CABINET COMEBACK FOR CANNY CAMERON

David Cameron returned to the Cabinet table for the first time in more than seven years on Tuesday after his recall to government.

Rishi Sunak met his new inner circle after a dramatic overhaul on Monday saw the former prime minister return to front-line politics.

He replaces James Cleverly, who was moved to be home secretary to take over from Suella Braverman.

Mrs Braverman was sacked following her criticism of the Metropolitan Police.

Greeting his new set of ministers, the prime minister said: "A warm welcome to those for whom it's their first cabinet and also a welcome to those for whom it may not be their first time."

official duties

Lord Cameron, as he is now known as of his appointment to the House of Lords on Monday, had been out of Parliament since he stood down as prime minister in 2016.

His return to politics came out of the blue, with Downing Street managing to prevent any rumours of the appointment from leaking, despite the fact the job offer was made last week.

In one fell swoop, No 10 revealed not only was the former prime minister entering the House of Lords, he would also be taking up one of the most senior jobs in government.

While the news was still being digested in Westminster, Lord Cameron was carrying out official duties, including holding a call with US Secretary of State Antony Blinken.

The pair "reiterated the strength and depth of the relationship between the UK and the US", the Foreign Office said, and spoke about the war in Ukraine.

In a statement, the Foreign Office said: "They discussed the conflict in the Middle East, Israel's right to self defence and the need for humanitarian pauses to allow the safe passage of aid into Gaza."

In a speech at the Lord Mayor's Banquet in London on Monday night, Mr Sunak said he was "pleased to have appointed a new foreign secretary" and said the new cabinet is "a united team".

Richard Holden, the newly-appointed Conservative Party chair, told reporters that Lord Cameron had returned "out of a sense of duty" and would bring experience to the role.

But not everyone in the Conservative Party is pleased about the return of Lord Cameron and the new-look cabinet.

Brexiteer purge?

One backbencher, Dame Andrea Jenkyns, has already submitted a letter of no confidence in the prime minister, citing the sacking of Mrs Braverman. There would need to be 53 before his leadership is threatened.

And Conservative former cabinet minister Sir Jacob Rees-Mogg said the Tories were "in danger of losing votes to the Reform party", referring to the right-wing populist political party founded with support from Nigel Farage in November 2018 as the Brexit Party. There is growing unease among the Tory Party's Eurosceptic right wing that the return of arch-Remainer Cameron is a clear sign of Sunak's intention of gutting the party's leadership of its pro-Brexit members.

Sacked Suella savages Sunak

Suella Braverman has launched a full-scale attack on her old boss Rishi Sunak, a day after he sacked her as home secretary.

In a blistering letter to the prime minister, she said he had repeatedly failed on key policies and broken pledges over immigration.

Mr Sunak had adopted "wishful thinking" to "avoid having to make hard choices", she wrote.

Her broadside came on the eve of the key ruling on the government's Rwanda plan which ruled the plan unlawful, and Braverman's broadside, along with the return of former PM David Cameron to the cabinet, is expected to deepen a growing rift within the party.

Mrs Braverman, a leading figure on the right of the party, has previously described delivering the Rwanda plan as her "dream" and "obsession".

'back at square one'

In her letter, the former home secretary claimed she struck a secret deal to serve in Mr Sunak's cabinet in exchange for a series of commitments in key areas, after Liz Truss's premiership imploded last year.

Her support, she added, had been a "pivotal factor" in allowing Mr Sunak to win the support of Tory MPs and enter No 10.

She added that she had argued within government for curbs on human rights law to ensure the Rwanda policy was not derailed by legal challenges.

But compromises from Mr Sunak during the passage of the Illegal Migration Act, she wrote, had left the policy "vulnerable" to legal challenges under the European Convention of Human Rights, even if the Supreme Court declares it lawful.

If the ruling goes against the government,

FEELING BETRAYED: Braverman accused Sunak of 'magical thinking'

she added, he would have "wasted a year" on the flagship law to stop small boat crossings, "only to arrive back at square one".

"Worse than this, your magical thinking - believing that you can will your way through this without upsetting polite opinion - has meant you have failed to prepare any sort of credible Plan B," she wrote.

A No 10 spokesman thanked Mrs Braverman for her service, but added: "The prime minister was proud to appoint a strong, united team focused on delivering for the British people."

He said the government had "brought forward the toughest legislation to tackle illegal migration this country has seen and has subsequently reduced the number of boat crossings by a third this year".

In her letter, the former home secretary told Mr Sunak he had "manifestly and repeatedly" failed to deliver on policy priorities.

"Either your distinctive style of government means you are incapable of doing so," she wrote.

"Or, as I must surely conclude now, you never had any intention of keeping your promises."

Aine Davis (left) became a committed Islamist extremist while still in London

Eight years for Isis Beatle

A British man who spent two years with Islamic State in Syria and knew the British militant dubbed Jihadi John, has been jailed for carrying a weapon for terrorist purposes.

Aine Davis was also sentenced at the Old Bailey for fundraising after he tried to get his wife to send him 20,000 euros (£17,460).

Intelligence services once believed that Davis was part of the "IS Beatles" who tortured and killed hostages.

Davis was jailed for eight years.

The sentence was made up of five-and-a-half-years for the firearms charge, and two-and-a-half-years for two fundraising charges - all of which are offences under the Terrorism Act.

Davis was also given two years on licence after his sentence.

He was deported to the UK in August 2022 after serving a prison sentence in Turkey for terrorism offences.

Aine Davis was born in west London in 1984. By early adulthood he had a string of drug convictions, and he was jailed in 2004 for possessing a firearm.

He became a Muslim and sometimes called himself Hamza, although he still has the name Aine tattooed on his left arm.

In 2007 he spent time in Saudi Arabia and the UAE. In 2008 and 2009 he visited Yemen, and he travelled to Egypt in 2009 and 2011.

He had become a committed Islamist extremist and attended the same West London mosque as Mohamed Emwazi, who went on to be the executioner in the so-called "Beatles" gang and became known as Jihadi John.

At one point Davis was suspected by the intelligence agencies in the UK and the US of himself being a member of the "Beatles" kidnap and murder gang although that's no longer thought to be the case.

Davis's barrister, Mark Summers KC, told the court the defendant's "early life was difficult and challenging", and religion had been his way out.

He said his client felt it was his "religious obligation" to join the conflict in Syria after seeing images of the war in the country, and "he accepts that was terrorism".

"The reality that he found when he arrived in Idlib was profoundly different from anything he would have ever imagined," said Mr Summers, adding his client had been naïve.

He added Davis wished to apologise to the people of Syria, his own family, and the court.

Passing sentence, Judge Mark Lucreft KC said: "From the messages and images you sent to your wife it is clear you had been with fighters in Syria and that you were not there for lawful purposes."

City united in bidding farewell to Sir Bobby

"He was very good at putting things into perspective, having a few calming words and influence. He was always a positive man, looking forward." - Darren Fletcher on Charlton

MANCHESTER stood united on Monday as both sides of the blue and red divide gathered to say a final farewell to Sir Bobby Charlton.

In a day full of poignant moments, perhaps the most emotional was when the football legend's funeral cortege passed the city's 'Holy Trinity' statue, which features Charlton with his teammates and fellow legends, Dennis Law and George Best.

The images that usually surround Old Trafford's concourse depicting great moments and figures in the club's history were replaced by a pictorial timeline of Charlton's life, charting his arrival in Manchester as a 15-year-old boy, through the tragedy of the Munich air disaster, to the triumph

Tice was "as happy as can be" when he saw Cameron stroll into No. 10, adding: "The champagne will be flowing in the Reform party headquarters tonight after what's been done today."

Opposition parties have been quick to ask whether bringing back a prime minister who left office seven years ago is really the fresh start Mr Sunak claims to offer.

Shadow chancellor Rachel Reeves said voters would be "wondering how David Cameron coming back into government will help them pay for their weekly shop".

She added that the Conservatives were "out of ideas" and could not offer "the change our country is crying out for".

Liberal Democrat leader Sir Ed Davey said it "sounds like desperation".

of winning the European Cup in 1968, to him becoming the embodiment of the club's values during his years of service as a director.

Among these official tributes were some from supporters. One of the most eye-catching was provided by The 1958, the group that has organised many of the most recent protests against the club's controversial owners, the Glazer family.

'dignity and integrity'

A black and white banner carried the image of a young Charlton alongside an unequivocal message: "The legacy you left us with. History, dignity and integrity. Our promise to you. We will protect that legacy."

"It feels like the last candle has gone out now," said Steve Crompton, who organised the banner. "The words on there mean a lot to us: the history, dignity and integrity, it's what he stood for as both a player and ambassador. It's a sad day."

Those values are ultimately what brought Crompton and hundreds more to Old Trafford and, by the time the cortege arrived, many more had appeared out from the backstreets of terraced houses that a young Charlton had once called home — enough to form two lines that stretched all the way down Sir Matt Busby Way.

From there, the coffin travelled to Manchester Cathedral, where approximately 1,000 guests attended the funeral ceremony.

There were some notable absentees. Erik ten Hag was unable to attend due to what the club described as "an unbreakable and long-standing personal commitment" in the Netherlands. There was no representative of the Glazers either. Amid the club's ongoing strategic review, it was believed their presence would be a distraction.

Yet the guestlist was still a mark of the man. Sir Alex Ferguson led the United delegation, which included Ole Gunnar Solskjaer, Roy Keane and Harry Maguire among others.

England manager Gareth Southgate, UEFA president Aleksander Ceferin and Real Madrid ambassador Emilio Butragueno all attended, as did Prince William in his role as president of the Football Association.

And despite this being a wild, windy Monday afternoon, despite Charlton's peak as a player being more than half a century ago, there was another significant crowd of well-wishers waiting outside to pay their respects, including some who had witnessed him play in the flesh.

sombre silence

"I watched him with George Best and Denis Law and they were great players but he was always the guy," said one supporter of an older generation. "When he'd pick the ball up in midfield, he looked as though he was on casters."

He and his wife had arrived late at the cathedral, with her needing to find a chair to stand on to see over the heads of the congregation outside. As the hearse pulled in, there was a ripple of respectful applause, which gave way to a sombre silence as the coffin was taken into the cathedral.

Inside, tributes and eulogies drew a connection

Gone, but never forgotten: Sir Bobby Charlton was laid to rest this week between the player known to the public and a deeply private man. David Gill, the former United chief executive, pointed to his career record of only being booked twice and never being sent off.

"Now I know Bobby didn't have to endure VAR, a curse of the modern game — I'm not sure he was a big fan — but to me that says it all," Gill told the ceremony. "You can be a superstar and a fierce competitor whilst still being a gentleman."

A private wake was held at Old Trafford in the evening for his closest friends and family. A little more than three weeks after his passing, Charlton is finally now at rest, his legacy at United assured long ago, woven into the very fabric of the club.

"He is the standard bearer," said Darren Fletcher, a fellow academy graduate, now United's technical director, on the steps outside the cathedral. In his interactions with Charlton as a player, Fletcher remembers a man of few words who nevertheless always found the right thing to say, especially in trying moments.

"When he came into his own was in big defeats. He was very good at putting things into perspective, having a few calming words and influence. He was always a positive man, looking forward."

Signs of a thaw in the royal rift?

■ Palace confirms Harry reached out to Charles on his 75th birthday

THE royal rift between King Charles and his youngest son might have reached a turning point – after Prince Harry phoned the monarch on his 75th birthday, sources revealed this week.

It is also understood they have agreed to talk again next week after Harry broke the ice by calling his father, despite months when the pair were not on speaking terms.

And while there is still much bridge-building to do, friends said their plan to speak again is a sign the relationship can be fixed.

Buckingham Palace declined to discuss the detente, but the Duke and Duchess of Sussex's camp told journalists both Harry and Meghan spoke to King Charles on Tuesday in a call from California.

They also said the couple's children, Prince Archie, four, and Princess Lilibet, two, had recorded a video of themselves singing Happy Birthday to their grandfather.

A spokeswoman for the Sussexes had earlier hinted that Harry, 39, planned to call his father on his milestone birthday.

King Charles evicted the Prince and wife Meghan, 42, from their home at Frogmore Cottage in Windsor after Harry criticised his family – especially his stepmother Queen Camilla – in his memoir Spare, published in January. But friends of Charles have always made it clear the King still loves his son.

Bridging the gap between Harry and his brother may take longer. Friends of Prince William and wife Kate say there is not much chance of them overcoming their differences at the moment.

One source said: "There's no sign of a rapprochement yet. It's too soon."

However, Harry and Meghan's biographer Omid Scobie this week insisted "there's no going back" for the brothers.

He also claimed William considers Harry a "defector" in an interview with People.

Tributes paid to 'wonderful' drama teacher Anna Scher, dead at 78

■ Kathy Burke and Daniel Kaluuya among alumni of her London school, credited with making stars of often working-class students

Tributes have been paid to Anna Scher, an influential drama teacher who taught actors including Kathy Burke, Daniel Kaluuya and Adam Deacon, after the announcement of her death on Sunday, aged 78.

Scher, who had taught children in north London to act for more than 50 years, has been credited with creating numerous stars, and was known for championing people from a working-class background. The Anna Scher Theatre (AST), which started as a drama club in January 1968, has a long list of well-known alumni, including Pauline Quirke, Linda Robson, Martin Kemp, Natalie Cassidy, Patsy Palmer, Sid Owen, Jake Wood, Reggie Yates and Brooke Kinsella.

When Get Out star Kaluuya won the rising star Bafta in 2018, he thanked Scher in his acceptance speech.

It is with deep sadness that I must report that Anna Scher, the best and kindest drama teacher in the UK for the last 50 years, has passed. Joining her husband, Charles [Verrall], in a better place to rest. She will be missed but never forgotten. RIP," read an announcement on X by the talent agency Nic Knight Management.

Kathy Burke wrote on social media that the "magnificently mighty" and "wonderful"

Scher, along with her late husband, were "responsible for 100s of us having a better life".

'amazing woman'

Bafta award-winning actor Adam Deacon expressed his sadness at the passing of his "mentor from the very start". "I'm truly heartbroken. I owe everything to this amazing woman," he said. "She helped me and so many other working-class kids coming from a bad start to not only get a chance to have a shot in the acting industry and change our lives, but also grounded us and gave us the skills and the tools we needed to get by in life."

Scher, who started out as a primary school teacher working with children whose first language was not English, went on to become a notable name in the drama world for producing a host of household names and award-winning actors. She received an MBE in 2013 and was given a lifetime achievement award at the National Film awards in 2018.

Bless You: Church of England softens stance on gay marriage

Gay couples will be able to have special services of blessing in Church of England parishes for the first time.

The services, while not formal weddings, will be able to include the wearing of rings, prayers, confetti and a blessing from the priest.

The amendment to back the services on a trial basis passed the Church's parliament by one vote. The Church of England's official teaching is that marriage is only between one man and one woman.

Earlier this year, bishops refused to back a change in teaching which would have allowed priests to marry same-sex couples, but said they would allow prayers of blessings for people in gay relationships as part of wider services.

It had been thought approval for standalone services might not come for well over a year from now.

But Wednesday's vote, which passed narrowly in the General Synod, the Church's legislative body, means distinct services of blessing could now be allowed, rather than simply prayers within a normal church service.

While there is no set timeframe for temporary trial services to begin, it is understood these could be authorised in the coming weeks with the first services in the new year.

The proposal for stand alone services on a trial basis came in an amendment to a motion. The full formal process of authorisation, which will take around two years, will take place while the trial is running.

The Bishop of Oxford, the Rt Rev Stephen Croft, who has campaigned for Services of blessing will soon be available for gay couples in C of E parishes a change in the Church's stance, said he was "delighted".

Noting the services would not be official weddings, he added: "I hope there will be a similar joy and affirmation and those that come to receive these prayers will feel fully welcomed into the life of the church."

The Church of England's official position on marriage is at odds with its Anglican equivalent in Scotland - The Scottish Episcopal Church - and the Presbyterian Church of Scotland, which both allow same-sex weddings.

It's all the boy's fault!

Michael Matheson, Scotland's health secretary, has apologised "unreservedly" after admitting he failed to properly disclose that his sons had largely run up an £11,000 iPad bill which he had initially charged in full to taxpayers.

In a personal statement to MSPs on Thursday, Matheson said he had referred himself for possible investigation by parliament for breaching its code of conduct, as he fought against mounting calls to resign from opposition leaders.

During first minister's questions on Thursday, Douglas Ross, the Scottish Conservative leader, called on Matheson to quit, and came as close as parliamentary rules allowed to accuse the health secretary of lying to MSPs.

Ross said Matheson, an SNP politician, had misled Holyrood: "It wasn't just a mistake, it was dishonest."

Matheson admitted his teenage sons had watched football, using his parliamentary iPad as a data hotspot, while they were on a family holiday in Morocco. According to figures released by Holyrood officials, nearly 3.8Gb of data was used on 2 January, at a cost of £8,666.

Close to tears at several points, Matheson said: "Disclosing this information about my family has been extremely difficult. Mistakes have been made by me and by my family."

Matheson said one of his sons had helped him set up a hotspot on the iPad in Morocco and told MSPs that parliamentary officials had agreed he could use the iPad as such. A Holyrood spokesperson said it had no record of that being raised or agreed.

The scandal erupted last week after it emerged that he had racked up a £10,935 data bill on his parliamentary iPad during a week-long Christmas holiday in Morocco, and refused to explain why.

He initially told Holyrood's authorities those charges were all legitimately incurred on parliamentary business; Holyrood officials accepted his assurances and agreed to pay nearly £8,000 of that bill directly.

Officials also allowed Matheson to put the remainder of the costs on to parliamentary expenses, leaving taxpayers to foot the entire bill. The parliament has since announced a wholesale review of all iPad and data billing rules.

SNP's Michael Matheson, health secretary of Scotland, made an emotional apology this week after initially an £11k data bill to Holyrood

It also emerged Matheson had ignored instructions from parliamentary officials to update his SIM card, which was by then out of contract, had not updated his iPad data settings, and had failed to tell officials he was taking the device overseas.

After two days of questioning last week about how such a large bill could be incurred on parliamentary business on holiday, Matheson, who has a combined parliamentary and government salary of £118,511, agreed, on 10 November, to personally reimburse Holyrood in full.

Two 12-year-olds charged with murder

Two boys aged 12 have been charged with the murder of a 19-year-old man in Wolverhampton.

Ambulance crews were called to land off Laburnum Road, East Park, on Monday, where Shawn Seesahai had been stabbed, but he was pronounced dead at the scene.

West Midlands police on Thursday said the two boys, who cannot be named for legal reasons, have been charged with his murder, as well as possession of a bladed article.

At press time they remained in custody to appear at Birmingham magistrates court on Friday.

A force spokesperson said: "Detectives investigating the murder of 19-year-old Shawn Seesahai in Wolverhampton on Monday evening have charged two boys with his murder.

"The 12-year-olds were arrested on Tuesday evening and, following a warrant of further detention from the court, they were charged this [Thursday] evening.

The boys have also been charged with possession of a bladed article.

"Police patrols are continuing in East Park to offer reassurance to the public and our thoughts remain with Shawn's family and friends."

Seesahai's mother said in a statement previously released through police: "Shawn Seesahai was a courageous, compassionate and confident young soul who sadly lost his life at the age of 19. He was looking forward to accomplish many future plans and ambitions."

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF ELLEN R. KORAK

Case No. 23STPB11875
To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of ELLEN R. KORAK

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Denise F. Klein in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Denise F. Klein be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on Dec. 1, 2023 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 29 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: You are likely feeling a bit confused or out of sorts of late. This is due in part to your boss Mars in powerful Scorpio, which can bring up past unfinished business. It's best to deal with this soonest.

TAURUS: This is a good time to make big decisions of any kind with Jupiter in your life. The coming holiday season will lighten up your life in more way than one... especially financially.

GEMINI: As always you usually manage to get anything in your path under control. With Mars visiting your health and work area don't let anything hold you back.

CANCER: Do not give up on a project or even a person who has not come up to your standards in some way. The sun in your cousin sign Scorpio currently will assist you to get through this.

LEO: You should be feeling more upbeat this week after a period of low energy. You are ready to get back into the swing of things. The sun moving into your cousin sign Sagittarius next week will bring a period of good times.

VIRGO: Your boss Mercury moving faster now will lift your spirits, so do not hold back from setting your plans up for the next week or so. You should be cautious but not stagnant. It's just a matter of time in the end.

LIBRA: You can still make plans, just do not act on them yet. If you are cautious for another week or so it will be worth the wait. Your boss Venus in your financial area now will guarantee a good outcome in the end.

SCORPIO: Life has its ups and downs and has not been at all easy for a couple of weeks now, but it is about to get better. Especially in family and financial areas this is a time to plant positive seeds. Happy Birthday!

SAGITTARIUS: Your health (mental or physical) has been dragging you down somewhat of late. Take a chance on being open and just stopping all the mind chatter and let life take you along for the ride. Better things will come to you as a result.

CAPRICORN: Regardless of your situation in life, it's time to take time out. Things have improved lately for you in most areas so be good to yourself and take a breather.

AQUARIUS: For the next few weeks make time to take stock of your finances and how you can give them a boost. It is totally possible for you to go with your gut to improve this.

PISCES: Life can be a little emotional currently and you should not try to do too much other than just move through it. This too shall pass and all will be more peaceful soon. You should take some time for you.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF: SALLY JOYCE MAISEL CASE NO. 23STPB12289

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the WILL or estate, or both of SALLY JOYCE MAISEL. A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by JEAN M. KAYE in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES. THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that JEAN M. KAYE be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. THE PETITION requests the decedent's WILL and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The WILL and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held in this court as follows: 12/12/23 at 8:30AM in Dept. 11 located at 111 N. HILL ST., LOS ANGELES, CA 90012

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Mark Arnold has worked at Old Trafford in various jobs since 2007, but Sir Jim Ratcliffe (right) is eager to bring in his own team and his players. If you told any member of the Tartan Army that would be the case at the start of this campaign, they would have assumed their nation's hopes were over with two games remaining.

But despite going four without a win, that conditioned pessimism continues to evaporate under this team, who again found a way to get a result in a game they were second best in for long spells.

Georgia, who had 13 wins from their last 20 games prior to Thursday, were always at arm's length as Clark's sharp first-half save from Levan Shengelia prevented the home side going two up.

But, McTominay's fortuitous leveller aside, the issue for Scotland was they were struggling to create many clear-cut chances with their lion's share of the ball, while anything they did create was being passed up.

Lyndon Dykes glanced Billy Gilmour's free-kick wide in the first half before seeing another saved at the near post after the break.

The Queens Park Rangers striker was the man to make way for Shankland, who demonstrated the composure Dykes was lacking just seven minutes after coming on by planting in a header of his own in the dying stages.

Clarke said after the game: "We came here with the intention of winning the game. You always say to your players, if you can't win, then don't lose. We showed good character. "It wasn't an off night, it was a difficult night against a good opponent. Georgia are probably the best pot four team and have one player up front who is exceptional. "It is a night where we can do better, but to say it was an off night would be unfair to our players."

Ratcliffe swings the axe at United

RICHARD ARNOLD has become the first victim of Sir Jim Ratcliffe's radical Manchester United overhaul - with the chief executive stepping down.

Ratcliffe whose £1.3billion 25 percent stake in United will be ratified by the Old Trafford board in the coming days, has wasted no time in starting his wholesale restructuring.

Arnold said: "It has been an incredible privilege to serve this great football club for the past 16 years. Through highs and lows, the constant has been the dedication of our employees and fans. I would like to thank all of them for their loyalty and commitment, and wish everyone associated with the club the very best for the future."

There are also major doubts over the futures of United football director John Murtough and director of football operations David Harrison.

INEOS owner Ratcliffe is set to bring in his own team to oversee the restructuring of United, with former cycling supremo Sir Dave Brailsford, currently INEOS director of sport, set for a prominent role.

United co-chairman Joel Glazer said: "I would like to thank Richard for his outstanding service to Manchester United over the past 16 years, and wish him all the best for his future endeavours."

Scots keep their heads to make their point

Lawrence Shankland's stoppage-time equaliser rescued a point for Scotland and a 2-2 draw against a tough and creative Georgia side, as they kept their slim hopes of topping their Euro 2024 qualifying group alive in Georgia on Thursday.

With the Scots - who booked their spot in Germany last month - lacking attacking inspiration, the Hearts captain was thrown on and nodded in fellow substitute Stuart Armstrong's cross with 92 minutes on clock in Tbilisi.

That dramatic equaliser, which prevents Steve Clarke losing a fourth consecutive game in his 50th match in charge,

GROUP A	P	GD	PTS
1 Spain	7	18	18
2 Scotland	7	9	16
3 Norway	7	2	10
4 Georgia	7	-4	8
5 Cyprus	8	-25	0

came after Khvicha Kvaratskhelia twice gave Georgia the lead.

The Napoli winger first met a low ball from Otar Kakabadze to slide in his 13th goal in 27 caps, then took that tally to 14 just before the hour when he cut in off the left and drilled low past Zander Clark, who was making his first start.

That strike came just eight minutes after free-scoring Scott McTominay netted his seventh goal of the qualifying campaign with a deflected second-half equaliser from the edge of the home box.

But that effort was one of the few opportunities the Scots had created until Shankland rose at the back post to net his second international goal.

To secure top spot in Group A, Scotland will need to beat Norway at Hampden in their final qualifier on Sunday (19:45 GMT) and hope Spain lose at home to the Georgians.

Travelling to Tbilisi - where Scotland's Euro 2008 and 2016 bids were dealt infamous blows - relatively carefree was quite the luxury for Clarke cont. on page 19, col. 6

TAKING HIS TIME: Lawrence Shankland's equalizer was his first goal for Scotland in more than four years

Arteta charged over Toon outburst

Arsenal manager Mikel Arteta has been charged by the Football Association for comments he made after their 1-0 defeat by Newcastle.

Arteta, 41, (right) called the video assistant referee's (VAR) decision to allow Newcastle's goal "embarrassing" and a "disgrace".

Anthony Gordon's goal had three VAR checks and all were adjudged in Newcastle's favour.

Arteta has until Tuesday to respond to the charge.

"It's alleged that his comments constitute misconduct as they are insulting towards match officials and/or detrimental to the game and/or bring the game into disrepute," the FA statement said.

Arsenal supported Arteta's comments in a club statement, while the Spaniard later said it was his "duty" to defend the club.

The club said the refereeing was "unacceptable", adding that players, coaches and supporters all "deserve better".

Three areas around Gordon's goal were checked by VAR - to see if the ball went out of play in the build-up, if there was a foul and if there was an offside.

Speaking on Match Officials Mic'd Up, a Premier League Productions programme which analyses VAR decisions from the last months, referees' chief Howard Webb backed the decision of on-field referee Stuart Attwell and the process by which they reached it.

The defeat by Newcastle ended an unbeaten Premier League start for Arsenal, who are third in the table - one point off leaders Manchester City.
