Storm Darragh batters Britain

■ High winds and flooding leave 40,000 homes without power

MORE than 40,000 homes in England and Wales were left without power this week after Storm Darragh wreaked havoc with 90mph winds and widespread flooding.

Two men were killed as the fourth-named storm of the season tore down trees and initially left around 1.5 million customers without power as the National Grid worked round the clock to reconnect homes.

Darragh's heavy downpours also brought flooding to 500 different localities and killed at least three people, one of whom is believed to be former England Rugby international Tom Voyce, who went missing after trying to cross Abberwick Ford, near Bolton, Northumberland, in a vehicle which was then pulled along by the current.

Northumbria Police's Marine Unit later discovered a body near Abberwick Mill, a short distance away.

At press time formal identification is yet to take place, but Mr Voyce's next of kin have been notified.

'well-loved coach'

Another victim was Lytham Town FC football coach Paul Fiddler, in his 40s, who died when a tree fell on his Citroen van on the A59 in Longton, Lancashire, at 9am on Saturday. On their Facebook page, the club described him as a "legend", adding: "We would like to take the time to remember a Lytham Town FC legend Paul Fiddler.

"A well-loved coach, football player, gaffer but most of all a true friend. Paul, thank you for everything mate."

In York, the River Ouse burst its banks while in Pickering, North Yorkshire, river levels at Pickering Beck were 4ft 7in, with property flooding possible.

Cllr Joy Andrews said sandbags were deployed but added:

"We're still very worried. There are certain areas that haven't necessarily flooded before that are flooding, but just roads so far."

Rail and road networks have struggled to return to normal, with widespread train cancellations bringing misery to commuters throughout the week.

The weather next week is set to be more settled but chilly, with temperatures around the seasonal average.

UK halts Syrian asylum claims following al-Assad's overthrow

■ Britain is home to about 30,000 Syrian nationals

The UK has paused decisions on Syrian asylum claims, after the country's President Bashar al-Assad was overthrown.

Home Secretary Yvette Cooper said the situation was "moving extremely fast after the fall of the Assad regime" and some people were returning to Syria following recent developments.

Islamist militant group Hayat Tahrir al-Sham (HTS) and allied rebel factions seized control of the Syrian capital Damascus on Sunday after years of civil war.

Prime Minister Starmer has welcomed the end of Assad's "barbaric regime" in Syria and called for the restoration of "peace and stability".

Germany, France and Sweden are among the countries which have also paused all pending asylum requests from Syrians, while Austria has signalled it will soon deport refugees back to the country.

Millions of Syrians have fled the country since the civil war broke out in 2011, after Assad brutally crushed a pro-democracy uprising.

Between 2011 and 2021 more than 30,000 Syrians were granted asylum in the UK.

sharp drop

Most of these were resettled under humanitarian schemes set up by the Home Office and came directly from other countries they had fled to, such as Turkey and Lebanon.

However, more than 9,000 Syrians have also been picked up on the Kent coast, having crossed the Channel in small boats.

Syrians accounted for the fifth largest number of asylum claims in the year ending September 2024, according to Home Office figures.

Almost all those who requested asylum have been given the right to stay.

It was calculated that there were 47,000 Syrian nationals living in the UK in 2019, but that number is thought to have since fallen to around 30,000.

The Home Office will be hoping the end of the Assad dictatorship will see a sharp drop in the number of Syrians seeking sanctuary and that many already in Britain may now look to return to their homeland.

Syrian migrants gathered in Trafalgar Square this week to celebrate the sudden and unexpected overthrow of Bashar al-Assad

However, there will also be a concern that the rapid power shift in Syria might create a new wave of potential refugees.

risk of persecution

The uncertainties around what a post-Assad Syria will be like means the Home Office will want to keep the situation under constant review.

Every asylum case must be judged on its merits and if someone who is now tainted by the Assad regime arrives in the UK and requests asylum, the Home Office must judge whether that individual is at risk of persecution or human rights violations.

Speaking in the Commons on Monday, Foreign Secretary David Lammy suggested the situation could see a new flow of people using illegal routes to come to the UK.

"Assad's demise brings no guarantee of peace. This is a moment of danger as well as opportunity for Syrians and for the region," he said.

Reeves signals major EU reset

The UK government is considering a far more extensive "reset" of post-Brexit relations with the European Union (EU) after Chancellor Rachel Reeves met with European finance ministers to discuss the future.

Labour has ruled out re-joining the trade bloc, but farm and food export barriers could be removed and help provided to firms with complex supply chains while European leaders want to put youth mobility back on the table.

Negotiations on a new trading relationship would begin "in the new year", Reeves said.

The Conservative Party said it "looks like Labour's plan is to follow EU rules for nothing in return".

Following a speech to Eurogroup finance ministers in Brussels - the first given by a UK chancellor since Brexit - Reeves repeated that the UK would not rejoin the single market and customs union or Freedom of Movement, as outlined in the Labour manifesto.

But she did not rule out keeping UK laws in line with EU regulations for farm, food and goods exports, a policy known as "dynamic alignment".

The UK has previously said it is seeking a veterinary agreement, which could mean meat, fish, dairy, and live animals face fewer checks when crossing a UK-EU border.

Reeves also did not suggest that demands for an extension of a soon-to-expire fisheries deal were a barrier to a closer Brexit relationship.

Extending the Brexit fisheries deal beyond 2026 is likely to be a condition for any wider reset.

Meanwhile, the EU has said it would like to see a scheme for young Europeans to live and work both there and in the UK - something Prime Minister Sir Keir Starmer has ruled out in the past.

The EU has now refined the plan as a "Youth Experience" scheme which Spain's economic minister Carlos Cuerdo said could be "put on the table" by the bloc and that the UK could benefit to as part of a "win win".

Germany's finance minister Jorg Kukies, who met the chancellor in Brussels, said the dialogue was a "good signal" for better trade between the UK and the EU.

Compensation for LGBT vets forced to leave armed forces

LGBT veterans who were dismissed from the armed forces for being gay will be eligible to receive up to £70,000 in compensation, the government announced on Thursday.

The Ministry of Defence said the move followed extensive engagement with LGBT veterans and campaigners.

Ministers also said that veterans can apply to have their rank restored and discharge reason amended.

The total amount available to affected veterans will be increased from a proposed £50m to £75m.

Applications opened on Friday for LGBT veterans who were dismissed or discharged because of their sexual orientation or gender identity to receive £50,000.

Additional payments of up to £20,000 will also be available for those negatively impacted by the ban on LGBT personnel between 1967 and 2000.

This is aimed at those who suffered harassment, invasive investigations and those who were sent to prison.

The exact amount of additional compensation will be decided by an independent panel.

Homosexuality started being decriminalized in the UK in 1967 but a ban continued in the armed forces until 2000.

Stephen Close, who joined the army when he was 18, said he will be hoping for some financial compensation.

Mr Close was convicted of the sexual offence of gross indecency after kissing another man while stationed in Berlin in the 1980s.

He lived as a convicted sex offender for 30 years before being pardoned in 2013.

William serves up festive cheer

Prince returns to homeless shelter he was introduced to by his mother to dish out Christmas lunch

The Prince of Wales brought festive cheer this week as he helped to serve Christmas lunch at a homeless shelter run by a charity he was introduced to by his mother Princess Diana.

William, 42, joined a long line of volunteers dishing up food for The Passage, chatting to and hugging attendees.

He hugged one client to congratulate him on getting engaged as he served carrots and parsnips.

The man, wearing a Boston Celtics basketball team festive jumper, asked William: "Have you heard, I'm getting married?" The Prince, wearing an apron, smiled as he said: "I know, I did hear about that and congratulations."

He first visited the homelessness charity more than 30 years ago with his late mother Diana, Princess of Wales.

'incredible volunteers'

Footage posted to the Waleses' X account also showed him hugging head chef Claudette Hawkins and saying "come on birthday girl, happy birthday. I won't ask what birthday it is". He also wrote on Instagram: Thank you to Claudette and the incredible volunteers who dedicate their time to supporting those experiencing homelessness. The selflessness and compassion shown in creating a warm and welcoming space during the festive season makes a profound difference."

William also chatted with people at the dinner tables, asking one man "is this place helping enough?". He nodded as the man responded.

REFORM IS NIGH? Nigel Farage poses with his party's new benefactor, tycoon Nick Candy

Reform's new paymaster reflects party's growing clout

NIGEL Farage secured another high-profile defection this week when billionaire Tory donor Nick Candy was named as Reform UK's new party treasurer.

The property tycoon has given more than £270,000 to the Tories, but said he could not associate with a party which has broken too many promises.

Working alongside his brother Christian, Mr Candy parlayed a small investment in a one-bedroom flat in London Earl's Court in 1995 into a sprawling property empire which has earned him a net worth of about £1.2bn. The brother have since diversified into a range of investments, including venture capital investment in several California tech startups.

As well as pledging to help Reform raise more money than any party, Mr. Candy also made a "seven-figure" donation.

Mr Farage, who was already riding a feelgood wave after it emerged Reform recently overtook Labour in the opinion polls, told reporters: "Nick's efforts will help Reform transform our country."

He also confirmed another Tory defection – former Cannock Chase MP Aidan Burley.

Ban on puberty blockers to be made permanent

The ban on giving puberty blockers to under-18s questioning their gender identity is to be made permanent, Health Secretary Wes Streeting has announced.

Streeting told MPs he was making the temporary ban introduced in May indefinite across the UK, following a consultation and advice from the Commission on Human Medicines – calling the way the drugs had been used a "scandal".

The expert group said prescribing the drugs to children for gender dysphoria was an "unacceptable safety risk".

Campaigners on both sides have reacted to the news, with those in support of the ban commending Streeting's "integrity" and those against calling it "discrimination".

Puberty blockers are drugs used to delay or prevent puberty happening.

A temporary ban was put in place by the last Conservative government, and had been renewed twice by Streeting.

In March, NHS England decided that puberty blockers would no longer be routine treatment for children with gender dysphoria.

It's a little bit funny... legal weed strikes wrong note for Sir Elton

SIR Elton John has been named Time magazine's Icon of the Year – and used it to decry the legalization of marijuana as "one of the greatest mistakes of all time".

The musician, who has been sober for 34 years following cocaine addiction, slammed the move in Canada and parts of the US.

Sir Elton said marijuana is "addictive", adding: "It leads to other drugs. And when you're stoned – and I've been stoned – you don't think normally. Legalizing marijuana in America and Canada is one of the greatest mistakes of all time."

The megastar, 77, has helped other celebrities including Robbie Williams and Eminem with their addictions. "tough to hear" how bad But he told Time it is your behaviour has become – and this helped him get clean.

He also admitted his "short fuse...if I'm tired, if I'm exhausted, if I'm overwhelmed".

"I don't like having that temperament, but it's all usually done and dusted within five or 10 minutes," he added.

The spotlight was shone on his stropiness in 1997 documentary Tantrums & Tiaras, directed by Sir Elton's husband David Furnish, 62. The pair have followed it with Never Too Late – now on Disney+ – covering Sir Elton's final tour.

The star, photographed pop art-style for Time's cover, revealed earlier this year he has lost the sight in his right eye.

Al-Fayed 'faked dementia' to dodge sex abuse charges

Mohamed Al Fayed faked having dementia to dodge prosecution over a string of sex abuse allegations, his youngest son has claimed.

Omar Fayed said the late Harrods tycoon remained "sharp as a tack" but he had hoodwinked investigators into believing he was "mentally incapacitated". It is thought he raped and attacked more than 100 women.

The Metropolitan Police last month revealed that 150 people have contacted them since September, with 90 new victims identified.

The claims run from 1977 to 2014 and the youngest victim was just 13.

Omar, 37, said his Egyptian-born father should have been prosecuted as if he were "a Nazi general", but he died at 94 in 2023. He has called the alleged crimes

The son of the late Harrods tycoon claims he remained "sharp as a tack"

"horrifying", saying he "knew about the call girls" but did not know the extent of his father's offending.

The space travel firm CEO said Al Fayed was let "off the hook" after individuals helped him avoid further police probing.

Omar insists his father should have been held accountable: "If a Nazi general is found to have been hiding in the Algarve for the last 50 years then of course he should be tried."

Investigators sent files for a charging decision to the Crown Prosecution Service in 2008 relating to three victims and in 2015 linked to one.

In 2018, 2021 and 2023 the CPS was asked for investigative advice but matters were not pursued by police.

The Met is investigating more than five people who may have "facilitated" Al Fayed's crimes.

Al Fayed was never charged over the claims.

He's off: David Coote's position was 'untenable'

Klopp ref sacked

Referee David Coote has been sacked after a video allegedly showed him making derogatory remarks about Liverpool and the team's former manager Jurgen Klopp.

Professional Game Match Officials Limited confirmed termination of his employment, adding his actions made his position "untenable".

It added that Coote has the right to appeal.

He was suspended on November 11 pending a full investigation after a video began circulating on social media.

In it, he was asked for his views on a Liverpool game where he had just been the fourth official, allegedly calling them "s" and Klopp a "c", adding the German had "a right pop at me when I refed them against Burnley in lockdown" and had accused him of lying.

Later in the video, he allegedly refers to Klopp as a "German c". The Football Association is looking into that video, particularly whether the reference to nationality constitutes an aggravated breach of its misconduct rules. It remains ongoing.

PGMOL's investigation is also understood to have looked at another video which allegedly appeared to show Coote snorting a white powder, purportedly during Euro 2024 where he was one of the assistant VARs.

The FA is also looking into claims that Coote discussed the prospect of giving a Leeds player a yellow card with a fan before a match.

He has strenuously denied this.

Heading the ball, not lifestyle that caused dementia in footballers, new study suggests

A new study has found no evidence that the high dementia risk among footballers is linked to health and lifestyle factors.

It increases the likelihood that heading footballs has caused brain injuries.

The research was led by Glasgow University's Professor Willie Stewart, who five years ago discovered footballers were three-and-a-half times more likely to die from a neurodegenerative disease than the normal population.

"Our data suggests this relationship between higher rates of neurodegenerative disease among former professional footballers is not driven by those wider general health and lifestyle factors, widely recognized as dementia risk factors," said Professor Stewart.

"In the past, we would say that we felt the strongest risk was probably to do with head injuries and head impacts in sport, but we couldn't be certain that their relationship to alcohol, smoking, diabetes or blood pressure - these other risk factors might be involved.

"Now, we actually know, having looked at the data, that these other risk factors don't appear

HEADED TOWARDS TROUBLE: footballers are three-and-a-half times more likely to die from a neurodegenerative disease than the normal population to be contributing to the dementia risk."

A group of families - including relatives of the late 1966 World Cup winner Nobby Stiles - are taking legal action against football authorities over what they say are brain injuries caused by repeated impacts between head and ball.

Two former Premier League players - Gary Pallister and Steve Howey - told this week of their own health issues after years of heading footballs.

Howey, who is one of the claimants in the legal action, said he has undergone scans which have shown cognitive decline.

'Tis the season; Panto now playing in Thousand Oaks

John O'Hurley stars in Peter Pan and Tinkerbell: A Pirate's Christmas at the Scherr Forum Theater

CAN YOU SEE Panto in Southern California? Oh yes you can!

Peter Pan and Tinkerbell: A Pirates Christmas which opened on Friday at the Scherr Forum Theater in Thousand Oaks, is the latest seasonal offering from Lythgoe Family Productions.

Although we Brits need no introduction to panto, it's still mostly a mystery to American audiences, but writer and producer Kris Lythgoe hopes to change that, recently describing it as a great way to get all ages involved in going to the theatre.

"We put in pop songs and then obviously it's the songs that the kids know, so they get to sing along to it. So it's a lot of fun. But we encourage kids to make a lot of noise."

"It derives from Shakespeare. So it has that interactive fun, very lighthearted skew on a story that everyone knows," said Lythgoe.

"It's certainly not that time where you, like, sit down and be quiet. This is about bringing the families together, multi-generational, experiencing something that you can all take something different from," he said.

"I come from a family that was behind all that the American Idol shows and the So You Think You Can Dance shows. And we always marvel at the fact how popular it was with all ages - because the grandparents would like Ruben Studdard, but the kid would like, let's say, Carrie Underwood. And so there is something that each generation can take from those shows. And it's the same with panto," said Lythgoe.

The star of the show is undoubtedly the beastly Hook, played by Seinfeld's John O'Hurley, who admits Hook is "terrifying" - but "he's not the best pirate. Remember, a 12 year old boy lopped off his arm and fed it to a crocodile so he can't be the best of swordsmen. And he's got a lunatic crew that seems to follow him around everywhere. It's a lot of tongue in cheek," he said.

O'Hurley described the panto experience as "a show that is accessible to everyone."

"Whatever this story is that everybody knows, and they layer in popular music, they layer in contemporary choreography, and they try to make a fun story out of it. And that's what panto is. But what makes panto special is that the audience can interact with the actors on stage. So if you want to scream and warn them and they probably are encouraging you to do that, then you can do so. That's what makes it fun. So the kids don't have to sit on their hands."

"It's a kind of a healthy interaction. You just have to know that the edges are all kind of round, you know, nothing is sharp and quick, and it has to be said that way. There's no reason you can't stop and add a line and or two or take one out if you have to. But the story is still there. The music is there, the choreography is there, and the kids have a wonderful time," said O'Hurley.

Peter Pan and Tinkerbell: A Pirates Christmas runs through December 29 at the Scherr Forum Theater in Thousand Oaks.

Case No. 24STPB07438

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of DOROTHY L. GREEN

A PETITION FOR PROBATE has been filed by Matthew E. Green in the Superior Court of California, County of LOS ANGELES.

THE PETITION FOR PROBATE requests that Matthew Green be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

THE PETITION requests the decedent's lost will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. Copies of the lost will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

THE PETITION requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A HEARING on the petition will be held on March 14, 2025 at 9:30 AM in Dept. No. 5 located at 111 N. Hill St., Los Angeles, CA 90012.

IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. Why you need dental insurance in retirement.

Medicare doesn't pay for dental care.¹
As good as Medicare is, it was never meant to cover everything. If you want protection, you need to purchase individual insurance.

Early detection can prevent small problems from becoming expensive ones.
The best way to avoid large dental bills is preventive care. Experts recommend checkups twice a year.

Previous dental work can wear out.
Your odds of having a dental problem only go up as you age.²

Treatment is expensive — especially the services people over 50 often need.
Unexpected bills, like $190 for a filling, or $1,213 for a crown³ can be a real burden, especially if you're on a fixed income.

When you're comparing plans ...

- ▶ Look for coverage that helps pay for major services.
- ▶ Look for coverage with no deductibles.
- ▶ Shop for coverage with no annual maximum on cash benefits.

Simply put – without dental insurance, there may be an important gap in your healthcare coverage.

Root and Brook lead the way as England find form at last England's cricket team shrugged off an indifferent 2024 by clinching a series win over New Zealand on Sunday, handing their hosts a 323-run hammering in the second Test in Wellington. It was their seventh-largest victory all time in terms of runs.

Joe Root (106) opened the third day by notching his 36th Test ton - brought up with a reverse-ramped four - to see him join Rahul Dravid in a tie for fifth among the game's most prolific century makers.

England, having resumed the morning on 378-5 in their second innings, ultimately declared on 427-6 with the fall of Root's wicket and immediately set about the New Zealand top order with the ball.

Set a record 583 to win, Chris Woakes (2-20) and Brydon Carse (2-53) combined to reduce the Black Caps to 59-4 on the stroke of lunch, before Tom Blundell (115)

Score summary - England beat New Zealand by 323 runs
England 280 all out in first innings (54.4 overs): Harry Brook (123 off 115 balls), Ollie Pope (66); Nathan Smith (4-86), Will O'Rourke (3-49), Matt Henry (2-43)
New Zealand 125 all out in first innings (34.5 overs): Gus Atkinson (4-31), Brydon Carse (2-28); Kane Williamson (37)
England 427-6 declared in second innings (82.3 overs): Joe Root (106), Jacob Bethell (96), Ben Duckett (92); Tim Southee (2-72), Matt Henry (2-100)
New Zealand 259 all out in second innings (54.2 overs): Tom Blundell (115), Nathan Smith (42); Ben Stokes (3-5), Chris Woakes (2-20), Brydon Carse (2-53), Shoaib Bashir (2-110) enjoyed himself in the afternoon with a thrilling 96-ball hundred.

New Zealand never came close to threatening a most epic of comebacks, though, with Shoaib Bashir (2-110) eventually accounting for the wicket-keeper-batsman, before skipper Ben Stokes (3-5) fittingly ran through the tail in a devastating three-over burst to wrap up the most emphatic of victories.

It is Stokes' side's first away series win in two years since their 3-0 whitewash of Pakistan in 2022, and their first victory in New Zealand since 2008.

Root was quick to pay tribute to team-mate Harry Brook after the match, claiming the 25-year old batsman has established himself as the best cricketer in the world.

Brook has been in inspired form on the Test tour of New Zealand, hitting back-to-back centuries in Christchurch and Wellington.

The 25-year-old Yorkshire star now has eight hundreds in his first 23 Tests and averages a remarkable 61.62, the third highest mark of all time among batters with at least 20 innings.

A punishing strike-rate of 88.57 puts him streets ahead of the other names on that list. Root is ranked as the No.1 Test batter by the ICC, with Brook pushing hard in second place, but has tipped his fellow Yorkshireman as the best in the business.

Root said: "If you asked me, Brooky is by far and away the best player in the world at the minute. He has such an all-round game: he can absorb pressure, he can apply it, he can whack you over your head for six, he can scoop you over his head for six, he can smack spin, he can smack seam. He's so hard to bowl to."

Brook was more than happy to repay the compliment to Root, who hit the 36th century of his career in the second Test at Basin Reserve and has more runs than anyone in 2024 with 1,470.

"I'm trying to catch him, but he's too good, isn't he?" Brook said. "He's got another hundred this week and he's obviously one of the best players, if not the best player, to have ever played the game. It's mega to play with him and he's awesome to watch.

"I've only played 23 games, so those stats can soon come soaring down. I'm just trying to keep on getting as good as I can, working hard in the nets and improving areas that are uncomfortable. You can always get better everywhere." The Third Test opened on Friday in Hamilton.

Sturdy Villa weather storm in Germany

Aston Villa were twice pegged back by winless RB Leipzig but scored late to all but clinch a place in the Champions League knockout stages.

Ross Barkley's deflected strike secured victory late on after Lois Openda and Christoph Baumgartner cancelled out goals from John McGinn and Jhon Duran respectively.

It took just three minutes for the Premier League side to take the lead when Ollie Watkins nodded down Matty Cash's cross to leave McGinn with the simple task of smashing home from close range.

Watkins could have easily added a second soon after but he could not get a touch on Lucas Digne's low ball across the face of goal.

MASTER BUILDER: Villa coach Unai Emery

Villa looked to be in total control when Emiliano Martinez misjudged a long punt forward, allowing Openda to nip in and slide the ball into the empty net.

Watkins had the ball in the net just before the break, but the offside flag goal by another offside flag, Leipzig drew level for a second time when Baumgartner met Openda's cross with a cushioned volley into the top corner of Martinez's goal.

Openda should have given Leipzig a late lead but he stroked Pau Torres' wayward pass straight at Martinez.

Just as a draw looked inevitable Barkley's strike took a huge deflection off Lukas Klostermann, wrong-footing Peter Gulacsi and snatching the three points.

Victory leaves Unai Emery's side third in the standings with 13 points after six games and in a strong position to finish in the top eight and qualify directly for the last 16.

The England striker was replaced by Jhon Duran at half-time and it was the Colombian who restored Villa's lead with a stunning strike from 25 yards.

Gunners blow Monaco away

Bukayo Saka scored twice as Arsenal beat Monaco in midweek to strengthen their position as one of the sides likely to progress to the knockout stages of the Champions League.

The Gunners were well on top in the first half, but missed a number of chances to make the outcome even more comfortable. Arsenal took the lead in the 34th minute after Myles Lewis-Skelly played in Gabriel Jesus and the Brazilian crossed for Saka to tap in. Substitute Kai Havertz then forced a mistake from keeper Radoslaw Majecki in the 74th minute and Saka steered in from close range. The England forward then set up the third with two minutes left as Havertz turned in his cross.

Arsenal should have added more to their tally, though, before their late flurry. Gabriel Jesus was denied twice by Majecki when through on goal. Captain Martin Odegaard was next to go close when he intercepted a loose pass from Monaco midfielder Soungoutou Magassa but shot wide from inside the area, while Gabriel Martinelli curled wide of the post when well placed too.

The Gunners were almost punished immediately after the restart for their wayward finishing when Thilo Kehrer headed wide from inside the box from a Monaco free-kick. Former Liverpool midfielder Takumi Minamino and striker Breel Embolo also went close for the visitors.

However, the missed chances did not matter in the end as the late goals from Saka and Havertz gave Mikel Arteta's side the success. Arsenal moved up to third in the table on 13 points and are in a strong position going into their final two group stage games. They host Dinamo Zagreb next on 22 January before visiting Girona a week later.

Keeping control appeared to have been the gameplan as Guardiola's side dominated possession in the first half, but offered very little in attack.

It meant that while Juventus offered little themselves, City were always in danger of one moment at the back proving costly, and so it proved when Juventus took the lead eight minutes into the second half.

Ederson parried away Federico Gatti's acrobatic volley but Josko Gvardiol gave the ball away, allowing Kenan Yildiz to cross for Vlahovic to get a header just over the line.

City upped the tempo after that but lost all control of the game and when Juventus got their second it never looked likely that the visitors would find a way back.

Europa League: Rangers and Spurs battle to pulsating 1-1 draw Rangers and Tottenham Hotspur both moved a step closer to the Europa League knockout stages after they played out a captivating draw at Ibrox Thursday night.

Hamza Igamane gave the hosts the lead just 81 seconds into the second half with a fine finish from James Tavernier's cross, before Dejan Kulusevski equalised for Tottenham with a low left-footed drive after a superb team move.

Both sides had chances to win a gripping contest on Glasgow's south-side - none more so than when Cyriel Dessers was denied by Fraser Forster late on - but some last-ditch defending and sharp goalkeeping kept it at 1-1.

The result takes both sides to 11 points, with Rangers eighth and Tottenham ninth in the table, as they fight for an automatic place in the competition's last 16.

Tottenham - led by former Celtic manager Ange Postecoglou - are now winless in five following their 4-0 victory against Manchester City last month.

They go to beleaguered Southampton in the Premier League on Sunday in desperate need of a win, while Rangers face Celtic on the same day in the Premier Sports Cup final.

Rangers were not fazed by the visit of Premier League opposition, nor the return of an old foe in Postecoglou.

They have delivered their best performances this season in Europe, and they took the game to Tottenham, with a raucous home crowd behind them.

Saving their blushes: Kulusevski equalized for Spurs in the 75th minute

Philippe Clement's side played with tempo and bite in the opening stages, and Forster was called into action to tip over Nedim Bajrami's powerful effort.

Vaclav Cerny was heavily involved throughout the first half, getting into the opposition box and shooting whenever the opportunity arose.

Rangers were slightly unfortunate to not lead at half-time, but they started the second period in stunning fashion.

Tavernier whipped a delightful ball in behind the Tottenham defence and into Igamane's path, and the Moroccan striker calmly stroked in a first-time finish.

Rangers continued to look dangerous on the break, with Cerny and Mohamed Diomande both going close.

However, they could not find a second and Kulusevski's strike brought the home support back down to earth.

There was still a glorious chance for Dessers to win it late on, but Forster denied the substitute after he had left two defenders for dead.

Clement will be frustrated by the result, but will take huge heart from the performance before they take on rivals Celtic at Hampden.

He could well be without centre-back John Souttar though, who came off in the first half with an apparent groin injury.

More misery for Pep

Manchester City's current malaise continued on Wednesday as they were beaten 2-0 by Juventus to deal a big blow to their hopes of reaching the Champions League knockout stage.

Dusan Vlahovic's header and Weston McKennie's volley in the second half secured all three points for the home side, boosting their own hopes of progressing automatically to the next stage as one of the top eight sides in the league phase of the competition.

But the defeat meant Manchester City have won just one of their last 10 games in all competitions, with this their seventh loss during that run.

It leaves them 22nd in the Champions League table with just two games remaining - away to Paris St-Germain on 22 January and at home to Club Brugge a week later.

The sides finishing ninth to 24th qualify for a two-legged play-off but this defeat leaves Manchester City just one point clear of PSG in 25th.

This was another game where Manchester City looked considerably below the level they have been capable of playing in recent seasons.

They didn't register a shot on target until just before half-time, when Erling Haaland was played in behind the defence by Kevin de Bruyne, but his shot was saved by Michele di Gregorio.

It all went wrong for Manchester City in the second half when Vlahovic's header squirmed over the line after a scramble, before substitute McKennie fired in from Timothy Weah's cross as the visitors left gaps while pushing for an equaliser.

Ilkay Gundogan had forced a good save out of Di Gregorio but Pep Guardiola's side ultimately did not offer enough as their poor run of form continued.

In addition to it being a blow to City's hopes in Europe it was also not ideal preparation for Sunday's Manchester derby at Etihad Stadium.
