STURGEON SAYS HER GOODBYES

■ Scotland's departing First Minister expresses pride and regret in equal measure

Scottish First Minister Nicola Sturgeon addressed lawmakers for the last time as Scottish leader on Thursday, expressing pride in her government's achievements to lessen poverty and inequality – but frustrated in her quest to make Scotland an independent country.

Sturgeon faced strong criticism from opponents in her 286th and final First Minister's Questions session in the Scottish parliament. In scrappy exchanges, opposition leaders slammed her for Scotland's long health care waiting times, homelessness problem and high drug death toll.

Scottish Conservative leader Douglas Ross alleged that, obsessed with independence, "she divided our country and failed in every mission she set herself."

Sturgeon told Edinburgh lawmakers that she had "made my fair share of mistakes in the last eight years.

And, of course, there are things I wish I had done better or differently."

"But overall and overwhelmingly, I am proud of what has been achieved," she said, highlighting work to lift children out of poverty.

month after more than eight years as first minister in Scotland's semi-autonomous governing Scottish National Party. The winner of a party contest to replace her will be announced on Monday.

new vote

She leaves with her main goal, independence from the U.K. for the nation of 5.5 million people, unmet.

Scottish voters backed remaining in the U.K. in a 2014 referendum that was billed as a once-in-a-generation decision. The SNP wants a new vote, but the central government has refused to authorize one, and the U.K. Supreme Court has ruled that Scotland can't hold one without London's consent.

The party is divided on its next steps, but Sturgeon said she was confident her successor "will lead this country to becoming an independent nation."

She said her decision to quit was a personal one and it was "time for Nicola Sturgeon the politician to make a bit of space for Nicola Sturgeon the person."

Sturgeon had earlier been in subdued mood as she offered a "sincere, heartfelt and unreserved" apology to thousands of mothers who were forced to give up their child for adoption, telling MSPs:

"The horror of what happened to these women is almost impossible to

Bolshie Boris remains defiant as he faces "Partygate" committee

Bullish Boris Johnson insisted "hand on heart" he did not lie to MPs as he faced his interrogators in a televised showdown this week.

The ex-PM told a House of Commons probe he took "full responsibility" for what took place in Partygate on his watch.

He said Privileges Committee MPs had "found nothing" to prove he misled Parliament.

"The purpose of this inquiry is not to reopen so-called Partygate.

"It is to discover whether or not I lied to Parliament, willingly misled colleagues and the country about what I knew and believed about those gatherings when I said the rules and the guidance had been followed at No10.

"I'm here to say to you hand on heart that I did not lie to the House. When those statements were made, they were made in good faith and on the basis of what I honestly knew and believed at the time."

Tax return reveals Sunak's hefty earnings

Rishi Sunak paid more than £1m in UK tax over the last three years, details of the prime minister's financial affairs show.

The UK tax was paid on earnings of more than £4.7m from income and a US-based investment fund.

Mr Sunak first said he would publish a tax return during his unsuccessful campaign to be Tory leader last year.

He faced calls to be transparent about his finances after it emerged his wife, Akshata Murty, had non-dom status.

personal wealth

The tax details came as MPs questioned former Prime Minister Boris Johnson over whether he misled Parliament over Partygate.

Mr Sunak is thought to be one of the richest MPs in Parliament and his personal wealth is something opposition parties have often used as a political attack line.

The PM worked in finance before entering politics and he and his family are thought to own several properties, including a Grade II-listed manor house in his North Yorkshire constituency.

In the last financial year alone, 2021-2022, the

THAT'S RICH: Sunak is thought to be one of the wealthiest MPs in Parliament prime minister earned more than £1.9m in income and capital gains, according to the records.

Capital gains are taxed at 20% in the UK, while the highest income tax band is 45% on earnings over £150,000.

'much delay'

Nimesh Shah, chief executive of tax advisory firm Blick Rothenberg, pointed out that Mr Sunak only released a summary of his income and gains, rather than a traditional tax return filed with HM Revenue & Customs.

"Whilst the public knows more now than it did before the release, it doesn't show the full picture," he said.

Mr Shah said the supporting notes from Mr Sunak's accountants "give an explanation of how his tax position is made, rather than it being left to interpretation of his tax returns".

"The release is a fairly controlled way of publishing his tax information."

Labour said it was right Mr Sunak had published his tax returns "after much delay".

The party's deputy leader Angela Rayner said: "They reveal a tax system designed by successive Tory governments in which the prime minister pays a far lower tax rate than working people who face the highest tax burden in 70 years."

STILL PLAYING TO THE GALLERY: the former PM claimed there was "not a shred of evidence" to suggest that he misled MPs performance – but the former Premier was also clearly exasperated during the tetchy three-and-a-half-hour session in Parliament.

He insisted that several mid-pandemic gatherings in Downing Street were "essential" to the workings of Government and defended various rule-breaking events – including one to mark his birthday, for which he was fined by the Met Police – as being "necessary for work purposes".

'very very difficult'

Mr Johnson also defended raising a toast surrounded by alcohol at a leaving do for his then-communications chief Lee Cain as "not only reasonably necessary but it was essential for work purposes".

He said Mr Cain and his own senior adviser Dominic Cummings had left their jobs "in very, very difficult and challenging circumstances", and "it was necessary to steady the ship, it was necessary to show that there was no rancour, the business of the Government was being carried on – that's what we had to do, that's what I had to do".

The hearing followed a 10-month investigation by the Commons committee, comprising four Tory MPs, two from Labour – including chair

Harriet Harman – and one from the SNP.

The members have been probing Mr Johnson's earlier claims to the Commons on whether Covid legislation and Government guidance was observed at six gatherings in No10 from May 2020 to January 2021, while he was PM.

He responded to the committee that if it ought to have been obvious to him that rules were broken in Downing Street, it should also have been apparent to then chancellor, now Prime Minister, Rishi Sunak and "equally obvious to dozens of others, including the most senior officials in the country, all of them – like me – responsible for drawing up the rules".

'ridiculous'

Mr Johnson swore an oath on a King James Bible before the MPs' questions and in his replies said it would have been "utterly insane" for him to have misled Parliament.

He went on: "I think if this committee were to find me in contempt of Parliament – having come and done something so utterly insane and contrary to my beliefs and my principles as to come here, to come to Parliament and wittingly lie – I think that would be not only unfair, I think it would be wrong."

He claimed it was "ridiculous" to expect him to have known what was going on all over the building as he was Prime Minister, trying to deal with a pandemic and was "fully entitled" to rely on what advisers told him.

Mr Johnson hit out at the "manifestly unfair" process, adding there was "not a shred of evidence" to suggest that he misled MPs: "I think that you should exonerate me of any contempt."

But he may be suspended if found to have committed a contempt of Parliament with denials of lockdown breaches, including telling MPs in December 2021 "the guidance was followed and the rules were followed at all times".

Mr Johnson accepted that his denials turned out to be inaccurate but said he corrected the record at the "earliest opportunity" – on January 12 last year.

He was accused yesterday of relying on "flimsy" assurances before he made the statements.

Tory committee member Sir Bernard Jenkin asked why Mr Johnson failed to take "proper advice" but he rejected that as "complete nonsense".

The stakes for Johnson are high. If the committee decides he "recklessly" misled MPs, he faces being suspended from parliament. A suspension of 10 sitting days or more triggers a recall petition that could lead to a byelection in his west London seat.

comprehend."

She said forced adoption practices were caused by a society that treated women as "second class citizens".

She said adoption practices in Scotland during the second half of the 20th century are among the "worst injustices in our history".

'stuff of nightmares'

Ahead of the apology the First Minister detailed the stories of three women who had their babies taken away to be adopted by other families.

The horror of what happened to these women is almost impossible to comprehend," she said. "It is the stuff of nightmares, yet these were not isolated cases – far from it."

She said forced adoption was "relatively common" in Scotland until the late 1970s.

Ms Sturgeon said mothers were "lied to" and made to "feel worthless".

"Some women were never even allowed to hold their babies, most never got the chance to say goodbye, and many were threatened with terrible consequences if they ever tried to make contact with a child," she added.

Addressing MSPs in the chamber as victims and campaigners watched on from the public gallery, the First Minister said: "(Forced adoption) is a level of injustice which is hard now for us to comprehend.

"So today, how do we even begin to explain how such appalling acts could take place?"

"Obviously, they were the product of a society where women were regarded as second class citizens, where unmarried mothers were stigmatised and where people in authority had too much power."

'terrible wrongs'

Fighting back tears, she issued a formal apology to all of those impacted by forced adoption.

She condemned the practice, which is estimated to have forced 60,000 women – many of whom were unmarried – to part with their children.

"As a Government and a Parliament, we can set the record straight," the First Minister said.

"We can acknowledge the terrible wrongs that were done. And we can say with one voice that we are sorry.

"So today, as First Minister, on behalf of the Scottish Government, I say directly to the mothers who had their babies taken away from them, to the sons and the daughters who were separated from their parents, to the fathers who were denied their rights and to families who have lived with this legacy: for the decades of pain that you have suffered, I offer today a sincere, heartfelt and unreserved apology. We are sorry."

Nae more Tik-Tok for them

The Chinese-owned TikTok app has been banned on all Scottish government phones.

The move follows a similar decision taken by the UK government after discussions with officials at Westminster.

The ban will cover work phones issued to government ministers and staff.

Last week, Holyrood

officials "strongly advised" all MSPs and parliamentary staff to remove the platform from their devices - including personal phones. He said Scottish government devices were configured in line with best practice from the National Cyber Security Centre, which helps manage any risk associated with third-party applications.

Media mogul Rupert Murdoch is due to marry for the fifth time at the age of 92.

The billionaire proposed to partner Ann Lesley Smith, 66, less than a year after finalising his divorce from model Jerry Hall, also 66.

Mr Murdoch, who owns a number of British newspapers including The Sun and The Times, met former police chaplain Ms Smith six months ago.

He announced news of their engagement in the New York Post, which he also owns.

'a gift from God'

In an interview, Mr Murdoch said that he had popped the question with an diamond solitaire ring that he said he had "personally selected".

He also told how he had "dreaded" falling in love again and was "nervous" about getting married for a fifth time – but was confident this marriage would be his last.

"I was very nervous," he explained. "I dreaded falling in love – but I knew this would be my last. It better be. I'm happy."

American Ms Smith described their whirlwind relationship as "a gift from God" and told how she and Mr Murdoch "share the same beliefs" and "speak the same language".

"same beliefs"

The couple say they plan to get married this summer. They reportedly plan to share their time between homes in California, Montana, New York as well as the UK.

Mr Murdoch, a father of six who is thought to be worth around $17 billion, proposed to Ms Smith in New York City on St Patrick's Day.

Ms Smith, who was married to the late country music star Chester Smith, told how her relationship with Mr Murdoch was "not her first rodeo".

In the New York Times interview, she said: "I'm a widow 14 years. Like Rupert, my husband was a businessman.

Nigerian politician found guilty of organ trafficking plot

■ Senator Ike Ekweremadu brought penniless man to Britain in attempt to exploit him for his kidney

A senior wealthy Nigerian politician, his wife and a medical "middleman" have been found guilty of an organ-trafficking plot, after they brought a 21-year-old man to the UK from Lagos.

Senator Ike Ekweremadu, 60, his wife Beatrice, 56, and Dr Obinna Obeta, 50, were convicted of conspiring to exploit the man for his kidney, in the first such case under modern slavery laws.

The Old Bailey heard the organ was for the couple's daughter, Sonia, aged 25.

She was cleared of the same charge.

The victim, a street trader from Lagos, was brought to the UK last year to provide a kidney in an £80,000 private transplant at the Royal Free Hospital in London.

The prosecution said he was offered up to £7,000 and promised opportunities in the UK for helping, and that he only realised what was going on when he met doctors at the hospital.

It was alleged the defendants had tried to convince medics at the Royal Free by pretending he was the cousin of Sonia, who has a debilitating illness and remains on weekly dialysis, when they were not related.

investigation

While it is lawful to donate a kidney, it becomes criminal if there is a reward of money or other material advantage.

Royal Free consultant, Dr Peter Dupont, concluded the donor was unsuitable after learning he had no counselling or advice about the risks of surgery and lacked funds for the lifelong care he would need.

The court heard the Ekweremadus then transferred their interest to Turkey and set about finding another donor.

An investigation was launched after the young man ran away from London and slept rough for days before walking into a police station in Staines, in Surrey, crying and in distress.

Relaying his fears, he told police: "The doctor said I was too young but the man said if you do not do it here he would carry me back to Nigeria and do it there."

Jurors heard that Sonia was studying for a masters degree at Newcastle University when she became ill in December 2019.

life sentence

In 2021, her father enlisted the help of his medically-trained brother, Diwe Ekweremadu, to search for a donor, the court heard.

Diwe Ekweremadu,

Ekweremadu offered a penniless Lagos street vendor £7,000 to come to Britain and donate a kidney to the politician's daughter, who herself was cleared of any charges who remains in Nigeria, turned to a former classmate, Dr Obeta, of Southwark, south London, who recently had a private kidney transplant at the Royal Free with a Nigerian donor company, as well as an agent to arrange a visa for the donor, the court heard.

The victim, who knew the man who had donated his kidney to Dr Obeta, was recruited from a Lagos street market where he made a few pounds a day selling phone accessories from a wheelbarrow.

Sonia, who had declined to give evidence, wept in court as she was cleared by the jury and tearfully hugged her father as he was remanded into custody with the other guilty defendants ahead of sentencing on 5 May.

The prosecution has confirmed the maximum sentence in the organ harvesting case is one of life.

Search under way for family of one of RAF's last black WW2 veterans

A search is under way to find the family of one of the RAF's last black second world war veterans, who died recently.

Peter Brown, a retired flight sergeant, died alone aged 96 in Maida Vale, west London. Without any known family, Westminster council and the RAF are attempting to locate any relatives of Brown to pay tribute to him at Mortlake Crematorium on 29 March.

Brown was born in 1926 in Jamaica and is believed to have enlisted in the armed forces when he was 17. According to the RAF, Sgt Brown enlisted in the RAF Volunteer Reserve in September 1943, and was trained as a wireless operator/air gunner. Brown took part in missions in Palestine, Tripoli, Egypt and Malta before leaving the forces in 1950.

Ben Wallace, the defence secretary, alongside MPs Johnny Mercer and Tom Tugendhat, who both served in the armed forces, tweeted their support in the search for his family.

The prime minister, Rishi Sunak, said Brown was an example "of the selfless contribution of all Commonwealth personnel who have served the RAF. I hope that the nation gets behind this Sun campaign."

"We've also arranged for an RAF trumpeter to attend the funeral, alongside a senior RAF officer," he added.

Jamaican authorities were also reportedly searching for any living relatives of Brown.

Hamza Taouzzale, the lord mayor of Westminster, said: "Mr Brown was one of the many servicemen and women who volunteered from the West Indies and across the former colonies to fight for the UK and the world at a time of its greatest need."

"We owe him – and the many others like him – a huge debt of gratitude. His obvious modesty meant that we did not know of his actions until after his passing. Despite extensive efforts, no family members have been traced. As the first citizen of Westminster, I shall attend his funeral and I hope to be joined by many others so we

MPs and ministers support the campaign to locate relatives of Peter Brown, who has died alone in London aged 96 can offer him a fitting send-off."

An RAF spokesperson said: "Flight Sergeant Brown is an example of the selfless contribution of all Commonwealth personnel who have served throughout the RAF's history. We should never forget their sacrifices which have defended our freedom and kept us safe."

Winds topple ship, 33 Injured

A MAJOR incident was declared in Scotland after a 250ft ship was toppled in high winds, leaving 33 people injured.

The RV Petrel shifted on Monday in its dry dock and is now at a 45-degree angle.

Ambulance chiefs said 21 were admitted to hospital and 12 were treated at the scene at Imperial Dock, in Leith.

Leith councillor Adam McVey tweeted that the incident was "terrifying for those on board". He said the ship became "dislodged from its moorings in strong winds". A source said none of the injured people are in a life-threatening condition.

The 21-year-old research vessel was owned by Microsoft billionaire and enthusiastic military historian Paul Allen until his death five years ago.

He used it to find the wrecks of 30 warships.

It reportedly belongs to the US Navy and has been in dry dock since Covid.

£1.75m payout to Jon Moss brings end to Culture Club feud

■ Founding member 'expelled' from iconic band in 2018

Culture Club founding member Jon Moss is to be paid £1.75million by his former bandmates, after a court battle over the group's profits was resolved a week before trial.

The drummer had brought legal action against lead singer Boy George, guitarist Roy Hay and bassist Michael Craig after allegedly being "expelled" by their manager in September 2018 following 37 years together.

A six-day trial, due to start next week, was set to determine the value of the Culture Club name, the profits made by the band since Jon's departure and the amount he might be entitled to receive.

But a court order yesterday said the group had agreed a judgment should be made in his favour and would pay him £1.75million immediately.

The order, approved by Mrs Justice Smith, said that Jon had agreed to "relinquish" any right to the Culture Club name and its use, including in connection with concerts and merchandise.

The High Court previously heard the band had settled a dispute over whether there was a "continuing partnership" since the formation of the group, known for hits such as Do You Really Want To Hurt Me and Karma

Chameleon – with Jon's ex-lover Boy George, Roy and Michael conceding there was until his departure.

The trial was also due to cover the drummer's additional claim to an "outstanding balance" of £201,000 under the terms of a band agreement reached over the operation of its 2018 Life Tour.

Boy George, real name George O'Dowd, Roy and Michael had defended the claims. The court also previously heard Jon had racked up £1million in legal costs, accusing the three of appearing "determined to keep [him] out of sums to which he is entitled".

Before her relationship with country music star Chester, who died of a heart attack in August 2008 at the age of 78, Ms Smith was married to John B. Huntington – an attorney who was a descendant of one of California's pioneering railroad families. Following their split, she told the Christian Broadcasting Network that Huntington has "physically and mentally abused" her.

Mr Murdoch has four daughters and two sons from his previous marriages.

His first wife, to Patricia Booker, ended in 1967. That same year, Mr Murdoch married Glasgow-born journalist Anna Torv.

The pair were married for 32 years but divorced in 1999. They had three children together – daughter Elisabeth and sons Lachlan and James. Just 17 days after their divorce was finalised, Mr Murdoch went on to marry 30-year-old Wendi Deng

His fourth wife was Texan model Jerry, the ex-wife of Rolling Stones frontman Sir Mick Jagger. Their six-year marriage ended in 2022.

At the time Jerry was reported to have been "heartbroken" at the end of the relationship.

NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS:
If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on this property.

NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (866)-960-8299 or visit this Internet Web site <https://www.altisource.com/loginpage.aspx> using the file number assigned to this case 2022-01546-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale.

NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction, if conducted after January 1, 2021, pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (866)-960-8299, or visit this internet website <https://www.altisource.com/loginpage.aspx>, using the file number assigned to this case 2022-01546-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid, by remitting the funds and affidavit described in Section 2924m(c) of the Civil Code, so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase.

Breezing down to Grenada

■ Nick Stark swaps LA's atmospheric rivers for the tropical heat of the Caribbean

IN COMMON with many of you, the recent flood of atmospheric rivers soaking Los Angeles has got me feeling very seasonally disordered.

So I was delighted earlier this month to receive a last-minute invitation to fly out to Grenada in the Caribbean to spend a week on an old friend's sailboat, where endless rain and grey skies were replaced by blue skies, temperatures in the eighties, balmy trade winds and tropical scents of fruit and frangipani in the air.

My old sailing companion Franz, who lives in Utah when he is not at sea, had just completed a transatlantic passage aboard his Bristol Channel Cutter See Dream but he was suffering from a couple of minor ailments and needed an extra hand for the final leg of the journey to Trinidad, where he planned to put the boat up for the winter. I didn't need to be asked twice.

Grenada is a small island country at the southern end of the Grenadines, and comprises Grenada itself, Carriacou and Petite Martinique. It was a British colony for two hundred years, and a French one for a century before that, a heritage that is still visible with many of the place names.

I flew from Miami into the island's dinky Maurice Bishop airport and grabbed a cab for the short ride to Mitchell's Guest House, located close to the Port Louis marina, where See Dream was docked. Mitchell's is a clean, quiet and cheap option for many travellers and I enjoyed the air conditioning and fast wifi before decamping to the boat the next day.

dreamy rhythm

Post travel tiredness and work anxieties quickly dissolved into the dreamy rhythm of boat life in the tropics; short but fun passages athwart a fresh breeze before dropping the anchor in a deserted bay. Sundowners on the boat or perhaps at a rum bar on the beach following a short dinghy ride, before being rocked to sleep in your berth by a gentle swell.

Mornings brought refreshing swims in emerald water followed by coffee and fruit for breakfast, and perhaps some small boat chores before hoisting anchor and doing it all over again. Add in mingling with either some friendly locals or other sunburned sailors, and some of the delicious local grub, and you've got a recipe for instant relaxation.

Snorkeling sculpture

Our first stop, Dragon's Bay was a definite highlight. It is best known as the site of an underwater sculpture park where assorted figures reside on the seabed. The place is the brainchild of famous underwater sculptor Jason deCaires Taylor and was constructed in 2006 to help preserve the area's fast-disappearing coral reef. Constructed from concrete and steel, some of the sculptures weigh as much as 15 tons. They're held in place by bolts on the bottom of the seafloor. The sculptures, 75 in all, lure divers of all sorts and even glass bottom boat tours, which also get decent views due to the fact that some of the sculptures are relatively close to the surface.

Adding to the location's appeal is the Dragon's Hideaway Sports Bar and Grill, a waterside rum bar presided over by the delightful owner Garvin, in whose affable company we spent several rum-soaked hours after an afternoon's snorkelling.

Further down the coast and at the bottom of Grenada's windward side is Prickly Bay, much beloved of British sailors for its sheltered harbor and well-equipped marina. We tied up to a mooring ball for a couple of nights (at $20 per night) and just beyond the dinghy dock and marina offices were delighted to find a French wine/pastry/cheese/butcher's shop, run by a charming couple from the Cote D'Azur. Their wares certainly made our percolated morning coffee in the cockpit taste just that wee bit better. Prickly Bay has plenty of other attractions, including the beachside Sand Bar, a great place to enjoy a sundowner and best approached from the water. It boasts a picturesque palm tree to which you tie your dinghy, a ready-made Instagram slay, as my daughter might say. A couple of hundred yards down the beach is the swanky Calabash resort hotel, by far the fanciest place we visited, where sugar-laden rum punches will set you back $10 but where the view is priceless.

The biggest surprise for us was the West Indian Beer Company, a local micro-brewery located a short walk from the marina. When we visited it was absolutely heaving with young Americans from the nearby St George's University. It was an astounding contrast to the rest of the bars we visited, which typically had only 5-6 other patrons. This was like spring break in Daytona Beach. But the

Spring equinox at Trivia Night

Trivia-minded folks braved the streets of a still unusually rainy Los Angeles to make it out to O'Brien's on Tuesday, March 21st, for the Brits In LA Pub Quiz, where substitute host and recent game show contestant Robert Dimitri delivered rounds of questions covering showbiz, locations within Commonwealth realms, and a mystery theme heralding the arrival of spring.

At halftime four teams participated in a love-themed singing round with enthusiastic performances. Emerging victorious in the quiz was new team "Wait - it's not Wednesday?" (above) who (per their name) play on multiple nights of the week and should make a return on future Tuesdays. As the crowd learned on the night's final question, the British territory Cayman Islands were named after the reptiles who resided there, and next week on March 28th Sandro Monetti will be back from his vacation in the Caymans to host once again.

beer was good and the prices, reasonable.

But all good things must come to an end and after a few lovely days we set off for the 80-mile sail south to Trinidad, a passage usually offering idyllic sailing with easy tradewinds on the beam. But the weather gods turned against us and instead the wind turned south and gusty, giving us a rough and uncomfortable overnight passage; 25 knots almost on our nose and a disturbed sea state. Beat up and fatigued after a gruelling 12-hour passage, we limped into Peake's Yacht Services at Chagauramas in Trinidad where the boat was pulled out of the water for the winter.

Franz and I said our goodbyes and I took a short flight back to Grenada for a leisurely final night at the Hidden Bay Marina and Hotel, which at $300, was by far my biggest splurge of the trip. But it was well worth it for my own large, comfortable and air-conditioned cottage boasting sweeping views over a gorgeous harbor with perhaps 30 yachts bobbing dreamily at anchor. The perfect spot to do some yoga, re-hydrate and count my blessings. By the time I departed the following day for a 3pm flight back to Miami, I was thoroughly refreshed for my return to Los Angeles where (surprise, surprise) it was raining....

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. The undersigned or its predecessor caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (844) 477-7869 or visit this Internet Web site WWW.STOXPOSTING.COM, using the file number assigned to this case 106650-CA. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: Effective January 1, 2021, you may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call (855) 313-3319, or visit this internet website www.clearreconcorp.com, using the file number assigned to this case 106650-CA to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. INTO THE RECORD BOOKS: The stats behind Kane's remarkable record

The calm demeanour, the sharp exhale, the run up and clinical finish.

It was the same old penalty routine from Harry Kane, only this time it took him to a place no England player has gone before.

By netting from the spot against Italy on Thursday night, Kane fired himself into the record books, scoring his 54th international goal to surpass Wayne Rooney as England's all-time leading goalscorer.

Remarkably, Kane has reached the tally in 39 fewer games than it took Rooney, and the 29-year-old's England career includes an ominous strike 79 seconds into his debut, a World Cup Golden Boot and more than a goal a game in major tournament qualifiers.

Six Englishmen have reached the 40-goal mark in international football, the other four being Sir Bobby Charlton (49), Gary Lineker (48), Jimmy from American-based investment groups, are understood to be on the table. Sheikh Jassim's partners, who were given a tour around Old Trafford and Carrington last Thursday, believe their 100 percent purchase – including all existing debt – represents the “best solution for the club and wider Manchester community”.

Investment in the training ground and the stadium, along with its surrounding areas, is planned should their bid succeed. They said they remain “very confident” their offer would be the best outcome for the club.

Greaves (44) and Michael Owen (40).

What marks Kane out among this group is the speed at which he has scored his goals, accruing them at a rate of one every 1.5 games. Only the prolific Greaves can beat that with 1.3.

The deposed Rooney was much slower than Kane, amassing his 54 goals at a strike every 2.26 matches.

His acceleration since March 2021 has been something to behold - a tally of 22 goals in 28 games, including four in the first half of a 10-0 win over San Marino in November last year. He became the first player to score four goals in an England game since Ian Wright against the same opponent almost exactly 28 years earlier.

His penalty against France in the World Cup quarter-finals in Qatar in December saw him draw level with Rooney. Agonisingly, he missed the chance to overtake him by missing a second penalty in that game, which England lost 2-1.

Kane's 16 goals in a calendar year (2021) is another England record, beating the 12 scored by Dixie Dean in 1927 and George Hilsdon in 1908.

And he has five England hat-tricks to his name, the same number as Lineker and one shy of the record tally of Greaves.

His fourth and fifth hat-tricks were scored just three days apart - the one in San Marino coming shortly after a treble against Albania at Wembley. This set a new record for a European player in World Cup/Euros qualifying, previously held by Spain's Raul (four days in March 1999).

Kane also joined Vivian Woodward (1909), Dean (1927) and Tommy Taylor (1957) in scoring hat-tricks in successive appearances for England.

Most of Kane's goals have come under Gareth Southgate - 49 of them in 64 caps to be precise. No player has ever scored more for a single manager in England men's football history, with Lineker's 35 in 58 matches under Sir Bobby Robson the next best.

KANE IN A CLASS OF HIS OWN

■ Spurs star becomes country's all-time top striker as England impress with 2-1 victory in Italy

Harry Kane became England's all-time record goalscorer as they opened their Euro 2024 qualifying campaign on Thursday night with a 2-1 victory to mark their first win in Italy since 1961.

Kane wrote his name into the history books in the 44th minute when he beat Gianluigi Donnarumma from the penalty spot for his 54th goal, overtaking previous record holder Wayne Rooney.

Declan Rice gave England an early lead when he scored from close range after Kane's shot was blocked before the captain put memories of his penalty miss against France in the World Cup quarter-final in Qatar aside with an emphatic spot-kick.

Italy, whistled off at half-time in their first international in Naples for a decade, improved as England became sloppy.

Debutant Mateo Retegui was the beneficiary of poor work from Harry Maguire, whose failed attempt to close down the danger on the edge of the box allowed the Italians to shift the ball to the 23-year-old to drill an unerring finish past Jordan Pickford after 56 minutes.

England's drop in performance was compounded by Luke Shaw's second yellow card with 10 minutes left but they hung on for a vital win.

England's first-half display was consummate in its control, Italy made to look decidedly average as Rice and Jude Bellingham controlled affairs and Kane made history.

The only blot was a dreadful miss by Jack Grealish that would have made it 3-0 and surely avoided the anxious second-half showing that followed.

Italy were still in the hunt, just, and after what would surely have been some choice half-time words from coach Roberto Mancini they came out fighting in the second half.

Their cause was helped by an England performance barely recognizable from the first half, the visitors conceding control as well as the goal that set up a tense finish.

Shaw's dismissal did little to help England's cause late on. The defender picked up the first of his two yellow cards in the 78th minute for time-wasting when preparing to take a throw-in and the second came just two minutes later for a mis-timed challenge on Retegui.

Italy, however, lacked the quality to make England pay the price and in the end the visitors' Euro 2024 campaign got off to the ideal start.

England now have the chance to build on these three points when they face Ukraine at Wembley on Sunday.

The theory was that Italy's football authorities chose the ramshackle but hugely atmospheric Stadio Diego Armando Maradona to make life uncomfortable for England.

In practice, there were empty seats inside this vast bowl and Italy's poor first half meant that it took until after the break

CAN'T MISS? Harry Kane put THAT World Cup miss behind him on Thursday, scoring from the spot in Naples to double England's goal lead against Italy for the home support to come to life.

It had been suggested Napoli's fans struggle to form an attachment with the Italy team and their silence throughout the first half and reaction at half time suggested they could hardly wait to get back to throwing their passion and fire behind their own team as they run away with Serie A and chase the Champions League.

The subdued mood played into England's hands, Gareth Southgate's side only making life difficult for themselves with their own indifferent showing that almost allowed Italy back in.

Jim Ratcliffe raises the stakes with record offer for United SIR JIM RATCLIFFE has laid his cards on the table in his fight to take control of Manchester United with a bid in excess of £5billion.

The Ineos group, owned by Ratcliffe, became the second interested party to submit an offer following Sheikh Jassim bin Hamad Al-Thani's Nine Two Foundation.

Both bids are understood to be improvements on their initial indicative offers and are in excess of £5bn. Ratcliffe and Sheikh Jassim are now hoping the Raine Group, who are handling the sale for the owners – the Glazer family – nominate them as preferred exclusive bidders in order for the next stage of a sale to proceed.

Ratcliffe's initial feeling was that a near-£6bn price tag put on United by the Glazers was unrealistic – a view shared by the Qatari investors.

The club has a current market capitalisation of £3.4bn, with debt running at just under £570million. But Ratcliffe conceded it will take an offer well over market value to land the club and is prepared to slug it out with Sheikh Jassim. Both will now face a wait of several days to see whether the Glazer family are serious about getting out, or they decide to abandon plans for a full sale and opt for an investment partner.
