A send off fit for the Queen

■ Pageantry, pomp, respect and tradition came together in a day which showcased Britain at its finest

IN THE END, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II got just the send-off her long years of selfless service deserved.

Monday's state funeral was rich in the pageantry, pomp and respect for tradition at which our mother country excels. The eyes of the world were on London this week, and it delivered. Big time.

Through more than 12 hours of majestic ritual, the funeral represented a triumph of sacrament and spectacle that will never be forgotten. In the long story of Britain, no single public event can surely ever have stirred the heart more powerfully.

Magnificent in its execution, reverential in its spirit, and epic in its scale, the whole occasion lived up to the highest standards of splendour and solemnity.

All the participants carried out their duties immaculately, including the members of the armed forces who marched with an awe-inspiring precision, the religious leaders who preformed the liturgies with humbling veneration and the Royal Family, led by the King, who retained their dignity amid painful grief.

Just as impressive were the huge crowds that lined the routes of the processions, in places fifty deep, to pay their final respects in both London and Windsor, their conduct distinguished by a sense of reverence and gratitude to the late Queen.

In its evocative pageantry and spirituality, the state funeral was not just a fitting tribute to Her Majesty, but was also a tremendous advertisement for Britain. With more than 500 foreign leaders and dignitaries at Westminster Abbey and a global television audience estimated to be over four billion, our nation gave a reminder of our enduring greatness.

Central to the morning's proceedings on this extraordinary day was the service in Westminster Abbey, in front of a congregation of over 2,000 people including international royalty, presidents and prime ministers. But the act of worship, beautiful in both words and music, induced a hushed stillness among all, no matter how exalted their status.

Throughout her reign, the late Queen had a strong Christian faith, which she spoke about openly in her 2014 Christmas message, describing her conviction as "the anchor of my life" and adding: "Christ's example helps me see the value of doing small things with great love." It was that spirit that infused her selfless dedication and made her so admired across the world.

As she lay in state, a colossal queue for mourners formed, stretching over five miles at its height and taking on the form of a pilgrimage, until the doors of Westminster Hall shut at 6.30 am on Monday. Appropriately, the very last mourner allowed in was a services veteran, Chrissy Heerey from Melton Mowbray, who had been in the RAF. "I swore my allegiance to her. I feel very proud I was there," she said, sentiments echoed by thousands.

At eight o'clock, the doors of the abbey opened, and the first congregants took their seats.

Then, with the start of the service at 11 o'clock approaching, several members of the British Royal Family arrived, headed by the new Queen Consort, who has done such a sterling job in supporting the new King during the mourning period, and the Princess of Wales, accompanied by her two oldest children George and Charlotte, looking both smart and solemn.

With Big Ben tolling in the background, one resonant peal a minute for every year of the Queen's life, the focus of attention switched back to Westminster Hall, where a bearer party of guardsmen conveyed her coffin from the catafalque within on to the naval gun carriage standing outside in Palace Yard, flanked by a large honour party made up of soldiers, sailors and aviators. The gun carriage has been used at every monarch's funeral since Queen Victoria's in 1901 and by tradition it is drawn by 142 naval ratings.

Then followed the first hymn, "The Day Thou Gavest, Lord, Is Ended". Like many others present, the Earl of Wessex could not contain his tears at this point.

The first lesson, from Corinthians, was read by the Secretary-General of the Commonwealth Baroness Scotland, the former Labour politician and lawyer who was the first black woman to become a Queen's Counsel in 1991. She did the job with fitting solemnity, as did Prime Minister Liz Truss, who read the second lesson.

She had been preceded by the choirs' rendition of an anthem, based on Psalm 42, specially written for the service by Judith Weir, the first female master of the Queen's music when she was appointed in 2015.

There were two further hymns, one being a favourite of the Queen's: "The Lord Is My Shepherd". The other was "Loves Divine, All Loves Excelling" by Charles

“Those who serve will be loved and remembered when those who cling to power and privilege are long forgotten.”

Wesley, the 18th century founder of Methodism.

More striking was the sermon by the Archbishop of Canterbury, Justin Welby. Just five minutes long, it was admirably concise, as befits the wishes of the Queen who, like Prince Philip, loathed long-winded addresses. Not a word was wasted as he praised “her abundant life and loving service” and spoke about the certainty of the resurrection.

There were prayers from clerics of different churches and religions, reflecting the diversity of modern Britain.

Another anthem, this one specially composed for the service by the Scotsman James MacMillan, led to the most moving part of the service. First there was a two-minute silence. A group of trumpeters from the Household Cavalry played the Last Post, followed by a haunting lament from a lone piper playing “Sleep, dearie, sleep”.

After that draining performance, the closing rendition of the National Anthem came almost as a relief. Moistened eyes could be seen throughout the congregation and the King’s features were a picture of agony.

At the end of this pitch-perfect service, the bearer party of guardsmen carried out the coffin again to the waiting gun carriage, where it began the journey along The Mall, past Buckingham Palace to the Wellington Arch at Hyde Park Corner.

This was the key chapter for the military, as the procession swelled to encompass no fewer than 6,000 servicemen and women.

Headed by members of the Canadian mounted police, with whom the late Queen had a special bond having visited Canada 22 times, the procession was a marvel of split-second timing, attention to detail and venerable pomp, embodied by the Grenadier Guards in their red tunics and tall bearskins or the Life Guards on horseback, the pale sunlight occasionally glinting on their silver breastplates and plumed helmets.

The hearse, accompanied by limousines carrying the royals, now travelled through west London and then by a rural route to St George’s Chapel at Windsor Castle.

The chapel is the usual setting for royal funerals and it was only on the Queen’s insistence, based on her happy memories of her wedding and coronation, that the abbey was the venue for the main public service, the first time it had been used for such a purpose since 1760. On the way to Windsor, the public had a last chance to say farewell, and tens of thousands did so, some by throwing flowers at the cortege, others by applauding.

The ceremony itself at St George’s Chapel was a more intimate affair than the morning service. It was beautifully done, from the perfection of the choir to the skill of the bearer party, who must have been exhausted though they did not betray any tiredness.

Then at the end of the service came the most emotive moment of all, when she was taken to be buried beside Prince Philip. The finality was harrowing, yet this was mixed with a sense of serenity and peace.

The odyssey, which had begun in Balmoral on September 8 had come to an end.

Those 12 days have been among the most remarkable in our history, and they culminated in a drama that did our nation, and our late sovereign, proud.

The King to spend a week in mourning

THE King is to spend a week mourning his mother in private and contemplating the big questions that face him at the start of his reign.

As the great clean-up from Monday's funeral began on Tuesday, Charles and the Queen Consort flew from London to Aberdeen to begin seven days of royal mourning at their Birkhall home on the Balmoral estate.

Members of the Royal Family are not expected to undertake any public engagements during the court mourning and Union flags at royal residences will remain at half-mast until 8am on September 27.

Several high-profile engagements have been cancelled, including a trip by Prince William to New York.

And plans for Kate have been put on hold too.

The new Princess of Wales was to play tennis with Roger Federer and children in east London to help two of her charity patronages.

But behind the scenes the King was back at work. He is going through his red boxes of state papers every day confirming official appointments and keeping him up to speed on his new Government's thinking as well as affairs of state in his 14 overseas realms.

He may also have a small number of telephone audiences with other heads of state or politicians.

Aides, however, said it was unlikely there would be much to be recorded in the list of official duties in the Court Circular during the royal mourning period.

The 73-year-old monarch will spend much of his time making decisions about, or at least starting to consider, some of the many questions arising out of the change of reign.

One of the biggest is what the new working Royal Family will look like.

Sources said the King would also be thinking about which royal residences he and the rest of the family will use.

Palace officials also intend to review patronages with him.

Some of his Welsh charities could be transferred to the new Prince and Princess of Wales, who also have conflicting English sporting patronages.

William is president of England's Football Association and Kate is patron of England's Rugby Football Union – appointments which have ruffled feathers in Wales although their eventual succession to the Welsh titles must have been factored in by the late Queen.

The King will also be asked to make decisions about where to travel on overseas visits in the coming months.

He and Camilla had been planning an autumn visit to Asia until the death of the Queen.

TEARFUL GOODBYE: Charles couldn't hide his feelings after Monday's service

Now that is likely to be shelved and a tour of some of his overseas realms may replace it. After a surge in support for the monarchy in Australia, he and the Queen Consort are expected to want to visit sooner rather than later.

And trips to Canada, which had a special place in his mother's heart, and New Zealand are also thought likely.

Over the next few days the monarch will also be considering what happens to staff who worked for him at Clarence House or who worked for the late Queen.

One of the saddest sights at Westminster Abbey on Monday was Angela Kelly, the late Queen's dressmaker, personal assistant, and confidante sitting alone with her thoughts as many of the guests were already filing out.

Some staff at Clarence House have already been put at risk of redundancy.

Others at Buckingham Palace are likely to retire, leave, or have their roles changed. "Quite a few people will be needed to plan the Coronation. So that will keep them going for a while," one Palace source said.

Heads will roll: Charles plans a leaner, cheaper monarchy

KING CHARLES has vowed to shake up the monarchy with a smaller, leaner organization to counter public unease about the cost of institution amid the UK's cost of living crisis.

The new monarch is also reportedly eager to engage with his subjects, and is said to be acutely aware that his long-reigning mother is, in the words of one courtier 'a very tough act to follow'.

But in good news for Charles, a recent poll suggests there is growing support for Camilla as Queen Consort, but scant concern for the future of Harry and Meghan.

Only five per cent think King Charles should make repairing his relationship with the Duke and Duchess of Sussex a priority.

Sixty-three per cent think Charles has had a good start to his reign and 70 per cent say he will make a good King.

The survey of more than 2,500 British adults asked whether they supported the King's idea to slim down the monarchy to perhaps seven working royals – likely to be the King, Queen Consort, William and Kate, Anne, Edward and Sophie from the current 11 and several more in the past.

no Andrew comeback

Sixty-five per cent approved, with seven per cent against and the rest not expressing an opinion.

Charles was beginning to consider what the new working Royal Family will look like this week, after he and Camilla flew to Scotland for some time away from the spotlight.

Harry and Meghan's decision to step away and Prince Andrew's forced departure after a sex scandal have already cut the number of working royals but not in the way officials had anticipated.

Some top courtiers had assumed there would be no official role for Charles's siblings when he became King. But that may have changed now Harry and Meghan no longer undertake official duties.

Royal sources are convinced there will be no comeback for Andrew, but the King may now welcome the support of Princess Anne, 72, and the Earl and Countess of Wessex. A former adviser said: "He particularly appreciates his sister's work ethic."

European royal families are often slimming down to four or five and it is unlikely there will be room for more members, such as Andrew's daughters Princesses Beatrice or Eugenie, for official duties.

...or Harry and Meghan

Yet if the King is abroad with Camilla or unwell, he may have to count on non-working family to stand in, under the provisions for appointing counsellors of state.

Two people from the first four adults in line to the throne and the monarch's spouse can act as counsellors of state, which could involve asking Harry, Andrew or Beatrice.

Charles may have to ask the Government to update the Regency Act to ensure only working members of the family stand in for him.

But there was bad news for the Duke and Duchess of Sussex, with fully fifty-seven per cent of those asked saying Harry and Meghan should not be allowed to become full-time Royal Family members again while living in the United States. Only 32 per cent are in favour.

Building better relations with Harry and Meghan was second from bottom in the new King's priority list. Only "supporting the Church of England" came lower.

More important issues, the public says, are helping the environment, cutting the cost of the monarchy, backing the Prime Minister and Government and protecting the Commonwealth.

After controversy over whether she should be given the title of Queen, when she insisted she did not want it, people now appear to have warmed considerably to Camilla as Queen Consort. Asked if she would make a good or bad Queen Consort, 58 per cent said good and 22 per cent bad.

Support for a constitutional monarchy is at 66 per cent, with 22 per cent opposed, after the change of reign proved far smoother than many predicted and people rallied to their new monarch.

UK in recession and interest rates to rise again, Bank warns new Chancellor

The Bank of England has warned Kwasi Kwarteng the economy is in recession and it will most probably need to push interest rates higher following Friday's tax-cutting mini budget from the chancellor.

On the eve of a major package of support from the chancellor designed to break what he called the economy's "cycle of stagnation", Threadneedle Street said the UK economy was heading for a second consecutive quarter of falling output, with gross domestic product set to shrink 0.1% in the three months to September.

However, with energy and food bills still soaring, and inflation not expected to peak until October, the Bank of England raised the cost of borrowing for a seventh successive meeting of its monetary policy committee (MPC) and made clear the new government's plans risked triggering more interest rate hikes.

The MPC – which put up interest rates by 0.5 percentage points to 2.25% on Thursday – said it would be carefully assessing the impact of the government's energy price caps and growth plan ahead of the committee's next decision in November.

In a letter to the chancellor explaining why inflation is running at almost five times its 2% target, the Bank's governor, Andrew Bailey, said: "Should the outlook suggest more persistent inflationary pressures, including from stronger demand, the committee will respond forcefully, as necessary."

Kwarteng on Friday announced 30 separate measures – including tax cuts, new investment zones and an acceleration of infrastructure projects – in an effort to raise the economy's growth rate to his stated target of 2.5% a year.

One of the main elements of the package – the £13bn reversal of the increase in national insurance contributions, introduced in April to fund the health and social care levy – will come into force on 6 November, three days after the Bank's next interest-rate decision.

million people will keep more of their earnings as a result of the move, the Resolution Foundation thinktank said on average the poorest 10% of households would gain £11.41 in 2022-23, while the richest 10% of households would gain £682.

The mini-budget is expected to contain significant further interventions to boost growth beyond the reversal of the NICs rise and next April's planned increase in corporation tax, Treasury sources have confirmed, with one Whitehall source describing the package as having "more rabbits than Watership Down".

If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same Lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. Notice to Property Owner The sale date shown on this Notice of Sale may be postponed one or more times by the Mortgagee, Beneficiary, Trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about Trustee Sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call In Source Logic at 702-659-7766 for information regarding the Trustee's Sale or visit the Internet Website address listed below for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case, CA08000321-22-1. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Website. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. Notice to Tenant NOTICE TO TENANT FOR FORECLOSURES AFTER JANUARY 1, 2021 You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 702-659-7766, or visit this internet website www.insourcelogic.com, using the file number assigned to this case CA08000321-22-1 to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. STRAIGHT DOWN TO BUSINESS: Liz Truss and President Biden met in London this week following his attendance at the Queen's funeral

Biden and Truss race to meet six month deadline to break Brexit border deadlock

PRESIDENT Joe Biden and Prime Minister Liz Truss are racing to meet a six-month deadline to break the deadlock over Brexit rules.

British officials want the row resolved in time for the 25th anniversary of peace in Northern Ireland. It would also pave the way for a state visit by the US President to mark the milestone.

On Tuesday the two leaders stood shoulder to shoulder against Russian aggression in Ukraine. Ms Truss had earlier accused Vladimir Putin of "sabre rattling".

The Prime Minister told the President the UK and the US are "steadfast allies" as she thanked him for his support following the death of the Queen.

She added: "Of course I'm looking forward to discussing the Belfast Good Friday Agreement and how we make sure that's upheld into the future."

Brussels has taken a hardline approach to imposing the customs rules agreed in the Brexit deal, which has inflamed tensions in the region. The Northern Ireland Executive remains suspended after the Democratic Unionist Party walked out over the new border checks.

Tensions over the protocol have spilled over into relations between the US and UK with a trade deal now on the backburner.

But President Biden was keen to emphasize unity at the start of the talks with Ms Truss.

He said: "I look forward to working closely with you.

"You're our closest ally in the world and there's a lot we can continue to do together. We are both committed to protecting the Good Friday Agreement of Northern Ireland."

Their first top-level talks, held on the fringes of the United Nations General Assembly, ran over the allotted hour by 15 minutes and were described as "very warm".

Irish heritage

A Downing Street spokesman said: "On the Northern Ireland Protocol, the Prime Minister and President Biden both agreed that the priority must be protecting the Belfast (Good Friday) Agreement and preserving the gains of peace in Northern Ireland."

Before the meeting Ms Truss said she was keen to make progress on ending the deadlock.

Diplomats say the 25th anniversary of the Good Friday Agreement next April would be an obvious time for Mr Biden to visit the UK if the stalemate is resolved.

One senior diplomatic source said: "If you look at the calendar you will conclude that next year might be an obvious reason to visit Europe if things come good."

Mr Biden, who has Irish heritage, has repeatedly intervened to warn the UK against ripping up the Brexit rules. But diplomats insisted that behind the scenes the UK has a valid argument about the way some rules are being imposed.

Americans want allied unity on every issue possible while the West battles Russian aggression, the insider said. They want to see a "negotiated outcome" between the EU and the UK.

The source added: "They believe that we have a good point on some of the trading issues, the goods actually getting to the shelves, and they are prepared to tell the EU that.

"But they continue to urge both sides to go for a negotiated settlement."

Former Labour Prime Minister Sir Tony Blair has been working behind the scenes to find ways to resolve tensions and has been "explaining why the EU proposals will not work".

And the source added: "He doesn't agree with the government on every point, but he certainly has been a helpful voice in that."

A spokesman for Sir Tony declined to comment.

Ms Truss, who met President Biden before becoming Prime Minister, had hoped to make a visit to the White House this week but the trip to the US was curtailed following the death of the Queen.

Officials are now advising her to wait until after the mid-term elections in the US before making a formal visit to Washington.

Dame Karen Pierce, Britain's ambassador to the United States, said the "special relationship" between the UK and US is as "strong as it ever has been".

And she added: "I think the President and the Americans have some understanding that trade disruption is not helpful in the context of bringing communities together."

Mr Biden and Ms Truss were meeting after the president sent a tweet just as the PM was discussing her economic policy, which said he was "sick and tired of trickle-down economics".

"It has never worked," he said.

Pants half off in rude health at Trivia Night

Win or lose, everyone has smiles on their faces at the popular Brits in LA Pub Quiz which packs the Market Tavern each Tuesday.

This past Tuesday saw Pub Crawlers trailing the field, while Pants Half Off came first, but all twelve teams had an awesome time at the Sandro Monetti-hosted event.

There will be a guest host next time as regular quizmaster Sandro will be away in London for the UK premiere of the film he's directed, Tech to the Future, and that means the awesome Denise Littlejohn will be back to deputize on Sep 27 with Sandro returning on October 4th.

Why you need dental insurance in retirement.

Medicare doesn't pay for dental care.<sup>1</sup>

As good as Medicare is, it was never meant to cover everything. If you want protection, you need to purchase individual insurance.

Early detection can prevent small problems from becoming expensive ones.

The best way to avoid large dental bills is preventive care. Experts recommend checkups twice a year.

Previous dental work can wear out.

Your odds of having a dental problem only go up as you age.<sup>2</sup>

Treatment is expensive — especially the services people over 50 often need.

Unexpected bills, like $189 for a filling, or $1,219 for a crown<sup>3</sup> can be a real burden, especially if you're on a fixed income.

When you're comparing plans ...

- ▶ Look for coverage that helps pay for major services.
- ▶ Look for coverage with no deductibles.
- ▶ Shop for coverage with no annual maximum on cash benefits.

Simply put — without dental insurance, there may be an important gap in your healthcare coverage.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: Your boss Mars in Gemini is gearing up for changes in your life. The window of opportunity will open wider. Although nothing will be slam dunk until mid-October, you should be at least planning.

TAURUS: For most of you folks, life has slowed down somewhat and while you have had your moments of frustration you got over it. Now you should be preparing for action stations coming soon.

GEMINI: A good idea for you busy people is to really look at how many times you got through difficult situations and take inspiration. Do not put off anything that needs action now. Mercury your boss is on a slow track this week and it's best to be prepared.

CANCER: You should be getting plans organised for the early part of the week ahead. Just don't be worried if some things are still on hold. Mercury is backtracking and brings some completion of your goals.

LEO: You should know by now in this present environment that the greatest gift you can give to others as well as yourself is patience. You will soon be buzzing around like a busy bee and making some good space in your life for visits and family gatherings.

VIRGO: Just when you are ready to get going in life again, along comes your boss Mercury, slowly swimming backwards. There is not much you can achieve until the middle of October. This is a universal happening and you are not alone.

LIBRA: Trying to get moving through a pile of mud is the general atmosphere out there recently. This is due to Mercury on hold in your life. Change starts slowly beginning the middle of next month - Happy Birthday!

SCORPIO: You should be enjoying a health and fitness plan currently. Your boss Mars is making you think fast and will change several areas of your life by year's end. He can greatly assist you IF you stick to your plan to get to your goals.

SAGITTARIUS: Be sure you don't speak out in a combative way over a tense situation these next few days. It's not a bad situation, however since others are trying to control things it's best to keep silent.

You will get your say later next week.

CAPRICORN: Some easing up of the recent family or work situation is happening - or soon will. Better to keep out of it for now. Pluto is going forward next week and that brings better energy for you.

AQUARIUS: The current times are reasonably good for you due to your boss Uranus in solid earthy Taurus. However some days you could feel like you are on a roller coaster. You are getting ready for a move of sorts soon.

PISCES: You are getting ready to socialize and it's not surprising because of the force of the recent full moon in your sign. Get ready for positive action heading your way very soon!

De Bruyne stars as Wales are beaten again

■ City star pulls the strings, leaving Welsh facing Nations League relegation

Kevin de Bruyne was at his masterful best on Thursday as Belgium withstood a spirited fightback from Wales to leave them teetering on the brink of relegation in the Nations League.

De Bruyne casually stroked in the opening goal from the edge of the penalty area and hit the post with another shot from a similar distance before crossing for Michy Batshuayi to tap in the home side's second.

Belgium's 2-0 half-time lead was no reflection of their avalanche of chances, and that advantage was cut in half when Kieffer Moore headed in from Brennan Johnson's beautifully flighted cross.

After Belgium had a penalty overturned by the video assistant referee as replays showed Joe Morrell had cleanly dispossessed De Bruyne, Wales pushed for an unlikely late equaliser but were thwarted by a home side who could not have envisaged such a nervy conclusion to a game they seemed destined to win at a canter.

With Poland losing at home to the Netherlands, Wales must now beat Poland by a score of 2-1 or better in Cardiff on Sunday to keep their place in the top flight of the Nations League.

Robert Lewandowski and company will pose Robert Page's men with another stern challenge and, while Poland may not be of the same standard of this stellar Belgian side, Wales will still be without numerous first-team players due to injury.

The absence of the likes of Ben Davies, Aaron Ramsey, Joe Allen and Harry Wilson was keenly felt in Brussels, but a brave second-half display offered enough encouragement to suggest Wales belong at this level.

This was the ninth meeting between these teams in 10 years and the fourth in the past 18 months; understandable, then, that De Bruyne said beforehand he was "bored" of facing these opponents.

The Manchester City midfielder was a picture of cool indifference for his goal, nonchalantly side-footing a first-time shot with his left foot which deceived Hennessey, who got a hand to the ball but could not prevent it from nestling in the bottom corner.

De Bruyne can be close to unstoppable regardless of the opposition, so it only exacerbated matters for Wales that they were so charitable in possession and slack in their closing down of the Belgian maestro.

Matt Smith gave the ball away for the opening goal, while Wales' defenders were alarmingly standoffish when De Bruyne lined up a 20-yard shot which had Hennessey rendered motionless as it cannoned off the post.

The Wales keeper had a busy first half and, were it not for wayward Belgian finishing with various other shots flying wide, the visitors would have been facing a hammering. Wales were without several influential players due to injury. The absence of Davies, Ramsey, Allen and Wilson amounted to 260 missing caps, while captain Gareth Bale - a veteran of 106 appearances - was only on the bench. It left Wales' starting line-up with 364 caps, 104 of which belonged to Hennessey, whereas Belgium boasted 899.

That gulf in experience

- and a wider chasm in quality - was glaringly obvious in a first half in which Wales' midfield could not keep the ball or track opposition runners and their defence was run ragged.

Grealish: Southgate criticism harsh

England failed to win any of their four Nations League games in June, including 1-0 and 4-0 defeats by Hungary.

However, Southgate led England to the 2018 World Cup semi-finals and a first European Championship final in 2021.

"I thought it was harsh but sometimes that's what you get if you're English. I've had my fair share," Manchester City winger Grealish said.

"We reached the [Euro 2020] final last year - then [there was] the [loss to] Hungary at the start of the last camp, but before that the last time we'd lost a game over 90 minutes was Belgium in November 2020."

England drew with

Italy and Germany either side of the defeats by Hungary in internationals at the end of the last league season.

After the four games, Football Association chairwoman Debbie Hewitt insisted English football's governing body has confidence in Southgate.

Grealish was speaking prior to England's Nations League games against Italy on Friday and Germany three days later, which are the team's last fixtures before the 2022 World Cup.

The attacking midfielder, who was signed for £100m by City from Aston Villa, also responded to remarks from club team-mate

Kevin de Bruyne who suggested that English players are treated more harshly in the media.

"I can obviously see where he's coming from a little bit," said Grealish.

"But I think that's just the way it is in this country, especially if you're myself, playing for one of the biggest clubs in the world, who are winning trophies every single year.

"Obviously when I have the price tag on my head that I have, people are going to want to talk. It's just something that I need to [get on with].

"I keep going back to it, saying embrace it and it's just part and parcel, but I do see where he's coming from a little bit."
