Meghan: I won't stay silent!

Duchess fires back at claims she may have bullied Palace staff

The Duchess of Sussex has said Buckingham Palace could not expect her and Prince Harry to be silent if it was "perpetuating falsehoods about us".

In a clip of Oprah Winfrey's interview with the couple, Meghan had been asked how she felt about the palace hearing her "speak your truth today".

Meghan also said: "If that comes with risk of losing things, I mean... there is a lot that has been lost already."

Buckingham Palace is investigating claims the duchess bullied royal staff.

The allegations of bullying levelled at Meghan were published after the interview with Oprah was recorded.

complaint

The interview with Oprah, which will air in the US on Sunday and in the UK on Monday, is expected to detail Harry and Meghan's short period as working royals together before they stepped down for a life in the US.

In the 30-second teaser clip released by CBS, Oprah asks the duchess: "How do you feel about the palace hearing you speak your truth today?"

Meghan replies: "I don't know how they could expect that, after all of this time, we would still just be silent if there is an active role that The Firm is playing in perpetuating falsehoods about us."

The Duke and Duchess of Sussex quit their roles as senior working royals in March 2020, and now live in California.

A report in the Times newspaper on Wednesday claimed the duchess faced a complaint made in October 2018, while the duke and duchess were living at Kensington after Palace their marriage in May of that vear.

A leaked email sent from a staff member, which was published by the newspaper, alleges that Meghan drove two personal assistants out of the household. The report claims she undermined the confidence of a third member of staff.

In a statement later, Buckingham Palace which is responsible for the hiring of royal staff - said it was "clearly very concerned about allegations in the Times" and its HR team would look into the circumstances outlined in the article.

"The Royal Household has had a Dignity at Work policy in place for a number of years and does not and will not tolerate bullying or harassment in the workplace."

investigation

Past and present royal employees are to be invited to speak in confidence about their experiences of working for Meghan as part of the investigation.

The bullying allegations are denied by Meghan and Prince Harry.

A statement issued by Meghan's spokesman in response to the newspaper's story said: "The duchess is saddened by this latest attack on her character, particularly as someone who has been the target of bullying herself and is deeply committed to supporting those who have experienced pain and trauma.

"She is determined to continue her work building compassion around the world and will keep striving to set an example for doing what is right and doing what is good."

Author Anna Pasternak - who wrote a book on Princess Diana - said she thought "the whole issue stems to when Meghan first entered the Royal Family".

"I think she was naïve, she didn't really understand the monarchy or 'The Firm' as she rightly puts it, and the constricts of royal power. She was naive to think that she could modernize the monarchy, that she could have her voice and could do things her way," she told Radio 5 Live.

But Rachel C. Boyle, head of interdisciplinary studies at Leeds Beckett University, said the Oprah interview was "absolutely the right thing to do at this point".

"I feel like Meghan has not been given the opportunity to defend herself or to respond to any of the claims that have previously been made about her in the media, in a space that allows her to express herself."

Sunak unveils huge tax hike

■ Highest rates for 50 years on the way as Chancellor aims to plug huge deficit following pandemic

Rishi Sunak will raise taxes to the highest level since the 1960s as he attempts to repair Britain's finances after spending an "unimaginable" £352 billion in response to the pandemic.

Unveiling the spring 2021 Budget the chancellor announced that from 2023 corporation tax would rise from 19 to 25 per cent for the most profitable companies, raising nearly £50 billion over the next five years.

Hesaidthatthebasicrate and higher rate income tax thresholds would be frozen from next year, raising an additional £19.2 billion.

The move, described as a stealth tax, will drag more than one million people into paying the higher rate of income tax and 1.3 million into the basic rate. The wealthiest fifth of households will pay an average of £826 more a year, while lower earning households will pay an extra £56.

The chancellor also froze the lifetime allowance for pension savings along with the thresholds for inheritance tax, capital gains tax and VAT, raising a further £2.5 billion. acknowledged Sunak that the tax rises "might not be popular" but the alternative was "doing nothing" and leaving the debt problem to future generations.

"I know the British people don't like tax rises, nor do I," he told a Downing Street press conference. "But I also know they dislike dishonesty even more. That's why I've been honest about the problem we have and our plan to fix it."

'many years'

Sunak said that it will be the job of "many" governments to pay back the £352 billion of coronavirus spending. shock that "The coronavirus has done to our economy has been significant and ...this won't be fixed overnight," he told BBC Breakfast. "It will be the work of many years, decades and governments to fully pay all that money back. But it is important that we get our borrowing and debt under control so it stops going up even after we've recovered."

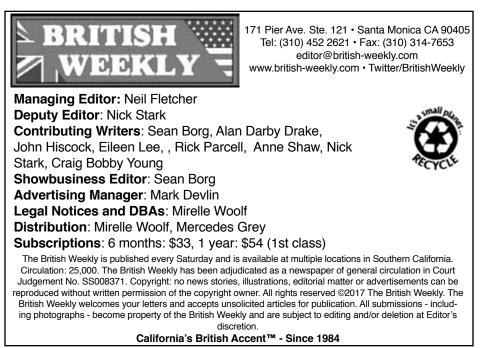

The chancellor also defended the looming tax hikes on a post-budget visit to Teesside, one of the main beneficiaries of this week's announcements. He told Sky News: "I don't think it would be right or straight to ignore holes in our public finances and let them be someone else's problem to fix, which is why we've come up with a plan. The changes don't come into effect straight away and protect public services and working people."

He added: "Freezing personal tax thresholds is a progressive way to raise money. I think crucially what people need to understand is that no one's take-home pay that they have today is affected or lowered by this policy. What it does do is remove the incremental benefit that they might have experienced in future as inflation fed through to their wages."

'tax burden'

The Office for Budget Responsibility (OBR) said that the tax burden would rise to 35 per cent of GDP, the highest level since Roy Jenkins was the Labour chancellor in the late 1960s. It represented the biggest net tax rise since 1993.

Richard Hughes, chairman of the OBR, said: "It's a tax burden we haven't seen in the recent past and even when it was at that level it was not sustained for very long - it was reduced when the economy stabilised. But we have a larger state and a smaller economy."

He added that it was "very plausible" that interest rates could rise in the near future and that even a 1 per cent increase would put government debt up by £20 billion.

Paul Johnson, head of the Institute for Fiscal Studies, said that taxes were now likely to be at their highest sustained level in history. "This time expect the tax burden to stay high," he said. "We are in a new phase of UK economic history."

The Resolution Foundation, another said that anyone earning above £53,685 would see their a year by 2025 because of the freeze in the thresholds.

Heart surgery for Philip

The Duke of Edinburgh at St has undergone successful surgery for a preexisting heart condition, Buckingham Palace has said.

Prince Philip, 99 is being treated at St Bartholomew's hospital in central London, after being transferred there on Monday.

Buckingham Palace said in a statement on Thursday: "The Duke of Edinburgh yesterday underwent a successful procedure for a preexisting heart condition

Bartholomew's hospital.

"His Royal Highness will remain in hospital for treatment, rest and recuperation for a number of days."

Philip has spent more than two weeks in hospital since first being admitted to the private King Edward VII's hospital in central London after becoming unwell while at Windsor Castle. This is his longest stay in hospital.

In 2011 he underwent angioplasty and stenting for a blocked coronary artery after being admitted to Papworth hospital in Cambridgeshire over the Christmas period following chest pains.

He was visited in King Edward VII's Hospital on 20 February by Prince Charles, who made a 200mile round trip and stayed for about 30 minutes.

The duke has spent most of lockdown at Windsor Castle with the Queen for their safety, alongside a reduced household of staff dubbed HMS Bubble.

US suspends tariffs on single malt Scotch whisky

The US has agreed to suspend tariffs on UK goods including single malt whiskies that were imposed in retaliation over subsidies to the aircraft maker Airbus.

Tariffs will also be lifted on UK cheese, cashmere and machinery.

The duties will be suspended for four months while the two sides seek a long-term settlement.

On 1 January, the UK dropped its own tariffs on some US goods, put in place over a related dispute about US subsidies to Boeing.

It is the latest twist in a decades-old trade row that has seen the EU and the US target billions of dollars worth of each other's exports with taxes.

The UK is part of the dispute as a former EU member. Airbus makes wings and other parts in the UK, but assembles its commercial aircraft in the EU.

It has hit Scotch whisky producers particularly hard as the US is a key export market. Distilleries have reported £500m of losses since 2019 due to the tariffs.

Prime Minister Boris Johnson said the trade truce, due to come into force on Monday, would boost British business.

"From Scotch whisky distillers to Stiltonmakers, the US decision to suspend tariffs on some UK exports today will benefit businesses right across the UK," he tweeted.

"Fantastic news as we strengthen the UK-US trading relationship and work to build back better from the pandemic."

Simon Cotton, boss of Speyside-based textiles firm Johnston's of Elgin, says he's "absolutely delighted" the tariffs have been suspended.

Corrie mourns TV's Cockney Casanova ■ Johnny Briggs, who played Mike Baldwin on TV soap, dead at 85

C O R O N A T I O N Street stars have paid emotional tributes to cobbles legend Johnny Briggs, who died this week aged 85.

Johnny, who played Cockney ladies' man Mike Baldwin for 30 years, died after a long illness, his family said.

His character made his Corrie debut in 1976 and remained until 2006, and Mike's often violent rivalry with arch-enemy Ken Barlow, played by Bill Roache, gripped the nation. Bill, 88, posted a message saying: "I was so fortunate to have worked with him for so many years.

"I send my love to Johnny on his journey and to all those who are bound to miss him, he was an iconic Coronation Street character. Love you Johnny."

'wonderful times'

Father-of-six Johnny's family said: "He passed away peacefully this morning after a long illness, with family by his side."

They appealed for privacy "so that we can quietly grieve as a family and remember the wonderful times we had with him".

Coronation Street's Twitter account described Johnny's character as "one of the most iconic the Street has ever known".

It added four-times married underwear factory boss Mike's death in the arms of nemesis Ken was a "historic moment in the Street's history".

Mike's last moments after having a heart attack and having suffered from a form of Alzheimer's was watched by 12 million viewers.

Helen Worth, 70, who plays Gail Platt, said: "I have many happy memories of working together with Johnny. Mike Baldwin was one of the street's most memorable characters."

Antony Cotton, 45, who plays Sean Tully, tweeted: "We all adored him. Feel lucky that I got the chance to work with him in the factory.

"I am, and will always be, a Baldwin's Casual. Night night Mr Baldwin, I've left you a bottle of Scotch in the filing cabinet."

scholarship

John Whiston, head of ITV's northern operation, said: "The whole Coronation Street family is deeply saddened.

"When Mike Baldwin was in a scene it was very hard to look at anyone else. It was that charisma which made him irresistible to the women of Coronation Street and to viewers."

Born in Battersea, south-west London, in 1935, Johnny won a scholarship to the Italia Conti Stage Academy at 12. That year he made his first professional appearance as a boy soprano with the Italian Opera Company in London.

The following year he appeared in the film Quartet and made several stage appearances before becoming a stage hand at the Windmill Theatre. joined He High Wycombe Repertory Company after National Service in Germany. By 1960 he was a TV and stage regular, with parts in The Avengers and The Plane Makers The Plane Makers and Danger Man.

He also made an early Corrie appearance as a lorry driver and as a taxi boss in Crossroads.

Johnny married Caroline Sinclair in 1961

STREET STALWART: Johnny Briggs made his Coronation Street debut in 1976, and his character Mike Baldwin quickly became the man many Corrie viewers loved to hate...especially when he hooked up with Dierdre Barlow (inset) and had two children, one of whom he disowned after she fell into a life of crime and drugs.

In 1975 he married schoolteacher Christine Allsop and the couple had four children before divorcing in 2006.

Florida resident

He appeared in scores of films but his role as Street baddie Baldwin cemented his fame and caught the public's imagination – sometimes a little too much. Writing in his autobiography about Mike sacking Hilda Ogden as his cleaner, Johnny said: shopping in Sainsbury's one day when a woman hit me over the shoulder with an umbrella, screaming, 'You're a mean pig. Give her back her job!'.

An avid golfer, Johnny would spend the winter at his second home in Florida.

He would often be seen sitting on a bar stool at the British Pub & Eatery when it was owned by former BBC radio host Alan Gold. Surrounded by pictures of Princess Diana and the Royal Family, Johnny was happy to sit around other diners who had no idea he was a famous actor.

Neighbours at Johnny's US home in Hudson, 45 miles north of Tampa, said they had known of his illness since last March.

His friend John Feminella said: "No one here knew just how big of a star he was in the UK and I think he liked that."

Britain is second best in the world at cutting carbon emissions

Britain has one of the world's best records on cutting emissions since the Paris agreement on climate change five years ago but reductions globally must increase tenfold to meet the treaty's targets, a study has found. UK carbon dioxide emissions declined by an average of 3.6 per cent a year during 2016-19 compared with an average fall of 0.8 per cent among high-income countries. Only Ukraine had a faster rate of decline among those, down 4 per cent a year, according to the research led by University of East Anglia and Stanford University.

China's emissions rose by 0.4 per cent a year over the same period, India's by 5.2 per cent and Russia's by 0.2 per cent. Global emissions rose by 0.7 per cent per year during 2016-19 but last year fell 7 per cent owing to the pandemic, which reduced travel and economic activity.

The authors said that last year had been only "a pause button that cannot realistically continue while the world overwhelmingly relies on fossil fuels, and confinement policies are neither a sustainable nor desirable solution to the climate crisis".

Corinne Le Quéré, Royal Society professor at East Anglia's school of environmental sciences and lead author, said: "Countries' efforts to cut CO2 emissions since the Paris agreement are starting to pay off but actions are not large-scale enough yet and emissions are still increasing in way too many countries."

She said that the UK's success in cutting emissions had been achieved largely by putting a carbon tax on the burning of coal to generate electricity and subsidising wind farms. Coal supplied only 1.6 per cent of the UK's electricity last year, down from almost 25 per cent five years ago.

The study, published in Nature Climate Change, shows that 64 countries cut their fossil fuelrelated carbon emissions during 2016-19 compared with 2011-15, mainly by switching to renewable energy.

Obesity identified as driver of Britain's Covid death toll

Britain's dire Covid-19 death rate is partly the result of obesity, according to a report that the World Health Organisation says is a "wake-up call" to the overweight West.

Boris Johnson is considering giving out shopping vouchers for losing weight as he accepts the link between obesity and Covid and this week promised £100 million more for slimming schemes. The prime minister's near-death experience with Covid caused him to reverse his opposition to antiobesity policies and accept the need to act. This case is underlined in a report by the World Federation Obesity which concludes that thousands of deaths in Britain could have been avoided if "negligent" governments had a grip on the national weight problem.

overweight rates

Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus, head of the WHO, said that the link between obesity and Covid deaths was "compelling" as he urged countries to improve public health.

Analysis shows a "dramatic" increase in death rates once more than half a country's population is overweight, which it says cannot be explained by age, wealth or health systems. In countries where less than half population the is overweight, the risk of death from Covid is a tenth of that in countries above this level, with almost nine in ten Covid deaths in countries with overweight rates above 50 per cent.

No country where less than 40 per cent of the population is overweight has Covid death rates above 10 per 100,000, while no country with death rates above 100 per 100,000 has overweight rates of less than 50 per cent.

In Britain 64 per cent of adults are overweight, including 28 per cent who are obese, the fourth-highest in the world. The country's Covid death rates, at 182 deaths per 100,000, is third highest, according to data up to last month. Johnson has set out plans to ban advertising and promotional deals on unhealthy food and has committed further funding to NHS weightloss schemes.

"Being overweight increases the risk of becoming ill with Covid. If we all do our bit, we can reduce our own health risks — but also help take pressure off the NHS," he said. "Losing weight is hard, but making small changes can make a big difference."

Sir Keith Mills, the businessman who developed reward programmes such as Air Miles and Nectar points, has also been asked to review how such incentives can be used to encourage weight loss. He will look at schemes such as Singapore's "national step challenge" in which people are given shopping vouchers linked to step counts.

Officials say that any similar scheme in Britain would need to reward exercise and weight loss and there is no set view on what the incentives should be.

The US has the highest proportion of overweight people, at 68 per cent, and the fifth highest Covid death rate.

optimism

Tim Lobstein, author of the world obesity report, said that "there is no escaping the clear correlation between some of the world's worst Covid death rates and worst obesity rates in the US and UK. If governments had kept their promises to halt the rise in obesity they could have prevented thousands of Covidrelated deaths".

Although there is increasing optimism vaccines will help to end this pandemic, Lobstein said a similar correlation was seen in other respiratory illness and warned: "We now know that an overweight population is the next pandemic waiting to happen." He pointed to low Covid deaths in Japan, despite its elderly population, saying that elsewhere "governments have ignored the economic value of a healthy population at their peril".

Johanna Ralston, chief executive of the World Obesity Federation, said: "Old age is unavoidable, but the conditions that contribute to overweight and obesity can be highly avoidable if governments step up and we all join forces. The failure to address the root causes of obesity over many decades is responsible for hundreds of thousands of preventable deaths."

Tedros said: "This report must act as a wakeup call to governments globally. The correlation between obesity and mortality rates from Covid-19 is clear and compelling." He said that "investment in public health and co-ordinated, international action to tackle the root causes of obesity is one of the best ways for countries to build resilience in health systems post-pandemic: we urge all countries to seize this moment".

Tributes flow for Ian St. John as Reds legend dies at 82

SIR KENNY Dalglish has led the tributes to Liverpool "icon" Ian St John, saying he helped make the club what it is today.

St John, who died this week aged 82, was a cornerstone of Bill Shankly's first great Liverpool side, winning two Division One titles and the club's first FA Cup in the mid-60s. Dalglish says his fellow Scot helped to lay the foundations for Liverpool's enduring success.

"I think it's right to use the word icon," said the Reds legend. "It's because of what he did in those early days, Shanks especially, the Saint and Big Yeatsey [Ron Yeats], his big mucker, it's because of them this football club is where it right, some

"We should be eternally grateful for what he did for the football club."

Liverpool boss Jurgen Klopp felt honoured to have met St John, who was the club's record signing at £37,500 when he joined from Motherwell in 1961.

"He was not only football-wise a legend, but a true legend as a person," Klopp said. "It was a pure pleasure to meet him. When I heard the news today, I was devastated."

Rangers boss and Liverpool great Steven Gerrard said St John helped him during his Anfield career.

"He's a legend and iconic figure at Liverpool Football Club," Gerrard, right, said. "He's someone I met on numerous occasions.

"He was really insightful in terms of his career and experience at Liverpool and trying to pass on his knowledge and expertise."

Liverpool captain Jordan Henderson tweeted: "RIP Ian St John. One of the greats."

'true giant'

Fellow Scot Andy Robertson paid tribute, saying: "A man of warmth, humour, knowledge, wisdom and joy. Scotland and Liverpool has lost a true giant."

Reds legend Jamie Carragher grew up watching St John on ITV's 'Saint and Greavsie' on Saturday

TRUE LEGEND: St. John joined Liverpool in 1961 and enjoyed a long career before making a successful transition to TV pundit lunchtimes and said he helped make Liverpool great. Carragher tweeted: "Another Liverpool Legend sadly passes away. One of the players along with Bill Shankly who made this club what it is today. I'll remember him most on the best football show on tv, The Saint & Greavsie. X"

My Covid musings from Atlanta...

Hey Britlings,

Well it's time for me to fess up, I've been cheating on you. For the past five weeks I've been a Brit in Atlanta.

But don't worry (not that you are) I am back. It's funny during these still strange times and a year on, five weeks away seems like five days.

It's almost been a whole year since the world first shut down, chaos ensued and this Pandemic took over our lives.

Zoom, Game Night In and FaceTime became the new way of communicating, and seemingly will be with us for a long time into the future too, until time travel and holograms come into play.

So Biden says we should have enough vaccines in the US to vaccinate all by end of May - that's quite an achievement if only everyone will take it! A recent poll states that around 70% of the population don't want to take it. So are we headed for a zombie apocalypse or will herd immunity kick in and it will become yet another type of "flu"? Personally I encourage everyone to get it, if we can get back to hugging and kissing our parents, loved ones, grandchildren surely it's for the better, right? Oh and sidebar is: less people will catch it and die!

One thing I've noticed is a trend of people posting on social media that they've gotten their first vaccine jab. I'm grateful to those encouraging others but to those who revel in the bragging rights of being one of the first. I find it uncouth and distastefullike bragging about how much money you have, how many VIP lists you have managed to blag your way onto, or posting pix of yourself at the beach during the pandemic mask free. It's actually colorblind and gross. Getting the vaccine is a medical issue and should be kept private. There are people out there who are still on waiting lists or in parts of the world that can't get theirs yet. So I file this under the category of "think before you post".

Anyhow...back to me in Atlanta. I was there for work and have to say this time of the year the town is very much like the UK. Grey, overcast, sleeting and miserable. We did have a few nice days but they were very few and far between. I'm a firm believer that the weather truly affects your state of mind. So I count my blessings that I'm back in the Golden State where my mood has already been enhanced tremendously. Reminds me of the old Morcombe and Wise song "Bring Me Sunshine"...

However on the upside of Atlanta, I can see that when the sun's out the town comes alive and the rhythms of the city slowly awake ... I did get to experience some of the local attractions thanks to my work. Like the Georgia Aquarium, a Roller Rink, and amazing dance collaboration, an air traffic control tower, a motorcycle museum and a speedway. So even in the darkest of ARIES: Is it time to make space in your head for positive thoughts. Mars is ready to assist you through any set backs. He is your boss so listen to your inner voice which is currently speaking wise words.

TAURUS: You may have procrastinated a lot since last month. However you have had plenty of downtime to catch up. Still with Uranus going backwards in your life there is not much you can do. Be sure you are not being somewhat bull-headed in a friend's situation.

GEMINI: Being unable to move about your life and do everything with ease is not comfortable at the best of times. However Jupiter your cousin in Aquarius is going forward now and some better days are on the way.

CANCER: The recent full moon in your area of communication these past few days has likely brought up anything that was on hold in the past weeks. Just do what vou can and don't stress...vou can do this.

LEO: You are probably planning ahead and already know what you will and will not do after this time is over. While this is good just go with the flow until then. Now the way is open to start afresh, if only on a small scale.

VIRGO: Hopefully you have taken this time frame and made changes on several levels. It's also good to not worry about the future. There will be better days later this month. The full moon in your sign late last week opens some doors.

LIBRA: Now that Mars is leaving your opposite sign Aries you can expect to see some plans moving into place. Find your second wind and prepare for important moves.

SCORPIO: The best way to make decisions is to surrender them to your higher power and ask to be shown the right way. Life has been stressful of late, so do not allow anyone to set you back. Time to let them go.

SAGITTARIUS: Make the most of the change of direction in life again. It's good to get rid of stuff mentally or physically for better days ahead. Now your boss Jupiter in Aquarius is looking to help you.

CAPRICORN: The trying times are nearly over and especially for you keeping busy is important. However like many others just when you thought it was time to move, its stop and start again for a while.

AQUARIUS: We have fully entered into Jupiter living with you now. Nothing is impossible with this in mind try not to live in your head. You will think of an innovative way to get through.

PISCES: Your money area is currently lit up and ready to work for you. Neptune is also visiting you and is giving a mellow vibration in your life. Keep busy with what you can and have a Happy Birthday!

really happy because the position is good but it's not the end of the season and we have to fight."

West Brom had been the better team in the first half at The Hawthorns but England keeper Jordan Pickford made an excellent save to keep out Mbaye Diagne's second-minute header.

thought he Diagne had grabbed a 93rdminute equaliser when he controlled a pass and shot into the net, but he was denied because he was narrowly offside, with the video assistant referee (VAR) confirming the onfield decision.

West Brom are 19th, in the relegation zone and nine points behind 17thplaced Newcastle United, who they host on Sunday.

all competitions, reached the final of the League Cup, the quarter-finals of the FA Cup and taken control of their last-16 Champions League tie against Borussia Monchengladbach.

Peerless City 'have come through hell'

"In winter time in England it's hell and in that time we did something incredible," Guardiola told BBC Radio 5 Live Sport. "It's more than remarkable.

"The players have all my compliments but Liverpool have the crown. To win the Premier League we need those points."

An unlikely secondhalf equaliser from Conor Coady - cancelling out Leander Dendoncker's first-half own goal - had threatened to thwart City's pursuit of a 15th consecutive Premier League win.

In what was an otherwise one-sided encounter, Coady's 61stminute header - his first Premier League goal and his team's first touch in their opponents' penalty area - gave the visitors hope of earning at least a point.

However, Gabriel Jesus put City back in front at Etihad Stadium with a shot on the turn from Kyle Walker's deflected cross.

With Wolves' spirit broken, in-form Riyad Mahrez fired in his seventh league goal of the season before Brazil striker Jesus got his second with virtually the final kick as VAR ruled his effort onside.

Reds 'cannot rely on the past'

Robertson sounds alarm as Liverpool lose FIFTH successive home game

Liverpool defender Andy Robertson says cannot "relv they on the past" after Chelsea inflicted a fifth successive competitive home defeat on the reigning Premier League champions for the first time in their history to leave them battling to make the top four.

Mason Mount's superb individual strike three minutes before half-time in Thursday's showdown gave the visitors a deserved win and extend their unbeaten run under boss Thomas Tuchel to 10 games.

It moved them into the top four, while Liverpool are now in seventh place and in a serious dogfight for the Champions League places.

The Reds, who won the title last season by 18 points, had gone 68 home league matches unbeaten before their current was started with a loss to Burnley in January.

"Last season over with, it is done," Robertson told Sky "We have Sports. nowhere near been good enough to what Liverpool team should be. We are dropping further and it is not good enough.

"Games are running out and we need to put the pressure on the teams below us. People will think we are down and out and we need to get the results to show them we are not. At the moment we are not doing that.

"We can't rely on the past."

Mount scored brilliantly when he cut inside to fire a low shot past Liverpool keeper Alisson, reward for a first half dominated by the Blues, who also had a Timo Werner effort ruled out for offside.

Liverpool, for whom a visibly angry Mohamed Salah was substituted just after the hour, barely threatened but were furious when penalty claims were rejected by the video assistant referee after Roberto Firmino's cross clearly struck N'Golo Kante's hand.

Alisson had to save well from the lively Werner, but one goal was enough to give Chelsea and Tuchel another fine victory as they move four points ahead of the Reds.

"You saw the game it was a tight one, it was a close one, it was an intense one," Liverpool boss Jurgen Klopp told BBC Sport. "We forced them to make mistakes, they forced us to make mistakes. They used one, we didn't use ours.

"Against Chelsea, it would be surprising to play them off the pitch but we were in the game. It is just annoying to talk about the same things again and again. It is tough. We have to fight through this."

Tuchel's beaming smile and congratulations for his Chelsea players will have carried an added tinge of pleasure as he finally experienced victory at Anfield.

Tuchel has suffered last-minute losses at the stadium in a Europa League quarter-final with Borussia Dortmund and then in a subsequent Champions League game with Paris St-Germain.

He and Chelsea were not to be denied though, and while Liverpool will debate why they were not awarded that second-half penalty, no-one could seriously question the fact that the visitors were vastly superior to the beleaguered champions as they fall hard and fast from last season's status.

Tuchel has had a rejuvenating impact on Chelsea since succeeding sacked Frank the Lampard in January, and victories like this albeit against a Liverpool team who appear to be a sitting duck at Anfield these days - will increase confidence and belief.

Mount deserved his goal for a performance of the highest quality, while Kante looked back to his best as he patrolled midfield.

Werner gave one of his finest displays since joining Chelsea and deserved a goal of his own, while Andreas Christensen and Antonio performed Rudiger with such efficiency in defence that Liverpool did not have an effort on target until Georginio Wijnaldum's tame 84thminute header.

All in all, it was an excellent night's work for Tuchel and Chelsea.

"I am very, very happy with the performance," said Tuchel. "It was clear we needed a complete performance in all aspects of the game. We did this, we were very brave with the ball and never lost intensity with the ball.

"We were always aggressive and very brave. This was the key. It was a top team performance and a deserved win."

Everton boss Carlo Ancelotti admitted he is "dreaming" of Champions League qualification, but said his side's performances must improve to make that a reality.

The Toffees gained a hard-fought 1-0 win over struggling West Bromwich Albion Thursday night, thanks to Richarlison's header when he converted a cross from substitute Gylfi Sigurdsson, who had only been on the pitch for 43 seconds.

Victory took Everton on to 46 points from 26 games and briefly up to fourth in the Premier League the last Champions League qualifying spot before Chelsea's 1-0 win Liverpool dropped at Ancelotti's side to fifth.

"At the start of the season no-one could say Everton, after 26 games, would be there," said the Italian, who has won the Champions League as manager of AC Milan and Real Madrid.

"The dream is the Champions League - it would be fantastic to follow this dream. It's a step in the career of everyone.

"We're in the fight but you need to sacrifice until the end. There's more pressure because we're in the fight for Europe, we want to be there and we've worked really hard to be there.

"This is our step and our target. We have to step cont. on page 15, col. 2
