Andrew loses military titles AND use of HRH

“Whether he’s guilty or not, he has brought things into disrepute... He’s not fit to serve in an honorary rank”

The Duke of York’s military titles and royal patronages have been returned to the Queen, Buckingham Palace has said.

Prince Andrew, 61, will also stop using the style His Royal Highness in an official capacity, a royal source said.

It comes as he faces a US civil action over sexual assault allegations - claims he has consistently denied.

A source close to the duke said he would “continue to defend himself” against the case brought in New York by Virginia Giuffre.

But the source insisted a judge’s ruling on Wednesday that the civil action could proceed was “not a judgement on the merits of Ms Giuffre’s allegations”.

Buckingham Palace said in a statement: “With the Queen’s approval and agreement, the Duke of York’s military affiliations and Royal patronages have been returned to the Queen.

“The Duke of York will continue not to undertake any public duties and is defending this case as a private citizen.”

All Prince Andrew’s roles have been returned to the Queen with immediate effect, and will be redistributed to other members of the Royal Family, a source said.

The issue had been widely discussed with the Royal Family, the source said.

‘unsavory business’

Like Harry and Meghan, Prince Andrew retains his title HRH but will not use it in any official capacity.

A spokesperson for the Ministry of Defence said it had no comment about the duke’s military titles being handed back to the Queen, and that it was a matter for the Palace.

On Thursday, a letter - released by anti-monarchy pressure group Republic - was signed by more than 150 Royal Navy, RAF and Army veterans asking the Queen to strip Prince Andrew of his eight British military titles.

Lt Stuart Hunt, who served in The 1st Royal Tank Regiment and signed the letter, welcomed the prince losing his military titles but suggested the matter should have been resolved sooner.

The 52-year-old told the PA News Agency: “It’s an unsavoury business... I’m just glad he’s not associated with the military now.

“Whether he’s guilty or not, he has brought things into disrepute... He’s not fit to serve in an honorary rank. He has forgone that right

All of Prince Andrew’s roles have been returned to his mother, the Queen by getting into this sort of situation.”

The duke had a 22-year career in the Royal Navy, and served as a helicopter pilot during the Falklands War.

The latest Palace announcement means he has lost military titles including Colonel of the Grenadier Guards - one of the most senior infantry regiments in the British army.

stepping back

The duke will also lose several overseas honorary roles including colonel-in-chief of The Royal Highland Fusiliers Of Canada, colonel-in-chief of the Royal New Zealand Army Logistic Regiment, colonel-in-chief of the Princess Louise Fusiliers of Canada and colonel-in-chief of the Queen’s York Rangers (1st American Regiment).

But he will retain his service rank of Vice-Admiral, the Palace has confirmed.

As an ex-member of the armed forces, he was promoted in line with his still-serving peers and made Vice-Admiral by the Navy on his 55th birthday in 2015.

The duke was due to be promoted to Admiral on his 60th birthday in 2020, but asked to defer this after stepping back from public duties in 2019.

At the time, the Palace said his other military appointments had been suspended.

Several other charities and organisations had cut their ties with the duke, but he continued to hold dozens of royal patronages - including being a patron or member of prestigious golf clubs, schools and cultural trusts.

Boris says sorry for 'Partygate' scandal as (most) Tories rally behind embattled leader

PM apologizes to the House for Downing Street drinks party; opposition parties continue to demand his resignation CABINET ministers have rallied round Boris Johnson after he apologized for attending a Downing Street drinks party during lockdown.

The embattled Prime Minister was urged to carry on leading the country out of the pandemic and deliver on the people's priorities – in the face of calls for his resignation from both opposition and his fellow Tory MPs over alleged rule-breaking in the No 10 garden.

Leading the plea for unity, Home Secretary Priti Patel urged the Tories to “put our shoulders to the wheel and back Boris to deliver”.

And Housing Secretary Michael Gove urged the party's MPs to rally behind the Prime Minister.

He said: “Boris gets the big calls right. Now is not the time to go wobbly.”

The show of support followed a dramatic statement on the scandal by Mr Johnson at Prime Minister's Questions on Wednesday.

In it, he said: “I offer my heartfelt apologies.”

Mr Johnson acknowledged the “rage” felt by many at reports of a “bring your own booze” party for staff in the Downing Street garden.

He said: “I want to apologise. I know that millions of people across this country have made extraordinary sacrifices over the last 18 months.”

After days of pressure to explain whether he attended the event, the PM confirmed he spent 25 minutes chatting to staff in the garden to thank them for their efforts in the Government's pandemic response.

He added: “I believed implicitly that this was a work event. But, with hindsight, I should have sent everyone back inside.”

“I regret the way that the event I have described was handled. I bitterly regret it and wish that we could have done things differently.”

The PM claimed the event may have “technically” been within the rules but accepted millions did not see it that way while appealing for MPs to await the report of an inquiry by senior civil servant Sue Gray.

He promised the Cabinet Office inquiry will establish the “full facts” about what happened at the Downing Street gathering on May 20, 2020.

In angry Commons attacks in response to his remarks, the Labour, Lib Dem and SNP leaders all demanded the PM's resignation.

And several senior Tories, including the party's Scottish leader, also urged him to quit.

But Cabinet ministers rejected the calls and urged the PM to carry on leading the country out of the pandemic.

In a text message to colleagues, Ms Patel said: “The Prime Minister has given his heartfelt apologies and taken responsibility for what has happened.”

“Now is the time to put our shoulders to the wheel and back Boris to deliver on the people's priorities.” It was claimed 20 out of 28 ministers had publicly backed the Prime Minister.

Chancellor Rishi Sunak said: “The PM was right to apologize and I support his request for patience while Sue Gray carries out her inquiry.”

Deputy Prime Minister Dominic Raab said Mr Johnson had given a “very clear account” of the staff gathering in the Downing Street garden. Mr Raab said: “He has been clear that he believed he was acting in accordance with the rules at the time but, of course, understands the perception that those in power are not following the rules that many others are required to. Particularly those who have been through hardship or lost loved ones, that's why he has apologised.”

Mr Raab described a question about whether he would run for the Tory leadership as “daft”.

Health Secretary Sajid Javid said: “I completely understand why people feel let down. The PM did the right thing by apologizing.”

“Now we need to let the investigation complete its work.”

But Opposition MPs mocked Mr Johnson's claims and called for his resignation.

Labour leader Sir Keir

Starmer said: “The Prime Minister is a man without shame.”

He accused Mr Johnson of “lying through his teeth”. He added: “The party is over, Prime Minister. The only question is, will the British public kick him out, will his party kick him out, or he will he do the decent thing and resign?”

Ian Blackford, the SNP's Westminster leader, said: “If the Prime Minister has no sense of shame, the Tory backbenchers must act to remove him.”

“They know that the damage is done.”

PM faces an anxious wait

Boris Johnson faces an anxious wait for the findings of an investigation into the Downing Street party claims by a civil servant who holds his fate “in her hands”.

Whitehall mandarin Sue Gray, who previously ended the careers of two Cabinet ministers, is probing a string of claims about gatherings.

Ms Gray could wrap up her inquiry as early as next week, although no timetable has been set.

Cabinet Office permanent secretary Ms Gray is a former ethics chief. She probed Tories Andrew Mitchell over “Plebgate” in 2012 and Damian Green in 2017, when pornography was found on his Commons computer.

Former senior civil servant Sir David Normington said Ms Gray, 65, was the “best person” to look into the allegations.

He said yesterday: “She has the confidence both of people who worked in previous governments, Labour and Conservative governments, so we are where we are.”

Sir David said it was “fairly unprecedented” for a civil servant to be investigating the behaviour of the Prime Minister and senior officials in No 10.

He said: “She will be very aware that she has the reputation and possibly the careers of senior civil servants and possibly of cont. on page 3, col. 1

the Prime Minister in her hands.

"That is a very difficult position to be in, however fair and fearless and rigorous you are."

Mr Johnson vowed to make a Commons statement once the inquiry concluded.

During a stormy session of Prime Minister's Questions, Mr Johnson offered "heartfelt apologies" for the "things that we simply did not get right".

He said: "All I ask is that Sue Gray be allowed to complete her inquiry into that day and several others, so that the full facts can be established."

"I will of course come back to this House and make a statement."

Environment Secretary George Eustice said circumstances were different in No10 in May 2020 than for other workplaces.

He said: "At that particular point obviously, most of us were working from home and even doing interviews from home."

"But it was different in No10 in the sense that the Prime Minister lives there and works there and there was a team dealing with Covid who were working there and had to work from there."

Mr Eustice admitted it was a "very difficult, uncomfortable time for the Prime Minister".

But he said it was for Ms Gray to investigate the reported events. Asked if the Prime Minister would resign if Ms Gray's report exposed wrongdoing, Mr Eustice said: "I don't think we should get ahead of ourselves here. We should take this a step at a time."

Ms Gray will look into seven gatherings, including claims that a No 10 event was held on December 18 2020 – the first allegation of rule-breaking parties.

Omicron leaves overstretched NHS facing some of the most difficult weeks in its history

Rising admissions and staff shortages leave health system on a knife edge

THE embattled NHS is facing some of the most critical weeks in its 73-year history, experts warned this week.

Health bosses said the situation is now so precarious that the quality of patient care is in danger as pressure intensifies.

At least 24 NHS trusts have declared critical incidents because of staff shortages and rising Covid admissions.

It comes as more older people are being admitted to hospital and the uptake of booster jabs is slowing in every age group.

That, coupled with traditional winter pressures, has created a perfect storm – leaving services from emergency care to routine surgery on a knife-edge.

Matthew Taylor, chief executive of the NHS Confederation, the voice of the UK healthcare system, said:

"The weeks ahead will be some of the toughest in the history of the National Health Service."

grim milestone

"Health leaders are battling an unprecedented staffing crisis. The quality of care is at risk of being compromised at a time of rocketing patient demand. NHS organisations do not declare critical incidents lightly but over two dozen have done so far."

Mounting concern over the ability of the NHS to withstand a third successive winter wave comes as the UK reached another grim milestone.

More than 150,000 people have died from Covid within 28 days of a positive test since the pandemic erupted in March 2020. The UK is the first country in Europe to pass the figure. Mr Taylor is demanding an urgent action plan to address the lack of "resilience" that has seen the NHS stretched to breaking point in the crisis.

He said: "The public inquiry into the pandemic will pose fundamental questions. It is crucial we learn the lessons."

"The NHS did not enter the pandemic in a resilient state following a decade of the lowest real terms funding increases in NHS history. That left us with 100,000 staff vacancies, run-down buildings, a lack of key equipment and without the effective testing capacity."

Pressures are set to increase with a slowdown in the booster jab programme.

Data show fewer than half of all adults in some of the UK's biggest cities – including Liverpool, Birmingham, Manchester and Nottingham – have had their third jab.

The UK also faces a shortage of fully-qualified surgeons as more than one million elective or non-urgent operations, in which trainees would have gained key experience, have been "lost" to the pandemic.

The monthly number is down 50 per cent on pre-Covid levels in some specialities.

The Royal College of Surgeons warned around half of surgeons in their final two years of training are not meeting "the requirement on numbers and experience to graduate from the training programme".

It prompted college president Prof Neil Mortensen to demand a recovery plan to support higher levels of planned surgery.

According to figures compiled by the Joint Committee on Surgical

There is mounting concern over the ability of the NHS to withstand a third successive winter wave of Covid Training, some 1,142,967 elective operations that involve trainees assisting or being supervised by a consultant have gone by the wayside.

Meanwhile, two-thirds of UK doctors have told the British Medical Association the spread of the Omicron variant is causing a dramatic slowdown in the provision of non-urgent medical care.

A snap survey showed one in five GPs has had to self-isolate in the past fortnight. Nine in 10 said clinical colleagues had to take sick leave or self-isolate within the same period, but less than half said they could always access lateral flow tests.

Dr Chaand Nagpaul, BMA council chair, said: "Omicron is battering our health service, forcing staff off sick, resulting in untold suffering for patients as a result.

"We currently have a record-breaking waiting list stretching to almost six million.

"These are people in distress, 312,000 of whom have already been waiting more than 12 months. As doctors, it is our job to provide the care they need and it's incredibly distressing when we can't do that."

To add to the crisis, from April all frontline NHS staff in England will need to have the Covid jab – or be redeployed. The boss of one of London's busiest hospitals is worried about losing medics as a result.

King's College Hospital chief Clive Kay said his job was to encourage workers to get jabbed – but 10 per cent of his 14,000 staff remain unvaccinated.

A similar policy is in place in social care in England – with care homes saying it has compounded staffing issues. The NHS is short of about 93,000 workers.

Hospitals are also under pressure from bed blocking, where patients healthy enough to leave wards are unable to do so because councils do not have space in care homes or staff to care for them at home.

One NHS trust recently turned a hotel into a care facility. Staff from Spain and Greece were flown in and at least 30 patients were discharged to stay with live-in carers at the Plymouth Hotel, Devon.

Andrew 'a dead man walking' after legal setback

■ Outlook for Prince looks bleak as his legal team's latest bid to have sex assault case thrown out fails

PRINCE Andrew was this week described as a "dead man walking" after his legal team's latest bid to have the sex assault case against him thrown out failed.

Prominent British lawyer Mark Stephens also urged the Duke of York to "fall on his sword" for the sake of the Royal Family after US Judge Lewis Kaplan ruled against four attempts to stop a civil trial going ahead in New York.

And an American lawyer claimed Ms Giuffre's lawyers may even try to gather evidence from the Queen, Andrew's wife Sarah or their two daughters, Princesses Beatrice and Eugenie.

Andrew, 61, now faces months of legal wrangling before a possible trial later this year that will leave an indelible black mark on the Queen's Platinum Jubilee.

"nowhere to go"

He will have to endure up to seven hours of questioning by lawyers for his accuser Virginia Giuffre as part of pre-trial evidence gathering – and is even likely to be asked intimate questions about his sex life, relationships and body.

English solicitor Mr Stephens said: "Prince Andrew has nowhere to go. He's effectively a dead man walking as far as the Royal Family is concerned.

"But the one thing he can do is accept the responsibility, accept the blame, accept that he has to fall on his sword for the sake of the wider Royal Family."

Mr Stephens – who specialises in media law, intellectual property rights and human rights with legal firm Howard Kennedy LLP – represented James Hewitt when he revealed his affair with Diana, Princess of Wales.

Ms Giuffre, 38, alleges she was forced to sleep with Andrew when she was 17 – a minor under US law – in London and New York, and again when she was 18 on Little St James in the US Virgin Islands.

Andrew vehemently denies sleeping with her while she was controlled by his friends, the late paedophile Jeffrey Epstein and Ghislaine Maxwell, convicted of sex trafficking late last month.

private parts

The Duke has said he has no recollection of meeting Ms Giuffre, despite a now infamous photo that appears to show him with his arm around the then 17-year-old at Maxwell's house in London.

US lawyer Spencer Kuvin, who has represented victims of Epstein, said "nothing" and "no one" was "off-limits" after the Duke's car crash telly interview in 2019.

He told the Daily Express: "Andrew's disastrous BBC Newsnight interview will haunt him. He mentioned his wife as well as his daughters. They can now all legally be deposed.

"The lawyers could even try for the Queen. I don't doubt they will, but as a sovereign, it will be almost impossible to do." He added: "It is without question the Duke will be asked about his private parts.

"Because if she [Giuffre] can describe them accurately, how would that be if they had not had a relationship?"

Mr Kuvin – who famously asked Epstein to describe his private parts when he was sued by three of his young victims in 2009 – also estimated that Andrew's accuser could win at least £14million in damages.

settlement

Unless the Prince finds further grounds to dismiss the lawsuit, a trial date could be set for between September and December this year. Ms Giuffre's case will now proceed to the "discovery phase", when both sets of lawyers exchange information about the witnesses and evidence they will present at trial.

Andrew could offer to make an out-of-court settlement, but sources close to him say that "is not an option at present".

Meanwhile sources close to Ms Giuffre have cast doubt over whether she would accept a settlement unless the Duke

The Duke has said he has no recollection of meeting Ms Giuffre admitted wrongdoing. Andrew will not need to travel to the US to make his deposition under questioning from Ms Giuffre's lawyer, David Boies.

In his ruling on Wednesday, Judge Kaplan said a 2009 agreement between Ms Giuffre and Epstein protecting "potential defendants" from prosecution was unclear and therefore insufficient to have the lawsuit dismissed. The judge also found her claims against the Duke "legally sufficient" and the New York law she was suing under constitutional.

He also dismissed Andrew's argument that he deserved the allegations against him to be told in much more detail at this stage.

But he gave the Prince a glimmer of hope by suggesting he would get another chance to have the case dismissed after the discovery stage.

If the trial goes ahead, a panel will decide if Ms Giuffre's claims are true on "the preponderance of the evidence" – not beyond reasonable doubt, as in a criminal trial.

Lily: it's not easy being Baywatch star Pamela

DOWNTON Abbey's Lily James says playing Pamela Anderson is one of her most challenging roles yet.

The British actress, 32, is starring in Pam & Tommy on the US TV channel Hulu.

It follows Pamela's relationship with Motley Crue drummer Tommy Lee, played by Sebastian Stan, and the 1995 sex tape scandal.

As the swimsuit-wearing ex-Playboy model, Lily wore prosthetics to mimic the pin-up's famous bust.

And she has told fashion website Porter how playing the Baywatch star was "liberating" but she's "never worked so hard".

Lily said: "I read the books Pamela has written, I read her poetry, I can parrot along to all her interviews.

"I love that about acting; you fit into a

NOW STREAMING: Lily James and Sebastian Stan star in Pam & Tommy character, and you realise you're not as different as you might have thought."

Lily said her makeup and costume took four hours a day.

She went on: "I've never done anything where I look very different from myself before. And I'd really like to continue in this vein, because I felt there was something very freeing and liberating in it.

"I really enjoyed the physicality and the sensuality, even down to the long fingernails!"

She said the sex tape scandal provoked an internet and celebrity culture that "now, I believe is just way out of hand".

And she believes Pamela was exploited. Lily said: "When you look at some of her interviews from the 1990s, the misogyny is so striking"

In Pam & Tommy, an actor-turned-electrician steals the sex tape in a row about a $20,000 debt. It became an internet phenomenon.

Ricky: luvvies a huge turn-off

RICKY Gervais says people are fed up of showbiz stars hypocritically lecturing them on green issues.

The comedy legend described poking fun at celebs with his awards speeches as a "spectator sport".

He said: "The first time, it was like 'who does he think he is, having a go at these wonderful actors we love?'"

"And by the fifth time I did it, people go 'yeah, give it to them'. Because people have got sick of virtue signalling."

"People have got sick of multi-millionaires telling ordinary people they should recycle when everyone knows they've just been to an awards in a limo in a $5,000 tuxedo, and I think it hit all the right notes."

He admitted he only agreed to host an awards show for the big pay check and the chance to have a dig.

The Office creator, 60, said of the events: "They're boring. They're all awful. Who wants to watch three hours of rich beautiful people slapping each other on the back?"

He took the Golden Globes gig a decade ago after producers told him he could say what he wanted.

Ricky revealed: "I had to make the decision, do I pander to the 200 people in the room, or the 200 million people at home who aren't winning awards, that aren't millionaires? Again, no brainer."

"I tried to make it a spectator sport because those people at home they're not millionaires and they're not winning awards. I've got to punch up at the organizations, I've got to have a go at NBC, I've got to have a go at the billionaires."

In his final hosting of the Golden Globes in 2020, Ricky told the luvvies: "The companies you work for - unbelievable."

"Apple, Amazon, Disney. If Isis starting a streaming service, you'd call your agent, wouldn't you?"

Springing for a new mattress...

YOU'VE MADE YOUR bed, now you have to lie in it.

That old chestnut was very much on my mind this week as Michael and I went mattress shopping.

I've always been a bit of a princess and the pea when it comes to mattresses - it has to be the right night, the right mix of firm and soft, it has to keep me cool at night and I have to be able to fall into a deep sleep.

The process seems like fun, until you realize that it's a very expensive decision if you pick the wrong one... as we found out recently.

Our mattress of 10 years had served us well but now was sagging a little, was getting a lumpy in all the wrong places. A bit like me!

A visit to Sit n Sleep is kinda gross really. A shopfront warehouse jam-packed with nothing but...beds. Plus a smug carpet bagger snake oil salesman pointing you to a machine to test your comfort level. With a screen on the ceiling of the canopy guiding you through the various levels. 1 for pavement lovers or a 10 for fans of the quicksand variety.

You've heard the commercials... with owner Larry: "We'll match anyone's advertised price or your mattress is freeeeeeeeeee" or more appropriate is the "yer killing me Larryyyyyy". We ought to have known. Anyway after rolling in the deep on 10-15 beds, spending a couple of hours we'd never get back, we narrowed it down to two. But seriously testing a bed for 2-3 minutes is nowhere near enough to commit for a decade or more of zzzzzzs.

"You can keep the bed for 30 nights at home and if it's not to your liking you can return it" Chad says (not his real name: to protect the douchebag)

First choice bad...

So we decided to go with the most expensive one because you know because we had a good year and the 10yr warranty and if your spending 8+ hrs every night in something you might as well get it right!

Now Chad starts talking about throwing in pillows and sheets for free to sweeten the deal and mentions a restocked version of this bed for $1k off. Plus a promise of it being sanitized and mattress protected for ultimate cleanliness.

We've slept in a gazillion hotel beds and not bat and eyelid — how bad could it be?

The bed we chose was a Technogel bed. If you believe the blurb "Technogel blends innovative German engineering and Italian design to create mattresses, pillows, seat pads and other consumer products that deliver exceptional comfort and ergonomic support. It is the first and only mattress brand to feature a thick layer of patented gel. As such, a Technogel mattress deliver cool, comfortable support that is scientifically proven to help you sleep better."

We were so excited on delivery day..everything went smoothly we washed the new sheets and made the bed and that night turned out the lights and turned in the bed.

Cut to: 8 hrs later I'm waking up for work and I am exhausted. Literally feel like I've been hit by a truck, I decided not to say anything to Michael, because you know maybe it was like a bad date that deserves a second dinner?

The next morning I wake up feeling even worse with a pain in my side, maybe it's a kidney stone deciding it wants to pass through!

By day three I'm a zombie, so tired from tossing and turning I eventually drop a few questions "how do you like the bed? "Are you sleeping through the night?"

The hubby (ever honest) turns to me and says "I hate it" he said "I just didn't want to disappoint you or seem like I was complaining."

"Same." We don't need the full 90 days and our sleep-happiness was in dire need of being restored immediately.

Now here's the kicker — "Chad" decided we couldn't return in because it was a restocked item. Which "Chad" failed to mention when we gladly signed the small print on his electric key pad' but said we signed it so you know. Tough. A sale is a final sale.

Now, if you know my hubby. He's Italian and let me tell you, you don't wanna get on the wrong side of him. Let's say Chad might end up sleeping with the fishes.

Calmly surpassing his inner Karen, he called customer service and told them our story. The decided to make an "exemption" and allowed us to exchange the bed for a one time only deal. So this next bed has to be the one. No pressure.

So... a week later we go to a different Sit n Sleep store and spend another hour trying out beds and let's just say this bedtime story has a happy ending.

We chose a pillow-top bed a few grand cheaper than the modern space-age bed, it's much more like our old one before it got beat up and I'm happy to report for the last few days we have both been sleeping like babies.

Moral of the story: beware of the salesman and don't always go for the flashy new more expensive option.

'Til next time...Sleep well my darlings, - Craig Young

Meet a Member: Mark Skelton

Not all Brits in LA Members live in Los Angeles: in fact a fair number are scattered around the globe.

This week's Meet a Member is Mark Skelton who lives in Ohio.

Since you don't live in Los Angeles how did you end up joining Brits in LA?

I joined by osmosis many moons ago. Most of the 'cool' people I met in LA were always somehow connected to Brits in LA. Whether it was at the breakfast meet-ups at Cecconi's or an after-party at Soho House, I always met new interesting friends.

Have you ever visited Los Angeles? If so we would love to hear your impression of LA?

I left London in early 2006 and lived in LA until late 2019. I fell in love with LA the moment I landed. As the movie says, "everyone in Hollywood has a dream." LA is where those dreams come to life or die. It's not for the faint of heart. It's people are nomadic, culturally diverse and you never know who you'll bump into. I've stood in line with Al Pacino at Starbucks, chatted with Larry King about life on the sidewalk and shared a fatherly-nod with Mark Wahlberg at Tom's Toys as our kids ransacked the place.

Do you think you could ever see yourself moving back to LA, if not tell us what keeps you in Ohio?

I work remotely for a Santa Monica based tech company, so I'm in daily contact with my LA friends and business contacts. My wife, two children and I moved to Ohio to be closer to family. I travel to LA for business meetings, so I can always get my fix! As for moving back one day, never say never. So much good in my life comes from LA: I met my wife at a Playboy Golf pool party in the Roosevelt Hotel; both our children were born in Santa Monica and I've made life-lasting friends and memories there. LA will always be close to my heart.

Do you have a hidden gem that you want to share with us?

For some soul-quenching Malibu beach vibes, go to a little-known public access gate on Malibu Road. If you want to spot celebrities in their natural habitat, visit Beverly Drive in Beverly Hills.

Why would you recommend other overseas/ out of town readers joining Brits in LA?

LA can be lonely without a network of friends. Brits in LA has an in-built network of friendly, driven movers and shakers always up for a good time. No one knows a city like the locals, so tap into their knowledge and you'll experience the best LA has to offer when you visit.

We hear you have been working on an exciting project. Care to tell us more about it?

Although our background is in film and TV production, my partners and I have recently entered the tech-startup space. Our new app, JamSpot, was built to connect creatives and business professionals with inspiring and unique meeting spaces on the go. Think of it as your own on-demand 'private members club' on your phone. A JamSpot could be a high-end restaurant closed during the day, a museum, a comedy club or a hotel rooftop. To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of TIEN DO

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Lauren Feldman in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Lauren Feldman be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A HEARING on the petition will be held on Feb. 4, 2022 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 11 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

(This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 02/01/22 at 8:30AM in Dept. 4 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. The undersigned or its predecessor caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (844) 477-7869 or visit this Internet Web site WWW.STOXPOSTING.COM, using the file number assigned to this case 070158-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 070158-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by TONY MCNEAL in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that TONY MCNEAL be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The WILL and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act with limited authority. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 02/16/22 at 1:30PM in Dept. 44 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

10-man Gunners shut down free-scoring Reds

Carabao Cup: honors even as Arsenal hold Liverpool in semi-final first leg

Arsenal manager Mikel Arteta praised his side's "fight, determination and brotherhood" after the 10-man Gunners frustrated Liverpool in the first leg of their Carabao Cup semi-final at Anfield on Thursday.

Granit Xhaka was dismissed after 24 minutes for denying a goalscoring opportunity - the Swiss midfielder catching Diogo Jota with a high challenge on the edge of his penalty area as he attempted to cut out Andrew Robertson's pass.

Trent Alexander-Arnold could not punish Arsenal further from the resulting free-kick, however, and the visitors produced a resolute defensive display to leave on level terms.

Despite coming under intense pressure it was Arsenal who registered the first shot on target 71 minutes into the contest, but a poor first touch by Bukayo Saka allowed Alisson to smother the England international's shot at close range.

Takumi Minamino blazed over the crossbar when faced with an open goal with Liverpool's best chance of the match in the closing stages.

HE'S AT IT AGAIN: Granit Xhaka was sent off for the fifth time in his Arsenal career on Thursday night

"They never gave up even though it's extremely difficult against this opponent," said Arteta.

"I said to the players before the game that you have to have a certain attitude and in difficult moments you have to react - I think the boys did that very well," he added.

"We played the game we had to play. I'm expecting now our fans will create an even better atmosphere [in the second leg] than today."

The second leg takes place at Emirates

Stadium next Thursday at 19:45 GMT.

The winner will face Chelsea in the final at Wembley at the end of February, after Thomas Tuchel's side completed a 3-0 aggregate victory over Tottenham on Wednesday.

Root demands 'one last push' from his battered and bruised team

JOE ROOT has urged his England team to make one last push after they secured a dramatic draw in Sydney in the Fourth Test and sign off with victory in Hobart.

But at the end of a miserable Ashes series, during which England have been found to be way off the pace in every department, the skipper's request seems somewhat fanciful to say the least.

Just because the ledger says 'draw' it would be foolish to ignore the fact that it took every last ounce of effort from a broken, bruised and battered team to survive with only their final wicket intact in the fourth Test.

These are not the conditions in which a side is set to turn things around and suddenly find another level at which to operate, especially with potentially two players, Ben Stokes and Jonny Bairstow, carrying injuries into the final game in Tasmania.

Root, though, must believe better times lie will be a pretty damning statement without the need for words.

Root said: "We need to win this week to instil a bit of pride back in from the way the first three games unfolded.

"We made a small step forward last week in the way we went about things and now we have to shift that into an actual performance. We have to show the desire, character and what this group is about.

"But ultimately you have to put that into wins. We have to take the next step as a team.

"In many ways it is one last push. You can have some time to reflect and relax at the end of it."

There has been plenty of emphasis on player health and well-being in recent months.

Root, though, was also keen to point out the basics of fitness and athleticism when it comes to playing Test cricket.

And he used the ahead and needs to find a way to transfer that confidence to his players, with the help of returning head coach Chris Silverwood.

Silverwood has been given Root's support ahead of the match.

However, for both men it is the support of the players - in the shape of their performances - that really matters most.

And if England collapse in a heap this week having shown a glimpse of something more, it
