

William rules out Coronation reconciliation - page 3

HILLSBOROUGH: 34 years on: police 'sorry'

"I profoundly apologise. Policing got it badly wrong," says top cop

POLICE chiefs finally apologized this week, 34 years after getting the Hillsborough disaster aftermath "badly wrong".

Leaders of all 43 forces said the "profound failings" had "continued to blight" families of the football tragedy victims.

They promised "cultural change" and a new code of ethics.

Ninety-seven Liverpool fans died after a crush at the Sheffield stadium on April 15, 1989, during the FA Cup semi-final against Nottingham Forest.

In 2016, an inquest jury ruled they were unlawfully killed during a number of police errors.

The apology came in a national police response to a report into Hillsborough families' experiences by former bishop of Liverpool, the Rt Rev James Jones.

It is the first reply from a major public body to the 117-page report, published in 2017. Louise Brookes, who lost her brother Andrew, 26, said it was "absolutely shameful" the apology had taken so long. And campaigners were "extremely disappointed" it did not back a change in the law.

Peter Scarfe, of the Hillsborough Survivors' Support Alliance, said: "It's easy saying we've learned from it, we're going to correct our mistakes, we'll make sure accountability is there, we can't cover things up. But without a law, they can."

Bishop Jones said: "For [families] to wait for so long for a response is intolerable and adds to their pain – and, I think, in some instances even affects their own grieving." His report, The Patronising Disposition of Unaccountable Power, made 25 recommendations, 11 directly concerning policing.

It called for "a change in attitude" to ensure the pain and suffering of families who spent decades fighting for justice was not repeated.

The National Police Chiefs Council (NPCC) and College of Policing said a duty of candour would be a key theme of a new force code of ethics.

College of Policing's chief executive officer, Chief Constable Andy Marsh, said: "For what happened, as a senior policing leader,

LONG SLOG FOR JUSTICE: Ninety-seven Liverpool fans died after a crush at the Sheffield stadium on April 15, 1989

I profoundly apologise. Policing got it badly wrong.

"What we're talking about is cultural change and cultural change takes a long time – but my goodness, we have started."

All forces in England and Wales have signed up to a "Charter for Families Bereaved Through Public Tragedy". They must acknowledge any mistakes and ensure "care, compassion, openness, transparency and accountability".

A code of practice on police information and records management will prevent the problems faced after Hillsborough, when records were lost or destroyed. There is also new guidance for family liaison officers.

And in a shake-up on disaster victim identification, officers will be told the terms "belonging to" or "property of" the coroner should not be used.

NPCC chairman Martin Hewitt said the response was not published earlier due to legal processes and any law change was up to Parliament.

But he conceded: "I absolutely accept that every week or month that has gone by has added to the pain of the families."

Chief Constable Andy Marsh: "What we're talking about is cultural change and cultural change takes a long time."

North-South divide in UK house prices is finally closing

■ But the gulf is still nearly £200,000

THE North-South divide in house prices is finally showing signs of closing but the gulf is still nearly £200,000.

People moving out of the South-east during the pandemic is thought to have fuelled a price boom in the North. The Government's Levelling Up Fund has also increased confidence in the regional economy. But experts say there is still a huge divide, with the typical house price across the South now £404,869. The average in the North is £209,404.

eight per cent rise

Research by independent estate agent eXp UK shows the North-South gap in property values has reached a mammoth 93.3 per cent. This has widened from 79 per cent in 2012, after adjusting for inflation. But since November 2020, values in the North have risen by an average of eight per cent, driven largely by the North-west with an 11 per cent increase and Wales by 10 per cent.

In comparison, the South has averaged six per cent, with the South-west seeing the highest rate of growth at 10 per cent. London only managed a two per cent decline.

'regeneration'

Adam Day, head of eXp UK, said: "It remains a tale of two markets across the property sector, with the South remaining the dominant force in terms of overall house price pedigree, while the North has enjoyed a stronger performance of late where house price appreciation is concerned.

"The ongoing regeneration and investment of the North should help to further close the North-South divide going forward. Although with the gap remaining vast, it's unlikely to tip the scales completely."

Average house prices fell by 0.6 per cent in January, the fourth month in a row.

Nationwide Building Society said the typical home is now worth 3.2 per cent less than last August. The average UK price is £258,297.

We're not an exhibit! Luxury London flat owners win battle against Tate Modern

■ Controversial viewing platform atop famed art gallery allowed thousands of visitors to peep into apartments on a daily basis

Owners of luxury flats in London on Wednesday won a legal battle to force the adjacent Tate Modern gallery to stop visitors peeping into their homes from a public viewing platform.

The Supreme Court announced that by a majority of three to two judges had agreed their appeal due to "intense visual intrusion", after they lost at earlier hearings.

The Tate Modern is a popular free gallery showing contemporary art in a former power station on the south bank of The River Thames.

In 2016 it opened an extension called the Blavatnik Building which includes a viewing gallery on the top 10th floor.

Residents of residential block NEO Bankside found their mainly glass-walled flats to be just 34 metres (112 feet) away, and their interiors eyed and photographed by curious visitors.

Five flat owners took their fight to the courts, arguing that this amounted to a nuisance, and seeking an injunction requiring the Tate to prevent visitors from seeing their flats from

ON DISPLAY NO MORE: the Tate Modern will either have to conceal the view from the viewing platform or pay damages to the residents of NEO Bankside the viewing platform or award damages.

They lost their case in 2019 and a further appeal in 2020, before victory at the Supreme Court.

In a 96-page judgement, judge George Leggatt said that hundreds of thousands per year could see into the flats, "much like being on display in a zoo".

He said a further High Court hearing would decide what remedial measures would be required from the Tate.

Tate Modern in a statement emailed to AFP thanked the court for "their careful consideration of this matter," adding that because the case was going back to the High Court, "we cannot comment further".

BORIS: Putin threatened to kill me

BORIS Johnson has claimed that Vladimir Putin made an astonishing and chilling threat to him in a phone call: "I don't want to hurt you, but with a missile it would only take a minute."

He said the Russian president casually attempted to intimidate him in a "very long, most extraordinary call".

The former Prime Minister said the threat came after he visited Kyiv last February. Putin publicly maintained he had no plans to invade Ukraine – but his army was on its border.

A spokesman for the Kremlin vigorously denied the claim, accusing Mr Johnson of lying, with spokesman Dmitry Peskov telling reporters what he said was not true, or "more precisely, a lie".

"There were no threats of missiles," Mr Peskov said.

"It is either a deliberate lie - so you have to ask Mr Johnson why he chose to put it that way - or it was an unconscious lie and he did not in fact understand what Putin was talking to him about."

Mr Peskov said President Putin had told Mr Johnson if Ukraine joined NATO, it would mean US or NATO missiles placed near Russia's borders would be able to reach Moscow in a matter of minutes, and suggested that there may have been a misunderstanding.

Mr Johnson said that he warned the Kremlin tyrant of tougher sanctions if he was to attack his neighbour. These would include the West intensifying its support for Ukraine and "more Nato, not less Nato" on Russia's frontiers.

The ex-PM told the BBC: "He said, 'Boris, you say that Ukraine is not going to join Nato any time soon...What is any time soon?' and I said 'Well it's not going to join Nato for the foreseeable future. You know that perfectly well.'"

He sort of threatened me at one point and said, 'Boris, I don't want to hurt you, but with a missile it would only take a minute', or something like that."

Mr Johnson added: "I think from the very relaxed tone that he was taking, the sort of air of detachment that he seemed to have, he was just playing along with my attempts to get him to negotiate."

Dame Esther: "I am remaining optimistic."

Esther Rantzen reveals lung cancer battle

VETERAN campaigner Dame Esther Rantzen faces the fight of her life after revealing she has lung cancer.

The tireless activist, whose lifelong dedication to championing the underdog has made her a national treasure, is "optimistic" about beating the disease, which has spread.

She confirmed the news on Monday after a recent diagnosis.

Dame Esther, 82, said: "At the moment I am undergoing various tests to assess the best treatment.

"I have decided not to keep this secret any more because I find it difficult to skulk around various hospitals wearing an unconvincing disguise and because I would rather you heard the facts from me.

"While I am awaiting the results of the tests I am unable to answer questions. Thanks to the extraordinary skills of the medical profession there are wonderful new treatments, so I am remaining optimistic."

Dame Esther is known to millions as the presenter of TV's That's Life! - which ran for 21 years and drew audiences of 18 million - and as the energetic campaigner who set up ChildLine in 1986 and The Silver Line for lonely pensioners in 2013.

She has three children, Miriam, Rebecca and Joshua from her marriage to the late Desmond Wilcox, and five grandchildren Benji, nine, Xander and Teddy, seven, Florence and Romilly, four.

Dame Esther said: "At the age of 82, this diagnosis has prompted me to look back over the years and I want to express my profound thanks to everyone who has made my life so joyful, filled with fun and with inspiration.

"First and foremost my family. My three children have been the most wonderful support, company and source of love and laughter and I am deeply grateful to them.

"My friends have been amazing and have created memories which sustain me and give me strength. "My colleagues with whom I have worked, and continue to work with in broadcasting, journalism, the voluntary sector, and in many other organisations have been a constant pleasure, and have amazed me with their tolerance of my wild ideas and awful jokes.

"I have been continuously inspired by the courageous children, older people and viewers who have trusted me with their life stories. I have always tried to live up to that trust."

Despite dedicating her life to helping others, Dame Esther has spoken about her own struggles with loneliness after her documentary maker husband died in 2000.

She said: "ChildLine proved to me that if you offer a way of safely providing help, people will use that resource. The elderly should not suffer in silence either. "

William 'dead against' Charles's plan for Coronation reconciliation with Harry PRINCE William is said to be resisting his father's attempts to broker a peace pact with Harry to clear the way to him attending May's Coronation.

William is said to be 'still seething' at the two-month attack on the Royal Family made by his brother's Netflix documentary series and tell-all memoir.

The King is desperate for the squabbling siblings to reconcile and be at his side on his big day.

But the Prince of Wales is said to fear Harry's presence could be an opportunity for the man dubbed 'the rogue Royal' by papers friendly to Buckingham Palace, to stage a stunt.

"He (William) is dead against the idea," said a Palace insider this week. "He doesn't believe he has anything to apologize for and views this is just an attempt by Harry, prompted by his wife, to upstage his father's big day."

'a way forward'

The Archbishop of Canterbury, who will officiate at the crowning of King Charles III on May 6, is being called on to mediate. Charles hopes Justin Welby can help heal the schism between William and Harry, allowing both to play central roles at the Westminster Abbey service. It comes after The Most Rev Welby said in December - following the release of the docuseries Harry & Meghan - "There's always a way forward, but it has to be at the right time".

Since the Duke of Sussex began his campaign to tell what he considers his side of the story of the royal rift, speculation has been rife as to whether he and his wife will attend - or even be invited to - the Coronation.

Buckingham Palace, which has remained silent over the outbursts, thinks their absence would be a greater distraction and is willing to make concessions to persuade them to attend.

And two-thirds of the public believe Harry should be invited.

'the family is split'

But sources say William, 40, remains unconvinced. Earlier this month

Harry, 38, said any hope of reconciliation rests with his dad and brother. He added: "The ball is in their court.

"I really hope they are willing to sit down and talk about it." One source said: "The issue is whether they attend the Coronation, and if they do, under what terms and conditions.

"The family is split, and all the indications are that Harry is being advised to agree to nothing at this stage and 'play it long' right up to the last minute - which is making negotiations with him very difficult.

"Harry's camp made clear that the idea that cont. on page 4, col. 1

William: No more touring for Ozzy Osbourne

he would just attend the Coronation and behave himself but then be stripped of his titles was a total non-starter.

"While he might decide at some point to discard his titles of his own volition, he objects to the idea of being forcibly stripped of them. He resents being lumped with Andrew in the public mind as the two 'problem Princes', when he considers the circumstances to be totally different."

Mr Welby, 67, was first asked to act as an intermediary between William and Harry shortly after the Queen's death in September.

He has previously been dragged into the Sussex soap opera when Meghan claimed in a TV interview he had secretly married them before their official wedding in 2018. It forced him to clarify the ceremony broadcast to the world was the legal marriage.

He also had to pull out of the Church's General Synod in July 2019 to baptise their son Archie.

Welsh say No, No, No, to Delilah

The Welsh Rugby Union has banned Delilah from being sung by a choir in Cardiff during the Six Nations.

Announcing the ban of the rugby anthem, which is about a jealous lover stabbing his unfaithful partner, a Principality Stadium spokesperson said the WRU "condemns domestic violence of any kind" and is "respectfully aware" that the song is "problematic and upsetting to some supporters because of its subject matter".

The singer Tom Jones, who made the track famous, said: "It's not political, it's about a man just losing it."

■ Veteran rocker says he is "no longer physically capable" of performing live

Ozzy Osbourne says his days of touring are over because he is no longer "physically capable" of performing.

The Black Sabbath singer, 74, has been forced to scrap his planned dates in Europe and the UK after extensive spinal surgery.

Ozzy had a fall at home in 2019 which aggravated injuries from a near-fatal quad bike crash in 2003.

'honestly humbled'

Since then, he has performed during the closing ceremony of the Birmingham 2022 Commonwealth Games and at an American football match in the SoFi Stadium, Los Angeles, in September.

He told his followers on Instagram: "This is probably one of the hardest things I've ever had to share with my loyal fans.

"As you may all know, four years ago this month I had a major accident, where I damaged my spine. My only purpose during this time has been to get back on stage.

"I am honestly humbled by the way you've all patiently held on to your tickets for all this time. But in all good conscience I have now come to the realisation that I'm not physically capable of doing my upcoming European/UK tour dates, as I know I couldn't deal with the travel required.

"Never would I have imagined that my touring days would have ended this way."

Ozzy said his singing voice was "fine" but that, following three operations, stem cell treatments and physical therapy sessions his body was "still weak".

The star had been due to perform in Europe and the UK throughout May and June.

Cafe owner and detectorist uncovers priceless pendant linked to Henry VIII in local field

■ Medallion is considered one of the most significant finds in British archeological history

Part-time treasure hunter Charlie Clarke was about to call it a day when his metal detector beeped.

Now he is in line for a pretty penny after stumbling across a priceless gold Tudor pendant.

The 34-year-old cafe owner was only six months into his new hobby and thought he had found just another bottle top.

But when he saw the outline of a medallion in a ploughed field he admitted to shrieking "like a little schoolgirl".

It turned out to be a rare charm celebrating Henry VIII's marriage to Katherine of Aragon – one of the most significant finds in British archeological history. The beautiful heart-shaped locket, which was attached to a 75-link chain, was decorated with a red and white Tudor rose motif entwined with a pomegranate bush, – symbols of Henry and Katherine who wed in 1509, the first of his six marriages.

On the reverse, the initials H and K are engraved and ribbon motifs carry the legend TOVS and IORS, an early "Franglais" pun on the word "toujours" and "all yours". Experts are reluctant to put a price on the 300g find – which is cast in 24-carat gold – before an official valuation. But it is unlikely to be more than £1million.

LOVE'S LABOUR'S LOST: the pendant marking Henry's marriage to Katherine of Aragon was found in a muddy field

It now has pride of place in the British Museum alongside 1,000 other treasures dug up in the UK by amateur detectorists.

Charlie, from Birmingham, will split his yet-to-be-decided finder's fee with the Warwickshire landowner and use the rest to give his four-year-old son, also Charlie, "the best education possible".

He said: "People say it's like winning the lottery. It's not. People actually win the lottery.

Prosecutors drop attempted rape case against Mason Greenwood

■ Striker had been preparing to go on trial later this year until the CPS dropped the case on Thursday

The Manchester United footballer Mason Greenwood is no longer facing criminal proceedings over attempted rape after prosecutors dropped the case against him.

The Crown Prosecution Service (CPS) said there was "no longer a realistic prospect of conviction" after key witnesses withdrew their cooperation from the investigation.

Greenwood, 21, was arrested and later charged with attempted rape after an investigation launched in January 2022. The striker, who has played once for England, denied the charges and had been preparing to go on trial later this year until the CPS dropped the case on Thursday.

A CPS spokesperson said: "We have a duty to keep cases under continuous review. In this case, a combination of the withdrawal of key witnesses and new material that came to light meant there was no longer a realistic prospect of conviction. In these circumstances, we are under a duty to stop the case.

"We have explained our decision to all parties. We would always encourage any potential victims to come forward and report to police and we will prosecute wherever our legal test is met."

Greenwood had been due to stand trial in November this year after being charged with attempted rape, assault and "repeatedly engaging" in coercive and controlling behaviour.

internal probe

He was accused of attempting to rape the complainant in October 2021 – a charge he denied – and of assault occasioning actual bodily harm in December that year.

The footballer was also charged with monitoring the complainant's social media accounts and "making threats and derogatory comments towards her, amounting to a serious effect upon her," a court was told last year.

It can now be reported, however, that key witnesses withdrew cooperation from the police investigation in April 2022.

A court heard last October how a central plank in the inquiry had collapsed only four months after Greenwood was arrested.

It is understood that police and prosecutors initially decided to continue with the case because of the significant level of public interest, given Greenwood's high profile and the seriousness of the allegations.

But a review of the case by CPS lawyers has concluded that there was no realistic prospect of conviction given the collapse of the case.

Greenwood, one of the most promising English strikers of his generation, is not expected to return immediately to the Manchester

The Manchester United footballer, 21, was charged with attempted rape offence last year

United fold until an internal investigation is concluded.

It is understood that the internal probe will look in detail at the allegations made against the forward and the decision by the CPS to drop the case.

Ch Supt Michaela Kerr, Greater Manchester police's head of public protection, said: "Given the significant media coverage of this case, it is only fair that we share the news that the 21-year-old man who had been arrested and charged in connection with an investigation opened in January 2022 no longer faces criminal proceedings in relation to this.

"The investigation team has remained in regular contact with the legal team, providing any updates of note, and so understand the rationale for the discontinuation of proceedings at this stage, and that this decision has not been taken lightly." She added: "I would, however, like to use this opportunity to reiterate GMP's commitment to investigating allegations of violence against women and girls, and supporting those affected, regardless of their circumstances, throughout what can be a hard and upsetting time for them. An ever-increasing number of officers are receiving specialist training and the force is more consistently utilising tools, available via the criminal justice system, to keep people safe and to care for victims.

"If you feel you are or might be a victim, please don't let this case put you off asking for help."

Manchester United said it "notes the decision" of the CPS and that it would "conduct its own process before determining next steps". It added: "We will not make any further comment until that process is complete."

It's a record ...Elton tour hits £663m

Sir Elton John's farewell tour has so far made £663.83million, making it the highest grossing of all time.

The pop superstar, 75, has beaten close friend Ed Sheeran, who held the record with £630.17million from his Divide tour.

Elton's Farewell Yellow Brick Road trek included 42 performances in 2018, 111 in 2019 and 25 in 2020 before the pandemic struck.

He completed 93 concerts last year.

Among the arenas hosting the tour during the final 15 weeks is the O2 in London, where Elton will perform nine nights in April and one on May 30.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: LAWRENCE BOOTH CASE NO. 23STPB00363

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of LAWRENCE BOOTH.

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by ROGER E. BOOTH in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that ROGER E. BOOTH be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The WILL and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 02/27/23 at 8:30AM in Dept. 2D located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Welcome, Black History Month

Here in the United States February is dedicated to Black History Month.

I grew up in a very multicultural part of London and looking back I think I was a bit sheltered and naive regarding racism. I was lucky enough to attend schools that regularly celebrated all cultures and embraced everything our different heritages had to offer. Our religious education classes covered a range of beliefs, and our home economics lessons were full of recipes from around the world. I was given the opportunity to play a steelpan in the school band. I didn't realize at the time how lucky we all were, not knowing that the majority of kids around the (western) world were mostly being taught one narrative. A very whitewashed one.

I can't imagine how non-white children feel, learning that their heritage is not worthy of the school curriculum. But also the thought of all kids not knowing about each other's history, struggles and celebrations is horrifying. Fortunately things are slowly changing when it comes to education. I do believe that it is one of the most important ways for us all to be able to live in harmony. Only a handful of countries around the world dedicate a month to Black History. So do try to make the most of having this right on your doorstep.

LA has so many ways for us to celebrate the accomplishments of African-Americans in the United States. Below are a few that I have picked out, but if you do your own research online you will find lots of great stuff local to you.

Los Angeles Public Library is a good place to begin - they have a wide range of resources available online to commemorate and educate us on the importance of this month. You can learn about the history of the first African Americans who migrated to California and they have a whole section dedicated on 'Building a Community: A Look at African American Institutions in Early Los Angeles'. They have a page featuring books, films, podcasts, music and more, highlighting the talents and achievements of African American artists and heroes. They also have a full calendar of events, both online and at various branches around town. Visit LAPL.org and sign up for a free library card if you don't have one already.

and in Pasadena....

On Saturday, February 18th the City of Pasadena will be hosting the 41st Annual Black History Parade & Festival. It is one of Southern California's largest and longest running Black history parades and will feature guest speakers, live bands, community booths and dance performances. On February 19th, the Open Arms Food Pantry and Resource Center present LA Black History Month Festival at the Michelle and Barack Obama Sports Complex. Before I go I must all let you know that my Brits in LA partner Craig Young has some exciting news. His film 'Wannabe: All Washed Up' has been selected to be featured at the First Glance Film Festival in LA next month (March 16-19). It is a cracking film; a mockumentary following the life of a British popstar who comes to LA in the hopes of finding international fame and fortune. Those of you in the entertainment industry will be able to relate to the comedic scenarios and if you are not it will certainly give you an insight as to what goes on behind the scenes in Hollywood. Craig not only stars in it but he also co-wrote it along with the very talented Richard Keith. I know he would be delighted if you can go along and show your support. Early Bird All Access passes are currently discounted and can be snapped up for a limited time for $75 at FirstGlanceFilms.com and individual tickets will go on sale shortly. Watch this space...

If you want to get in touch you can find us across the main social media platforms and searching for @BritsinLA

THE IDEAL GNOME SHOW...

Winning team Unhappy Days ensured everything in the garden was lovely as they took home the trivia trophy of a garden gnome at the latest Brits in LA Pub Quiz.

Meanwhile Netball Nutters, (above) who clearly had a ball, had to be content with the consolation prize of a potato.

Join host Sandro Monetti (right) at O'Briens in Santa Monica for more brainteasing fun and games at the next quiz night on Tuesday February 7th, which will be presented in association with the new movie 80 For Brady and where there will be a string of prizes for grabs from the film, which stars Jane Fonda and Tom Brady.

Flight outfit without any new acquisitions. Everton had been in discussions with both Anthony Elanga of Manchester United and the young Ghana forward Kamaldeen Sulemana, who is valued at £20million by his club Rennes, but neither deal could be finalized ahead of Tuesday's deadline. Dyche also made clear on the training ground that he wants a different attitude from his players, and was immediately pictured putting them through their paces with some strong words. He said: "I am under no illusions, I don't come in and get a free start. I have to earn my right here. "I have to show them what I am about, what I can deliver, and then actually have to deliver it. "It means getting back to some of the basic principles of what Everton has stood for a long time. We want to bring back a good feeling."

Blues comedy of errors scuppers Ziyech PSG move

PARIS SAINT-GERMAIN are furious with Chelsea after accusing the London club of botching Hakim Ziyech's loan move.

The French giants claim the new Chelsea owners were so busy tying up the British record transfer for Enzo Fernandez that they missed calls, failed to sign documents and sent emails with the wrong attachments.

In the end the paperwork was not filed until 11.03pm on Tuesday, past the deadline, and an appeal to the Ligue de Football Professionnel in France fell on deaf ears the following morning.

Earlier in the day, Chelsea had been holding out for a permanent transfer before eventually agreeing a loan deal as Morocco winger Ziyech travelled to the French capital. RMC Sport, however, say that the Stamford Bridge outfit sent papers that were unsigned as the 11pm deadline approached.

RMC Sport also claimed that PSG tried to call the London club at 10.46pm, 10.48pm, 10.49pm and 10.50pm to chase the missing signatures.

Then, with just five minutes remaining before the transfer window slammed shut, Chelsea sent back another unsigned document.

The Blues then insisted everything had been sent with two minutes to spare.

But it is suggested they again sent the wrong attachment, and by the time everything was in place it was too late to seal the deal for the 29-year-old Ziyech's move. The Premier League club, however, disputed the chain of events and refused to comment further.

Ziyech, a standout performer for his country at last year's World Cup, was eventually forced to return to London with his tail between his legs, his dream of joining superstars Lionel Messi, Kylian Mbappe and Neymar at PSG shattered. Unsurprisingly, sources close to the winger are describing him as "upset".

Ziyech, who has made just 10 appearances for Chelsea this season, has recently been pushed further down head coach Graham Potter's pecking order following the arrivals of Mykhailo Mudryk, Joao Felix and Noni Madueke.

Manchester United manager Erik ten Hag has told his players a Wembley appearance will mean nothing unless they beat Newcastle in the EFL Cup final on 26 February.

Second-half goals from Anthony Martial and Fred eased United to a 5-0 aggregate win over Nottingham Forest at Old Trafford on Wednesday night.

Ten Hag said: "It's great but you play finals to win. It is not an achievement to come into a final. We want to win them but first we have other things to do. We come back to the Premier League and bury this cup.

"It is good to reach the final but it is not about reaching the final, it is about winning it."

Toon secure final berth

EPL CUP: Newcastle's rise continues as Howe's boys ease past Saints

Newcastle United reached their first cup final since 1999 by overcoming Southampton in the EFL Cup at an ecstatic St James' Park on Tuesday.

Eddie Howe's resurgent side won 2-1 to clinch a 3-1 aggregate victory and will face Manchester United at Wembley as the Magpies attempt to win their first major trophy since the Inter Cities' Fairs Cup in 1969.

Newcastle, who last played in a Wembley showpiece when they were beaten by United in the 1999 FA Cup final, had a 1-0 advantage from this semi-final first leg, and Sean Longstaff settled any nerves among an expectant Toon Army with two early goals.

The only cloud over Newcastle's celebrations was a late red card for influential Brazilian midfielder Bruno Guimaraes for a challenge on Samuel Edozie, given by referee Paul Tierney after the intervention of VAR.

The hosts had gone in front just four minutes in as Longstaff took advantage of good work from Kieran Trippier to beat Saints keeper Gavin Bazunu, and the goalscorer then crowned a sweeping move with a confident finish in the 21st minute.

Che Adams gave Southampton hope with a fine 25-yard strike on the half-hour that ended Newcastle goalkeeper Nick Pope's attempt to keep an 11th clean sheet in succession, but their slow start cost them dearly to leave Howe and his players contemplating that Wembley date on 26 February.

When Howe succeeded

Steve Bruce in November 2021, Newcastle's new Saudi Arabian owners were reshaping the club after their takeover.

Newcastle's fanatical support hoped the new riches would end years of under-achievement and no silverware, but even they must be struggling to take in the scale of the transformation.

As well as a Wembley appearance, Howe's men are third in the Premier League after a superb start and have lost just once in 20 games - and that only as a result of a goal conceded deep into injury time at Liverpool

Howe has based Newcastle's revival on strong defence, with new signings Pope, Trippier, Dan Burn and Sven Botman making outstanding contributions.

Guimaraes, despite his dismissal against Southampton, provided world-class flourishes in midfield, while £60m striker Alexander Isak has shown his quality despite injury problems.

And watching it all from the stands on Tyneside, wearing a black-and-white scarf, was Newcastle's latest acquisition - Anthony Gordon, who has signed from Everton in a deal that could eventually be worth £45m.

Dyche: It's time to battle and wear badge with pride

SEAN DYCHE ended his first day as Everton manager by saying his task is to offer supporters something to believe in again.

The former Burnley boss (pictured, right) was brutally honest, conceding he has no right to simply walk in and be accepted by a disillusioned fanbase that has endured so much heartache in recent seasons.

Dyche becomes the eighth permanent manager in seven years at Goodison Park and inherits a side that have won just once in 12 Premier League games and are joint bottom.

But the no-nonsense

Dyche argued that giving the fans some reward for their passionate, unstinting support will be far more important in the serious scrap against relegation.

"We need to give something back to the fans," he said. "They are desperate for that, they are desperate to cheer the team again, they want to get behind the players.

"But we have to give them something to grip hold of. That starts with sweat on the shirt."

But Dyche will have to do it without any new signings, as the Toffees ended the transfer window as the the Top cont. on page 19, col. 2
