RIP Bernard Hill

■ Actor shot to fame in Boys from the Blackstuff before enjoying later success in Lord of the Rings and Titanic

BERNARD Hill, best known for his roles in Titanic and The Lord Of The Rings trilogy, has died aged 79.

The Manchester-born star died in the early hours of Sunday, his agent Lou Coulson said.

Hill got his break in the classic British TV series Boys From The Blackstuff, starring as the jobless Yosser Hughes in recession-hit 80s Liverpool.

The actor, who was married to Marianna, had one child and lived in Suffolk, also portrayed Captain Edward Smith in the Oscar-winning 1997 epic romance Titanic.

In The Lord Of The Rings trilogy directed by Sir Peter Jackson, he portrayed Theoden, King of Rohan.

Bernard joined the Lord Of The Rings cast for the second film, 2002's The Two Towers.

He returned to the franchise for 2003's The Return Of The King.

In the 2015 adaptation of Hilary Mantel's Wolf Hall he played the Duke of Norfolk.

'mesmeric'

Alan Bleasdale, who wrote the 1982 drama Boys From The Blackstuff, said Hill's death was "a great loss and also a great surprise".

He said: "It was an astonishing, mesmeric performance – Bernard gave everything to that and you can see it in all the scenes. He became Yosser Hughes."

He added: "I was desperate to work with him. Everything he did – his whole procedure for working, the manner in which he worked and his performance was everything that you could ever wish for.

"You always felt Bernard would live forever. He had a great strength, physically and of personality."

Bernard's character Yosser memorably pleaded "Gizza job" and the role earned a Bafta TV nomination and became a popular catchphrase across the country.

'incredible talent'

He also currently stars in the second series of BBC drama The Responder starring Martin Freeman (available on Amazon Prime in the USA). The BBC called him as an "incredible talent".

Lindsay Salt, the corporation's drama chief, said: "Bernard

Hill blazed a trail across the screen, and his long-lasting career filled with iconic and remarkable roles is a testament to his incredible talent.

"From Boys From The Blackstuff, to Wolf Hall, The Responder, and many more, we feel truly honoured to have worked with Bernard at the BBC. Our thoughts are with his loved ones at this sad time."

'he was beautiful'

His other credits included Clint Eastwood's film True Crime, 1989 rom-com Shirley Valentine, the 1999 television adaptation of Great Expectations and 2002's The Scorpion King. Singer Barbara Dickson, who starred with him in a musical based on the Beatles, was among those paying tribute.

Alongside a photo of them together, she wrote: "It's with great sadness that I note the death of Bernard Hill.

"We worked together in John, Paul, George, Ringo and Bert, [by] Willy Russell marvellous show 1974-1975. A really marvellous actor. It was a privilege to have crossed paths with him.

Hill was best known to younger audiences as Theoden in Lord of the Rings

RIP Benny x."

Actors Elijah Wood, Sean Astin, Billy Boyd and Dominic Monaghan, who played the four central hobbits in the films, honoured their "funny, gruff, beautiful" friend on stage at a Comic Con event in Liverpool.

Hill had been due to appear at the event but pulled out on Friday evening.

Paying tribute, the event organisers said: "We're heartbroken to hear the news of Bernard Hill's passing. A great loss.

"Thinking of his family at this very sad time, and wishing them a lot of strength."

Astin, who played

Hill as Yosser Hughes in Boys From The Blackstuff

Samwise Gamgee, began by saying: "We love him. He was intrepid, he was funny, he was gruff, he was irascible, he was beautiful."

Boyd, who played Pippin, added: "We were watching the movies and I said to Dom, I don't think anyone spoke Tolkien's words as great as Bernard did.

"He would break my heart. He will be sorely missed."

Other roles in Hill's decades-long career included the 1976 BBC TV series I, Claudius, an appearance in 1982's Gandhi and the 2008 Tom Cruise film Valkyrie.

New blow for Rishi as second Tory defects

■ Tories “absolutely staggered” as Member for Dover and Deal crosses the House to join Labour Party

RISHI SUNAK'S tottering government suffered another body blow on Wednesday, with Conservative MP Natalie Elphicke defecting to the Labour Party, saying the Tories “have become a byword for incompetence and division”.

In a statement released just as Prime Minister's Questions was starting, the MP for Dover said the key factors for her decision were housing and border security.

She accused Rishi Sunak of “broken promises” and abandoning key pledges.

It is the second defection to Labour for Rishi Sunak in less than two weeks, after Dan Poulter also quit the Tories.

Labour will retain their existing candidate in Dover and Deal at the next general election and Mrs Elphicke will stand down.

The constituency replaces Dover, where Mrs Elphicke had a majority of 12,278 at the last election, following boundary changes.

Conservative Transport Minister Huw

Merriman said he was “absolutely staggered” by the defection and accused Mrs Elphicke of being “opportunistic”, while other Tory MPs said they were surprised as Mrs Elphicke had been on the right wing of their party.

In dramatic scenes, Prime Minister's Questions began in the Commons with Mrs Elphicke crossing the floor to sit behind Labour leader Sir Keir Starmer.

There was bemusement and confusion from many on the Conservative benches.

The news has only been announced at midday and plenty of Tory MPs had not realised that their former colleague was now sitting opposite them - directly behind Sir Keir and so in the camera shot when he is talking - rather than on their side.

Sir Keir welcomed her to the party, asking Mr Sunak “what is the point of this failed government staggering on” when “the Tory MP for Dover on the front line of small boats crisis says the prime minister cannot be trusted with our borders and joins Labour”.

The decision to admit Elphicke was met with bewilderment by some of his MPs.

Canterbury MP Rosie Duffield said Labour MPs were “baffled” by her “really peculiar” move to swap sides.

But a senior party figure hailed her switch as “one hell of a coup”. And Sir Keir has said he is “delighted” with her defection, telling reporters it showed his party was “the party of the national interest”.

Conservative MPs have also expressed surprise at Ms Elphicke's defection, with Transport Minister Huw Merriman branding her “shameless” and an “opportunist”.

“I'm just disappointed for politics that she's done what she's done,” he added.

‘Outrageous’

Speaking to BBC South East, fellow Kent MP Ms Duffield said Labour backbenchers were “really confused” by the defection.

“I think it's a really peculiar decision and

Natalie Elphicke: The Tories ‘have become a byword for incompetence and division’.

I think most Labour backbenchers and probably lots of Tories are really quite baffled by it, actually,” she added.

She added she didn't “believe for a second that she has suddenly transformed into a Labour MP”.

And fellow Labour

backbencher Mick Whitley called her move “outrageous,” adding Ms Elphicke did not share the “values of the Labour movement”.

JOHN SWINNEY: said Scotland could only “move on” if it became independent.

Back to the future? Swinney confirmed as new First Minister

SCOTLAND'S new First Minister John Swinney was confirmed this week and he pledged to continue the SNP's strategy for independence based on winning a majority of seats at the forthcoming General Election.

The veteran politician told reporters that winning a majority would be a mandate for another referendum and he would “proceed with urgency” as Scotland could only “move on” if it became independent.

He has also denied that the decision to abolish the minister for independence post in his government has placed the campaign on the backburner.

He said he was going to concentrate on making sure his party built the support for independence by concentrating on issues such as the cost of living and Brexit.

‘winning the arguments’

The news of Mr Swinney's decision to scrap the independence minister post came as the first minister announced his new government on Wednesday.

Speaking on Thursday

after his first session of First Minister's Questions, Swinney said he would concentrate his efforts on “winning the arguments and building support” for independence.

He said the cost of living and Brexit are examples where Scotland is being held back by a Westminster government.

But he declined to answer whether failure to secure a majority would mean he lacked public support for another referendum, saying he would not answer hypotheticals.

Harry in flying visit to London.... but Charles 'too busy' to see him

KING Charles and his youngest son were at events just two miles apart this week, but did not meet, with Harry claiming his dad was too busy to see him.

Charles, who resumed public-facing events last week as he continues his cancer treatment, led a large group of senior royals at the first Buckingham Palace garden party of the year on Wednesday.

Meanwhile Harry was joined by his late mother's brother and sister at a St Paul's Cathedral service celebrating 10 years of his Invictus Games for injured troops.

Over at the Palace it was business as usual as the King, Queen Camilla, the Duke and Duchess of Edinburgh, Princess Anne and the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester mingled with 8,000 guests. Dressed in a top hat and tails, Charles seemed in high spirits as he laughed and chatted with the crowds. At one point he was pictured removing his top hat and waving it in the air while they sang the National Anthem.

The only senior royals missing were William and Kate, who is having preventative chemotherapy after her own cancer diagnosis.

Earlier in the day the Prince of Wales conducted an investiture ceremony at Windsor Castle, close to his home with Kate and their three young children. The strong royal turnout at the garden party was a clear show of solidarity for the 75-year-old monarch.

loud cheers

Dozens of people asked after his health and they said it was good to see him in public again.

"How are you feeling, Sir?" one man asked.

"Not too bad," he replied.

Although there had been expectations Charles would cut his visit short on possible health grounds, he left not long after 5pm – as he usually does.

Then he headed inside for his weekly audience with the Prime Minister before joining a Privy Council meeting.

At around the same time Prince Harry was met with loud cheers as he arrived at St Paul's Cathedral.

Wearing his military medals and a star around his neck – which indicates that he is the Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order – he cut a lonely figure as he waved to fans before greeting the Dean of St Paul's, the Very Reverend Andrew Tremlett, at the top of the steps. It was a very different picture to the Games' launch a decade ago, when Harry was supported by a very enthusiastic Charles and William.

This week Harry was also without his wife Meghan, who was at home in California with their children.

IT'S THE WAY HE TELLS 'EM: Harry was in town for a service at St. Paul's Cathedral celebrating 10 years of his Invictus Games

Inside the cathedral the duke headed to Princess Diana's brother Earl Spencer and sister Lady Jane Fellowes and gave them both a hug and thanked them for coming.

The 1,000-strong congregation also included former Army officer Mark Dyer, who acted as the duke's mentor – playing the role of a "second dad" – after Diana's death.

Harry's lawyer David Sherborne, who has represented him in a number of media lawsuits, was also supporting him. Harry, 39, sat next to Mr Dyer and gave a bible reading at the service. Actor Damian Lewis, 53, recited the Invictus poem by William Ernest Henley.

The duke, who flew in on Tuesday morning, left early Thursday. After his arrival his spokesman said: "In response to the many inquiries and continued speculation on whether or not the Duke will meet with his father while in the UK this week, it unfortunately will not be possible due to His Majesty's full programme."

Garrick Club to finally accept women

Members of the Garrick Club in London's West End have voted to allow women to join the institution.

The all-male private members' club, which was founded in 1831, had been under pressure to admit female members.

On Tuesday, members voted to allow women to join after reconsidering the legal wording surrounding membership.

The head of the civil service Simon Case and the chief of MI6 Richard Moore recently resigned from the club after its membership list was revealed.

The vote was passed, with nearly 60% in favour. The Garrick has been contacted for comment.

The vote confirming the resolution required a 50% majority, although previous votes on the question of female membership had required a two-thirds majority.

Analysis of the club's rules by senior judges concluded there was nothing in the Garrick's constitution preventing women from being allowed to join, because the 1925 Law of Property Act advises that in legal documents the word "he" should also be read to mean "she".

Published by the Guardian newspaper, the closely guarded membership list included the King, judges, lawyers, peers, cabinet ministers and other MPs, as well as academics, actors, rock stars and senior journalists.

Deputy Prime Minister Oliver Dowden and Levelling Up Secretary

Michael Gove were both revealed as members, as well as former cabinet ministers including Sir Jacob Rees-Mogg, Kwasi Kwarteng and Robert Buckland.

Speaking about when he was a member of the club, former culture minister Lord Vaizey told the Today programme "it really was quite backward - women couldn't even walk up the front stairs, they couldn't dine in the main dining room.

"All of that has changed a long time ago, thankfully."

He added he did not "think the Garrick is a secret cabal of men that is quietly running a country" but "it's just a convivial place where people go and have lunch and dinner, and that's as valid for women as it is for men".

Short Innings: Panesar quits Workers Party after barely a week

Former England cricketer Monty Panesar has quit George Galloway's party - just one week after being unveiled as a candidate.

Mr Panesar was the highest-profile recruit among dozens the Workers Party of Britain unveiled last week.

He had said he wanted to "represent the working class people of this country" at Westminster.

But, writing on social media, he said he needs more time to "find my political home".

Mr Panesar, who was part of the side that won the 2009 Ashes series, said he had wanted to "do my bit to help others" but recognised he was "still learning about how politics can help people".

On Tuesday he said: "Today I am withdrawing as a general election candidate for The Workers Party."

"I realise I need more time to listen, learn and find my political home, one that aligns with my personal and political values.

"I wish The Workers Party all the best but look forward to taking some time to mature and find my political feet so I am well prepared to deliver my very best when I next run up to the political wicket."

The Luton-born spin bowler had been planning to stand to become MP in West London's Ealing Southall constituency, where Labour's Virendra Sharma currently holds a 16,000 majority.

Speaking last week, Mr Panesar admitted he'd never voted before but said he'd been impressed by Workers Party policies, such as a wealth tax to boost the NHS, and had been encouraged to become a candidate by a friend.

He said he had not considered joining the Labour Party, as he felt it no longer represented working class people.

But he confessed he was "not an expert on foreign policy" when questioned about Workers Party policies on Gaza and withdrawal from Nato.

The news will be a blow to Mr Galloway, whose fledgling party is aiming to stand candidates in 500 constituencies at the general election.

Leeds politico 'sorry' for calling election victory a 'win for the people of Gaza'

A Green Party councillor has apologized after he was criticized for calling his local election victory a "win for the people of Gaza".

Mothin Ali, 42, made the comments after being elected on Friday for the Gipton and Harehills ward, in Leeds.

His remarks prompted calls from the Jewish community in the city for him to be suspended.

He said he was "sorry for any upset" while the Green Party said it was investigating his comments.

Mr Ali issued the apology after a video was shared on his TikTok channel showing him delivering a speech while standing in front of a Palestinian flag.

In it he said: "We will not be silenced. We will raise the voice of Gaza. We will raise the voice of Palestine." He then went on to shout "Allahu Akbar", meaning "God is the greatest" in Arabic.

Responding to the video Simon Myerson KC, the chair of the Leeds Jewish Representative Council, wrote to Green Party co-leaders Carla Denyer and

'WE WILL NOT BE SILENCED': Mothin Ali also shouted "Allahu Akbar" after his Green Party win in last Friday's local election in Leeds

Adrian Ramsay calling for Mr Ali to be suspended.

He said: "It is 48 hours since he was elected, and your silence has now gone past the time during which - I accept - you must have been considering how exactly you cope with the disastrous effect of the video of his behaviour at his count."

He went on to say he believed it was "wholly wrong" the party "should seek to benefit from his views and his behaviour".

He wrote: "It is antithetical to the ethics of which you boast. It is nothing more than hypocrisy."

In a statement released on Monday, Mr Ali, said: "I am sorry for any upset my comments caused about the Gaza conflict.

"That was not my intention. Like many across the world I have been deeply impacted by the dreadful conflict currently underway in Gaza.

"I do not support violence on either side: violence leads to more violence and this is what I have tried to convey."

He said hoped to work with "both the Jewish and Muslim Greens soon to discuss sensible ways for us to work on communicating our shared passion of bringing the conflict to an end".

He added that it was "not unusual" for Muslims to use the expression 'Allahu Akbar' as an "expression of gratitude and celebration", adding that any misrepresentation of his comments "suggests Islamophobia to me".

Mr Ali won Gipton and Harehills with 3,070 votes - 747 more than his Labour rival.

The Green Party said it was fully investigating all of the context around this matter and had nothing further to add.

Teacher finds stone with ancient ogham writing in Coventry garden

■ Sandstone rock featuring language markings created 1,600 years ago to go on display at museum

Archaeologists in Britain were left agog this week at the discovery of a stone in a Coventry garden covered with mysterious markings.

The stone was unearthed by a local geography teacher tidying his overgrown garden. Intrigued, he sent photographs to a local archaeologist and was taken aback to learn that the markings were created more than 1,600 years ago and that the artefact was worthy of a museum.

The rectangular sandstone rock that Graham Senior had discovered was inscribed in ogham, an alphabet used in the early medieval period primarily for writing in the Irish language.

Before the people of Ireland began using manuscripts made from vellum, they used the ogham writing system, consisting of parallel lines in groups on materials such as stone. Rare examples of such stones offer an insight into the Irish language before the use of the Latin insular script.

Senior, 55, said: "I was just clearing a flowerbed of weeds and stones when I saw this thing and thought, that's not natural, that's not scratchings of an animal. It can't have been more than four or five inches below the surface."

He washed it and consulted a relative who was an archaeologist, who suggested that he contact the Portable Antiquities Scheme, which encourages the recording of archaeological objects found by members of the public.

Teresa Gilmore, an archaeologist and finds liaison officer for Staffordshire and West

RUNE FOR IMPROVEMENT: the Ogham stone

Midlands based at Birmingham Museums, said: "This is an amazing find. The beauty of the Portable Antiquities Scheme is that people are finding stuff that keeps rewriting our history.

When Senior sent her some photographs, she immediately saw its potential. She contacted Katherine Forsyth, professor of Celtic Studies at the University of Glasgow, who confirmed that it was an ogham script, that of an early style, which most likely dates to the fifth to sixth century but possibly as early as the fourth century.

Gilmore said such stones were "very rare and have generally been found in Ireland or Scotland ... so to find them in the Midlands is actually unusual."

She suggested it could be linked to people coming over from Ireland or to early medieval monasteries in the area. "You would have had monks and clerics moving between the different monasteries."

Its purpose is unclear, said Gilmore, adding: "It could have been a portable commemorative item. We don't know. It's an amazing little thing."

WOULD YOU ADAM-AND-EVE IT? more than 25% of Brits don't know the insult 'plonker'

Plonkers! Young will let nitwits fade away

GREAT British insults such as berk, nitwit, pillock and plonker are set to die out because younger generations haven't even heard of them.

But the loss of toerag and drip will be mourned by the over-40s, according to a poll.

Six in 10 of them believe the old jibes were gentler and delivered in a more jovial spirit than contemporary put-downs.

However, all ages agree Brits have a unique way with insults, with 81% saying they are often a curious term of endearment.

Researchers at Perspectus Global, who quizzed 2,000 people, also discovered that cad, prat and scallywag are on the endangered list.

Even the relatively new slight numpety, which emerged in Scotland in the eighties, is set to die out.

Most at risk is lummox – the East Anglian favourite for a clumsy oaf. It is unknown to 62% of the under-28s.

Bampot, another Scots term for fool, draws a blank with six in 10 of the younger generation.

And even north of the border, 20% of people were unsure of its meaning. The posh slang term blighter, which describes a contemptible individual, was a mystery to 54% of those polled.

More common insults such as prat were also lost on many of the under-28s. That is believed to date to Old English.

The term nitwit, meaning someone particularly stupid, had not been heard of by 27%. And fans of Only Fools and Horses may wish to look away as 25% had no idea plonker amounted to name-calling.

Perspectus' Harriett Scott said: "Language changes, evolves and moves on."

Tiny island's only shop avoids closure after $12k fraud

THE INHABITANTS of a tiny island off the coast of County Antrim were sighing with relief this week after their only shop has avoided closure after having almost £12,000 stolen in an online scam.

The future of the Co-Op Shop on Rathlin Island, was in doubt after it is believed criminals used a phishing email to access its banking details.

However, the Co-Operative Bank has now returned the money to the business, saying it fell prey to a "common type of scam".

Rathlin's 75 residents and shop staff have expressed relief the "island's lifeblood" can stay open.

Ruari Morgan, the chairperson of the community cooperative that runs the shop, said they found out from the bank in March that "a standing order of £11,900 had been approved and the money had left the account".

"Leaving us with nothing left in the account at all. So the shop was in real danger. We couldn't afford to keep it going without that money".

Mr Morgan and others spent five weeks attempting to get the money back.

"Obviously we were relieved to finally get the money back. But it took 37 days to get that refund and that took a toll.

Aoife Molloy, a staff

STILL OPEN: With Rathlin's very low crime rate, the incident has shocked people.

member in the shop, said she has been worried for weeks about its future.

"It's been scary to be honest. I am very lucky to have a job that's all-year round – there aren't many of them on the island.

"And if I lost this one I'd probably have to leave Rathlin and that would break my heart. I've been here 15 years and can't imagine ever living anywhere else."

Rathlin is located less than three miles off the Antrim coast and is Northern Ireland's northernmost point. It is also less than a dozen miles from the Mull of Kintyre in Scotland. The proximity to both countries led to ownership disputes between them throughout history. According to parish records, in 1617, authorities took a rather unconventional approach to settling the matter.

As St. Patrick had banished all the snakes from Ireland, a snake was released on Rathlin as a test. If it lived, the island would be under Scotland's control; if the snake died, it would belong to Ireland. The snake died, and Ireland became the rightful owner of Rathlin.

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF MARK ZURBUCHEN

Case No. 24STPB04229

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of MARK ZURBUCHEN

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Johanna Mary Keogh, Freeda Leola Mathias and Stephen Cianciotta in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Johanna Mary Keogh, Freeda Leola Mathias and Stephen Cianciotta be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on May 20, 2024 at 8:30 AM in Dept. No. 99 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk.

Residents blooming outraged by H&S hanging basket rule

Cambridgeshire town up in arms as local council takes aim at traditional flower displays

Residents in a market town that has awards for its floral displays have been told to complete a £165 safety course or hire a contractor to hang baskets on streetlights following new council rules.

Chatteris in Bloom members have won gold at Britain in Bloom and Anglia in Bloom, but this year have been hit with regulations from Cambridgeshire County Council. Group president Sue Unwin, 64, said "bureaucracy was going to kill community spirit", with volunteers giving enough of their own time and money towards the arrangements.

The council said because the streetlights were connected to the power grid it needed to "ensure everyone's safety".

The group's award-winning displays are usually adorned on 20 lampposts and are put up with the help of a local farmer and a telehandler each May, before judging begins in July.

The county council said the new safety course would last a day, but if the group already had a qualified member they would be able to hang the baskets - once the council approved their application.

"It has become impossible with the bureaucracy and red tape," Mrs Unwin said.

"There's some jobsworth in the county council who has made this decision... we have been doing this for over 18 years. None of us have that capability or the money - we give enough of our time.

"We do everything properly and this bureaucracy is going to kill community spirit because we are getting fed up with this. We work hard to make our town look nice. Why can't they leave us alone to get on with it?"

Maggie Manders, 76, from Chatteris, said the hanging baskets were an important part of the displays.

"You can't just have the flowers, the hanging baskets do make it... you can't have the fish without the chips," she said.

Flowers have long adorned lampposts in Chatteris in spring - but not this year

Sue Unwin of Chatteris in Bloom said 'bureaucracy was going to kill community spirit'

"It would make my day if they let us have it. We love Chatteris in Bloom, please let us have this."

A Cambridgeshire County Council spokesperson said: "It's great seeing the creative ways that communities across the county make use of streetlights with festive displays.

"As streetlights are directly connected to the local power grid, to ensure everyone's safety any group wishing to display items from a streetlight needs to get in touch with the council so we can make sure essential independent safety training is completed for everyone's wellbeing.

"We look forward to hearing from Chatteris in Bloom."

Stargazing with Annie Shaw

ARIES: This past week or so has been quiet but change is brewing on the horizon. Your boss Mars is in house and will be visiting for some time ahead.
TAURUS: In the coming weeks Jupiter will move into your money area, which will bring the best out of you to boost your life for several months ahead. Happy Birthday!

GEMINI: Your boss planet Mercury is moving forward again. This will bring some progress, especially now that Jupiter is on the way for a long visit soon. How fast you act is the key.

CANCER: You will have a much more positive start to your week ahead than for some time. Do not give in to any negative thoughts or feelings. Get down to basics and prepare for some kind of action.

LEO: You should not listen to anyone who tells you to hold back. It's time to take a positive attitude to everything regardless of how it may appear.

VIRGO: Your boss Mercury moving forward has caused you to over-stress. If things are not happening as you expected, don't fret, the delay is only short.

LIBRA: You can still make plans just do not act on them yet. If you are cautious for another week or so it will be worth the wait. Your luck is about to change.

SCORPIO: Life has its ups and downs and has not been at all easy for several weeks now. But take care of your health and let the rest flow. It will be easier in all areas.

SAGITTARIUS: Your health (mental or physical) has been dragging you down somewhat of late. Take a chance on being open and let life take you along for the ride. Better things will come to you as a result.

CAPRICORN: Regardless of your situations in life for some of you it's time to take time out. Stress has not been uncommon for your life so please take a break.

AQUARIUS: Expect the coming weeks to be a time of going forward to take stock of your finances and how you can give them a boost.

PISCES: Life can be a little emotional currently and you should not try to do too much other than just move through it. This too shall pass and all will be more peaceful - sooner than you think.

Tuchel:

that took place to “end the collaboration” with chief executive Jan-Christian Dreesen.

There has, however, been a petition from Bayern supporters, which nearly has 20,000 signatures, for the club to retain Tuchel as their head coach for next season, saying other candidates “don’t hold a candle” to him.

Tuchel, who was appointed as Bayern head coach in March 2023, has navigated the club through their first Bundesliga season without securing the title since 2012.

This season, Bayer Leverkusen clinched their inaugural league championship, leading Bayern by 15 points with just two rounds of matches left to play.

During his time in England, Tuchel guided Chelsea to the Champions League title in 2021, and also led the west London side to consecutive FA Cup finals and the Carabao Cup final in 2022.

The German — who has enjoyed previous stints in charge of Mainz, Borussia Dortmund and Paris Saint-Germain — won the Bundesliga title for Bayern in 2022-23 and they are at the semi-final stage of this season’s Champions League.

Bayern have endured a nightmare time in trying to replace Tuchel, with Xabi Alonso, Julian Nagelsmann, and Ralf Rangnick all snubbing the chance to manage the German giants. With Tuchel a free agent this summer and United underperforming with Ten Hag, the former Borussia Dortmund manager could be an enticing option for the Red Devils, and is reportedly on their list of candidates in case Ten Hag is given his marching orders.

No route back to United for Mason Greenwood

Mason Greenwood will not return to Manchester United in the summer to relaunch his career.

Greenwood, currently on loan at Spanish side Getafe until the end of the season, wants to extend his stay with the La Liga club, according to their president Angel Torres.

Sir Jim Ratcliffe, now in charge of football operations at United, hinted at a possible route back for Greenwood at the club when he addressed the forward’s future in February.

Ratcliffe said the club would ultimately make a decision on Greenwood, adding: “The process will be: understand the facts, not the hype, then try to come to a fair decision on the basis of values, which is basically – is he a good guy or not?”

“Could he play sincerely for Manchester United, would we be comfortable with it and would the fans be comfortable with it?”

Greenwood joined Getafe last September after charges of attempted rape, assault, and controlling and coercive behavior against him were dropped by the Crown Prosecution Service. But it now appears United have shut the door on Greenwood returning to them, with Getafe president Torres saying: “If it was up to the lad, his parents and the club [Getafe], I think he would continue here for another year.

“But regarding Manchester United, the news that we have from last week, when the Getafe sporting director went to England to see some games and was with them, is that if a good offer comes along, they would want to sell, because he’s not going to go back there [United].

“We will have to wait until the end of June. The family and the player are very comfortable and very happy here, with our supporters.”

“When he came here, he hadn’t played for 16 months. He has recovered his form, he has scored eight league goals and two in the Copa. The people and the coach are very happy with him.

“I think he will remain with us for another season or at least until January. He is a good footballer.”

GREENWOOD: thriving at Getafe

Villa demolished in Greece

■ El Kaabi grabs another brace as Olympiakos secure 6-2 aggregate victory

Aston Villa's Europa Conference League run ended at the semi-final stage as opponents Olympiakos set up a final with Fiorentina.

Having lost the first leg 4-2, Villa fell to a 2-0 defeat in Greece on Thursday night to lose their tie 6-2 on aggregate.

Ayoub El Kaabi - who scored a hat-trick in the first leg - opened the scoring in Piraeus, tapping in Marin Ruiz's low cross in the 10th minute against the run of play.

Unai Emery's side dominated possession but lacked composure in the final third.

And El Kaabi benefitted from a tight offside call to double his tally with eight minutes remaining by latching on to a long pass forward and burying a shot beyond Villa goalkeeper Emiliano Martinez.

Villa were hoping to reach their first European final since Tony Barton's team won the European Cup in 1982.

Instead, Olympiakos will play in their first European final at the home of rivals AEK Athens on 29 May.

And there will be no English club in a European final for the first time in four seasons.

The damage had already been done seven days earlier at Villa Park when competition favourites Villa were stunned by Jose Luis Mendilibar's side.

In Athens, the Premier League outfit started on the front foot but were caught out on the counter-attack as Olympiakos went into a three-goal lead in the tie with their first attack of the night.

Villa controlled things for the rest of the half but rarely threatened until just before the break when Greek keeper Konstantinos Tzolakis tipped over Leon Bailey's effort from range.

Jhon Duran also had a shot saved after the restart and Ollie Watkins had a header kept out in the final stages on a disappointing night for the Villains.

Villa could still end their season on a positive

IT'S THAT MAN AGAIN: five of Ayoub El Kaabi's ten goals in the Europa Conference League have come against Villa

note. They need just three points from their final two Premier League games to ensure qualification for next season's Champions League.

But the club's wait for a first major trophy since the 1996 League Cup, and a first European title in 42 years, continues.

Despite winning a record 47 Greek league titles, before this season Olympiakos had never advanced beyond the quarter-finals of a Uefa competition.

Tuchel drops Prem return hint

■ Departing Bayern boss hot favorite to replace Ten Hag

Thomas Tuchel has dropped a hint he may return to the Premier League, with Manchester United his most likely destination.

The Red Devils have looked increasingly bereft of ideas and spark this season, with Monday's 4-0 humiliation at Crystal Palace the final nail in Erik Ten Hag's coffin, according to sources at the club.

Although new part-owner Jim Ratcliffe is keeping mum for now about his plans for the managerial hot seat, Tuchel is the obvious choice given his experience in England's top flight and his pedigree as a Champions League winner with Chelsea.

When asked about a possible return to the Premier League this week, Tuchel told reporters: "I'd rather not answer but it is no secret that I loved it at Chelsea.

TUCHEL: "I loved it in the Premier League"

I loved it in England and I loved it in the Premier League for sure, it was a very, very special time and I remember it very well."

Given his team's disappointing campaign in the Bundesliga and their heart-breaking Champions League semi final loss to Real Madrid on Wednesday, Tuchel is no longer wanted by the Bavarian giants - although there is no obvious candidate to replace him.

Bayern announced in February that Tuchel was to leave at the end of the season, following an "amicable conversation" cont. on page 19, col 1
