Charles: I will follow your lead, 'darling Mama'

■ In first address to nation as King, Charles vows to continue his late mother's work

KING Charles III vowed to faithfully follow his "darling" mother's life of selfless duty in an historic address to both Houses of Parliament.

Shakespeare, described the Queen as "a pattern to all princes living" and spoke movingly of her "unsurpassed devotion" to the role.

The King said he was "deeply grateful" for the formal condolences expressed by MPs and peers during the poignant ceremony held in Westminster Hall.

He said: "We gather today in remembrance of the remarkable span of the Queen's dedicated service to her nations and peoples.

"While very young, her late Majesty pledged herself to serve her country and her people and to maintain the precious principles constitutional government which lie at the heart of our nation. This vow she kept with unsurpassed devotion.

"She set an example of selfless duty which, with God's help and your counsels, I am resolved faithfully to follow."

Early on Monday Charles addressed the nation for the first time as King, paying a heartfelt tribute to his late mother, his "darling mama".

Appearing in a prerecorded address broadcast around the world and streamed online on Sept. 9, Charles praised her lifelong commitment to Royal service, pledged to continue her work in the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth of Nations, and spoke about his personal relationship with her.

'devotion'

"To my darling Mama, as you begin your last great journey to join my dear late Papa, I want simply to say this: Thank you," Charles said, sitting at a desk where a framed portrait of the queen rested. "Thank you for your love and devotion to our family and to the family of nations you have served so diligently all these years. May 'flights of

At Westminster later in the day, The King and Queen Consort, dressed in black, arrived for the "addresses to the sovereign" to a fanfare of trumpets from the Household Cavalry.

'an example'

Minutes earlier, the King's Body Guard of the Yeomen of the Guard, dressed in their distinctive Tudor uniforms of red, white and yellow, and the Honourable Corps of Gentlemen at Arms, wearing helmets with white swan feather plumes, slow marched to the steps of the Great Hall to stand in watch over the monarch. MPs and peers were seated under the medieval timbered roof, with Prime Minister Liz Truss and Leader of the Opposition Sir Keir Starmer, along with former premiers Boris Johnson and Theresa May in the crowd.

DUTIFUL SON: "She set an example of selfless duty which, with God's help and your counsels, I am resolved faithfully to follow."

With Camilla by his side, the King listened as Lord Speaker, Lord McFall, read condolence on behalf of peers conveying "the deep sympathy felt by this House in the grief Your Majesty has sustained by the death of our late beloved Queen Your Majesty's mother of blessed and glorious memory".

The King appeared amused when Commons Speaker Sir Lindsay Hoyle mentioned the Glorious Revolution in his address to the monarch.

Sir Lindsay offered "our heartfelt sympathy" to Charles and the Royal Family in his speech, before recalling the many occasions in which the Queen visited Westminster Hall.

He recounted the time she came to celebrate the 300th anniversary of the Glorious Revolution, before joking: "It is perhaps very British to celebrate revolutions by presenting an address to Her Majesty."

The Glorious Revolution permanently established Parliament as the ruling power of England and, later, the United Kingdom, representing a shift from an absolute monarchy constitutional

A final goodbye to Balmoral, her Scottish 'happy place'

BALMORAL Castle bade a fond and sombre farewell to Elizabeth on Sunday after a lifetime of happy memories for the former monarch and her family at the Scottish estate.

The mood at the castle's gates was melancholy as thousands of locals lined the route to bid goodbye to a cherished neighbour as her funeral cortege departed to make the 100 mile journey to Holyrood House in Edinburgh.

The convoy carrying the queen from the royal estate where she died began slowly snaking through the hills and forests of the Scottish highlands. The route took her through villages and towns which were lined by her subjects.

greatest peace

Elaine Weir, a bank worker from Glasgow, came with her two daughters to watch the cortege pass down the Royal Mile in Edinburgh.

"We all know how much Scotland meant to the Queen, so I think it is lovely for us to be here to witness this event in Scotland, in the capital," she told reporters/

As she exited the ornate black gates of Balmoral for a final time, the wreath on her oak coffin was made up of flowers from the estate.

Tearful mourners bowed their heads when the hearse passed.

Her Majesty found greatest peace in Aberdeenshire's turreted grey stone castle by the River Dee, surrounded by fir-clad hills, lochs and grouse moors.

final breath

It is where the Queen hung up her crown and carried out her duties as a wife, mother, grandmother and greatgrandmother.

Years of memories were forged there, including family barbecues – where the late Duke of Edinburgh did the cooking and the Queen the washing-up.

Away from the pomp of public life, the royal retreat was famously known as Her Majesty's happy place. It was on the grounds of the 50,000-acre estate that Prince Philip proposed.

The couple spent most summers at the country estate, usually with family by their side. Queen Elizabeth walked her corgis in the sprawling grounds, rode ponies and picnicked with relatives, friends and guests.

But Balmoral also became a sanctuary during unhappier times for the royals.

It was in the Scottish outdoors that the Queen and family found solace in the dark days that followed Princess Diana's death in 1997. And it is where Her Majesty took her final breath. Although Her Majesty has departed from her beloved Highlands for good, her indelible mark remains.

monarchy.

The addresses to the sovereign is a traditional ceremony that highlights the constitutional relationship between the monarchy and parliament.

It was held in Westminster Hall, which has borne witness to some of the most momentous turning points over the last 1,000 years. King Charles I was tried and condemned to death in the hall in 1649.

It has been the venue for the lying-in-state of Prime Ministers and Royals, including Sir Winston Churchill and the Queen Mother.

Westminster Hall has also been used for celebrations to mark important moments, such as the 50th anniversary of the end of the Second World War and the Queen's Silver Jubilee in 1977, Golden Jubilee in 2002 and Diamond Jubilee in 2012.

To mark her Diamond Jubilee, a stained glass window was installed. Charles said: "As I stand before you today, I cannot help but feel the weight of history which surrounds us and which reminds us of the vital Parliamentary traditions to which members of both Houses dedicate yourselves, with such personal commitment for the betterment of us

"Parliament is the living and breathing instrument of our democracy. That your traditions are ancient we see in the construction of this great hall and the reminders of medieval predecessors of the office to which I have been called.

"And the tangible connections to my darling late mother we see all around us – from the fountain in New Palace Yard which commemorates the late Queen's Silver Jubilee to the sundial in Old Palace Yard for the Golden Jubilee, the magnificent stained glass window before me for the Diamond Jubilee.

"And, so poignantly and yet to be formally unveiled, your most generous gift to her late Majesty to mark the unprecedented Platinum Jubilee which we celebrated only three months ago, with such joyful hearts."

'Part of history' - time no object as grieving Britons wait for days to say goodbye

"I said prayers for the Queen, thanked her for her great service and wished her peace and rest."

it is simply Queue".

The line. The very, very long time, to say goodbye and pay respects to the Queen, who will lie in state at Westminster Hall until her funeral on Monday.

As the British Weekly went to press the line was five miles long and ever-growing - and ever-moving, with waits expected to be as long as 20 hours. But for fans of the departed monarch, the wait was of no consequence at all.

Joyce Dawson, 54, from Middlesbrough, was watching the news on Tuesday night when she decided to make her first ever visit to London to pay her respects.

"I texted my daughter and said: 'We have to go to London tonight," she said. "It was a spur of the moment thing.

She and her daughter Shelby, 26, took the midnight coach from Middlesbrough to join the queue at 8am on Wednesday.

"It's just nice to be a part of this," Joyce said, while she waited. "It's exciting. I'm like a little kid."

In a country famous perfecting those orderly queue,

TO HER loyal subjects, lining up for a few seconds alongside the Queen's coffin proved no exception.

> By 5pm, when the first members of the public filed into Westminster Hall, the line snaked back through the capital for about 3 miles (5km), crossing the Thames and stretching all the way to London Bridge.

reverential hush

Outside the Palace Westminster, the sunshine initially gave the occasion a relaxed atmosphere. People came prepared with chairs, blankets and picnics and some sipped drinks from the Red Lion pub.

But once the coffin arrived, and later, when the first in line stepped inside the hush of Westminster Hall, mood changed markedly.

Some had waited two days for this moment, enduring rain then sun, stringent security and officially sanctioned queue-jumping by MPs.

In a reverential hush they descended the steps of the 11th-century hall to pay their last respects to the Queen, many still wearing the yellow wristbands that marked their place in the queue.

PURPLE PATCH: the Queen will lie in state in Westminster Hall until her funeral on Monday crossed Α few themselves. Most bowed or curtsied. Some could be seen wiping away tears, but most made their way stoically through the hall on the newly laid carpet.

After the long wait, it took them little more than three minutes to file past the coffin, placed on a purple-clad catafalque.

Vanes a Nathakumaran was the first in line. The 56-yearold Londoner, who had started queuing at 11.30am on Monday, said she tried not to cry as the extraordinary scene hit her.

"It was an emotional experience. I was fighting back tears as I approached the coffin and I managed to dignify myself," she said. "I wanted to do something, so I said prayers for the Queen, thanked her for her great service and wished her peace and rest."

Most took one last look back at the coffin before they left, and obediently followed the instruction to stay quiet as they made their way through the hall. Only one audible sob could be heard in the first half an hour of the vigil.

As many as threequarters of a million people are expected to make the journey, and the queueing system has the capacity to run for 10 miles.

Numbered coloured wristbands are being given to everyone in line, allowing them to leave their spot briefly for sustenance or to use one of the 500 portable toilets placed along the route.

The procession of the coffin from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Hall also drew many thousands of people, who began to line the Mall from the early morning. They hoped to glimpse the marching royal family as well as the casket bearing the Queen.

Standing room on the route reached capacity more than 40 minutes before the parade left and the roads were closed off.

PATIENCE: the queue stretches almost five miles from its beginnings at Southwark Park on the South Bank, west and north to Westminster Hall

The new Prince of Wales vows to serve 'with humility and respect'

■ William organizes impromtu walkabout with Harry and Meghan in show of unity at Windsor

PRINCE William has undertaken his first official engagement since becoming the Prince of Wales.

He shared a phone conversation with Welsh First Minister Mark Drakeford, in which he vowed to serve the country'speople with "humility and respect".

William also revealed that he and wife Kate, the new Princess of Wales, are looking forward immensely to travelling to Wales – where they used to live. Insiders understand that visit could be imminent.

The royal couple intend to continue with their campaigning work on various issues – such as the mental health crisis facing young people and their quest to give all of Britain's children a better start in life.

But supporting the Welsh people is to be a special part of their responsibilities.

Kensington Palace said:

"His Royal Highness The Prince of Wales and the First Minister of Wales spoke by telephone.

"His Royal Highness thanked the First Minister for his fitting tribute, on behalf of the people of Wales, to Her Majesty the Queen. HRH expressed his and the Princess of Wales's honour in being asked by His Majesty the King to serve the Welsh people.

'proud history'

"They will do so with humility and great respect. The Prince acknowledged his and the Princess's deep affection for Wales, having made their first family home in Anglesey [an island off the North Wales coast] during the earliest months of Prince George's life.

"The Prince and Princess will spend the months and years ahead deepening their relationship with communities across Wales. They want to do their part to support the aspirations of the Welsh people and to shine a spotlight on both the challenges and opportunities in front of them.

"The Prince and Princess look forward to celebrating Wales' proud history and traditions as well as a future that is full of promise. They will seek to live up to the proud contribution that members of the Royal Family have made in years past. Their Royal Highnesses lookforward to travelling to Wales very soon, and to meeting the First Minister and other leaders at the earliest opportunity."

The call with Mr Drakeford came a day after William offered an olive branch to the Duke and Duchess of Sussex by inviting them to join him and Kate on a walkabout at Windsor Castle to see flowers left in memory of the Queen and to speak to well-wishers gathered there.

Relations between the two royal couples are still strained, but friends hope that their joint grief will help to bring them closer together over the coming days.

It is understood it was William's idea to invite Harry and Meghan at the last minute to join them on the walkabout on Saturday.

But it has been reported the two camps required extended negotiations beforehand, which delayed their arrival by 45 minutes.

A senior Buckingham Palace source said: "The Prince of Wales invited the Duke and Duchess of Sussex to join him and the Princess of Wales earlier. The Prince of Wales thought it was an important show of unity for the Queen at an incredibly difficult time for the family."

It is believed the Duke and Duchess of Sussex had not previously made any plans to meet with the Waleses, despite staying in Frogmore Cottage, just 700 yards from William and Kate's Adelaide Cottage.

Both William and Harry had raced to Balmoral on Thursday after it became clear the Queen's health was faltering.

From Sandringham to Windsor, thousands come to remember and pay their respects

THEY came in their tens of thousands this week, a constant stream of well-wishers flowing up the Long Walk in Windsor to pay their respects to Britain's longest-reigning monarch.

Almost every street in the historic Thamesside town was packed with people of all ages clutching cellophanewrapped bouquets and cards bearing heartfelt personal messages.

A colourful sea of floral tributes had formed by the castle gates, sprinkled with teddies, trinkets and children's drawings left in remembrance of Her Majesty.

Among those gathering to express their love and gratitude was Tyler Dinning, 10, who carried a model crown made of plastic milk bottles and covered with plastic gems.

His grandmother Alison said: "The Queen meant a lot to the country, it's going to be hard without her. That's all we've known."

Gracie-May, seven, had used watercolours to paint the Queen as an angel with bright orange wings. She read out her message: "To the Queen, we love you and miss you, love Gracie-May and family."

Gracie's aunt Alice said the youngster had loved learning about history – and the Queen's corgis. She added: "We're trying to teach her that the Queen is now an angel." Roads were closed off and stewards diverted mourners on different routes as the town became filled to bursting with those wanting to pay their respects.

Lucy and Matt Waldron had travelled from Bishop's Stortford, Hertfordshire, with their children Max, four, Poppy, seven, and Teddy, six. Poppy, holding a bouquet of red roses, said of the Queen: "When I saw pictures of her Coronation she looked very beautiful in her crown, and then when she was older she still looked beautiful."

SEA OF FLOWERS: the scene outside the gates of Sandringham this week

The schoolgirl said she had enjoyed watching clips of the Queen, including the skit in which she appeared to parachute into the 2012 London Olympics opening ceremony.

Poppy added: "She also had a bit of fun in her – in school we watched the video of when she was acting with James Bond. They were in a helicopter and she pushed him out of the way with a parachute and jumped."

Monmouthshire.

Lyndsay said: "I've always been a royalist and I just think that the Queen in particular has done a marvellous job. She's been like a mother to the nation with a steadfast sense of commitment and duty right to the last days of her life.

"Like lots of people I remember watching the Coronation on the TV." She added that the Queen had always been a source of positivity: "Particularly during the pandemic, she always gave everybody hope that everything was going to be all right."

It was not the first time Norma had made an effort to mark the passing of a treasured royal figure. She recalled: "I queued up for two nights for Diana's funeral at Westminster Abbey – I slept on the streets." Gemma and Brian Pickett travelled from Woking, Surrey, with their children

Surrey, with their children Isabelle, five, and Arthur, three, to visit Windsor for the first time in 12 years.

Gemma, 38, said: "I've been really upset the past few days, I feel like I've lost my own grandmother.

"She's always been there whenever we needed her. The Queen being on the throne is all we've ever known. I think King Charles will do a great job but it's just really strange even to say 'King Charles'."

The family had always paused on Christmas Day to watch the Queen's speech and Gemma helped organise a village fete to mark the Jubilee earlier this year.

She told of the moment she explained to little Isabelle that the Queen had died: "Her immediate question was: 'Who will be Queen next?' We drew the family tree out to show where Charles and William are."

Thousands of mourners also descended on Sandringham House to leave tributes.

Well-wishers waited up to an hour traffic to reach the estate after Norfolk Police set up a one-way system to deal with the flood of visitors, who left an increasingly dense pile of flowers by late afternoon.

Accounts assistant Jon Davies, 71, who left blooms from his garden in Hethersett, Norfolk, said: "It just seemed the right thing to do to come here. I did the same when the Queen Mother died all those years ago.

"I was born in the old King's reign, but she was my Queen for virtually all my life. I left a message on my flowers saying, 'You had this Majesty about you, but you could walk among all of us'."

The famed Long Walk in Windsor was thronged with visitors this week

Why you need dental insurance in retirement.

Medicare doesn't pay for dental care.
As good as Medicare is, it was never meant to cover everything. If you want protection, you need to purchase individual insurance.

Early detection can prevent small problems from becoming expensive ones.

The best way to avoid large dental bills is preventive care. Experts recommend checkups twice a year.

Previous dental work can wear out.
Your odds of having a dental problem only go up as you age.

Treatment is expensive — especially the services people over 50 often need.

Unexpected bills, like $189 for a filling, or $1,219 for a crown<sup>3</sup> can be a real burden, especially if you're on a fixed income.

When you're comparing plans

- ► Look for coverage that helps pay for major services.
- Look for coverage with no deductibles.
- ► Shop for coverage with no annual maximum on cash benefits.

Simply put – without dental insurance, there may be an important gap in your healthcare coverage.

ARIES: It's time now to get ready for putting your financial goals for Autumn on the top of your to-do list. However, Mercury in the opposite sign of Libra is going backwards, so hold off for a couple of weeks.

TAURUS: You could be feeling worried about your future direction in life right now. This is due to your boss planet Venus in Virgo setting you challenges. Do not be tempted to challenge back!

GEMINI: This is a good time to catch up with distant friends and unfinished business of every kind. Now your boss Mercury is going backwards make an effort to finish anything up.

CANCER: Your current situation can be draining both your energy and your finances. Do not give in to worry. Venus is in your money area and by month's end you will be flush again.

LEO: You should be starting to feel more upbeat and ready to take the world on. It's been a settled time in your life of late, however as you should know nothing lasts forever....so keep it low key.

VIRGO: Your life may feel like it's not going in any particular direction of late. This is due in part to Venus in your house shaking up your life somewhat. Do not push too hard - things will settle down. Happy Birthday!

LIBRA: You have to have patience currently as you are hosting Mercury going backwards until mid- October. The Sun next week in your sign will greatly help.

SCORPIO: Life is currently upbeat. This could be due to someone or something returning from the past No matter what your situation is, be sure you get all the facts before making consequential decisions.

SAGITTARIUS: This is not a time to be overspending or to give resources to others. This is only for a short while and by month's end you will have more energy and be ready to move forward.

CAPRICORN: Life has been throwing you some good opportunities this month. For some it's time to take a break away from family and friends. If you are not able to right now' just keep a low profile.

AQUARIUS: Be honest...as only you can be to yourself - and see what or how you can make your life more peaceful. Your boss in Taurus currently wants you to be more relaxed and less stubborn.

PISCES: Don't look down, just look up at what you can do in the future. You are one of the most sensitive souls and this is a time to be low key, not stressing over what you cannot change.

On the plane: England's record-breaking bowlers Stuard Broad and James Anderson are confirmed for the Ashes series

CRICKET: England's remarkable rebirth continues as Proteas are beaten at the Oval

Third LV Insurance Test, The Kia Oval (day five of five) South Africa 118 (Robinson 5-49, Broad 4-41) & 169 (Stokes 3-39, Broad 3-45). England 158 (Pope 67, Jansen 5-35) & 130-1 (Crawley 69*) England won by nine wickets; win series 2-1

England completed their remarkable summer with a series-clinching nine-wicket victory over South Africa at the Kia Oval on Monday.

The home side took only 25 minutes to hit the 33 runs they needed for victory on the fifth morning of the third and deciding Test.

Zak Crawley ended 69 not out, with Ollie Pope unbeaten on 11 after Alex Lees was lbw on review to Kagiso Rabada for 39.

Victory was earned in little more than two days of play after day one was washed out and day two cancelled as a mark of respect following the death of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II.

It gives captain Ben Stokes and coach Brendon McCullum a sixth win from seven Tests in their first summer in charge, a complete turnaround from England's previous run of one win in 17.

Only once before have England won more than five Tests in a home summer, when they took a clean sweep of seven victories in 2004. South Africa miss out on the chance to return to the top of the table in the World Test Championship, where they are vying with Australia, India and Pakistan for a place in the final. The defeat ends the Proteas' run of four Test series unbeaten.

An almost entirely different England squad now turns its attention to preparations for the T20 World Cup in Australia in October, with a seven-match series in Pakistan beginning on 20 September.

England's winter Test assignments are in Pakistan in December and New Zealand in February.

Stokes, McCullum and director of cricket Rob Key have reversed England's fortunes through unflinching faith in the players, a commitment to aggressive cricket and making the environment around the national team as relaxed as possible.

Some key moments of fortune have fallen their way, but more than luck was needed to beat the calibre of opponents put in their path.

England defeated world Test champions New Zealand 3-0, won a rescheduled match against second-ranked India and have now beaten a Proteas side that arrived as leaders of the Test Championship.

A squad for the Pakistan series could be chosen by the end of the month, possibly overseen by a new national selector, a restored post which was advertised for last week.

England will certainly be without Jonny Bairstow, who had surgery on a broken leg sustained in a golfing accident on Monday and may even miss the tour to New Zealand.

But McCullum cleared up one of the biggest questions facing England squad, by confirming that both James Anderson and Stuart Broad will be selected for the Ashes squad.

England's all-time leading Testwicket-takers were controversially dropped for the tour of West Indies in March.

But Anderson, 40, and Broad, 36, impressed on their international return as England won six of their seven Tests this summer.

"Yeah, they'll be here," said McCullum. "Those guys are phenomenal cricketers.

"They are quite incredible humans. They could finish any time they wanted and they'd still be considered greats of the game.

"What they're doing is continuing to build on the legacy they're going to leave for the next generation.

He added: "The time they're giving other people in the dressingroom is phenomenal.

"The time, the effort and the confidence they're giving the other guys is quite remarkable."

Anderson claimed 27 Test wickets at an average of 17.66 for England this summer, while fellow seamer Broad took 29 wickets at 27.17.

Between them the prolific pair have taken 1,233 Test wickets during their distinguished international careers. Anderson leads the way with 667 and Broad with 566.

Cristiano Ronaldo ended his barren spell with the first Europa League goal of his career as Manchester United earned a 2-0 victory at Sheriff Tiraspol on Thursday.

Erik ten Hag's men suffered defeat at Old Trafford in their Group E opener against Real Sociedad but responded by claiming all three points in Moldova.

The Red Devils opened the scoring in the first half as a lovely team move was coolly finished off by Jadon Sancho from Christian Eriksen's reverse pass.

United then double their advantage before half-time courtesy of Ronaldo's penalty, awarded after Patrick Kpozo tripped Diogo Dalot in the box.

West Ham United survived a late scare as they came from behind to beat Danish side Silkeborg IF 3-2 and maintain their perfect record in Group B of the Europa Conference League. The visitors dominated in Denmark but fell behind in the fifth minute when Kasper Kusk netted a first-time finish.

The Hammers levelled eight minutes later through a Manuel Lanzini penalty after Maxwel Cornet was fouled in the box.

Gianluca Scamacca completed the turnaround in the 25th minute before a Craig Dawson header had West Ham 3-1 up shortly before half-time.

Silkeborg set up a tense finale with 15 minutes remaining when Soren Tengstedt netted on the rebound from Tonni Adamsen's shot after Jarrod Bowen had squandered possession.

But the Premier League side held on to deny the hosts a first point in the group stage of a European competition.

CHAMPIONS LEAGUE: City star stuns Dortmund with sublime goal

Erling Haaland's magnificent strike capped dramatic Manchester City comeback and condemned former club Borussia Dortmund to a painful 2-1 Champions League defeat at Etihad Stadium on Thursday night.

City struggled against a composed Dortmund, who took the lead when the outstanding Jude Bellingham glanced home Marco Reus' cross after 56 minutes.

Pep Guardiola's side toiled in search of inspiration but found the equaliser with 10 minutes left when defender John Stones fired a powerful shot past Dortmund keeper Alexander Meyer.

Inevitably, it was left to Haaland to produce a truly special moment four minutes later, showing outstanding athleticism to soar through the air and score from Joao Cancelo's cross.

Haaland had been kept relatively quiet by his former Dortmund team-mates but this special striker still made the defining, spectacular contribution as City came from behind to win.

The young Norwegian was on the margins of the game but had posted a warning with a shot that struck the outside of the post minutes before scoring.

Stones' equaliser, struck with plenty of force but met with little obstruction from the strangely static keeper Meyer, shifted the emphasis of a game in which Dortmund's calm defence, marshalled by the veteran Mats Hummels and with Bellingham pulling the strings in midfield, left City frustrated.

City suddenly sensed a winner but it was still something special when Haaland took off into the air to meet Cancelo's cross with his outstretched left foot to divert the ball past a disbelieving Meyer.

It brought a broad smile to the face of his father, former City midfield man Alf-Inge, watching in the stands. He reenacted the moment but, understandably, without his son's elasticity and elegance.

Haaland's goal was his 13th of the season and his 26th in 21 Champions League games.

City's fans rejoiced as this was exactly the sort of moment the 22-yearold was signed for, to decide big Champions League games looked to be getting away from them.

It means City now have a maximum return from two games and a striker every team in the competition will fear.

WHO CAN STOP HIM?: not even his former teammates on Wednesday night

his side with an uphill task to qualify for the

It was a muchimproved performance from Chelsea's defeat by Dinamo Zagreb in their opening Group E game last week, which spelled the end for former manager Thomas side got an equaliser on 75 minutes when Thiago Silva missed a tackle, allowing Noah Okafor to clip in Junior Adamu's low cross.

That goal highlighted risks involved Potter's positive approach, with Sterling and Marc Cucurella caught out of position. But the hosts could have earned victory when Reece James fired over from a free-kick and substitute Hakim Ziyech almost headed in at the back post.

Following AC Milan's earlier 3-1 win over Zagreb, Chelsea sit bottom of Group E after two games with the Serie A champions up next at Stamford Bridge on 5 October. Following a week which Potter called a "whirlwind", he got his first taste of Champions League football, having never seen the competition before in the flesh. There have been questions about his credentials, having managed for only three years in the Premier League with Brighton. And although it was a positive display from his side and they wasted several good chances late on with Armando Broja also firing over, he will now realize he has to quickly turn things around in Europe after Chelsea's poor start to the season.
