University issues mild rebuke after senior member is seen vandalizing Thatcher statue

A university has said it "does not condone defacement" after a staff member was accused of egging a statue of Margaret Thatcher in Grantham.

Jeremy Webster, deputy director at the University of Leicester's Attenborough Arts Centre, is alleged to have thrown eggs shortly after its installation.

Three were thrown at the monument on Sunday morning, with one hitting it.

A university spokesperson said the matter was being addressed "in line with the university's own procedures".

Kerry Law, chief marketing and engagement officer at the university, said: "The University of Leicester has a long-standing history of supporting art, fostering creativity and protecting creative freedom.

"It does not condone any form of defacement and takes any act of defacement extremely seriously.

"This matter will be addressed in line with the university's own procedures."

Lincolnshire Police said no arrests had been made, but the force did receive a report of criminal damage to the statue of the former Prime Minister who died in April 2013, aged 87.

Officers attended the scene on Sunday, and egg residue and a piece of shell could be seen on the statue's lower half.

The statue had been lowered into place atop a 10ft (3m) high plinth under CCTV surveillance to minimise the risk of vandalism.

Reacting to the egging, Mrs Thatcher's daughter, Carol, who lives outside the UK, said she had not seen the sculpture but remarked that it was "not a good time to be a statue anywhere these days, it seems".

criticism

Meanwhile, Neil Kinnock, who led the Labour party between 1983 and 1992 and who regularly faced Mrs Thatcher in the Commons during that time, condemned the egging, adding: "The statue should be respected, full stop."

The £300,000 statue was offered to Grantham, where Baroness Thatcher was born in

STILL STIRRING CONTROVERSY: Jeremy Webster (above) threw eggs at the Thatcher statue in the former Prime Minister's home town of Grantham, Lincolnshire on Sunday 1925, after Westminster Council turned it down in 2018 amid fears of "civil disobedience and vandalism".

However, a planned £100,000 unveiling ceremony in 2020 attracted criticism - and when one Facebook group proposed an "egg-throwing contest", more than 13,000 people expressed interest.

The taxpayer-funded unveiling was later abandoned by the council and an official ceremony, funded through donations, is still to take place at a later date

Installed without ceremony on Sunday, the statue towers over St Peter's Hill Green - close to the site of the grocers shop once owned by Baroness Thatcher's family.

In Grantham on Monday, one woman, who did not want to give her name, told the Local Democracy Reporting Service (LDRS): "I can see it's going to get damaged because people didn't like Margaret Thatcher.

"But, like all politicians, she did a lot of good and some not so good - not a lot different from today."

One man, who also did not wish to be named, told the LDRS: "I didn't expect it to be here as long as it has been."

Councillors in Grantham who are opposed to the statue have also spoken out.

I n d e p e n d e n t councillor Charmaine

Morgan said the timing of the unveiling "could not be more insensitive".

"As the architect of the cost of living crisis, housing crisis and NHS crisis, her policies led to the sale of our national utilities, the sale of council homes without replacing them and the introduction of the internal market - fragmenting and paving the way for the privatisation and demise of our NHS," she said.

Parliament should not be a haven for 'appalling crimes' says Truss after MP is accused of rape

Liz Truss said
Parliament's working environment was not an excuse to commit
"appalling crimes", following this week's arrest of a Tory MP accused of rape.

The Foreign Secretary urged a culture change as Boris Johnson said he was "shocked" at allegations concerning the unnamed MP.

The MP, in his 50s, was held on suspicion of rape and sexual assault spanning a seven-year period. Accusations also include abuse of trust and misconduct in public office.

He was released on police bail vesterday.

The arrest comes amid fresh Westminster sleaze scrutiny, after a string of cases.

Ms Truss said: "I certainly think that the culture of the House of Commons has changed and needs to change further. There needs to be more to be done to professionalise the way the House of Commons works. I would agree with that.

whip removal call

"But I don't think we can attribute that...I don't think that's an excuse for people to commit appalling crimes.

"Clearly this is a matter for the police...but it is worrying that we are seeing these appalling ... accusations, again, about a parliamentarian."

There have been calls for the MP, who has been told by Tory Chief Whip Chris Heaton-Harris to stay away from Westminster, to be suspended from his party.

A spokesman for Labour leader Sir Keir Starmer said "given the nature of the allegations", the MP should have the whip saying his client - who was not present due to going on a trip with her children - stood by her Wagatha Christie post "more than ever" at the end of the trial.

The 2019 social media post is at the heart of the trial. In it, Ms Rooney detailed a "sting" operation to try and work out how information from her private Instagram was getting into the hands of The Sun.

leaking stories

She blamed it on Ms Vardy's account. Ms Vardy denies allegations and is suing Ms Rooney for libel.

Back 2019 Coleen's hubby Wayne Rooney was not yet managing Derby County, but instead was enjoying a highly paid Indian summer to his career with D.C. United in MLS. Across the pond, his wife was concerned. Someone had been leaking stories about her to The Sun newspaper. One might consider this an occupational hazard for Coleen Rooney, Wayne's childhood sweetheart, who has spent more of her life in the tabloid spotlight than out of it, but as somebody acutely aware of the monetary value of controlling the media narrative, Mrs. Rooney was determined to wrest back control, and over the ensuring five months she carried out what she termed a "sting operation," blocking everyone bar one account from viewing her Instagram stories. From there she

Lo and behold, she said, some did: a possible appearance on Strictly Come Dancing, flooded mansion, a trip to Mexico. That was enough. She believed she knew "for certain" who was responsible. big Her reveal? "It's..... Rebekah Vardy's account."

'extreme distress'

The internet was soon ablaze and the Wagatha Christie saga born. The following year Vardy filed a libel claim against Rooney, alleging that the claims made against her had caused "extreme distress, hurt, anxiety and embarrassment." In a preliminary hearing in November 2020, Justice Mark Warby concluded that Rooney's statement that the leak had been "Rebekah Vardv's account" constituted direct accusation against the 40-year-old.

Both parties racked up their costs over subsequent hearings, ending this week in the High Court as both sides refused to agree to a settlement that would have saved them money. For Vardy, her lawyers said 18 months ago, this is about "vindicat[ing] her reputation."

On Thursday, Vardy underwent her third day of cross examination as Rooney's lawyer Sherborne attempted to prove that she was personally responsible for leaking stories. English libel law requires Rooney to prove that it was specifically Vardy who leaked the stories or to convince the judge, Justice Karen Stevn, that her revelation was in the public interest.

Justice Steyne will now retire to consider her verdict. A decision is not expected for several Rita Dexter, a lay member of the Commons Standards Committee, tweeted: "It's all very well to ask him to stay away, but what about the many constituency venues where that is not applicable?

'breaks my heart'

"I am also a former deputy commissioner of London Fire Brigade. Without hesitation, I would have approved a suspension from work." The Prime Minister was "shocked to learn of these allegations", his press secretary said.

When told about one in 10 sitting MPs currently faces an accusation of sexual misconduct, Education Secretary Nadhim Zahawi said: "It breaks my heart.

Tory Neil Parish stood down as an MP after admitting watching pornography in the Commons.

Jumpin' Jack Cash...Stones' Charlie Watts Leaves £30m

■ Bulk of the fortune to be kept in trust for 125 years

Rolling Stones drummer Charlie Watts left almost £30million to his family in his will.

Probate records released on Wednesday confirm Charlie – who died last year aged 80 – left British assets of £29,622,739 net.

The sum does not include property in France and any other worldwide assets, thought to be worth millions more.

Charlie made his fortune playing drums with the Stones for 58 years.

He joined Mick Jagger, Keith Richards, Brian Jones and Bill Wyman in 1963. The fledgling band went on to become a global brand, with hits such as Jumpin' Jack Flash and (I Can't Get No) Satisfaction.

married 57 years

Charlie left his entire UK estate in trust, with the income going to wife Shirley, 83, for the rest of her life after funeral and legal expenses.

The couple, who were married for 57 years, lived quietly in Devon where they reared Arabian horses and sheepdogs.

Charlie's will also gave his trustees power to use some of the money to support his daughter Seraphina, 54.

Other relatives to benefit include his sister Linda, sister-in-laws Jackie Fenwick and Jill Minder and brother-inlaw Stephen Shepherd.

The trust will remain in place for 125 years and any money left at the end of that period will be split between his living descendants.

In the 14-page will, drawn up in May 2017, Charlie also requested that his personal chattels "including cars and accessories used for business purposes" be left to his trustees. He asked for the items, believed to include a collection of classic cars, to be distributed according to instructions he made in his lifetime.

'day job'

Charlie, a Londonborn lorry driver's son, trained as a graphic designer and worked for an advertising agency after school. He later used his skills to help design some of the Stones' album covers and stage sets.

But because his first love was jazz, Charlie – famed for his deadpan manner – referred to his rock 'n' roll life with the Stones as his "day job" and played in jazz bands in between tours.

Along with the Stones, he was inducted into the Rock and Roll Hall of Fame in 1989.

And in 2006 snappy dresser Charlie was voted into Vanity Fair's Best Dressed List Hall Of Fame.

'lovely guy'

In 2004 he had surgery and radiotherapy for throat cancer, which later went into remission. Last year he announced he would not be touring with the Stones in America because of an unspecified health issue.

He developed complications following emergency surgery and died in August at a London hospital,

The Stones hailed their beloved bandmate Charlie as "a cherished husband, father and grandfather" and "one of the greatest drummers of his generation".

In his tribute, former Beatle Sir Paul McCartney described him as "a lovely guy".

CLIMBER Kenton Cool has made a 16th ascent of Mount Everest, the most by a non-Sherpa.

Kenton, (right) 48, from Gloucestershire, reached the 29,032ft summit with fitness boss Rebecca Louise who made it to the top for the first time.

TV's Ben Fogle, who has scaled the world's highest peak with the dad of two as a guide, said: "To climb Everest once was a trial; to climb it 16 times is heroic."

Kenton was once told he would not walk again unaided, after shattering both heels in a climbing

Downton Ladies To Uptown Girls

UPTOWN elegance added a sprinkling of sparkle to Downton Abbey's movie premiere in New York at the weekend.

The glitzy event at the Metropolitan Opera House attracted a host of shimmering stars – including one A-list actress who wasn't even in the latest film, Downton Abbey: A New Era.

Homeland star Claire Danes, 43, wore a shiny, two-tone blue dress to support her English husband Hugh Dancy, 46

He plays firm director Jack Barber in the new film but was not in the ITV series that spawned it. Elizabeth McGovern, 61, who plays Cora Crawley, also chose blue, with sparkly detail and accessories.

And Joanne Froggatt, 41, who plays housemaid Anna Bates, and Michelle Dockery, 40, who is Lady Mary, cast off their upstairs/ downstairs differences with dazzling dresses.

The premiere came a month after the London one, and the British stars – including Hugh Bonneville as Robert Crawley – were welcomed with open arms.

In the sequel to the 2019 smash-hit first film, the Crawley family head to the South of France to uncover a mystery at a villa bestowed to the Dowager Countess of Grantham, played by Dame Maggie Smith.

More fun n' games at the BiLA Pub Quiz

By Lauren Samuel (and Paul the Pom)

I had an absolute blast stepping in for Sandro at Tuesday night's pub quiz at the Market Tavern. It was a great turn out with 12 lovely happy teams. Winning team were 'Nobody Died This Week' (pictured with myself and pub quiz mascot Paul the Pom) Honourable mention to team 'Older But Not Wiser' who had a birthday party, but also won the Disneythemed signing round by commissioning Perry the server to sing on their behalf!

Juliana provided a Peruvian themed entertainment act halfway through the evening calling upon team members to balance swords on their head while belly dancing! Very fun indeed. Next week I shall help Juliana's quiz hosting by providing my own half time entertainment, although it certainly won't involve swords! I hope I am able to host the quiz on Sandro's behalf at some point again in the future, everyone was so kind and welcoming.

Very many thanks to all!

RIP to the inimitable Leo Lewis

LONGTIME local Brit Leo Lewis passed away on Monday night after a long illness.

Leo (pictured, above) was a well-known figure within the British business and social community, and was perhaps best-known for his long running column (with wife Karen) in the now-defunct Union Jack newspaper.

Leo was recognized for his contribution to the local British community with a Lifetime Achievement Award from the British American Business Council. He will be missed.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: When did you last have time to do whatever you wanted? Mars your boss in watery Pisces currently could have you feeling out of sorts or confused. Fortunately this will pass soon.

TAURUS: Some things happen for a reason. Look at what you have been able to adjust to recently. The truth is you are doing ok so keep focused and you will get through.

GEMINI: You should be getting a move on with some long-overdue tasks. Although Mercury your boss is going backwards, it's best to keep on moving. Happy Birthday!

CANCER: You should be looking at where you are heading - even if it's only in your head. Learning to live in the moment will be a great blessing while Mars is visiting your cousin Pisces.

LEO: You of all people can present a positive face to the world. It is this gift that will help you overall. You can be a big force to help others get through life. Think positive.

VIRGO: There are some things you cannot change and some things you can. Focus on the here and now and see the light at the end of the tunnel. Mercury your boss going backwards will slow life down.

LIBRA: Venus your boss planet in your cousin sign is changing how you look at life. Upbeat and ready to go at a moment's notice should be your mindset. Expect and welcome visitors who are heading your way.

SCORPIO: You should be doing a lot better than the last month. Make each day a new beginning. You are strong but keep an eye on your overall health.

SAGITTARIUS: You may feel that there are some things (and even people) not worth spending time and energy on. Just do not cut off your nose to spite your face. Just stand up for yourself.

CAPRICORN: The recent planets lining up in your money house are positive and will resolve some long-standing problems. Just keep positive in thought and deed in all situations.

AQURIUS: You are innovative in most everything....which is no surprise to those who know you. With your boss in practical Taurus settled in for the long haul you could really surprise them.

PISCES: You are one of the most intuitive signs, however while you may feel weary and have not much energy at this time it's due to Mercury draining you somewhat. Fortnately nothing lasts forever.

LAMPARD: emotional scenes on the touchline

Everton:

once on the road since August.

And despite a poor showing in the first period, where once again Everton looked inferior to their opponents, they somehow managed another second-half turnaround, which has been crucial in keeping them in the Premier League.

The scenes at the final whistle were in stark contrast to those before the break where a tempestuous game boiled over on the pitch and left a livid feeling in the stands.

But after introduction of Dele Alli at the break and a move to a more attacking formation, Everton matched their secondhalf showings against Newcastle, Leicester and Chelsea, which earned two draws and a win.

Lampard may well question why his side have to play poorly to find the inspiration, but boosted by a support which has had a massive role in their survival, they turned the game around against a Palace side which had beaten them twice already this season.

Rangers:

only previous win in Spain came in the 1972 European Cup Winners' Cup final, when the Barca Bears stormed past Dynamo Moscow for their first European trophy.

The pilgrimage to Seville in the hope of repeating the feat of Jardine, Stein, Greig and Johnstone was a long and arduous one.

It started in the Champions League qualifiers against Malmo last summer for the players and for the men, women and children who spilled into Seville from the four corners of the world to support them. This was their chance to see the class of 2022 become immortal, and over 100,000 made the trip in hope and expectation.

Well before kick-off, the ground swarmed with light blue. An original allocation of just under 9,500 looked fanciful when the sides entered to a cacophony so loud it could wake the dead.

Ramsey was a late addition to the match with penalties in mind. The on-loan Juventus man had the opportunity to make it 4-3 in the shootout after Tavernier, Steven Davis and Scott Arfield slotted Rangers' first three kicks, but the Welsh midfielder's tame effort down the middle was whacked away by Trapp.

It would be the only miss of the shootout, as Rangers' marathon run in Europe came to the most agonising of ends in a flurry of white bedlam.

City line up a move for Phillips

MANCHESTER CITY are set to build on the stunning capture of Erling Haaland with an audacious bid for Leeds and England midfielder Kalvin Phillips.

Having secured striker Haaland for just £51million, City are poised to strengthen further with a bid for £50m-rated Phillips.

The move for Phillips is a clear indication City intend to do their transfer business early this summer and steal a march on their rivals.

Manager Pep Guardiola has identified Phillips as the ideal replacement for Brazil midfielder Fernandinho, who is leaving at the end of this season after nine years at the club.

Kalvin Phillips: natural replacement for Fernandino?

With Ilkay Gundogan also potentially on his way this summer, Guardiola is looking to possibly recruit two midfielders - with Phillips now a viable target.

City have sent scouts to watch him several times this season, with the 26-year-old certain to be available if Leeds are relegated on Sunday.

Aston Villa and West Ham both had bids rejected in January's transfer window but remain keen to land Phillips should he decide to quit his hometown

Manchester United have also been keeping close tabs on Phillips, but he has made it clear to those close to him there is no way he could join United, given the bitter rivalry between them and Leeds.

Phillips is understood to be reluctant to leave Elland Road, but knows he will have little choice - for the good of his career - should Leeds go down. He would more than triple his £38,000-a-week wages elsewhere.

Madrid and Real Saint-Germain Paris also enquired, but it is understood his preference is to remain in the Premier League.

Sweet relief as Toffees stick in Premier League

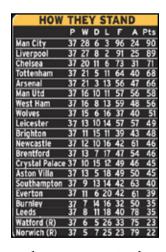

Delirious scenes at Goodison as Lampard's men claw back two goal deficit to snag priceless three points

Everton secured their Premier League status with an incredible fightback on Thursday as they came from two goals down to beat Crystal Palace, 3-2.

The hosts, who will continue their 68-year stay in the top flight, looked like they were heading for defeat after Palace scored twice in the first half through Jean-Philippe Mateta and Jordan Ayew.

But conjuring up a fighter's spirit once more and spurred on by their vociferous support, Everton turned the game around in the second half, thanks to a more attacking approach.

Nine minutes after the break Michael Keane smashed in to give Frank Lampard's side hope, and when Richarlison found the bottom corner with a miscued shot with 15 minutes left, it sent Goodison Park into raptures as a precious point looked likely.

Yet the best was to come with five minutes left. Dominic Calvert-Lewin, who scored his first goal since August against Brentford last Sunday during an injury-hit season, sparked pandemonium with a diving header from Demarai Gray's free-kick.

The excitement boiled over as fans descended on the pitch to celebrate, with blue mist shrouding the stadium as smoke flares were let off.

The crucial result avoided the kind of final-day nerves that Everton fans had to experience in 1998 and 1994, where the team also preserved their Premier League status.

This time, with a trip to Arsenal on Sunday, they can at least enjoy the fact that however tortuous this season has been, they will remain in the top flight, and will hope to build on the spirit showed in the closing stages of the campaign.

The party started at the final whistle, with thousands of fans flooding onto the pitch, letting off more smoke

The atmosphere was feverish at Goodison's famed Gwladys Street end on Thursday - and everywhere else in the stadium, too flares, saluting their team and manager Lampard.

But he and the club will hope they will never have to cope with a similar scare again given lavish spending on players and a move to a new stadium in 2024.

End of the road: Aaron Ramsey's penalty is saved by Trapp

Penalty heartbreak for 'Gers

Rangers suffered an agonising penalty shootout defeat in their fifth European final as Eintracht Frankfurt triumphed in an absorbing Europa League decider.

Rafael Borre crashed in the decisive spot kick Wednesday night after Aaron Ramsey was denied just moments earlier in front of a colossal Rangers support in the Ramon Sanchez Pizjuan Stadium. Those fans had been euphoric when the Scots took the lead through Joe Aribo's ice-cool second-half finish in the sweltering cauldron in Seville.

However, Borre detonated raucous scenes in a jam-packed Eintracht end 12 minutes later as he steered in a soft equaliser to send this energy-sapping contest to extra time and penalties.

And Rangers' players

crumpled to their feet as the 11th-placed side in the Bundesliga prevailed in the shootout, executing five composed penalties to claim their second European trophy and a place in next season's Champions League group stages.

Under a humid Spanish sky, this one seemed written in the stars for Rangers. Their
