergence in the mid-70s as the moment that British society and culture changed forever.

"Imagine breaking into the world of The Crown and Downton Abbey with your mates and screaming your songs and your fury at all they represent," said Boyle.

"It is the detonation point for British street culture where ordinary young people had the stage and vented their fury and their fashion, and everyone had to watch and listen and everyone feared them or followed them."

Frank Cottrell Boyce is writing the series alongside Craig Pearce (Strictly Ballroom). Among its young cast will be Game of Thrones' Maisie Williams as punk icon Jordan and Toby Wallace, recently seen in Australian film Babyteeth, as Steve Jones. John Lydon is to be portrayed by emerging star Anson Boon.

Pistol will appear on American network FX, which has a partnership for scripted comedy with the BBC. Production is due to start on 7 March.

In an Observer review of Jones' memoir, Jude Rogers described the guitarist's story as "often eye-wateringly funny", albeit with "many moments of poignancy" as he touches on sexual abuse, maternal neglect and a stint in a remand centre.

Lydon has yet to comment on the news.

Britflix: Why British stars are the streaming service's crowning glory

BRITISH stars are outshining Hollywood actors in the top 10 most streamed shows in the world on Netflix.

Ex-EastEnders and Miranda actor Tom Ellis, 42, is the UK's most successful leading man with his DC comic book serial Lucifer the second-highest viewed original drama series.

And The Crown, starring Olivia Colman, 46, was the third most streamed series in US-centred ratings.

Viewers watched nearly 19 billion minutes of the show, which came second to US drug drama Ozark in 2020.

Marketing expert Brodie Cooper, from Hollywood's PRppd said: "Lucifer was actually dropped by Fox TV, but Tom Ellis's performances have made it a mega smash.

"Now he genuinely can be classed an A-lister. "The UK success is remarkable.

In Hollywood they always talk about the British invasion and how so many stars from the other side of the pond

UK's top cop calls for law limiting exercise travel

Police fear lockdown loopholes are hurting compliance

Ministers should consider writing a maximum distance for daily exercise into law, Britain's most senior police officer has said.

Dame Cressida Dick, commissioner of the Metropolitan Police, said "clarity" was needed over the definition of local exercise in England at a time of rising concerns about public compliance with lockdown guidance and loopholes in the law.

She said that ministers should consider introducing restrictions on travel for exercise similar to those imposed in Scotland and Wales, where there are strict limits. "Anything that brings greater clarity would be a good thing," she told Today on BBC Radio 4.

'stay local'

Dame Cressida says that people are still holding house parties, meeting in basements to gamble and attending unlicensed raves in the teeth of the pandemic's most deadly phase. Writing in The Times she warned that anyone breaking the rules would find officers "moving much more quickly to enforcement action".

CRESSIDA DICK: her intervention follows fierce public debate over police enforcement of guidance on exercise

Her intervention follows fierce public debate over police enforcement of guidance on exercise, which stipulates - unlike English law - that the public must "stay local". No 10 has increased its efforts to improve compliance.

This week even Boris Johnson was criticised for travelling seven miles from Downing Street for a cycle ride in Queen Elizabeth Olympic Park on Sunday. Dame Cressida said that the prime minister had not broken the law.

Kit Malthouse, the policing minister, agreed. "Local means you can get there under your own steam," he told Times Radio. He added that a bike ride of 70 miles would be "fine in some circumstances" but said the public were expected to recognise what "local" meant.

The health secretary Matt Hancock's defence of Derbyshire police for fining two women for walking five miles from their home last week backfired when the force rescinded the penalty.

Mr Malthouse said that officers would be "very high profile" and quicker to move to enforcement but that they would still be relying on consent. He added that all supermarket chains should follow Morrisons and enforce the wearing of masks in stores.

English no longer No.1 in Europe

FRANCE has called on the EU to use Brexit to end the dominance of the English language on the Continent.

Paris has taken a hardline over the divorce and has used it to strengthen its own position in the EU.

French Europe minister Clement Beaune said: "It would be even less comprehensible after Brexit that we all operate in an approximate English.

"Let's reaccustom ourselves to speaking our languages."

To the consternation of the French, English remains the dominant language for EU civil servants and MEPs.

There are 23 official languages but the European Commission only uses English, French and German for its daily business.

Mr Beaune branded the reluctance to scrap English as an "obstacle to understanding and adherence".

But EU officials say "English remains one of the official languages of [members] in Ireland and Malta".

Fergie love plot leads to Mills & Boon deal

SARAH, Duchess of York has landed a book deal with Mills & Boon – revealing she drew on family history for her debut romance.

Her Heart For A Compass is a fictional account of the life and love story of Lady Margaret Montagu Douglas Scott, Sarah's great-great-aunt.

Mills & Boon describes it as an "immersive historical saga" that "sweeps the reader from the drawing rooms of Victoria's court...to the slums of London".

Sarah came across

Lady Margaret as she researched her ancestry.

Unable to uncover much about her life, she "invented a history for her that incorporated real people and events, including some of my other ancestors".

The Duchess, whose past books have included memoirs and children's books, wrote the novel with "collaborator and mentor" Marguerite Kaye, a Mills & Boon veteran.

• Her Heart For A Compass will be published on August 3.

ARIES: Now you can say with truth that you have been patient for a longer time than ever before. The good news is if you can wait a while longer you will finally see a light at the end of a long tunnel.

TAURUS: For some of you, relationships might not have been all you desire. If this is a problem take your bull by the horns by the end of the month and make the first move. That is all it will take to be resolved or dissolved whichever is relevant.

GEMINI: You are ready to tackle any unfinished business next week. Best to make sure you have time and energy to complete by month's end as you will be busier next month.

CANCER: Like many have had an unpredictable time of late. This usually does not sit well with you and can have caused you to take life far too seriously. Fear not, life will be easier in many ways by month's end.

LEO: You could be planning a home-based renovation or something similar in the next few weeks. Be sure that your plan is practical so you complete all your scheduled work. Most importantly, plan your budget ahead of time.

VIRGO: Stress is no stranger in your life occasionally. It's probably more of a problem these past couple of weeks. So the time now is to be positive in thought and action. This unusual time is nearing its end and it's best to look forward, not backward.

LIBRA: The Sun is heading next week into your cousin sign of Aquarius. This is good news overall that you can pick up speed for whatever is your goal. While it may have been a time of mixed signals (especially in career) now you can feel more positive from what you hear.

SCORPIO: You are possibly feeling disappointed lately. This is especially so with some relationships, since it is likely not your fault. But let the feeling (and them) go. Next week you will feel more settled overall.

SAGITTARIUS: You could be feeling that there are some folks who do not always see your point of view. If this is the case it's time to let go and look at the folks who do. This does not mean you have to cut them off! It's just time to change some rules.

CAPRICORN: The past few months have had many challenges for you and for the world in general. This is due to rare lineups of planets in your sign. This has signaled an ending and a new beginning of change. Happy Birthday!

AQUARIUS: Your new year is coming up. Time to release any thing that does not work for your life. With Jupiter and Saturn in your life for some time ahead big changes are coming, so it's best to have some space for good changes.

PISCES: You could feel like hibernating and laying low. This is a good idea for a few days so go for it. However do not make it a big deal. Life will go on and in a better way!

Brits in LA

In praise of simplicity...

LOCKDOWN: Instead of filling all those extra hours with endless productivity, Nick Stark recommends going back to basics and embracing a 'less is more' philosophy

FOR MANY of us, the initial response to the start of the Covid-19 lockdown last spring was that we should use our extra free time productively.

After all, didn't being stuck at home mean we could FINALLY learn to play the piano?

Or learn to speak Italian?

Or finally read the collected works of Charles Dickens?

Or learn how to bake/brew/cook Thai food and so on?

Living in America we seem to absorb the importance of productivity with the air we breathe. But, almost a year on, many of us are going the opposite way. Indeed one of the few benefits of this very trying time seems to be the dawning realization that less truly can be more. That we can use this (hopefully) once-in-a-lifetime pandemic to slow down, to simplify, to pare down our needs and expectations and focus on what is truly important.

Stroll on

Living in the beautiful Golden State, many of us are lucky enough to have gorgeous hiking trails and stunning vistas within a short drive. So when we need to empty our minds, enjoy a contemplative stroll AND get some good cardio work in, we can simply drive (or bike) to the nearest trailhead. I'm lucky enough to live very close to the beach and so am able to just stroll down and enjoy doing nothing....apart from perhaps watching a sunset.

Workouts can also be a little more relaxed. I used to be a regular at Gold's Gym in Venice and several of the nearby yoga studios. But with everything now closed I've been forced (!) to get out on my bicycle and enjoy the bike trail that lines the beach. I can head north towards Malibu or south towards Redondo and the views and vibes are always superb. I can also enjoy socially distanced alfresco yoga and workouts from local providers including DMN8 (dmn8.com) and Shefa Yoga (shefayogavenice.com). There are a myriad of other providers across Los Angeles that offer similar programs at parks or via zoom meetings. And once you've enjoyed a bit of downward facing dog amid the lengthening shadows as the sun sinks into the Pacific, the sweaty, noisy, hard-rock soundtracked world of your local gym doesn't seem half so appealing. And unlike learning the piano, it NEVER feels like work.

As always the internet has sprouted a zillion solutions to our changed world, with meditation apps such as Calm, Headspace and Wake Up providing guidance and mindfulness. I use Calm every day with my morning coffee, although I'm also a fan of Headspace, founded by Venice-based Brit Andy Puddicombe, an author, public speaker and teacher of meditation and mindfulness.

Another enterprising Briton who is making hay out of the lockdown is Joe Wicks, better known as The Body Coach, whose YouTube fitness channel has exploded since the lockdown, earning him a worldwide following (and an MBE). Joe's fitness method uses short intense High Intensity Interval Training (HIIT) workouts. Starting off by posting 15-second recipe videos on social media, Wicks grew his brand to become one of the most followed fitness accounts on the web. The great thing about Joe is that he does the workouts along with the viewers, and he's about as far from an intimidating fitness god as you can imagine. He's the first to let out moans of pain and exhaustion while he coaxes us along, giving us the vibe that we're not working out with a drill instructor, but a mate who lives down the street.

SIMPLE PLEASURES: a bike, the beach and a California sunset

Baked in

The point being of course that we can have as much simplicity (or as little) as we need. Apps might be a technological solution but they can still take us to a far less techy place. We don't need a gym, we just need a smart phone and our own body weight. And if we want, we can just ditch the phone simply take out our bike and enjoy a sunset. Or even rely on a simple pair of trainers or hiking boots to do the same.

If you must improve yourself, why not learn an undemanding but valuable artisanal skill which you can enjoy for life. I would recommend YouTube for learning how to bake sourdough bread or delicious focaccia. As you hone your skills you'll often find yourself with more than you need, and the gift of bread to your neighbors is not something they'll quickly forget.

Some wise man once wrote words to the effect of: every trial is a gift in disguise. And I certainly feel this is true of Covid-19. Personally speaking, being able to slow down, be thankful and simplify my life certainly feels like a gift. And I'm sure the best is yet to come – the gift of normal life returning, which for most of us will feel like something we should savor every day for a very long time indeed. Which means perhaps Covid-19 will have forced us into a healthier mindset than we had before. How's that for irony?

In closing I will share a simple parable I found online from an English priest extolling the virtues of simplicity. I hope it resonate with you.

A tourist stops at the home of the great Rabbi. Since the Rabbi has such a world-renowned reputation the visitor expects to see a great home filled with valuable treasures.; However, he is shocked when he sees a bare home with almost nothing in it. "Where are your possessions?" he asks in astonishment.

The Rabbi responds, "Where are yours?"

"What kind of question is that?" the tourist responded. "I'm a visitor here."

"I am too," the Rabbi replied.

Long before Marie

Kondo, the nineteenth century designer and supporter of the arts and crafts movement William Morris advocated, "Have nothing in your houses that you do not know to be useful, or believe to be beautiful." [1] Or, as Henry Wadsworth Longfellow wrote, "In character, in manner, in style, in all things, the supreme excellence is simplicity."

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by TERE NELSON in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that TERE NELSON be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.)

The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 02/10/21 at 8:30AM in Dept. 79 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

hand, they are in a great position to launch their second-half push.

Yet this was a contest that his pitchside demeanour suggested he knew should have been out of sight before the hour mark after Foden's eighth goal of the season had given City the perfect platform.

Brighton came into this game three points above the relegation zone and without a win in eight games. But they have picked up five draws on the way, suggesting they are not short of heart.

Yet teams need more to beat City than a decent team spirit.

Since Brighton's last win on November 21, Guardiola's side are unbeaten in 14 matches in all competitions.

There were flashes of decent play for the visitors, including a belated full debut for Percy Tau, two-and-a-half years after signing for the club.

But while they look good enough to resist the pull of relegation, Potter's men found their moves breaking down when opportunity knocked.

City had no such problems, with Kevin De Bruyne at the heart of most of City's positive moments.

It was no surprise he had a big hand in the goal, receiving a ball from Ilkay Gundogan on the left flank and moving it into Foden's path on the left corner of the box.

The 20-year-old took one touch before guiding it inside Sanchez's near post for his fourth league goal of the campaign, one celebrated by at least nine team-mates.

City came out of the blocks hard in the second half, looking for a second to put the game to bed. But they found Sanchez in a stubborn mood and at times brilliant form between the sticks.

Riyad Mahrez, Joao Cancelo and Gundogan were all denied, while Bernardo Silva struck the angle of post and bar.

City nearly rued those missed chances and with Potter bringing on Neal Maupay and Solly March after the hour, the tide turned markedly in Brighton's favour.

With Guardiola becoming increasingly agitated on the sidelines, Maupay almost got clean through on goal, only for John Stones to produce a wonderfully-timed saving tackle on the edge of the penalty area.

City weathered the storm, just, and when Lewis Dunk sold Sanchez short with a back-header and De Bruyne pounced to be brought down in the area with a couple of minutes to go, Sterling had the chance to seal it from the spot.

But De Bruyne did not take it himself and Sterling promptly blazed it wildly over the bar.

Ozil heading for Arsenal exit door

Mesut Ozil is willing to leave some money on the table to secure a move away from Arsenal in the January transfer window and resume his football career elsewhere, it emerged this week.

Ozil (right) is scheduled to earn around £7 million between now and the end of his contract in June, but negotiations are taking place between the club and the player's camp about an early termination.

If a compromise is not found, the 32-year-old former Germany international will stay at Arsenal for the final five months of his deal and continue training with the first team as he has done hitherto.

TOP POGG!

Midfielder fires United to No1 spot ahead of Anfield showdown

PAUL POGBA fired Manchester United to the top of the Premier League Tuesday night to set up a blockbuster showdown against rivals Liverpool on Sunday.

United moved three points clear at the summit after Pogba's second-half strike secured victory over Burnley.

Luke Shaw and Claret's midfielder Robbie Brady both escaped red cards after a long VAR check before Harry Maguire had a first-half header ruled out.

But an inspired Pogba volleyed home United's 71st-minute winner from Marcus Rashford's cross.

It was a win which allowed Manchester United to take temporary bragging rights along the East Lancs Road when they visit Anfield on Sunday.

But Ole Gunnar Solskjaer will know that it is the bigger picture and three more points towards their title challenge that matters.

Paul Pogba's moment of quality was just reward for a display of dominance and determination.

But it was the fact they managed to finally break down a stubborn Claret's that will please the United boss the most. This was the first time since September 2017 that United have topped the table.

Yet perhaps more tellingly not since December 2012 and the final season of Sir Alex Ferguson have they led this deep into the season.

They also extended an unbeaten run away from home in the Premier League which stretches back to last January. Whether that can translate into a more permanent stay in the face of renewed challenges from Liverpool and neighbours City remains to be seen.

But these were promising steps forward.

Pogba was superb, as was Nemanja Matic alongside him at the base of midfield. The pair pulled the strings, the France international adding moments of real quality both before and after his winner.

But there were also good signs in the defence with Luke Shaw and Eric Bailly again good – with the former excellent forward and backwards.

There was no doubting the desire from the visitors against a Burnley side happy to play on the counter.

But in Burnley they came up against a solid counterattacking unit who made things difficult. Bruno Fernandes put a side-footer too close to Nick Pope after a quarter of an hour and Anthony Martial had an overhead kick blocked at source by the back of Matt Lowton.

Just after the half hour Shaw was booked after a prolonged VAR intervention ruled his challenge on Johann Gudmundsson was worth a yellow card.

It was complicated by the fact his challenge had led indirectly to a United attack which saw Robbie Brady foul Edinson Cavani on the edge of the box, the visitors seeing a possible free-kick and red card turn into a caution for their own man. If they were hacked off with that, they were even more aggrieved when Harry Maguire got on the end of Shaw's cross, heading the ball back across keeper Pope and in only to be ruled to have nudged a hand in the back of Erik Pieters as he jumped.

United were the the better side with Matic pulling the strings in midfield and they had one more chance before the break, Martial denied by Pope who pushed a curling effort over the angle.

And they came out firing at the start of the second half looking to make it grim for Burnley boss Sean Dyche, above.

Where at times in the opening period they were slow to move the ball on, United upped the pace of their passing.

Pogba initiated a swift move, receiving his keeper

POGBA: the difference maker for United

David De Gea's long throw brilliantly and getting the ball through Fernandes to Martial on the left side.

His square ball was not met cleanly enough by Cavani in the middle and was to no avail.

It was the Frenchman who finally found a way through, hammering Rashford's centre past Pope, via a slight deflection off Lowton, with 19 minutes to go.

Burnley battled to the end, but United were tops.

Sluggish City fired up by Foden

PHIL FODEN fired Manchester City to within touching distance of the top on Wednesday with a strike that stretched their unbeaten run to seven games.

But a wasteful display capped by a missed penalty by Raheem Sterling late in the game against a stubborn Brighton also stretched their manager's patience.

Yet at the end of a match in which City found Seagulls goalkeeper Robert Sanchez in fine form and Graham Potter's men refusing to accept their fate, Guardiola was all smiles.
