BORIS: Covid tests twice a week will set us free.....

Home kits for all adults from Friday will 'halt the virus in its tracks'

EVERY adult in England is to be offered two NHS Covid tests a week to help stamp out the deadly virus.

Boris Johnson has announced people will be able to order rapid "lateral flow" tests delivered to their homes or collect them from pharmacies from Friday.

This applies even if they do not have coronavirus symptoms. They can also be tested in many workplaces or at community sites.

The Prime Minister said the move will step up his Government's test and trace programme that is designed – along with the high-speed vaccine rollout – to stop coronavirus in its tracks.

He added: "Massive efforts have been made by the British public to stop the spread of the virus.

"As we continue to make good progress on our vaccine program, and with our roadmap to cautiously easing restrictions under way, regular rapid testing is even more important to make sure those efforts are not wasted.

"That's why we're now rolling out free rapid tests to everyone across England – helping us to stop outbreaks in their tracks, so we can get back to seeing the people we love and doing the things we enjoy."

Health officials say the tests – funded by the NHS and therefore free at the point of delivery – will help the Government collect data about Covid outbreaks to track the future spread of the disease.

A Government advertising blitz will be launched on Friday to raise awareness of the availability of the tests. And updates will be sent via the NHS Covid-19 mobile phone and tablet computer app.

The app has been downloaded by around 22 million Britons.

The latest test and trace move is designed to ensure the reopening of businesses, set out in Mr Johnson's roadmap out of lockdown, goes ahead on schedule.

Rapid testing has so far been available to those most at risk and people who need to leave home for work. Ministers will now encourage everyone to take the tests, although they will not be compulsory.

The decision follows concerns that around one in three people infected with Covid do not experience any symptoms and may be spreading the virus unwittingly.

Anyone testing positive will be expected to isolate themselves at home immediately, to minimise the risk of spreading the bug.

More than 120,000 cases of infection have been identified through lateral-flow tests since the high-speed technology was introduced.

Ministers hope the

THE WAY OUT? A Government advertising blitz was launched on Friday to raise awareness of the availability of the tests to all UK adults increased testing will help break the chains of Covid transmission and save lives.

Health Secretary Matt Hancock said: "As we reopen society and resume parts of life we have all dearly missed, regular rapid testing is going to be fundamental in helping us quickly spot positive cases and squash any outbreaks.

"The vaccine programme has been a shot in the arm for the whole country, but reclaiming our lost freedoms and getting back to normal hinges on us all getting tested regularly.

"The British public have shown over the last year that they quickly adapt and always do what it is right in the interest of public health, and I know they will do their bit by getting tested regularly in the months ahead." More than 100,000 businesses in England have registered their interest to provide rapid tests to their employees.

Officials say the twice-weekly tests will be offered through:

- A home ordering service, which allows people to order lateral flow tests online to be sent to their home.
- Workplace testing, either on-site or at home.
- Community testing, offered by local authorities.
- Collection at "PCR" sites that already test for Covid.
- Testing on-site at schools and colleges.

Jab passports to be 'a fact of life'

■ PM in six-week bid to 'rescue summer' for sun-starved Brits

BORIS Johnson says vaccination passports will be "a fact of life" for travelling abroad – but is still aiming for sunshine holidays in a little under six weeks.

The Prime Minister also revealed quick Covid tests could be used for some travellers – saving hundreds of pounds for families desperate for a summer getaway.

He said on Monday: "I do think we want to make things as easy as we possibly can.

"I want to see international travel start up again. We have to be realistic, a lot of the destinations we want to go to are suffering from a new wave of illness.

"We can't do it immediately. But that doesn't mean we have given up on May 17."

And travel bosses insisted Brits "should not lose hope" – they believe many hotspots should be designated green light status.

They say the likes of Portugal, the US, Caribbean and Israel could be on the easy-travel list. When the UK ban on international travel ends it will be replaced with a traffic light system of red, amber and green countries.

Holidaymakers returning from red breaks will have to quarantine in a hotel and amber travellers must isolate at home.

But those arriving from green countries will be able to avoid both if they pay for coronavirus tests before and after they travel.

Anyone still flying now has to take gold standard PCR tests, which cost around £120 a time.

Alternative Lateral Flow Tests give results in 30 minutes and are generally free. From Friday, all adults in England can have two free kits a week.

Heathrow boss John Holland-Kaye said this week: "In terms of Europe, we're three months away from the summer holiday season.

'Impatient people'

Already there are countries that would be green or close to green – I'm thinking places like Portugal – that are very popular.

"So it's perfectly reasonable that there will be other sunshine states within Europe that will be open, on the green, possibly amber list, for the summer in Europe."

Shai Weiss, Virgin Atlantic chief executive, said the US is "vaccinating over three million people per day" and Israel is "the world's leading vaccinated country".

He added that the Caribbean "has done an awesome job throughout this pandemic of keeping things under control".

But his easyJet counterpart, Johan Lundgren warned paying hundreds for PCR tests would mean international travel opened up only to the well-heeled. He urged the Government to consider cheaper, faster alternatives.

The PM also revealed LFTs were being considered.

He said: "I raised that very issue myself. The boss of easyJet is right to focus on this issue. We are going to see what we can do to make things as flexible and as affordable as possible."

He added: "I know how impatient people are to book their holidays if they can but we just have to be prudent at this stage.

"We're looking at the role of vaccination passports for overseas travel. I think that is going to be a fact of life. A lot of other countries are looking at that."

TICKETS, MONEY, PASSPORT...MASK, JAB CARD?

Mr Holland-Kaye and Mr Weiss were speaking alongside British Airways boss Sean Doyle during a joint press conference.

They urged ministers to give them early notice of changes to travel rules – and consider realistic testing and quarantine requirements.

Mr Weiss said: "We need clarity. We welcome a traffic-light framework, [but] where pre-departure testing is required it has to be based on rapid testing. We can't have a prohibitively expensive testing system.

"Those travelling to and from green countries should not face testing at all. Travellers from amber countries should not face quarantine. We don't think quarantine is effective for red countries."

Referring to the Global Travel Taskforce, which will make recommendations on Monday, Mr Weiss said: "When the taskforce reports, it will be important to understand the thresholds [for categorising countries].

And which countries will be in which categories so we can plan for a restart on May 17."

Mr Doyle added: "We're asking the Government to work with other governments which have rolled out world-leading vaccination programmes. We are optimistic that travel can resume on May 17. The public should not lose hope – we remain optimistic this will happen."

Mr Weiss said: "We want to highlight the US opportunity.

"The US has a very successful vaccination programme and they are on track to vaccinate over 70 per cent of the population by May.

"The US Centers for Disease Control recommended last week that fully vaccinated people can travel freely domestically.

"Within the traffic-light framework we have an opportunity to get the US on the green list by May 17, but this requires the US and UK to expedite talks."

Court row over Scots' right to an indy vote

JUDGES are being pushed for an urgent ruling on whether Scotland can hold its own binding independence poll.

Nationalists want an early decision so nobody votes "in ignorance" in the May 6 Holyrood elections about whether Westminster's consent would be required.

The case was dismissed in January as "premature" and PM

Boris Johnson has said he will not sanction another referendum.

Appealing the decision at Scotland's Court of Session on Monday, Aidan O'Neill QC, said the SNP's Constitution Secretary Mike Russell will introduced a Bill if the party gets a majority.

He added: "So there is a real issue for this court to determine – is he right or is he wrong on that?"

"The voters have to determine whether to cast their votes on the basis of that claim."

But Lord Carloway, Lord President of the court, asked: "You expect the courts to make a decision on this matter in four weeks?"

He ended by saying a decision would be due "as soon as we can".

A 2014 vote rejected Scottish independence but the national mood has changed since Brexit.

Boat race resumes.... sort of

It was the traditional university boat race... just not quite in the right place.

The sky blues of Cambridge powered their way to victory over Oxford on Sunday as the 166th contest was fought out in unfamiliar surroundings.

Organisers were forced to move the meeting to Cambridgeshire's Great Ouse amid safety fears over cracks in Hammersmith Bridge on the River Thames.

It was the first race to be held away from the Thames since an unofficial second World War contest on the Great Ouse in 1944. And absent were the usual raucous crowds lining the banks as Covid safety restrictions barred spectators from watching live. The men's race also made history for being umpired for the first time by a woman, former British Olympic rower Sarah Winckless. Cambridge claimed their fourth win in the last five races, with last year's event cancelled in the opening weeks of the Covid lockdown.

Cambridge president, Callum Sullivan said: "It was perfect, I enjoyed the race so much. Great team, great crew, great guys around us. It's been great fun.

"It's been a fantastically unique season. We've had to roll with the punches, every step of the way." Earlier, Cambridge women maintained their stranglehold on the female contest, edging home by less than a length on Oxford.

Meanwhile, rowers in London staged a 12-boat demo on the Thames to protest about the slow pace of repair work on Hammersmith Bridge.

Belfast: 'worst rioting seen in Northern Ireland in years'

■ Post-Brexit tensions and border checks spark ominous sectarian violence

Belfast: Rioting 'was worst seen in Northern Ireland in years'

Rioting in Belfast on Wednesday night was on a scale not seen in Northern Ireland for years, police have said.

During several hours of violence, police officers were attacked, petrol bombs were thrown and a bus was burnt.

Eight officers were injured at an interface between loyalist and nationalist areas in west Belfast.

Northern Ireland's power-sharing executive said it was "gravely concerned" by recent street violence and has called for calm to be restored.

Prime Minister Boris Johnson has also condemned the disorder.

It was likely that paramilitary organisations were involved and had planned the rioting, according to Police Service of Northern Ireland (PSNI) Assistant Chief Constable Jonathan Roberts.

He said several hundred people on each side of a barrier separating the loyalist Shankill Road and the nationalist Springfield Road in west Belfast were involved and petrol bombs were thrown in both directions.

"Last night was at a scale we haven't seen in Belfast or further afield in Northern Ireland for a number of years," he said.

"We are very, very lucky no-one was seriously injured or killed last night given in particular the large number of petrol bombs thrown."

Police officers were called in from other parts of Northern Ireland to help to deal with the rioting.

More than 50 officers have been hurt in violence in several areas since the end of last month.

The bus driver whose double-decker was attacked and burned is "very shaken by the incident but is physically unhurt", according to the public transport provider Translink.

Tensions in loyalist communities have been heightened since Brexit checks came into force in January and there is a wider unease in the unionist community that the constitutional position of Northern Ireland, one of four countries in the UK, has been put under threat by the Brexit settlement.

hard Brexit deal

Although the region voted to remain in the EU, the DUP backed Brexit in a dangerous game of Westminster politics in which the party was outmanoeuvred and its interests sidelined.

While the party saw Brexit as a means of strengthening Northern Ireland's place at the heart of the union, the special arrangements carved out in a hard Brexit deal between Boris Johnson and Brussels made it clear that higher political causes centering on the UK's sovereignty took precedence.

The disorder seen this week has been linked to the loyalist anger over the Northern Ireland protocol, with checks on goods being shipped from Great Britain reinforcing fears over the region's place in the union.

A RETURN TO ALL THAT? Northern Ireland's power-sharing executive said it was "gravely concerned" by recent street violence

Violence involving gangs of people as young as 12 started on 29 March in an area of Londonderry that is loyalist - in favour of keeping Northern Ireland as part of the United Kingdom.

Since then, there have been protests and rioting on a near-nightly basis in a number of towns and cities, including Belfast, Carrickfergus, Ballymena and Newtownabbey.

The rioting has largely seen loyalist youths throwing bricks, fireworks and petrol bombs at lines of police officers and vehicles.

But on Wednesday night the fighting escalated into sectarian clashes over a so-called peace wall in west Belfast that divides predominantly Protestant loyalist communities from predominantly Catholic nationalist communities who want to see a united Ireland.

A gate that divides the two was smashed open and, during several hours of disorder police officers and a press photographer were attacked and a bus was hijacked and burned.

Parts of Northern Ireland are split along sectarian lines, 23 years after a peace deal largely ended Northern Ireland's Troubles - which lasted almost 30 years and cost the lives of more than 3,500 people.

While there are no clear indications the unrest is being orchestrated by an organised group, the violence has been concentrated in areas where criminal gangs linked to loyalist paramilitaries have significant influence.

Majority of Britons trust AstraZeneca vaccine

■ 75% consider jab safe despite blood clot link

Britons overwhelmingly trust the Oxford-AstraZeneca coronavirus jab despite concerns about blood clots, according to a Times poll that shows the vaccine programme is still on track.

Healthy under-30s are being advised to have alternative vaccines after regulators said there was a "strong possibility" that the Oxford vaccine had caused fatal clots.

However, ministers and government scientists have begun a campaign to retain public confidence, highlighting that the type of clot involved is "vanishingly rare".

The poll by YouGov, carried out after the change in the official guidance on Wednesday, found 75 per cent of people considered the Oxford vaccine safe — down only two percentage points since March. The level of public confidence was similar to that for the PfizerBioNTech vaccine, which was considered safe by 78 per cent of those polled.

The survey also found younger people had retained confidence in the Oxford jab, although at lower levels than those in older age groups. Among those aged 18-24 almost two thirds said the vaccine was safe, three points up on March, while 68 per cent of 25 to 49-year-olds said the same.

Across all age groups, 13 per cent considered the Oxford vaccine to be unsafe, and 12 per cent did not know.

The continued support emerged as official figures from Public Health England revealed that more than 10,000 lives were saved by the first three months of the vaccination programme.

In other developments:

- There were 3,030 new cases reported, with the seven-day total down 37 per cent, and 53 deaths, with the weekly total down 33 per cent.

- A study showed only one infection in a thousand occurs outside, and another has put the risk of infection from surfaces at one in 10,000.

- The number of people reporting Covid-19 symptoms has fallen sharply and is at the lowest level since last July, according to app data.

- People who have been given the Moderna vaccine still have antibodies capable of neutralising the virus six months after their second dose.

- The Royal College of Psychiatrists said that the country was in the grip of a mental health crisis, with referrals rising sharply during the pandemic.

Police called to Harry and Meghan's California home nine times since July

■ Officers were called to reports of trespassing, alarm activations and phone requests

Police have been called to the Duke and Duchess of Sussex's mansion in Montecito nine times in as many months, it has emerged.

Santa Barbara county sheriff's office has responded to calls listed as phone requests, alarm activations and property crimes since Harry and Meghan moved into their Montecito home with their one-year-old son, Archie.

In July, officers were called four times, with one call listed as a phone request, and others labelled "alarm activations", all occurring in the early hours, according to data obtained under freedom of information laws by the PA Media news agency. There was a further alarm call in November, listed as "Misc Priority Incdnt".

At 4.13pm on Christmas Eve last year, sheriff's deputies were called after a man was alleged to have trespassed. Officers returned to the mansion on Boxing Day at 2.54pm for a call listed under "property crime". Nickolas Brooks, 37, was booked into jail on a misdemeanour trespassing charge and later released.

The most recent call was at 2.21am on 16 February, listed as an alarm activation.

Neither representatives of the Sussexes, or the sheriff's department, would comment.

The couple's security arrangements hit the headlines following their interview with Oprah Winfrey in March.

Meghan, who is pregnant with a girl, said she sent letters pleading with Harry's family not to take away his personal protection officers, warning he was facing death threats.

Harry said he never thought he would have his UK taxpayer-funded security detail removed upon deciding to step back from royal duties. "I was born into this position. I inherited the risk. So that was a shock to me," he said.

The couple disclosed they had put in place "privately funded security arrangements" for their move to the US, after the then president,

'Chainsaw massacre': Surrey police hunt for phantom lumberjack

■ Culprit has struck up to 30 times in 10 days under cover of darkness along stretch of River Thames

Police are hunting a mystery tree feller who has cut down dozens of trees along a particularly picturesque stretch of the River Thames in Surrey, to the consternation of local residents.

In what has been called the "chainsaw massacre", the culprit has struck up to 30 times over 10 days and is believed to be operating under cover of darkness.

The trees, all healthy, have been felled along a two-mile route between upmarket Walton-on-Thames and Weybridge. The motive, though, remains a mystery.

Extra police patrols have now been set up to try to catch the perpetrator or perpetrators, whom officers believe may be travelling in a small red car.

The Elmbridge Tree Patrol Facebook group, set up to report the fellings, has more than 400 members angered by the senseless vandalism. Residents posted warnings from police for individuals not to approach any suspects for fear that they might be dangerous, and to report any suspicious activity to police.

The chainsaw spree has seen heavy branches strewn over the towpath, posing hazards to joggers and cyclists, as well as on roads, causing potential danger to traffic. Wood in the water is a threat to boats and canoeists, including those from the nearby Elmbridge Canoe Club, where five trees were felled on Tuesday night.

Pictures from the area show trees reduced to stumps and debris all over the towpath and nearby roads.

The first reports of the fellings were made on

CUT DOWN IN ITS PRIME: a former tree in Walton-on-Thames

28 March. Local police and council leaders have urged residents to come forward with any information.

Insp Bert Dean,

Elmbridge borough commander, said: "I do not underestimate the impact this mindless damage has on the local community, as well as the risk it has posed to motorists by obstructing roads. We are looking at every opportunity to identify who is responsible for this."

Brits in LA

Can't hug a loved one? try hugging a tree

Craig Young takes a road trip to Sequoia National Forest...and gets up close and personal with the locals

There are the seven wonders of the world and then there are all these amazing hidden gems tucked away that are part of nature's backyard.

In California we are extremely lucky to have an array of natural wonders, from the ocean to to the desert and of course the mountains. I'm tired of talking about COVID as I'm sure you are tired of reading about it.

But one thing I'm grateful for is the discovery of the great outdoors. And last week I visited Sequoia National Forest, which is an easy 3 1/2 hour drive north of LA. This place has been on my radar for a long time since so many people seem to enjoy visiting a bunch of trees and camping out and for the longest time I thought it really wasn't my thing... until I did it and now I'm hooked.

We drove up on a Thursday and returned late on Friday night, and I thoroughly recommend shared driving. We stayed at the Best Western motel, in the town of Three Rivers, which is considered the gateway to both Sequoia National Forest and King's Canyon. The motel was hardly the Ritz but was one of only a few accommodations available.

The town itself, which gets its name from its location near the junction of the north, middle and south forks of the Kaweah River, is super quaint with a handful of restaurant/bars which benefit hugely from their proximity to local waters. I'll highlight the Buckaroo Diner for some tasty local grub and The Three Rivers Brewing Company, which has a microbrewery on-site with some cool local beers, not to mention a taco truck if you get hungry. But be careful how much you imbibe here, the elevation can get you tipsy quicker than you might think!

From the town it's about a 45-minute, very windy and slow drive to the entrance of the National Park. Try to get there early as you can be in a line to get in for close to an hour after 9am. Each vehicle is only $35 to get in. They also offer camping in the park if you plan on staying a while.

The park's famed sequoias are the highlight, and we marveled at the majesty of old and famous trees like General Sherman and the cluster called the Congress....with trees called the president, the secretary, etc... you get the drift.

Right now there is still snow on the ground in patches, increasing as you go higher in elevation, but the white stuff should mostly have melted away within a couple of weeks. But if you go off the beaten path a little you are in for a real treat... you'll meet the giant sequoias. The trees are few and far between and a dying breed but definitely worth your time. They are not just massive, they are breathtakingly beautiful.

I wouldn't normally describe myself as a tree-hugger, but after not being able to hug people in real life for over a year - I'll take a tree :)

Overall, experiencing the sequoias is a truly breath of fresh air and when life gets busy and your brain is bogged down information overload so you can't see the wood for the trees (yes, I went there) it's a welcomed break of peace and tranquility. Not just the visuals but also the amazing soundscapes. I was awestruck and I urge you to go before the world opens up again and it's flooded once again with too many people.

Go love a tree!

GOOD DEEDS: Nigel Hudson and Graeme Cote of Neighboring Light

Local Brit and young Eagle Scout team up to get essentials into the hands of the needy

Regular readers will know that Brits in LA a member Nigel Hudson runs a fantastic charity called Neighboring Light whose mission is to do good for the community especially the homeless, and the elderly. By giving useful bags filled with vital necessities for personal hygiene and self-care, they aim to help provide a ray of kindness in difficult and uncertain times.

Nigel shared a lovely story with us and we thought you would like to hear it too. A young local lad, Graeme Cote selected Neighboring Light for his Eagle Scout project. He, along with his friends from Troop 36 took it upon themselves to collect donations to fill 100 backpacks with personal care items including toothbrushes, towels, deodorant and even managed to persuade Bombas to donate 100 pairs of socks to this worthy cause.

We asked Graeme what made choose Neighboring Light.

"My project means a lot to me because it'll have a very direct and tangible impact on people in my community. I'm fortunate in the fact that my parents have both had steady employment throughout the pandemic and long before, but I'm also aware that hasn't been the case for a lot of people, especially in LA with rising housing costs complicating it. I never really felt compelled to build a shed, or paint some parking spots, so when I found Nigel and Neighboring Light I knew I was onto something, and I think it turned out great. I'm happy with the way it's turned out, and I really hope it makes even just a little difference in a few peoples' lives. I mean, that's kinda the point of it."

Isn't it lovely to hear about something nice happening within our community for once?

Blues shrug off Baggies loss to ease past Porto

Chelsea bounced back from a testing few days to earn a commanding first-leg quarter-final away win over Porto in the Champions League on Wednesday.

Mason Mount's clever turn and finish in the first half helped bring some welcome relief to Blues manager Thomas Tuchel after his side's heavy defeat to West Brom on Saturday, which was followed by a training ground incident between teammates Kepa Arrizabalaga and Antonio Rudiger.

Ben Chilwell added a late second after a mistake by Corona, moments after substitute Christian Pulisic had hit the bar. The Blue were good value for their 2-0 win and will expect to progress to the semi final barring an unlikely turnaround from the Portuguese outfit.

Having conceded five goals against West Brom, Chelsea produced a dogged defensive performance to earn a seventh clean sheet in nine European games this season.

Skipper Cesar Azpilicueta's vital block denied Corona before

Edouard Mendy kept out Pepe's header.

With both legs of this tie in Spain at Sevilla's Ramon Sanchez Pizjuan Stadium because of coronavirus restrictions between Portugal and the UK, this was Porto's 'home' game, meaning Chelsea's two away goals put them in pole position before next Tuesday's second leg.

This was the perfect response by Chelsea after last weekend's embarrassment - a resilient, determined and professional performance against a team that had eliminated Juventus in the previous round.

Tuchel reacted to the West Brom shambles by making five changes, with Rudiger among those recalled despite his 'heated' row with Arrizabalaga.

Rudiger played his part in an impressive Chelsea rearguard display, Porto carving out several chances without managing to find a way through.

Mount continues to flourish, his goal the highlight in what was for long spells a closely-fought contest.

Having received a pass from Jorginho following a patient build-up, the midfielder turned sharply and beat Agustin Marchesin with an instinctive low finish from an angle.

Mount has scored more goals in all competitions than any other Chelsea player since Tuchel was appointed in January.

In 2020-21, he has found the net for club and country in the Premier League, Nations League,

FA Cup, World Cup

Having dropped out of the top four, Chelsea will hope this result can propel them to a strong finish to the season.

The winners of this tie face Real Madrid or Liverpool in the semi-finals - Real lead 3-1 after the first leg - and the Blues also have an FA Cup semi-final against Manchester City on 17 April.

KEVIN DE BRUYNE has signed a new £83million deal with Manchester City until 2025 - after conducting negotiations all by himself.

The Belgium midfielder committed to a two-year extension, but he did not use an agent to broker the whopping £400,000-a-week contract, holding talks with City himself while his father and lawyer - both in Belgium - assisted remotely.

De Bruyne also commissioned data analysts to assess his influence and how well the club are set up for success.

The 29-year-old was able to show Etihad chiefs his value to the team as manager Pep Guardiola's most influential player, using it to negotiate a significant pay rise.

After consolidating his status as City's highest earner on £20.8m a year, the fans' favourite said: "Since joining City in 2015, I have felt at home. I love the fans, my family are settled in Manchester and my own game has developed really well. I'm playing the best football of my career and I honestly feel there is more to come."

EUROPA LEAGUE: Spanish stroll for United

Rashford and Fernandes on target for Red Devils

Manchester United took a big step towards the Europa League semi-finals with an away win over Granada in the first leg of their last-eight tie on Thursday.

Marcus Rashford put United ahead when he superbly collected Victor Lindelof's long pass and slid a finish past home goalkeeper Rui Silva.

Yangel Herrera, on loan from Manchester City, hit the outside of the post for the Spanish side and ex-Tottenham striker Roberto Soldado also fired wide.

United doubled their lead late on when Bruno Fernandes squeezed a penalty past Silva after Yan Brice fouled the Portuguese midfielder.

The second leg is at Old Trafford in a week's time with the aggregate winners advancing to a semi-final against either Ajax or Roma, with the Italian side leading that tie 2-1 after the first leg in the Netherlands.

United have now only lost one of their past 17 matches in all competitions, but will be without midfielder Scott McTominay, left-back Luke Shaw and central defender Harry Maguire for the second leg as they will all be suspended after picking up bookings in Spain.

United have not won a trophy since winning the Europa League four years ago, when Jose Mourinho's side defeated Ajax. They have not reached a final in Solskjaer's two and a half seasons in charge.

With United 14 points behind Premier League leaders Manchester City and out of the FA Cup after losing to Leicester last month, the Europa League is their only realistic hope of silverware this season.

And Solskjaer will be pleased with his side's professional performance in southern Spain as they took control of their 27th European quarter-final.

Rashford, who had earlier curled a shot over, grabbed his 20th club goal of the season, with a superb first touch following Lindelof's long pass from inside his own half, with the England international then running through and slotting past Silva.

David de Gea, back in goal after Dean Henderson had featured in the past seven games, maintained United's lead with a save to deny Kenedy.

United looked to kill off the tie against a side who are ninth in La Liga and have the worst defensive record in the Spanish top flight, but captain Maguire dragged a shot well wide, with Paul Pogba also wasting an opportunity.

Fernandes had a shot from the corner of the six-yard box saved, but then doubled United's advantage in the last minute with a penalty that Silva should have saved but the ball squirmed under his body.

Shaw was replaced by Alex Telles for the start of the second half but Solskjaer played down any injury fears for the England left-back and said: "I had to protect Luke but I think and hope he should be ready for the weekend."

• Slavia Prague scored a dramatic stoppage time equaliser to leave Arsenal's Europa League ambitions hanging in the balance.

Substitute Nicolas Pepe thought he had earned the Gunners a slender quarter-final first-leg advantage when he broke the deadlock in the 86th minute.

But Tomas Holes headed home in the dying moments of the game from close range to give Slavia Prague a precious away goal.

The second leg in Prague takes place next Thursday (20:00 BST).

Mistakes made it Real easy, laments Klopp

Jurgen Klopp says Liverpool made it "too easy" for Real Madrid to win the quarter-final first leg between the sides, but feels Mohamed Salah's goal offers his side a lifeline in the return game at Anfield after the match finished 3-1.

The Reds were largely second best throughout an entertaining game against a Real team missing their first-choice centre-back pairing, but packed with impressive attacking talent.

Much of the damage was done in the first half through Vinicius Junior's low drive after he had chested down a superb long pass from Toni Kroos and a Marco Asensio's close-range finish following a defensive mistake from Trent Alexander-Arnold.

Liverpool came out fighting after the break, pulling a goal back through Salah's finish off the crossbar to spark their best 20-minute spell of the contest.

But they were stung when Vinicius found the net via a first-time shot following a fine attacking move with 25 minutes to go, leaving them with a mountain to climb in the return leg at an empty Anfield on 14 April.

"If you want to go to the semi-final, you have to earn the right to do so," Klopp told BT Sport. "We didn't do that tonight, especially in the first half.

"We just didn't play good enough football to cause Real Madrid more problems. We made it too easy for them.

"The only good thing I can say, apart from the goal, is it's only the first half of the tie. We didn't deserve a lot more but that one goal and the second half was OK. It gives us a lifeline."
