Boris 'sorry' as Tory rebels plot ouster

- PM apologizes to voters and Queen over Downing Street drinks parties
- One Tory defects to Labour as rebel group seeks leadership challenge

BORIS JOHNSON faced the most difficult week of his tenure at No. 10 this week, as he was forced to apologize for the 'Partygate' scandal while battling a growing revolt from within his own party.

The embattled Prime Minister repeatedly apologized to both the Queen and voters over drinking parties at Downing St during Covid restrictions, Mr Johnson addressed the issue on Tuesday as a gang of around 20 backbenchers who won seats in his 2019 election triumph met to discuss forcing a vote of no-confidence in him.

Speculation about Mr Johnson's future grew as a seventh MP was revealed to have sent a letter urging a leadership contest to heads of the Tories' influential 1922 Committee.

Christian Wakeford, MP for Bury South, was named as having contacted chairman Sir Graham Brady – several more MPs from the latest Commons intake are thought to be on the brink of sending in letters.

The scheming to dethrone the Prime Minister was tagged the "pork pie plot" at Westminster after Tory whips identified Alicia Kearns – MP for Rutland and Melton, home of the pastry meat treat – as one of the ringleaders.

"misjudgments"

Gary Sambrook, Birmingham Northfield MP, and Chris Loder (West Dorset) – both 2019 arrivals – were named as plotters. Under Tory rules, 54 signatures would trigger a vote. At press time reports suggested that number was around 30. But one unnamed Senior Conservative backbencher hinted they are confident of getting to 54.

Speaking to the BBC, the MP said: "I think we've done it, difficult to tell though. Lots of shift today. The Whips operation completely backfired. Colleagues now have a sense they aren't alone."

Details of the rebels – mostly MPs in northern England seats – emerged after Mr Johnson made an emotional public apology to the Queen and nation for "misjudgments" made on gatherings at No10 during Covid curbs.

He said sorry 10 times in a TV interview but rejected allegations from ousted chief adviser Dominic Cummings that he ignored warnings a "bring your own booze" garden gathering broke the rules.

The PM's allies were infuriated by the plotters, with one saying: "It's pretty sickening. They were only elected because of him. Most of them are a load of nobodies."

Meanwhile a downcast

Trust me, I went to Eton: Boris Johnson in full contrition made this week

Mr Johnson, in his first official visit in a week, expressed regret over the leaving bash for civil servants at No10 the night before Prince Philip's funeral.

His head bowed in sorrow, he said he took "full responsibility" and apologised to the country.

A Savanta ComRes opinion poll showed nearly two thirds (65 per cent) of voters say the party scandal has made them think worse of the Tories, including half of those who voted for them in 2019.

But the PM denied he ignored warnings on the garden gathering: "I can tell you categorically, categorically, that nobody told me and nobody said that this was something that was against the rules or was a breach of the Covid rules or we were doing something that wasn't a work event because, frankly, I don't think, I can't imagine why on earth it would have gone ahead."

On a visit to Finchley Memorial Hospital in north London, he faced press questions on Mr Cummings' claim he lied over rule breaking at No10. Apologising for two sessions hours before the Duke of Edinburgh's funeral, the Prime Minister said: "I deeply and bitterly regret that that happened."

Johnson's allies tried blackmail to keep me in line, claims Tory defector

■ Christian Wakeford says whips told him to back Boris or lose school funds

The former Conservative MP Christian Wakeford has alleged that party whips told him he would lose funding for a new high school in his constituency if he did not vote with the government.

The claim came as the senior Conservative William Wragg urged MPs to report government ministers, whips and advisers to the Speaker – and even the police – for what he claimed was attempted blackmail of some colleagues suspected of possibly opposing Boris Johnson.

Speaking at a Labour event on Thursday, Wakeford backed up the claims by Wragg that threats involving public money were made by the whips.

"I was threatened that I would not get a school for Radcliffe if I did not vote in one particular way," he said. "This is a town that has not had a high school for the best part of 10 years.

"How would you feel when they hold back the regeneration of a town for a vote. It didn't sit comfortably. That was the start of me questioning my place, where I was and ultimately to where I am now."

'shocking'

Wragg, who chairs the public administration and constitutional affairs committee (PACAC), which looks into the work of government and the civil service, said whips had threatened to withdraw funding from the constituencies of MPs

CHRISTIAN WAKEFORD: "I was threatened that I would not get a school for Radcliffe if I did not vote in one particular way," opposing Johnson.

Mr Johnson denied the reports. When questioned about the matter on Thursday, he said: "I have seen no evidence [and] heard no evidence."

But asked if he would look into the reports, he replied: "Of course."

Labour's deputy leader Angela Rayner called the claims "shocking" and Lib Dem leader Sir Ed Davey accused Mr Johnson of "acting more like a mafia boss than a prime minister".

Scotland's First Minister, the SNP's Nicola Sturgeon, said: "If Tories are threatening to withhold public investment from constituencies as a way of keeping MPs in line then, yes, that's blackmail and intimidation - but it is also corruption.

"The moral decay at the heart of Johnson's government may be even worse than we thought."

But Culture Secretary Nadine Dorries accused Mr Wragg of "attention-seeking behaviour", calling his accusations "nonsense".

And Energy Minister Greg Hands, who used to work as a government whip, said Mr Wakeford was not a "credible source" because his defection meant his job was now to "do down the Conservative Party".

'Peak of outbreak over' as infections plummet

THE Omicron wave appears to have passed its peak as cases fell by a fifth in a week, figures showed this week.

Just under 3.4 million people were thought to have been infected across the UK last week, down from 4.3 million in the previous week.

In England, one in 15 people were thought to have had the Covid variant during the week to January 15, the equivalent to around three million people nationally, according to the Office for National Statistics (ONS).

Of the UK's four nations, only Northern Ireland had a small increase. Cases there rose from an estimated 99,200 to 104,300. A further 108,069 cases were reported in the daily UK count yesterday, down from more than 129,000 last week.

The ONS Covid infection survey is considered the gold standard for tracking the spread of the virus, as it relies on swab tests from a random population sample.

Experts welcomed the fall, but some said caution was still needed after Plan B restrictions disappear.

Professor Francois Balloux, of the UCL Genetics Institute, said: "The situation provides a case for lifting restrictions, though healthcare remains under severe stress and the transition into a long-term, lower number of daily cases needs to be managed carefully.

"An overly fast return to pre-pandemic behaviour could lead to viral flares, which could cause considerable problems for the NHS and may risk further delaying the return to 'post-pandemic normal'."

Prof Dame Anne Johnson, president of the Academy of Medical Sciences, said: "It's encouraging to see the numbers of Covid-19 cases are falling. However, we're still seeing an infection level of one in 20.

"Even as restrictions are relaxed, everyone can still take measures to manage the risk of infection, both to themselves and those around them who may be more vulnerable."

Cellular microbiology expert Dr Simon Clarke, of the University of Reading, said although immunity was keeping people out of intensive care, it was like "trying to fill a bath that leaks". He said: "Mass vaccination and widespread recent infections have topped up the nation's immunity, but that will soon start to deplete. If there is still a lot of virus circulating, an Omicron bounce is possible."

given a formal apology to Buckingham Palace aides. The Queen had sat apart from her family as she mourned her husband in April 2020.

Mr Johnson, wearing a mask, continued: "I can only renew my apologies both to Her Majesty and to the country for misjudgments that were made, and for which I take full responsibility.

"But nobody told me. Nobody said to me this is an event that is against the rules. My memory of this event, as I've said, is going out into the garden for about 25 minutes for what I implicitly thought was a work event and talking to staff, thanking staff, I can't remember exactly how many – but for about 25 minutes I was there. I then went back to my office.

"I do humbly apologise to people for misjudgments that were made. But that is the very, very best of my recollection."

Asked if he could survive the row, Mr Johnson said: "I understand why people feel as strongly as they do about this issue. I repeat my apologies for what happened. I'm heartily, heartily sorry."

Canada's Prince Andrew High School announces plan to change name

■ Nova Scotia school attempts to distance itself from the growing controversy surrounding the Duke of York

A Canadian high school named after the Duke of York has announced plans to rename itself, in an attempt to distance itself from the growing controversy surrounding the Queen's second son.

The principal of Prince Andrew high school in the province of Nova Scotia told families on Wednesday to expect the change as the school looks for a name that "upholds our values as a safe and inclusive" space.

"The name of a school should be reflective of our school community... Our hope is to continue to build our identity as a positive, supportive and respectful community, with a name to match," principal Craig Campbell wrote in an email.

concerns

The high school of nearly 800 students was named in 1960 to commemorate the birth of Prince Andrew. While most students call the school "PA", the recent accusations against the Duke of York mean the name is no longer tenable, the school said.

Community members initially raised concerns over the name in 2019, but efforts to rename the school faced opposition from alumni and residents concerned over the loss of a historical connection.

Andrew is facing a possible lawsuit here in the United States amid accusations he assaulted Virginia Giuffre when she was a teenager. She alleges she was trafficked by the Duke's friend, Jeffrey Epstein, the convicted sex offender, and was compelled to have sex with Andrew when she was 17. Andrew has repeatedly denied both the allegations and ever meeting Giuffre, despite a photograph of the two together.

concerns

Last week the Queen stripped her second son of his honorary military affiliations, leaving three Canadian regiments without a royal patron. Andrew's official Twitter account, TheDukeOfYork, no longer exists and his YouTube account is no longer accessible.

The Canadian high school's decision to sever any association with Andrew comes more than two years after the SickKids Foundation in Toronto, the country's largest children's hospital, terminated Prince Andrew's role as patron. Ontario's Lakefield College school, which Andrew attended for a brief stint in his youth, ended the Duke's term as honorary chairman of the school's foundation board.

The school said it has already formed a six-person committee, comprising students, staff and community members as it begins the search for a new name. A local paper suggested Black civil rights leaders, trailblazing politicians, a slain police officer or the Indigenous name for the region as possible contenders for the rebranded school.

TWIT OFF TWITTER: Andy's troubles deepen....

Prince's Twitter account deleted

PRINCE Andrew's Twitter account has been deleted – days after the Queen forced him to step down permanently from his royal roles.

His @TheDukeofYork handle, which he used to promote his work, now brings up a blank page, apart from the message: "This account doesn't exist."

Separately, Andrew's YouTube account is no longer accessible and his Instagram account is now private.

His reduced status is also evident on the British monarchy's official website, where all his honorary positions and charity links have been removed.

Andrew is still listed under "Members of the Royal Family" but the website includes a passage explaining his "military affiliations and royal patronages have been returned to the Queen, and the Duke will continue to not carry out public duties".

It also uses the past tense to describe his royal jobs, saying: "An important part of the Duke of York's role was to support the Queen's work."

Andrew, 61, is still deciding whether to file a new motion to have his sexual assault civil trial in New York dismissed on the grounds his accuser, Virginia Giuffre, 38, lives in Australia and is not a US resident.

He has also not ruled out asking ex-wife Sarah and daughter Princess Beatrice for witness statements.

Ms Giuffre claims she was forced to have sex with Andrew by his friends, convicted paedophile Jeffrey Epstein and socialite Ghislaine Maxwell.

Denying the allegations, Andrew says he was at Woking Pizza Express with Beatrice and then looking after his daughters at home while Sarah went out on the night in 2001 when Ms Giuffre claims she was assaulted by him at Maxwell's London home.

At a public appearance this week Prince William ignored journalists when asked: "Do you support Prince Andrew?"

But Armed Forces Minister James Heapey branded the Duke's friendship with Epstein as "horribly ill-advised".

BBC license fee to be axed, says Culture Secretary

CULTURE Secretary Nadine Dorries says the BBC licence fee will be axed, with the broadcaster funded in some other way.

She has also given hope to over-75s who were forced to fork out to watch.

In a reference to the controversial decision to end free licences for older viewers, Ms Dorries said: "The days of the elderly being threatened with prison sentences and bailiffs knocking on doors are over".

She revealed her plans via Twitter this week, declaring: "This licence fee announcement will be the last."

This came after it emerged the licence fee will be frozen for two years from April.

It is worth £3.2billion annually to the BBC after rising from £157.50 to £159 last year, having tracked inflation since 2017.

Under the BBC's Royal

Charter, the money-spinner is guaranteed until at least December 31, 2027. After that the way the national broadcaster is paid for will be decided by the Government.

A BBC source said of the fee freeze: "Anything less than inflation would put unacceptable pressure on the BBC finances after years of cuts."

The source added there were "very good reasons for investing in what the BBC can do for the British public and the creative industries and the UK around the world".

An ally of Ms Dorries said: "There will be a lot of anguished noises about how [a fee freeze] will hit popular programmes but they can learn to cut waste like any other business. This will be the last BBC licence fee negotiation ever."

"Work will start next week on a mid-term review to replace the charter with a new funding formula.

"It's over for the BBC as they know it."

The Corporation has been arguing for licence fee rises sufficient at least to cover inflation in the next five years.

That is expected to hit 4.4 per cent next year and the broadcaster says it will struggle to meet the increasing cost of programming if the cash it gets from households does not go up at a similar rate. It pays for BBC shows and services – including TV, radio, the BBC website, podcasts, iPlayer and apps.

But Tory MPs have been arguing that the money people pay could be reduced owing to the success of paid-for streaming services such as Netflix – which costs from just £5.99 a month – and Amazon.

There is also Freeview and YouTube which are free to watch and paid for by advertising.

Lengthy negotiations

NADINE DORRIES: "The days of the elderly being threatened with prison sentences and bailiffs knocking on doors are over".

have already taken place between BBC bosses and the Government over a future funding settlement. Ms Dorries tweeted: "Time now to discuss and debate new ways of funding, supporting and selling great British content."

The BBC will have to negotiate with the Government over an entirely new funding model when the final licence fee funding deal expires in 2027 – with potential options including a subscription service, part-privatisation, or direct government funding.

A Government source said that "the days of state-run TV are over" and praised the growth of US-run private sector companies such as Netflix and YouTube.

Man shot dead in Texas siege was Briton seeking freedom for "lady Al Qaeda"

A MAN shot dead after taking four people hostage in a Texas synagogue was a Briton trying to win freedom for a terrorist dubbed "Lady Al Qaeda".

Malik Faisal Akram, 44, was killed after a 10-hour stand-off with American intelligence officers at Congregation Beth Israel temple in Colleyville, Texas, at the weekend.

Akram, who reportedly had backpacks of explosives and a gun, demanded the US release Pakistani terrorist Aafia Siddiqui – "Lady Al Qaeda" – who police say he called his "sister".

Akram, from Blackburn, stormed into the temple which was live streaming a service on its Facebook page at 11am on Saturday.

His English accent could be heard as he shouted instructions and demanded the release of Siddiqui, who was jailed for 86 years in 2010 after opening fire on Americans following her arrest in Afghanistan.

He could be heard saying: "You get my sister on the phone" and "I am gonna die". Akram also said: "There's something wrong with America." The feed was later taken down.

During "constant contact" between negotiators and hostage-taker, one man was released uninjured shortly after 5pm. Dramatic footage later revealed the moment two other hostages escaped from the temple.

Akram could be seen running out of the door as he chased after them with a gun, but he quickly retreated inside, closing the door after spotting the SWAT team. At 9pm, officers stormed the building and opened fire.

Foreign Secretary Liz Truss condemned Akram's "act of terrorism and anti-Semitism". She said: "My thoughts are with the Jewish community and all those affected by the appalling act."

"We stand with the US in defending the rights and freedoms of our citizens against those who spread hate."

In Blackburn, Akram's brother Gulbar issued a statement apologising to the victims and saying Akram had been suffering from "mental health issues".

Gulbar said he had liaised "with Faisal, the negotiators, FBI etc" during the siege but "there was nothing we could have said to him or done that would have convinced him to surrender".

He added: "We do not condone his actions. Any attack on any human being, be it a Jew, Christian or Muslim etc, is wrong and should be condemned."

80s Star Hazel out of coma

Punk legend Hazel O'Connor is in hospital after suffering a brain haemorrhage at her home in south-west France.

The Eighties singer, 66, (pictured, above) who was found by two friends, was put into an induced coma.

Her guitarist brother Neil said things were "touch and go" for 24 hours, but since being brought out of the coma she had made "a lot of progress".

He added: "Her recovery is going to take a while but she is tough and is responding to stimuli and to treatment."

"She's going to need patience from us and from herself. I've already learned that she's started to show her usual feistiness."

Coventry-born Hazel's friend, actress and singer Toyah Wilcox, 63, said: "You are in our prayers, you are in good hands and we love you."

Hazel had hits with Eighth Day and Will You?, and won a Bafta for playing a rebellious singer in the 1980 film Breaking Glass.

Stranded dog saved from rising tide after rescuers attach sausage to drone

As the tide rose, it began to look perilous for Millie the jack russell-whippet cross, who had defied the efforts of police, firefighters and coastguards to pluck her from treacherous mudflats.

So the rescuers had to think imaginatively, and came up with the idea of attaching a sausage to a drone and hoping the scent of the treat would tempt Millie to safety. It worked gloriously and Millie has been reunited with her grateful owner after following the dangling sausage to higher, safer ground.

Millie disappeared after slipping her lead in Havant, Hampshire, and after frantic public appeals was spotted on the mudflats, in danger of being engulfed by the tide. She resisted efforts to encourage her to a safer spot until a drone pilot suggested attaching food to one of the unmanned aerial vehicles that had been used to track the dog. "It was a crazy idea," said Chris Taylor, the chair of the Denmead Drone Search and Rescue team. But they pressed ahead and after checking Civil Aviation Authority regulations, and the MTOW [maximum takeoff weight] of their machines, the rescuers calculated they could attach a single sausage to a drone.

Taylor said: "One of the local residents on the beach where we were flying from supplied us with the sausages—I think they were from Aldi. The woman cooked them up for us and we attached them with string."

To the joy of the rescuers, Millie took the bait.

"If we hadn't had got her away from that area the tide would have come in and she would have been at risk of drowning," said Taylor. "It was something we had never tried before—the sausages were the last resort, as we couldn't reach her by kayak or any other means.

"Because Millie was hungry it worked at luring her away from the danger to higher ground, which wouldn't go underwater. We certainly would consider using sausages again: every dog and search operation is always going to be different, but if we were ever in a similar situation again we would employ the same methods to lure the dog."

All Creatures' great enthrall for Americans

All Creatures Great And Small is encouraging Americans to flock to Yorkshire – because it's an altogether different beast to their own TV shows.

With 10 million watching the first series on PBS, and the second series just starting, the New York Times saluted its escape from "yet another coronavirus spike and profound political division". Rolling Stone reviewer Alan Sepinwall said: "There was nothing I wanted to watch more than this gentle show, with its low-stakes plotting, lush scenery, adorable animals and ensemble of nice people.

"It is an incredible balm and a welcome contrast to the dumpster fire of our own reality."

Tim Barber, from Real Yorkshire Tours, says 90 per cent of his clients are Americans, mostly devoted to the show which stars Callum Woodhouse as Tristan Farnon and Nicholas Ralph as James Herriot. Tim said: "Somebody said to me, 'We love it because nothing ever happens.' There might be a slight problem birthing a cow, but people are used to violence on TV. It's wholesome and honest – it's how people would love to live."

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF TIEN DO

Case No. 21STPB1262

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of TIEN DO

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Lauren Feldman in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Lauren Feldman be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

The undersigned or its predecessor caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (844) 477-7869 or visit this Internet Web site WWW.STOXPOSTING.COM, using the file number assigned to this case 070158-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 070158-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. ## Happy Silver anniversary, Golden State

This week I reached quite a milestone. 25 years since I first set foot in Los Angeles.

At the time I had no idea that a quarter of a century later I would still be here, and a bona fide American to boot!

My first impression of LA was how damp it smelt; since then whenever I land at LAX that same smell hits me and transports me back to January 16th, 1997.

My visions of warm sunshine and walks on palm tree-lined beaches didn't quite match up to the LA I was greeted with. I was informed it was because it was rainy season; so nothing much has changed there then, has it?

To be honest not a lot else has changed since I made California my home. Being here for so long has actually highlighted the cyclical nature of the city, which is kind of comforting, as when times are tough you know that if you stick around to ride it out it will get better again.

It does feel like crime has definitely increased since I first arrived; although I do recall that the neighborhood I currently reside in was a definite 'avoid after dark' back in 1997. Which made me wonder if we are just more aware of it now? Not only do we have constant access to the world wide web via our smartphones but we also have Apps like Citizen and Nextdoor that alert us to everything and anything that might 'possibly, maybe' be a crime and they even manage to make Pasadena sound like a war zone.

So, of course, my curiosity got the better of me and after a bit more searching on the internet I managed to find a very informative no-nonsense website that just shows stats - it's laalmanac.com. It doesn't sensationalize statistics or appear to have any bias - just plain old-fashioned numbers. It turns out that violent crimes have reduced dramatically (according to the LA Almanac) - during my first year here there were 106,673 in total and 1,176 homicides. Compare that to 2020, there were 54,600 in total and 'only' 677 homicides.

Neither are great numbers but it just goes to show that things are actually improving... as after being bombarded with headlines like these it is no wonder most of the country is terrified - 'Progressive prosecutors blasted as homicide numbers climb in Los Angeles, other left-wing cities.' (credit to scaremongers - Fox News)

The only other big difference that I can think of is the ever-

WORDS TO LIVE BY: from the incomparable Doris Day

changing skyline. One of the things that I enjoy most about Los Angeles are the quirky mismatched buildings. Growing up on a London council estate, I was surrounded by blocks of flats, each one exactly alike except for the numbers on the doors. Beyond that were streets full of rows of identical Victorian terraced houses, and whilst they are very lovely, each was indistinguishable from the next. Like many of us, I quickly became enamored with the idiosyncratic architecture that Los Angeles is renowned for - one of my favorites has to be the very peculiar witches' house in Beverly Hills. Whilst I would never want to live there, I love knowing it exists as a private family home. If you wander through the flats of Beverly Hills or take a walk around Hancock Park you are bound to come across a fake Tudor house sitting right next to a Spanish style villa which is adjacent to a huge plantation style house which is often bookended by Craftsman homes (possibly my favorite), which will sadly be demolished to make way for something much taller, sexier and sleeker. I find it quite upsetting to see all these perfectly lovely buildings having to make way for the new trends but I also appreciate that a city like Los Angeles has reinvention in its DNA. And that is really what makes it so appealing to us all.

Obviously, any anniversary gives you pause for thought; questions involving many 'what ifs?'. The great thing about living here is that you are surrounded by people having the same doubts and also reassuring you that there is no wrong or right answer. The laid-back attitude is one of the things I probably love most about LA - it turns out that the official song for LA County is called 'Seventy-Six Cities' composed by brothers Steve and Paul Cowell as they were on their way to Southern California by train. If I were in charge I would choose 'Que Será, Será' sung by Doris Day, as I really do like to believe whatever will be, will be. What would you choose? Answers on an e-postcard to info@britsin.LA

Saying farewell to Stubbsy...

After more than 30 years in Santa Monica, the infamous, much-loved and incomparable Stubbsy is leaving these shores to rejoin family in the Isle of Wight.

Stubbsy (right), a painter by trade and die-hard Millwall Fan has been a regular at Ye Olde King's Head for longer than most of us care to remember, even filling in as a DJ at the pub occasionally under his alter ego of the Lover Man. The King's Head is having a farewell party for the great man on Friday, January 28th from 6pm. So come and share a few laughs and say your goodbyes and memories.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF DIANE COLETTA LOCKLEAR

Case No. 22STPB00419
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of DIANE COLETTA LOCKLEAR

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Charlene M. Wells-Kenkel in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Charlene M. Wells-Kenkel be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Feb. 25, 2022 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 2D located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Jota brace sends Reds into final

CARABAO CUP SEMI FINAL: no Salah, no Mane, no problem as Liverpool ease past Gunners to set up date with Chelsea

Liverpool reached their first Wembley final for six years on Thursday night as a double from Diogo Jota set up a Wembley date with Chelsea in the Carabao Cup.

Jota brilliantly filled the gaps left by Mo Salah and Sadio Mane - away at the Africa Cup Of Nations - as his lethal finishing wrecked Arsenal's trophy hopes for this season after a goalless semi-final first leg at Anfield.

Arsenal started impressively, Alexandre Lacazette hitting the woodwork from a free-kick, but Liverpool struck after 19 minutes when Jota's scuffed shot after a fine run beat scrambling Arsenal keeper Aaron Ramsdale.

Lacazette missed Arsenal's best chance after the break, shooting over when clean through, but Liverpool had chances of their own and sealed their first final in this competition since the 2016 loss to Manchester City when Jota ran onto Trent Alexander-Arnold's pass and lofted a precise finish over Ramsdale with 13 minutes left, the goal given by VAR after initially being disallowed for offside.

Arsenal's misery was complete when Thomas Partey, on as a substitute after returning from Afcon at midday, received a second yellow card for a senseless late challenge on Fabinho.

The absence of Salah and Mane was bemoaned when Liverpool drew a blank against Arsenal's defiant 10 men in the semi-final first leg at Anfield - but there were no such complaints here, with Jota the match-winner.

When he arrived from Wolverhampton Wanderers in a £45m deal before the start of last season, the Portuguese was seen as the safety net behind the big three of Roberto Firmino, Mane and Salah.

Instead, he has proved a wonderfully consistent addition when measured by goals and performances and this was a superb individual display that more than compensated for the absence of the Reds' world-class duo.

Jota's first goal carried a little good fortune as the shot was half-hit but the driving run that set it up was a sign of his threat.

The second was a masterpiece of clinical composure, lifting the ball over Ramsdale, with VAR confirming that the timing of his run onto Alexander-Arnold's pass was perfection.

For Arsenal, the banks of empty seats at Emirates Stadium told the story of the bitter disappointment of the Arsenal fans as their night of big expectation fizzled out.

Raducanu 'proud' despite defeat while Murray admits loss 'not good enough'

Emma Raducanu said she was proud of the fight she demonstrated in her second-round match at the Australian Open on Thursday after she was defeated by Montenegro's Danka Kovinic in three tight sets despite suffering badly from blisters.

On a day of disappointment for Britain at Melbourne Park, Andy Murray bowed out with a straight sets defeat to the qualifier Taro Daniel shortly before Raducanu was eliminated.

Due to her injury the 19-year-old was forced to spend much of the match slicing her forehand, which she says unlocked a new part of her game and underlined her fighting spirit after winning the US Open last year.

"I did discover elements of my game I didn't know I had before, and I can use that going forward," said Raducanu.

"And also I just know that I've got that fight in me. Even if I have, like, one shot, I know that I can pull myself out of deep situations. Because I'm still young, I feel like I can learn a backhand, I can learn some tactics, but it's quite hard to learn or teach someone that fight and grittiness to hang in there when things are pretty much all against you. So I'm quite proud of that."

Raducanu had reached the second round by defeating the former US Open champion Sloane Stephens before she fell 6-4, 4-6, 6-3 to Kovinic. She admitted that she has been struggling with blisters since returning to training after missing a few weeks due to Covid. Raducanu revealed that members in her team did not even want her to compete in Australia but she fought to be there.

"That thought when I was slicing forehands and really struggling, I was, like, 'do I [retire]?' But I didn't want to - as I said, some people in my team didn't want me to even go out there.

"So I fought so hard just to come out to Australia and play here, and I didn't want to go out like that. So I just left it all out on the
