

WAIT YOUR TURN!

PM dismisses EU bid to hijack UK-made Covid jabs

BRITAIN has ordered desperate EU chiefs to wait in line after Brussels tried to hijack UK-made Covid vaccine doses.

The bloc said tens of millions of shots must be diverted from British patients to cover shortages caused by its delays in ordering the vaccine.

MP Peter Bone said the move by EU boss Ursula von der Leyen was selfish, adding: "They must wait their turn. I don't know whether they think they are all-powerful but it just goes to show how incompetent they are."

"It also goes to show why so many people want to leave the EU."

"Their bureaucracy and incompetence means they are miles behind on their vaccine rollout and are now scrambling to do anything they can to cover it up."

'very confident'

The Tory MP added: "I don't think there is anything legally or morally right about what the EU is doing to try and queue jump when they were so late in placing their order."

Prime Minister Boris Johnson insisted he was "very confident in our contracts" with vaccinemaker AstraZeneca to supply the UK.

He said Britain would carry on with mass-production of the drug, which was developed jointly with Oxford scientists.

The slapdown to desperate EU chiefs came after Brussels' health boss ordered AstraZeneca to divert vaccine supplies from its two UK factories to the bloc – or face legal and financial penalties.

Stella Kyriakides accused the pharmaceutical giant of breaching its contract with the EU by trying to keep the UK's supply chain separate to that of the rest of Europe.

She said the EU's contract for up to 400million doses names UK factories and that not using them to supply it is "against the letter and the spirit" of the agreement.

Ms Kyriakides said: "We reject the logic of first come first served. That may work at the neighbourhood butchers but not in contracts."

The outburst risks squeezing NHS supplies at a critical time in the UK's mass vaccination programme.

The vaccine is made at AstraZeneca's Wrexham and Oxfordshire factories as well as in European plants.

But EU officials claim the bloc has been offered only a quarter of the 100 million doses it had been promised for the first quarter of the year – so they need 75 million jabs from the British factories.

teething problems

The firm has blamed production issues at its European plants. Crisis talks with EU chiefs broke up without a deal Tuesday night.

The UK has forged ahead with its vaccine rollout after moving swiftly and tying up a contract with AstraZeneca for the supply of its jabs three months earlier than Brussels.

Ms Kyriakides added:

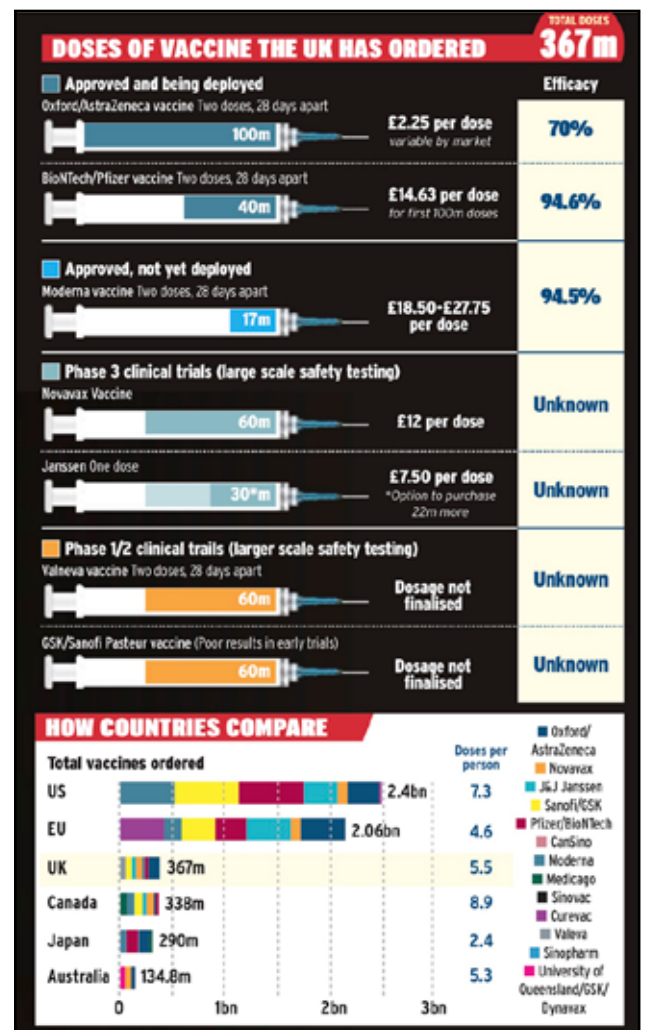

"There is no hierarchy of the factories. In the contracts there are four factories listed but it does not differentiate between the UK and Europe."

"The UK factories are part of our advance purchase agreements and that is why they have to deliver."

"We expect the doses that are in an advance purchase agreement to be delivered to the European Union."

President von der Leyen is under mounting pressure due to big delays in the rollout of the bloc's vaccination programmes.

AstraZeneca's boss Pascal Soriot said supply chain teething problems were sorted in the UK before the EU as Britain had signed a contract three months ahead of the bloc.

He said: "We are basically two months behind" due to manufacturing problems in Belgium.

He added: "The contract with the UK was signed first and the UK, of course, said 'You supply us first' and this is fair enough."

AstraZeneca insisted the Commission had been heavily involved in drawing up its plans.

A spokesman said: "As each supply chain has been set up to meet the needs of a specific agreement, the vaccine produced from any supply chain is dedicated to the relevant countries or regions and makes use of local manufacturing wherever."

News From Britain

Hancock: EU can't block our vaccine supplies

■ Matt Hancock is "confident" Britain's job programme will not be disrupted by an EU clampdown on the export of vaccines.

The Health Secretary has been assured by pharmaceutical chiefs that a Brussels demand for firms to ask permission before moving vaccines out of the bloc will not hit UK supplies.

But he took a swipe at the European Union for indulging in "protectionism".

He said: "We oppose protectionism in all its forms and I think protectionism is unfortunate, especially so in the midst of a pandemic, when we are working so closely together with countries around the world."

He was backed by Boris Johnson, who warned the EU not to impose restrictions.

Mr Johnson said at a Downing Street news conference: "I don't want to see restrictions on the supply of vaccines or their ingredients."

EU chiefs are reportedly furious that millions of Britons have been vaccinated while many European countries are struggling to roll out their own programmes.

Brussels diplomatic sources have even claimed that jabs meant for the EU have gone to the UK instead.

Restrictions from the EU could be applied to the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine which is made in Belgium.

During an online event organised by a foreign policy think tank on Monday, Mr Hancock pledged to cooperate with Brussels.

He said: "I am sure that we can work with the EU to ensure that whilst transparency is welcome, there are no blockers put in place."

Having spoken to the chief executives both of Pfizer and AstraZeneca, I am confident the supply of vaccine into the UK won't be disrupted."

The PM's official spokesman said: "AstraZeneca are committed to delivering two million doses a week to the UK and we are not expecting any changes to that."

Referring to the Pfizer vaccine, the spokesman added: "Supplies will be lower this month and next as it upgrades its factory, but it will then increase production in March."

Projection of volumes of delivery remain the same for that period."

But Ms von der Leyen warned that Brussels "means business" in addressing the row.

She insisted pharmaceutical firms should supply the bloc in return for millions of euros invested "to help develop the world's first Covid-19 vaccines".

Mr Soriot added: "I can only tell you the facts, and the facts are that we basically signed an agreement with the UK three months before we did it with Europe."

Monday's UK vaccine figures showed of the 7.3 million jabs given so far, 6.8 million are first doses – an increase of 279,757 on the previous day.

Meanwhile, German MEP Gunnar Beck said Britain's successful vaccine scheme was a "nightmare" for Europe's bosses.

He said: "The [bloc's] slow, dysfunctional approach has been a huge failure for the commission."

"It's a nightmare for the EU that Brexit Britain's vaccine scheme is working better than the EU's."

MATT HANCOCK: "I am sure that we can work with the EU to ensure that whilst transparency is welcome, there are no blockers put in place."

Now foreign breaks are outlawed

■ Quarantine on return from red-list countries

BRITONS returning from 30 "red-list" countries will have to quarantine in hotels for 10 days at their own expense to stop mutant variants of Covid from entering the UK.

Home Secretary Priti Patel announced the crackdown on Monday and also banned Britons from going on sky trips – unless they can show that their trip is essential. "Going on holiday is not a valid reason", Ms Patel said.

She told the Commons that Britain will continue to refuse entry to non-UK residents travelling from the 30 countries that have already been hit with a travel ban. But Britons heading back will now be forced to isolate in a hotel "without exception".

Ms Patel said details of the plan would be set out next week but warned the public they should "simply not be travelling". Too many people were still not complying with the rules, she added, and there are plans to force travellers to sign a declaration explaining the need for their trip.

There will also be

"Going on holiday is not an exemption and it's important that people stay at home."

Britons and foreign nationals with UK residence will have to quarantine in approved hotels if they return from one of the 30 countries. These include Portugal, Brazil, Mauritius and South Africa.

The new measures are not as hardline as had first been predicted, with the Government holding off from introducing a blanket hotel quarantine policy for all arrivals.

But Ms Patel said the Government will continue to "take all steps necessary" to prevent the spread of coronavirus.

She added: "Every layer of protection we have put in place will help to reduce the risk of transmission of this virus and any new potential variant from entering the UK."

"And as we have done throughout this global health emergency, we will continue to take all steps necessary to protect the public and help prevent the spread of this virus."

She said: "Border Force have given me examples where even at St Pancras [in London] people have been turning up with their skis. That is clearly not acceptable."

"We see plenty of influencers on social media showing off about which parts of the world that they are in, mainly in sunny parts of the

Kate joins Tartan Army for Burns Night message

■ Duchess dazzles in tartan as Royal Couple celebrate Scottish bard with video message to Dundee hospital

LOOKING terrific in tartan, a smiling Duchess of Cambridge sent a Burns Night treat to Scottish hospital workers this week.

She and Prince William (pictured, right) helped provide a Burns celebration lunch of haggis, neeps and tatties to 200 staff treating coronavirus patients at Ninewells Hospital in Dundee.

The couple also arranged for royal warrant holders to donate special "Burns biscuits" and gift boxes to a further 100 staff to thank them for all their hard work.

In their video message, William and Kate – in a favourite Emilia Wickstead dress – said they commiserated that the normal celebration of Scottish poet Robert Burns had been curtailed by Covid-19.

William said: "We want to say a huge thank you for all of the work you are doing and the sacrifices you are making. As a token of our appreciation, we've teamed up with NHS Charities Together to provide you with a Haggis dinner."

In the message, played

Prince Charles, who often hosts a Burns Night supper, marked the day by reciting Burns's Auld Lang Syne in a virtual celebration with the Robert Burns World Federation.

Two men each fined £10k for organising Leeds snowball fight

■ 'Blatant breach' of lockdown was widely shared on social media

West Yorkshire Police said the unnamed 20-year-old and 23-year-old were tracked down after hundreds gathered on Woodhouse Moor in Leeds

Two men involved in organising a mass snowball fight have each been given £10,000 fines for a "blatant breach" of lockdown rules.

West Yorkshire Police said the unnamed 20-year-old and 23-year-old were tracked down after hundreds of people gathered for more than two hours on Woodhouse Moor, Leeds, on January 14, creating "a significant and completely unnecessary risk of increasing the spread of the virus".

The snowball fight was filmed and widely shared on social media, provoking widespread condemnation as England endured freezing temperatures and strict lockdown rules, with many blaming students for the event.

A force spokesman said the 23-year-old had already received a fine in November for breaching restrictions in relation to mixing households at an address in the nearby Hyde Park area.

He said both men were interviewed on Wednesday and Thursday in relation to the incident and reported for fixed penalty notices to be issued.

Organising any gathering of more than 30 people is illegal and leaves organisers liable to a £10,000 fine under coronavirus legislation, he said.

Leeds's police commander Chief Superintendent Damien Miller said: "We take absolutely no pleasure in handing out such heavy fines to these two young men but their actions encouraged hundreds of people to be in close proximity to each other, creating a significant and completely unnecessary risk of increasing the spread of the virus.

"It was a blatant breach of the legislation that is in place to help keep people safe at what remains a critical time for us all.

"The event attracted understandable media attention and widespread public condemnation of all those who irresponsibly took part.

"That said, it remains clear that the vast majority of people recognise the need for collective responsibility and are continuing to stick with the

News From Britain

Albanian gangs flooding UK jails

ALBANIANS are now the largest group of foreign nationals in Britain's jails, with the country's gangsters said to have taken over the UK drug trade.

The number in our prisons has risen from 335 in 2014 to last year's tally of 1,203.

That means an average of 12 criminals from the former Iron Curtain state were locked up every month over six years.

The Ministry of Justice figures show there are more Albanians in jail in England and Wales than any other foreign group – despite the tiny nation having a population of just 2.8 million.

Experts have said the incarceration of Albanians is fuelled by their involvement in the drug trade and its associated violence.

David Spencer, research director at the Centre for Crime Prevention, said: "These figures show a massive increase in Albanian criminals being held in British jails and illustrates clearly how Albanians are at the heart of the UK's spiralling drugs problems.

"This is something that the police and the Home Office need to prioritize and ensure that these gangs are shut down once and for all.

"It is clear that the Home Office needs to work on ways to tighten border checks on Albanian nationals as well to stop these violent gang members from being able to enter this country so easily and wreak the havoc that they are."

The National Crime Agency had previously warned it was increasingly concerned violent Albanian criminal gangs were gaining control of the cocaine market.

Welsh star Gruffudd splits from wife of 20 years - who claims she was 'mentally tortured'

HOLLYWOOD actor Ioan Gruffudd and wife Alice Evans have vowed to "remain committed to our children" after it emerged he was leaving her.

The Welsh star of Liar and Fantastic Four lives with his actress partner and their two daughters in Los Angeles.

But Alice, 49, stunned social media by announcing that her 47-year-old husband had "fallen out of love with her" and was "leaving the family".

She later reportedly claimed she was being "gaslit and mentally tortured", adding: "Hell yes, I will wash my linen in public." The comments were subsequently deleted.

Gaslighting is when someone is psychologically manipulated into doubting their own sanity.

Now the couple have told fans they are having "an incredibly difficult time" but are committed to their girls Ella, 11, and Elsie, seven. The pair's statement said: "This is an incredibly difficult time for our family and we remain committed to our children. Thank you for respecting our privacy."

Ioan's father Peter, of Pentyrch near Cardiff, appeared to confirm the split on Wednesday, saying: "Marriages do end."

The retired headteacher, 72, added: "I have spoken to Ioan and we are of course incredibly sad, but I do not want to go into too much detail.

"We are very sad, particularly for our two granddaughters." The couple have been together for two decades, marrying 13 years ago.

They met on the set of the 2000 film 102 Dalmatians. Their children were conceived

Ioan Gruffudd and Alice Evans wed in 2000 and have two young daughters through IVF, with Alice writing candidly about her fertility struggles.

But late on Monday she shocked Twitter followers by writing that Ioan had told her their marriage was over.

She said: "Sad news. My beloved husband/soulmate of 20 years, Ioan Gruffudd, has announced he is to leave his family, starting next week.

"Me and our young daughters are very confused and sad. We haven't been given a reason except that he 'no longer loves me'. I'm so sorry."

The post was later deleted, with Alice claiming Ioan removed the message using her account.

Also known for roles in Titanic and Hornblower, Ioan admitted work schedules had kept the pair apart, saying last year: "We've struggled the past four years, making time for each other, because physically we're apart."

Poppycock! British Legion slammed for spending £100k on new logo

VETERANS have branded the Royal British Legion's decision to spend £100,000 on a new logo an "unforgivable" misuse of cash.

Former servicemen are aghast at the cost of the Legion's rebranding project, which was launched this week.

They accuse the charity of losing touch with its ethos of supporting ex-soldiers as needy veterans face red tape and long delays and four respite centres closed.

Andy Price, 42, who runs the Veterans Hub support group in Weymouth, Dorset, said: "I am dumbfounded.

"Spending £100,000 on a brand change is a gross misuse of their funds and unforgivable at all levels.

"Our logo and branding cost us a pint of beer. I have to beg borrow and steal to keep the hub open in order to help people."

The Afghanistan veteran added "We have just helped one guy who was £79 in arrears on his rent and about to be evicted. It would have taken two or three months for the RBL to have helped him.

"Another member who suffers from bad arthritis and can't use his bath has waited a year for the RBL to put in a wet room. Another was rehoused by them, yet it took three months for him to receive white goods and an oven.

"I think the RBL has lost touch with what they are supposed to be. When they were set up they supported veterans returning from the Great War, but they are more like a corporate organisation now."

There are thought to be 3,500-6,000 UK homeless veterans and the suicide rate among the ex-military has doubled in the past

The RBL, which has an annual income of around £150million and bank reserves of nearly £70million, is launching its new logo to coincide with the charity's centenary year.

The RBL says its old logo is no longer "fit for purpose". The new £100,752 design has its R and L initials in blue and a bright red poppy instead of the letter B.

War hero Trevor Coult, who suffers from PTSD and now campaigns to help veterans, claimed the charity's priorities were "all wrong".

He said: "The RBL shut down every one of their respite centres because they needed to save money, yet they are still willing to spend over £100,000 on a new logo.

"It is shocking and is a kick in the teeth when so many veterans are struggling."

Celebrating Black History Month.....

Now more than ever, it is important for all Americans, especially those of us of color, to use this year's Black History Month as a means of reflection, celebration, and a reminder that we as a people have to continue our peaceful fight for a more accepting and equal future.

This past year our communities have experienced a wide range of extreme emotional highs and lows. The world has once again seen how for our community, a simple traffic stop can instantly and unjustly lead to the unnecessary loss of innocent life. We have also felt and witnessed firsthand the rise of hateful rhetoric and physical acts of discrimination throughout all levels of society. All while being disproportionately impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic.

I mention all this up for one reason, certainly not as a means of discouragement, but rather a means of inspiration. Because the truth is, despite all the obstacles people of color have faced throughout history, this past year, and will continue to encounter as we move forward, we have still managed to achieve incredible milestones of historic and monumental impact.

We have felt the unwavering love and support from millions of people around the globe which include all races, religions and ethnicities who took part in protests supporting the Black Lives Matter movement. We have seen the power our collective voices can have on American politics by not only electing the first person (and woman) of color to the office of the Vice President, but we have also seen the greatest number of black people elected to all levels of local, state and federal offices. As routinely demonstrated throughout history, our communities have continued to rally around and support one another throughout the economic devastation our businesses and jobs have endured as a result of the ongoing and raging pandemic. As one of only a handful of black business owners based in Los Angeles's affluent South Bay communities, I have personally benefited by being able to keep my doors open because of all the love and support my community has shown me.

So as you read this article today, I implore you to continue to stand strong and remain hopeful. Get involved in your community and help support those around you. And be sure to remember that though we have a ways to go, we have already overcome and accomplished so much. Our future is bright and together we will achieve a safer, more inclusive tomorrow.

This Black History Month I am both proud and thankful for my beautiful and culturally rich ancestry and you should be too.

- Anthony Morisson

Meet A Member: Owen Beiny

CHEERS! Owen Beiny can help you maximize your air miles in ways you didn't think possible....

Meet Owen Beiny (The Points Partner) from North West London who moved to LA 16 years ago to pursue free travel in business class for everyone using their credit card points and air miles. After 20 years flying every day for work as a CEO, getting upgraded to beds on planes became a habit, then a hobby, then an obsession and finally now, a full time career.

Was there a particular reason you chose LA?

I need to be around more driven people with more to achieve from life than just a job and a family. I needed to be surrounded with those who have dreams and are fully driven.

I also, as most do, needed better weather and to be marinated with movers and garnished with shakers.

What do you miss most from home?

Family, friends and good old English foods like a Flake bar or HP sauce

What was your first impression of LA and has it changed since?

I hated LA at first... now

I can't live without it and it's my home for life and landing at LAX puts a smile on face and warms my heart.

What do you find the biggest difference is living here versus Northwest London?

People here are pushing their dreams 24/7, back home they are settling for the 2.4 life and a proverbial white picket fence. You do not have to live the life that your culture, movies and communities tell you that you have to.

Do you have a hidden gem in LA that you want to share with us?

I am afraid they have all closed due to COVID. However when things return to some sense of normality you simply must spend more time in Ktown and in particular the SAKE HOUSE sushi spot ... that's my go-to for my Asian food fix.

What would you suggest to others who are thinking about making the move here?

Start working on your US credit and visa situation

ASAP. You are frozen as a tourist here until you embrace the system... That means getting your driving license (again), social security, visa or green card, credit cards, bank accounts and sorry but.... TAXES!

Lots of our members join our group Brits in LA seeking out words of wisdom - what is the best piece of advice you've been given?

You will have the highest highs here and the lowest lows...I don't need to tell you how to have fun but I can say this about the downsides...there is no better place in the world to be depressed than Los Angeles.

Lastly, how can we find out more about you? Are you working on anything at the moment?

I help people maximize their credit card benefits & teach them how to fly in business class for FREE!

Most think that those air miles and credit card points do not amount to much and they could not be more wrong. If achieved in the correct way and used at the appropriate time, you will simply have beds on planes every time you travel.

The average person gets back around 1% of what they spend on their cards in benefits or free travel. I show people how to turn that into nearer 8% and give them all the tools needed to book their free travel for life.

As an example, if you needed a round trip in business class from LA to Paris it would cost around $8K. You could book it as a "Pay with Points" on your credit card portal and it would cost you 800,000 points !... However the way I would book that same bed would cost just 104,000.

Please make contact with me, I am happy to talk to you all. www.ThePointsPartner.com or IG: thepointspartner

CRICKET: As England stroll to victory in Sri Lanka, skipper Root lays down new challenge ahead of challenging India tour

JOE ROOT has told his team to stay hungry and demand even more of themselves despite making history in Sri Lanka.

No side had ever won six Tests in a row on the island, until England captured the Moose Cup with two out of two at the weekend, while Root has also overseen five consecutive wins away from home in the past 13 months.

When you add home series wins over the Windies and Pakistan, there is little doubt this team is making real progress.

Across a variety of conditions, and with the extra challenges of coronavirus and bio-secure bubbles, a lack of preparation, first-choice players missing at various points and losing the toss in both matches in Galle, this is what a very strong set of results.

But with stiffer challenges ahead, such as four Tests in India starting a week on Friday, Root knows he cannot afford to get carried away.

to stay hungry. "We've got four very important games against arguably the best team in the world in their own conditions.

"We'll have to play right at the top of our game to win there, but we couldn't be in a better place to challenge them."

Another brilliant series with the bat from Root will go a long way to meeting that challenge, but he needs support.

For those playing Test cricket in the subcontinent for the first time there were moments of encouragement for Dom Sibley and Dan Lawrence, while Zak Crawley has a better idea of what it takes.

But there was no surprise the best performers behind Root were Jos Buttler and Jonny Bairstow, who will play one Test between them of the next four.

Buttler's dismantling of yet another chase had the hallmarks of a man in fine form and who is ready to return the faith shown in him. England are choosing to accept it just once in India.

They could not have asked much more of their spinners, Dom Bess and Jack Leach, who picked up four wickets apiece in the second innings to keep England's target down to 164.

And on paper 22 wickets out of 40 for the series is a job well done, but they will know they are unlikely ever to see the same levels of generosity that the Sri Lankan batsmen offered.

was coping with one but couldn't cope with both.

"For Harry to leave a game when the team is losing is not a nothing injury.

"There are some players you can't replace. When it happens it happens, but I believe we have to fight against it, we cannot do anything else."

Kane has spent considerable time on the sidelines with a number of serious ankle injuries in recent seasons.

The striker was ruled out for two significant spells in the second half of the 2018-19 season, missing seven games when he damaged ligaments in his left ankle in January 2019 and then nine more matches with a lateral ligament injury sustained in April.

In 2017-18 he missed a month with a similar injury to the right ankle, and endured separate absences of six and four weeks during the 2016-17 campaign.

"You just hope it's not going to be ligament damage that will put him out for a long time because he's been absolutely phenomenal this season - his contributions, his passing, goals and assists," said former Spurs defender Stephen Kelly on BBC Radio 5 Live.

New Blues boss Tuchel urges unity

NEW Chelsea manager Thomas Tuchel hopes the club and their fans will remain united after the sacking of Frank Lampard.

The former Paris St-Germain boss was appointed after club legend Lampard, 42, was sacked on Monday.

Tuchel, 47, took charge of Wednesday's 0-0 draw with Wolves but was officially presented to the media on Thursday.

Asked if he felt fans may show anger over Lampard's sacking, the ex-Borussia Dortmund manager said: "I hope not because it would be hard on the team."

"The fans are so close and behind the team, it makes a big difference," Tuchel added.

TUCHEL: "I was a huge fan of Frank as a player."

"I know it was a big disappointment for the fanbase that Frank was sacked and I have the biggest respect. I was a huge fan of Frank as a player.

"The club made clear to me this is not my fault, I cannot change the situation for him. The decision was made and I was handed the opportunity."

Tuchel revealed he who twice received treatment for ankle knocks before eventually succumbing to the second one on his left ankle which was sustained in an innocuous challenge with Henderson.

had received a good luck message from Lampard, who was in charge at Stamford Bridge for 18 months prior to his sacking.

The new manager's immediate task will be to improve the position of a club who are eighth in the Premier League after spending more than £220m during the summer transfer window.

Mourinho suggested after the match Kane may miss "a few weeks" and on this evidence Spurs will struggle to be anywhere near their best without their talisman and leading marksman.

Son threatened occasionally on the break but even Hojbjerg's blockbuster from the edge of the box failed to inspire Spurs, who looked devoid of ideas long before the final whistle.

The lack of threat was perhaps less surprising after the loss of Kane,

Reds roar back to form

■ Klopp's men end goalless streak with impressive win at Spurs

Liverpool returned to form in impressive fashion as the Premier League champions secured a convincing 3-1 victory at Tottenham Hotspur Thursday night.

After a run of five league games without a win - four of those without a goal - Liverpool moved back into the top four as they discovered their cutting edge in style at the expense of an uninspiring Spurs.

Spurs, who lost striker Harry Kane to an ankle injury at half-time, had an early Son Heung-min strike ruled out for offside before Liverpool's threat was rewarded with their first league goal in 482 minutes in first-half stoppage time.

Brazil striker Roberto Firmino took advantage of hesitation between Eric Dier and Hugo Lloris to tap in Sadio Mane's low cross from close range.

France keeper Lloris was at fault again two minutes after the break when he pushed Mane's shot into the path of right-back Trent Alexander-Arnold, who finished emphatically.

Pierre-Emile Hojbjerg's 20-yard strike gave Spurs hope almost immediately but Liverpool were always in control of an entertaining second period.

After Mohamed Salah saw a goal disallowed by VAR for handball by Firmino in the build-up, Mane stole in at the far post to pounce on an error by the otherwise impressive Joe Rodon to secure the win for Jurgen Klopp's side.

Liverpool are now four points behind leaders Manchester City having played a game more. This was an outstanding result and performance by Liverpool in the face of yet more central defensive injury problems.

Fabinho, who has excelled in an unfamiliar centre-back role in the absence of Virgil van Dijk and Joe Gomez, was ruled out with what was described as a "minor muscle issue" while the fragile Joel Matip lasted only 45 minutes on his return to the side.

It meant Liverpool's central defensive partnership in the second half was captain Jordan Henderson and the inexperienced Nathaniel Phillips.

While that unlikely centre-back pairing coped well, it was at the other end where Liverpool were right back to their brilliant best, with Mane a constant threat while Firmino and Salah were full of menace and creation.

Their disappointing recent form has seen Liverpool drop down the Premier League table and also exit the FA Cup at Manchester United - but the manner of this display was an ominous warning to write off the champions at your peril.

Trent Alexander-Arnold looked back to his best for Liverpool, scoring their second

Jose Mourinho spent much of the second half bellowing instructions at his Spurs players in an attempt to spark a reaction - but it was to no avail as they produced a lacklustre performance.

Liverpool always carried a greater threat once Son's early finish was ruled out for VAR but it was a moment of indecision between Dier and Lloris that opened the door for Firmino right at the end of the first half.

Then, straight after the break and moments following a warning from Mourinho after Spurs let Salah in for a chance, Alexander-Arnold scored to give Liverpool a two-goal advantage.

Kane out with ankle injury - yet again

Tottenham's Harry Kane could be out for a "few weeks" after injuring both ankles in the Premier League defeat by Liverpool, says his boss Jose Mourinho.

The England captain

also hurt his right ankle in an earlier challenge with Liverpool midfielder Thiago Alcantara.

The striker, who has a history of ankle issues, continued before being replaced by Erik Lamela at half-time.

"The second injury was worse than the first one," said Mourinho. "He
