Sajid Javid: vaccine refuseniks having a 'damaging impact'

■ Health Secretary steps up attack on Britain's vaccine hesitant

Sajid Javid has criticised people who have purposefully chosen not to get a Covid vaccine and said they 'take up hospital beds'.

The Health Secretary said they were having a 'damaging impact' on other patients who require other urgent medical care.

He said ten per cent of the eligible population, more than five million people, still had not received their jabs, and around nine out of ten of those needing the most care in hospital were unvaccinated.

Speaking on Trevor Phillips On Sunday on Sky News, Mr Javid said: 'I just cannot emphasise enough the impact that they are having on the rest of society.'

'They must really think about the damage they are doing to society by... they take up hospital beds that could have been used for someone with maybe a heart problem, or maybe someone who is waiting for elective surgery.'

'But instead of protecting themselves and protecting the community they choose not to get vaccinated. 'They are really having a damaging impact and I just can't stress enough, please do come forward and get vaccinated.'

Figures based on data from the UK's health agencies for vaccinations delivered up to December 5, showed that of the 57.5 million people in the UK aged 12 and over and therefore eligible for a first dose of Covid-19 vaccine, 51.1 million had received one jab (89 per cent) while 6.4 million (11 per cent) had not.

Across the four UK nations as of that date, Scotland had the lowest proportion of eligible people still unvaccinated (nine per cent), followed by Wales (ten per cent), England (11 per cent) and Northern Ireland (14 per cent).

Some people are unable to be vaccinated for medical reasons, such as those with severe allergies to all currently available jabs.

New Brexit negotiator Truss heads for showdown on NI protocol

The UK's newly appointed chief post-Brexit negotiator, Liz Truss, said she would speak to her

EU counterpart, Maroš Šefčovič, on Tuesday amid renewed calls to rip up the controversial Northern Ireland protocol.

The cabinet minister, who is also the foreign secretary, said she wanted to negotiate "a comprehensive solution" to the agreement, which requires post-Brexit checks on goods arriving in Northern Ireland from Great Britain.

Allies added that she wanted to "hit the ground running", but offered no further details on how she will handle the technical discussions about customs arrangements, which could have wide political ramifications.

No EU-UK talks had been scheduled in the last days before Christmas, until the surprise weekend resignation of Lord Frost, who had been Boris Johnson's chief Brexit negotiator.

Ministers remain under pressure from Conservative hard Brexiters and Northern Ireland's Democratic Unionists to resolve an issue they argue has led to the creation of a border down the Irish Sea – and damaged the integrity of the United Kingdom.

Sir Jeffrey Donaldson, the DUP leader, said that he had been led to believe by Frost that the talks were struggling to progress: "He felt, I think, that we were fast approaching the time when the UK government needed to take unilateral action."

Article 16 of the protocol allows one side or the other to rip up part of the agreement – such as customs checks between Great Britain and Northern Ireland – in the event of "serious economic, societal or environmental difficulties". But it could expose whoever acts to retaliatory tariffs.

John Finucane, a Sinn Féin MP, said the British government should show "a degree of responsibility and realism" over the protocol, which allows Northern Ireland special access to the EU single market. He said the agreement provided "enormous economic benefit to this jurisdiction".

Emma Raducanu wins BBC Sports Personality of the Year

■ US Open tennis champion secures most viewer votes in lopsided win

■ Tom Daley and Adam Peaty finish second and third respectively

Emma Raducanu is the BBC's Sports Personality of the Year for 2021, capping a year of unprecedented sporting success for the tennis star who told the show she was simply "a 19-year-old from Bromley ... that's who she is, nothing else to it."

The US Open champion received the award in quarantine in Abu Dhabi, where she is recovering from Covid-19. She beat Tom Daley and Adam Peaty into second and third place, while England's men's footballers were named team of the year and Gareth Southgate the coach, as a triumphant period for British sport across the board was commemorated at a ceremony in Salford.

Collecting her prize remotely, Raducanu wheeled the camera-shaped trophy from beneath her Zoom screen in celebration. "It's such an honour just to be amongst these nominees, to win ... it's pretty amazing to me. I watched this growing up, so I'm really happy to join the past winners and I'm really happy for British tennis too. This past year has been absolutely insane."

sporting fairytale

Raducanu was strong favourite for the award from the moment she emerged from qualifying to storm through to the latter stages of competition at Flushing Meadow in September. Winning the US Open title in a thrilling final against fellow teenager Leylah Fernandez only cemented the prospect. It was the kind of sporting fairytale that comes around once in a generation.

In any other year, many of the shortlist of contenders would have been staunch favourites to win the prize. Raheem Sterling was England's leading scorer as the men's football team made it to their first international final since 1966. More than that, he had grown up in the shadow of Wembley and overcome family trauma – and attacks from some sections of the media – to find success. Tom Daley won gold for the first time at his fourth Olympics in Tokyo, after using his figurative platform to stand up for LGBTQ+ equality.

Dame Sarah Storey became the most successful Paralympian of all time in Tokyo, Adam Peaty Britain's most successful swimmer, and Tyson Fury rounded out the shortlist, after his trilogy fight with Deontay Wilder went down as one of the greatest title bouts of all time.

'motivation'

While there were loud rounds of applause inside the Salford Media City studio, the ceremony was completed without a studio audience, after BBC producers took the decision to impose Covid precautions a week before. There was access for 50 special guests, including the families of the shortlisted stars, and red carpet duties were still performed beforehand. But inside there was a more intimate sense to the occasion.

Storey talked of the "intrinsic motivation" that she gained from her early years in training and making the right cup of tea to entice her parents out of bed to give her a lift; Peaty of the transformative effect of becoming a father; and the inspirational story of Arsenal's Jen Beattie, who took home the Helen Rollason award as a result of her advocacy for sufferers of breast cancer, which she was diagnosed with in 2020.

The most moving moment came with the award of the Unsung Hero prize to Sam Barlow of Hull for her leadership of the movement FitMums. She spoke of the death of her husband from cancer in 2020, a man who "would walk if he couldn't run, and coach if he couldn't walk".

She paid tribute to her organisation's volunteers and insisted that "whatever happens, have hope".

RUNNERS UP: Tom Daley (left) and Adam Peaty finished second and third

Dubai Princess wins UK record £554m divorce settlement

- Princess Haya and Sheikh Mohammed's High Court battle has revealed details of blackmail over lover
- Haya will receive a lump sum of £251m for 'clean break' - and will spend much of it on security

BRITAIN saw its highest-ever divorce settlement this week, as the ruler of Dubai was ordered to pay his youngest wife and their two children a record £554 million settlement after a bitter divorce.

Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid al-Maktoum, 72, was found to pose a serious security risk to his former wife Princess Haya Bint al-Hussein, 47, the sister of King Abdullah II of Jordan. She fled to London in fear for her life in 2019 with their two children - Jalila, now 14, and Zayed, nine - after her husband discovered she was having an affair with her male bodyguard.

tight security

Princess Haya will receive a lump sum payment of £251m as part of a 'clean break' from one of the world's richest men, with the bulk expected to cover security costs to keep the princess and the two young children she had with the sheikh, safe from kidnap.

The prince must also provide a £290m HSBC bank guarantee for his children underpinning an £11m annual maintenance payment, as well as ongoing security costs for them as adults, £3m to cover their education and £9.6m in maintenance arrears.

Lawyers for the princess had argued tight security was needed to keep her and the children safe from her ex-husband. At a previous High Court hearing, Sheikh Mohammed was found on the balance of probabilities to have forcibly returned Princesses Latifa and Shamsa - his daughters with another one of his at least six wives - to Dubai when they attempted to flee the UAE.

In another bombshell, the judgement revealed how Princess Haya alleged that she had paid out £7million to 'blackmailers' on her security staff to keep secret her affair with her British bodyguard, Russell Flowers, which led to the breakdown of her marriage.

Mr Justice Moor declared in a 73 page judgement that there was a 'clear and ever-present risk' to the princess and her two young children and that Sheikh Mohammed was the 'main threat to her'.

The £554m figure awarded by Mr Justice Moor at the Family Division of the High Court dwarfs the previous highest settlement of £450m made in 2016 to the ex-wife of Russian oligarch Farkhad Akhmedov.

While the award will allow the princess to continue to live in the life of luxury she enjoyed as the sheikh's sixth wife, it is £900m less than what her lawyers had originally demanded.

Mr Justice Moor wrote in his judgment: "There will remain a clear and present risk to HRH for the remainder of her life, whether it be from HH (her ex) or just the normal terrorist and other threats faced by the princess in her position.'

intimidation

Sheikh Mohammed - a close friend of the Queen over their mutual love of horse racing - was also found to have had his agents 'hack' the phones of his ex-wife and her lawyers, including Baroness Fiona Shackleton.

Following the princess's affair, the sheikh had waged a campaign of intimidation forcing Haya to flee to London in fear of her life.

Giving evidence, the princess admitted she had taken money from one of her children's bank accounts to 'pay off' a total of £7m to her alleged 'blackmailers'.

THAT'S RICH: Princess Haya and Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid al-Maktoum

Three former bodyguards who allegedly received the money were not named in court but identified as Mr A, B and C. Mr A was said to have been given £2.5m while Mr B and Mr C shared £4.45m.

The disclosure of the alleged payouts came as the princess was cross examined by her ex-husband's legal team over money taken from her daughter's account.

The court heard cash from the account had also been used to buy racehorses and another large sum sent to her brother to help fund his royal palace in Jordan.

Haya, 47, told the court it had been 'convenient' to use her daughter's funds and she had hoped to repay the money but had yet to do so.

"Those were the funds that I could get to make that payment quickly which were available to me," she told the court."

Leading architect Richard Rogers dead at 88

One of Britain's most celebrated architects, Richard Rogers, known for designing some of the world's most famous buildings including Paris' Pompidou Centre, has died aged 88.

Rogers, who changed the London skyline with distinctive creations such as the Millennium Dome and the 'Cheesegrater' Leadenhall Building, "passed away quietly" Saturday night, publicist Matthew Freud told the Press Association.

Fellow architect, Norman Foster, described Rogers, as a "kindred spirit" whose buildings are "a social mirror" of his personality - "open, welcoming and, like his wardrobe, elegantly colourful". Foster, who studied alongside Rogers at Yale, would go on to collaborate with him as Team 4, alongside Su Brumwell and Wendy Cheesman.

Describing Rogers as "a tireless supporter of the compact, sustainable, pedestrian-friendly city and a passionate opponent of mindless suburban sprawl", Foster said that he had "fire in his belly... up to the very end".

Rogers retired last year from the architecture practice he founded in 1977. A statement said Rogers was a man of "immense drive and charisma" with a love of people, highlighting his political commitment to positive social change.

The Italian-born architect won a series of awards for his designs, including the 2007

Pritzker Prize, and was one of the pioneers of the "high-tech" architecture movement, distinguished by structures incorporating industrial materials such as glass and steel.

He was the co-creator of France's Pompidou Centre - opened in 1977 and famed for its multi-coloured, pipe-covered facade - which he designed with Italian architect Renzo Piano.

Rogers' other well-known designs include Strasbourg's European court of human rights and the Three World Trade Center in New York, as well as international airport terminals in Madrid and London's Heathrow, and the Welsh Senedd. He advised Tony Blair, who awarded him a peerage in 1996.

Chitty Chity star Sally Ann Howes dead at 91

Sally Ann Howes, who starred in Chitty Chitty Bang Bang and My Fair Lady, has died aged 91, her family has confirmed.

The Tony Award-nominated actress first appeared on screen aged 12, and enjoyed a career that spanned six decades.

She was best known for playing the role of Truly Scrumptious in the 1968 musical film Chitty Chitty Bang Bang, opposite Dick Van Dyke.

Her son, the artist Andrew Hart Adler, confirmed the news to the Press Association news agency on Wednesday.

He shared an old photograph of the two of them together, saying she was now reunited with her husband of 48 years, Douglas Rae, who died earlier this year.

The London-born actress and singer "died peacefully in her sleep" her nephew Toby Howes posted on Twitter.

Actress Emma Williams was among those paying tribute, describing Howes as "the original and best Truly Scrumptious".

"She was the epitome of class, a generous and kindly soul who offered the sweetest words of advice and support to me when I met her. I will forever be grateful," Williams said.

Fellow actress Caroline Sheen called her "a glorious inspiration".

Howes was born into showbiz, as the daughter of British performer Bobby Howes and actress/singer Patricia Malone, she became a star of the screen and stage in her own right.

Taking over the role from Julie Andrews, she shone as Eliza Doolittle in My Fair Lady on New York's Broadway in 1958.

And in 1963 she was nominated for a Tony Award for best lead actress in a musical for her work in Brigadoon.

Later, in Chitty Chitty Bang Bang she played the daughter of a confectionery magnate, performing classic songs including Toot

TRULY SCRUMPTIOUS: Sally Ann Howes with Dick Van Dyke on the set of Chitty Chitty Bang Bang

Sweets and Hushabye Mountain and Doll On A Music Box.

The latter song was memorably performed as she danced on a music box. And Howes told US TV show host and actress Rosie O'Donnell she was proud to have got it down in one take, especially as she had lied about being able to dance in order to get the role.

Asked if she could describe Chitty Chitty Bang Bang, which was written by 007 author Ian Fleming, Howes replied: "Well, I suppose if you put Mary Poppins together with James Bond, this would be their child."

She went on to tell O'Donnell that she and Van Dyke had been

"just thrown together" out of the blue.

"I just got the role," she explained. "I didn't have to test for it, which was a joy because I never get anything I auditioned for. I'm terrible - I get kind of frozen and I become terribly English. And they think, 'who's this cold woman?' and I'm not a bit like that - I have a good time."

"But I never ever win anything that way. So I was thrilled when they said I didn't have to test, so I got the role. And then I met Dick, literally when we started rehearsing, and we did all these very difficult dances."

Despite her success on-screen in Chitty Chitty Bang Bang, the theatre remained her true love.

"I would have liked a film career, but I didn't pursue it - I just loved connecting with an audience," she once said.

"The theatre is a drug. The problem is that to be remembered, you have to do films."

In 2007, she returned to My Fair Lady, appearing as Mrs Higgins in a Cameron Mackintosh-produced tour of the US.

Her other notable on-stage performances included Summer Song and A Hatful Of Rain.

Howes was married three times, adopting two sons while married to her second husband, Broadway lyricist Richard Adler.

Santa, Baby!

Eileen and I were honored to be invited to the recent annual BABC Christmas Luncheon at the Fairmont Hotel in Santa Monica, featuring guest of honor Malcolm McDowell.

This extremely talented actor shared some wonderful stories about his younger days on film sets. It was quite a treat to hear him speak of years gone by and see a marvelous projection featuring clips of his esteemed and prolific work spanning decades. Music and entertainment was supplied by the talented Victoria

Summer and Jason Scheff who for almost three decades fronted the supergroup Chicago, which has countless top ten hits and multi-platinum albums to its name. He played both seasonal and Chicago hits, which went down a treat.

It was so nice to see so many Brits braving the Westside traffic, including the incomparable Sandro Monetti and Jason Ellery looking extremely festive pulling crackers next to the rugby boys from the Giltinis.

I opted for a cheeky flutter on the event's famed silent auction and won two round trip flights to London on Virgin Atlantic AND a box to watch the Giltinis play AND a two night stay at a hotel in San Francisco. Woohoo!

Monday night we got to see the heartwarming and talented Nick Hardcastle in his one-night-only one-man show called "I'm Your Man", a George Michael-themed detour down exploring his online dating escapades. Such a fun trip down memory lane!

....At least it seemed that way until Wednesday this week when we discovered one of the guests in the theatre had tested positive for COVID a few days after the event.

It seems like just as we are trying to forget about this awful plague and everyone is trying to get ready for the holidays the numbers start to rise and it comes even closer to home than expected. I urge everyone to be extra vigilant and go get your booster. This is no joke. We decided it was best to cancel our Christmas vacation this year for fear of being stuck in another country and not being able to get back into the States. Omicron is highly contagious and can put a real damper on your Christmas plans. So for us it's another year at home; watching the Oscar contenders on screeners and ordering dinner from Mary's Sunday Roast Service. To be honest this is our first year in our new house and I am happy to just relish some time off and enjoy the tree.

Whatever you decide to do please be safe and see you in the new year...when things can ONLY GET BETTER!

With festive love
Craig Young

Meet a Member: Steven Donaldson

This week's member is Steven Donaldson from Manchester, who moved to LA 35 years ago, initially to pursue a writing career and just last week finished his first children's book, The Adventures of Bobby the Big Red Bus.

Tell us why you chose to live in Los Angeles

I lived in San Francisco at first but could not find any palm trees, sandy beaches or Hollywood movie stars, so I quickly moved to LA where such things were plentiful. It proved to be the perfect move as there is always plenty of fun in the sun. Firstly, I was publisher of an ex-pat newspaper called The British Observer for five years and later I launched a Hollywood tour bus company.

What do you miss most about home?

The witty and sarcastic people that we call our friends back home and of course the pubs.

What was your first impression of LA – and has it changed since?

The size and vastness of LA with its 88 cities and vastly different ethnic cultures from East Los Angeles to Beverly Hills makes LA the greatest city in America. I came to LA in 86 and it has changed and not for the better, but as the song goes "I Love LA".

What do you think is the biggest difference to LA and Manchester?

The main difference is the bright blue sky and the energy of a dynamic city, where anything is possible. Manchester has grey skies but is still a dynamic city itself.

Do you have a hidden gem you would care to share with us?

Yes, a hidden gem is the Brits in LA Trivia Night with Sandro Monetti at the Market Tavern in the Original Farmer's Market. It's a great place to see friends each week, have a laugh and a good time and see how little I know when it comes to trivia!

What would you suggest to others thinking of making them ove here?

Los Angeles is the city where dreams can come true. But success does not come easy here. Be prepared to work hard and compete with hundreds of thousands of other people who also want their dreams to come true! Speaking of which it took me years to formulate a children's book but now it is a reality.

Lots of our members join Brits in LA seeking words of wisdom. What is the best advice you have ever been given?

You find out who your real friends are when you really need help or money

Lastly, how can we find out more about you? Are you working on anything at the moment?

As the owner of The Big Red Bus Company in Hollywood I am involved in the LA tourist business. Having been running double

Steven Donaldson: businessman, and now author decker buses since 2006 and seeing the happiness that they bring to the people of Los Angeles, especially the children, I decided to write a children's book for 2-5 year-olds set in a factory in London that makes red double decker buses. The first book in the series is now available, just in time for Christmas, on Amazon US and UK and is entitled The Adventures of Bobby the Big Red Bus. Email thebigredbusone@yahoo.com

THE ADVENTURES OF BOBBY THE BIG RED BUS: THE JOURNEY BEGINS. Paperback 2021

Bobby is a big red London Double Decker bus who brings fun and joy to everyone he encounters. Follow Bobby and his friends on the road to adventure in a story that will charm children and adults alike.

"Children's literature has a wonderfully winning new character in Bobby The Big Red Bus. I predict readers will be getting on board for years to come with these charming adventures." - Sandro Monetti

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person

JOE ROOT: two half centuries only for the England captain during England's dismal start to the Ashes series

I'll soon be back in the runs, vows Root

England captain Joe Root says he will "bang out a hundred" as the tourists plot an Ashes fightback in the Boxing Day Test.

Having lost the opening two Tests of the five-match series in Brisbane and Adelaide, England must win the final three matches, starting in Melbourne on Sunday, to regain the Ashes.

And Root says he hopes to deliver England fans a late Christmas present.

"I feel in a really good place with my batting," said Root.

"I feel confident I can, in these next three games, bang out a hundred in these conditions. I know that's a brave thing to say but my conversation rate, this year, it's not been an issue at all.

"I expect a response from our players and I would like to bring a nice Christmas present home for everyone who stays up.

"There is plenty of motivation for the group and we are doing everything we can to make sure it is 2-1 by the time we leave here.

"If we perform anywhere like we can do, we'll put them in an uncomfortable position, we'll push back and we'll find ourselves in a very different situation leaving

So far in the series, the Yorkshireman has scored two half-centuries, including a top score of 89 in England's second innings in the first Test.

Root has enjoyed a record-breaking 2021, with his haul of 1,630 Test runs making him the 4-1.

League Cup specialist Nketiah was one of those to come in and produced a goalscoring performance that will have him knocking on the door for more first-team involvement.

The forward has now scored five in three games on Arsenal's run to the last four, but has leading Englishman and fourth on the all-time list over a calendar year.

"I have an understanding of how I want to score my runs," he added. "There's clarity there, I just need to keep putting myself in those positions, just have the bit between my teeth."

Root has scored six centuries since January but he will be chasing a first Ashes Test ton on Australian soil at the MCG.

He will be aiming to regain the spot for number one Test batter in the world after he was leapfrogged by Australia's Marnus Labuschagne last week.

"I've never been one for that stuff, but it would be nice to have it back for Christmas," he said.

only seen 38 minutes of Premier League action this season and reportedly turned down a new contract, with his current deal ending in the summer.

Nketiah netted all three of his goals from around the six-yard box as the poacher bundled in the opener with his knee, got across his marker to steer Tavares' whipped ball in for his second and then added a delightful third.

Jota on the spot as Reds edge into semi Diogo Jota fired home the decisive penalty as Liverpool came back from two goals down to reach their first Carabao Cup semi-final since 2017 thanks to a thrilling shootout victory against Leicester at Anfield.

Introduced as a half-time substitute in Wednesday night's thriller, with his side 3-1 down, Jota breathed life into the home side when he belted Takumi Minamino's pass into the corner.

Minamino then took the contest to penalties when he controlled James Milner's cross and fired it past Kasper Schmeichel, who had already denied Jota an equaliser with a brilliant reaction save.

The Japanese star, so often overlooked by manager Jurgen Klopp, had the chance to be the hero but fired his penalty over the bar after Caoimhin Kelleher had denied Luke Thomas.

But Ryan Bertrand's

miss immediately afterwards gave Jota the chance to win it in sudden death and the Portuguese kept his nerve to steer Liverpool into the last four and a meeting with Arsenal.

Klopp's triple half-time substitution was the response to some porous defending that led to two Jamie Vardy goals and what should have been a hat-trick for the veteran forward, who fired against a post with only Kelleher to beat.

Vardy's first, from James Maddison's pass, was a lesson in finding space before the striker's shot found the opposite corner. His second just needed prodding into an empty net as Patson Daka ran beyond the Liverpool defence and squared for his team-mate.

In addition, Maddison drove a fierce 25-yard effort into the roof of Kelleher's goal, taking full advantage of a ricochet off Alex Oxlade-Chamberlain.

The Liverpool man was responsible for the home contribution to a breathless opening 33 minutes when he rifled in a first-time effort from Roberto Firmino's lay-off.

As Liverpool tried to fight back from 3-1 down, Caglar Soyuncu made a superb block to deny Firmino at the start of the second period.

Where Vardy found space in the first half, Soyuncu denied the Brazilian, who was about to shoot from barely eight yards.

Sadly for the Turkey defender, it was his last involvement as he immediately signalled discomfort, which manager Brendan Rodgers will hope is not a recurrence of the hamstring injury he has only just recovered from.

Soyuncu's exit was the trigger for Liverpool

JUBILATION: the scene at Anfield after Jota's decisive penalty to turn the match on its head.

Jota was a particular nuisance, drawing an outstanding save from Schmeichel that would have pulled the hosts level after he had halved the arrears.

Wilfred Ndidi's pace denied Roberto Firmino a clear run at goal but it was his failure to read a routine Milner cross that brought Liverpool the injury-time equaliser.

From there, Klopp's side took their the chance to reach the last four of a competition that dominated by Manchester City in recent years - but will this term be fought out without the holders, as another four of England's biggest clubs do battle instead.

Bad luck for Black Cats as Nketiah stars for Gunners

Eddie Nketiah continued his prolific form in the Carabao Cup with a clinical hat-trick as Arsenal saw off League One Sunderland to book their spot in the semi-finals on Tuesday.

The forward turned in from close range to open the scoring after Rob Holding's header was palmed into his path and Nicolas Pepe soon doubled the hosts' lead.

That looked to have put the Gunners in control only for Sunderland to hit back when Nathan Broadhead coolly clipped over the onrushing Bernd Leno from Elliot Embleton's superbly-weighted pass.

But Nketiah cleverly turned in a low Nuno Tavares cross straight after the break to re-establish the lead. The 22-year-old saved his best until last, though, flicking Pepe's pass between his legs and beyond goalkeeper Lee Burge.

competitive

Arsenal's 18-year-old debutant Charlie Patino then capped a superb night for the Gunners with an injury-time fifth at Emirates Stadium.

Sunderland were competitive but, despite Embleton curling against a post from distance, the visitors struggled to contain their top-flight hosts and it was a comfortable victory for Mikel Arteta's men.

Arteta celebrated his two-year anniversary as Arsenal boss on Monday and, while he has already delivered silverware in the form of the 2019-20 FA Cup, it feels for the first time like the Spaniard is beginning to see his desired philosophy take hold.

Without the distraction of European football, the Gunners are fourth in the top flight and can now look forward to a cup semi-final too.

Despite having Albert Sambi Lokonga, Pablo Mari and Calum Chambers missing after positive Covid tests, and Ainsley Maitland-Niles absent with illness, Arteta was still able to make nine changes from the side that beat Leeds cont. on page 14, col. 5
